EDWARD DeGRAFFENRIED

I Have Kept My Promises

In an advertisement which a friend of mine ran for for my benefit in 1948 in which my friend stated, "Mr. DeGraffenried has promised not to employ his wife as an Executive Secretary," the only statement I ever made to anyone was that my wife would not be my top or executive secretary. I have never stated nor intended to imply that she would not be a member of my office staff. Immediately after my campaign I announced that my wife would be a member of my staff. It has never been a secret that Mrs. DeGraffenried is a member of my staff.

I have kept every promise to the people of the Sixth District, including the promise that my entire staff would be comprised of residents of this District.

YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED!

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY ACCEPTS BID

The Board of Directors of Alabama Power Company recently accepted the bid of Blyth & Co. and Kidder, Peabody & Co., as a group, for $12,000,000 of 3 3/8% mortgage bonds. The price bid was 102.201, making the interest cost to the Company 3.259%.

Thomas W. Martin, Chairman of the Board, stated that the money from the sale of these bonds would be used in part to complete the installation of additional large units at Martin Dam and at Gorgas Steam Plant and to advance materially the construction of the new 250,000 killowatt Barry Steam Plant near Mobile.

Other bidders and amounts bid were as follows:

Union Securities Corporation, Equitable Securities Corporation, Drexel & Co., as a group, 102.011.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. 101.85.

Shields & Co., Salomon Bros. & Hutzler, as a group, 101.8359.

First Boston Corporation, 101.7699.

Morgan Stanley & Co., 101.769.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co., 101.507.

Harriman Ripley & Co., Inc., 101.309.

SEE SHELBY COUNTY

If you would see one of the county's "Charm Spots," drive down Cahaba Valley Road. This season, scores of motorists have enjoyed the breath-taking beauty of the hundreds of Dogwood and Redbud in full bloom. These along with hawthorne, honeysuckle and fragrant pine have made this highway a beauty-way.

Many of the homes have been landscaped and their flower gardens rival the finest. The New Hope Community Club is offering a prize to the family of the community making the most improvement in their home and grounds. As a result, many of the homes have had drastic changes to enhance their beauty and comfort.

A visit to this picturesque area proves that Shelby county is fast becoming a "cattle country." Both dairy and beef cattle with a few sheep dot the pastures. The velvetty green of these pasture lands are in striking contrast to the red farm lands which have already been turned in preparation for planting. Why drive hundreds of miles in quest of beauty, when nature has rivaled the country's finest attractions here in our own county.

Dear Sir:

We want to give you a letter of praise and thanks to Birdies B-No. 1 Ointment. It's a wonderful product. I have a maid and she has a little boy about two years old. A little colored boy. His mother carried out a large pan of red hot coals, and the little boy came along and decided to play in the pan. He put his hands down in the pan and when they came out, there were coals sticking to them. His little hands were burned white. We applied Birdies B-No. 1 Ointment and in a few days, his little hands were well and he doesn't have any scars at all and the natural color returned, thanks to Birdies B-No. 1 Oinment. It's so wonderful for burns and other skin irritations.

Very sincerely,
Mrs. B. R. Teel,

AN OUTSTANDING RECORD

(AN EDITORIAL)

(The Editorial Printed Below Appeared In The April 24th Issue Of The Centerville Press)

In the three years that Congressman Edward deGraffenried has served as Congressman from the Sixth District he has made an outstanding record. It usually takes several years for a new Congressman to become acquainted with Wahington and to become recognized by the older members of Congress, but at the very beginning Mr. deGraffenried was appointed to the powerful Armed Services Committee of the House, and is now a member of several important Sub-Committees.

His voting record is considerably above the national average. On 109 roll call votes (1st session, 1951) 88 per cent. On 20 roll call votes (2nd Session to April 1, 1952) 100 per cent.

In addition to the above "On the Record" votes he has attended over 140 hearings of the Committee on Armed Services of the House during the 82 Congress.

WHAT SERVICES HAS MR. DeGRAFFENRIED RENDERED TO THE CITIZENS OF BIBB COUNTY?

He helped to secure the approval of the Federal Government for the construction of the new bridge across the Cahaba River in Centerville.

He asked the State officials to turn the old bridge over to the Commissioner's Court of Bibb County.

He has Centerville on the schedule for the purchase of a lot for the construction of a Post Office Building.

He has helped hundreds of Bibb County veterans obtain just treatment from the Government.

He has obtained a number of mail ruote extensions in the county for the benefit of the rural people.

WHAT SERVICES HAS MR. DeGRAFFENRIED RENDERED TO HIS DISTRICT?

Mr. deGraffenried has assisted in obtaining the following projects and improvements in the Sixth District:

HOSPITALS: $3,000,000 Modern Hosptal, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.
Health Center and Hospital, Livingston, Alabama.
Health Center and Hospital, Marion, Alabama.

SCHOOLS: Advance of Federal funds for construction of 5 different school facilities, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Allocation of critical materials for construction of school facilities, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Allocation of critical materials for construction of new dormitory at Marion Military Institute, Marion, Alabama.

Allocaton of critical materials for construction of Trade School, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

HOUSING: 26 Low Rent Housing Units, Helena, Alabama.
52 Low Rent Housing Units, Montevallo, Alabama.
44 Low Rent Housing Units, Calera, Alabama.
6 Low Rent Housing Units, Wilsonville, Alabama.
32 Low Rent Housing Units, Vincent, Alabama.
500 Low Rent Housing Units, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.
66 Low Rent Housing Units, Columbiana, Alabama.

OTHER PROJECTS: Approval for allocation of critical material for construction of Nurses' Home, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Approval for allocation of critical materials for construction of new fire Station at Alberta City, Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Modern New Bridge at Centerville, Alabama.

Authorization for City of Columbiana, Alabama, to construct natural gas system.

Authorization for City of Helena, Alabama, to construct natural gas system.

Advance of Federal funds for expansion of water facilities for Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Advance of federal funds for improvement of Community facilities, Harpersville, Alabama.

Federal loan to expand and improve telephone facilities, Thorsby, Alabama.

Approval by Rural Electrification Authority for loan to expand electrification facilities, Black Warrior Electric Cooperative, in the amount of $1,485,000, which affects several counties in the District.

He introduced and secured Committee approval of Two Resolutions for study and survey of Warrior-Tombigbee River system. (Study will include flood control, navigation, hydroelectric power, water conservation and other improvements.)

He has obtained over fifty rural mail route extensions for improved rural mail delivery service.

He has handled over 1,000 Veterans cases, many with success on appeal when benefits had previously been denied.

Mr. DeGraffenried wishes to give due credit for the above listed services to our district to his efficient offce staff, composed of Cleveland Tucker, Executve Secretary, Mrs. DeGraffenried and Mary Ellen Higgins, Clerks.

THE RECORD SPEAKS FOR ITSELF — CONGRESSMAN DEGRAFFENRIED HAS ACCOMPLISHED MORE IN THREE YEARS THAN MOST CONGRESSMEN ACCOMPLISH IN TEN YEARS.

BOWDON'S OFFERING FREE SAFETY CHECK TO CAR AND TRUCK OWNERS

Bowdon Motor & Implement Co., Calera, Alabama, Dodge dealer, is among 4,100 Dodge dealers throughout the nation offering a free safety check inspection to automobile and truck owners during May as part of the 1952 National Safety-Check Month program.

The 1951 campaign to eliminate needless accidents and save lives revealed that 30.6 per cent of all vehicles checked were in need of service attention to one or more parts affecting safe operation.

B. B. Settle, director of service of the Dodge Division, Chrysler Corporation, in arranging the 1952 Safety check program among the Dodge dealers announced that 55 per cent of the vehicles in use today in the nation are more than eight years old as compared with 24 per cent in 1941. A large per centage of vehicles involved in accidents are older cars and trucks which developed unnoticed defects, he pointed out.

During May all Dodge dealers throughout the nation will make a free safety check of any car or truck and give the owner a sheet listing any defects which involves safe operation of the vehicle. Many lives are expected to be saved as a result of the program.

HOSPITALIZATION

Here is some interesting information for Unremarried Widows of deceased servicemen. Nonremarried widows of servicemen, whose death occurred while on ACTIVE DUTY, may receive medical care and hospitalization in Army, Air Force and Navy hospitals, under regulations and conditions laid down by the individual services. MINOR CHILDREN of deceased Marine Corps or Navy men also may qualify for such care at Navy hospitals. Neither the Army nor the Air Force provide such care for surviving minor children of deceased personnel. It is not mandatory that the services provide these benefits.

Hospitalization or out-patient care is provided to widows whenever practicable and accommodations for their care are available. In order for a widow to be eligible, the husband's death must have occurred, while a member, active or inactive, of the regular components; or while on extended active duty, active duty for training. The widow would also be eligible if her husband died while a member of the Reserves, not on active duty, when death occured while receiving retired pay, regardless of the cause of retirement. Hospitalization for widows is authorized at the regular rates of $1.75 a day, the same rates as charged to dependents of active military personnel. In addition to hospitalization, widows are entitled to physical examination, immunization shots, administering of whole blood transfusions, prescriptions.

The Veterans Administration has announced that in the future, it will require home builders to furnish ex-GIs with detailed plans and specifications while houses are still under construction, where the house is being built under a GI loan. The VA said the new requirement would protect veterans and assure that home buyers get the type and quality of house they contract to buy. This regulation will not apply to houses that are already built.

LIVESTOCK PRODUCERS SAVE SOIL AND LABOR

There is a considerable saving in labor when livestock harvest their own feed, according to S. R. Doughty, API Extension Service Soil conservationist.

"And think of the fuel and machinery saved compared to that required for row crops," adds the specialist. "Also, pasture is the cheapest source of feed nutrients."

Of course, neither man nor nature has found a better weapon against waste of soil and water than a good sod. Grass anchors soil against ersion, increases organic matter, and helps the soil soak up and hold water.

"Forsake not an old friend..."

THE OLD PROVERB which counsels that one not forsake old friends while seeking new ones comes to mind during Alabama Industry Week.

NEW INDUSTRIES in Alabama are important. It was our pleasure during 1951 to assist directly or indirectly in the establishment of forty-one new industries in thirty-one communities directly served by us.

BUT OLD INDUSTRIES which have been in a community a long time are important too — many of them in many Alabama communities expanded their operations during 1951 — creating new opportunities for employment just as in the case of new industries. We were happy to increase our facilities to make available to them the additional power they needed.

BOTH OLD AND NEW FRIENDS are needed to balance the life of an individual. Both old and new industries are needed to balance the economic life of a community. The old contribute to stability — the new contribute to present growth and future stability.

WELCOME THE NEW INDUSTRY, but "Forsake not an old friend . . ." Steadfastness to old friends is impressive to the prospect who may become a community's newest industry.

LET'S RING THE CHIMES AGAIN

Lots of folk miss the Community Chimes, and we are numbered among them. Lets see if we can't get T. G. Weir to overhaul this mechanical device and set the chimes ringing again. We especially miss the melody at "close of day' 'and on Sunday morning and evening. There is something very restful in music, after the days long grind, and that Chime project was one thing every fellow in this community agreed on and most of them had a part in purchasing. It may be the case of everybody's business being nobody's business, but we hope "somebody" will take it up with proper authorities, possibly, the Kiwanians, and get this music going again on Main.

WILD CANARIES

You can learn a lot about birds if you will stop and talk to the 4th Graders of the Elementary School. These "fledgings" are attempting to put over a Sanctuary For Birds, and they are studying many varieties. We met some of the members of this class this morning and this is what they told me about "Wild Canaries".

Wild Canaries, they told me, was the nick-name for Goldfinches. They run in "companies." Mrs. Christian has seen a yard full around her home. They seldom travel far. They are always ready to stop where there are Dandelions to be found. We want them to stay with us this summer and enjoy the Sunflowers and Hollyhocks with us, say the young members of this worth while project. Let's help them along their merry

YOU NAME IT!

What is it? A Kite? What does the number mean? Where did it come from? etc., all these questions centered around the truck of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Sharbutt, who were in town Tuesday, with a queer looking specimen, which landed in Coosa River, near Graham Springs, where Mrs. Sharbutt was enjoying a few hours drifting around in her boat, fishing.

To make a long story short, this aluminum paper, four cornered kite-like object, with a rubber parachute attached, landed last Tuesday from the clear, blue skies in the water where Mrs. Sharbutt was located. Naturally, it provoked her interest, so, she put it in the truck when she and Mr. Sharbutt came to Columbiana on a shopping trip, and called us out to view it, and "name it, if we could." This, we could not do. Nor do we know what the following number means. On one of the cross-bars holding the object together was printed in commercial ink, the following notation: ML-307 C/AP. Now, you, who read this take it from here, and if you can solve the meaning of it, let us know.

Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Sharbutt for coming by and allowing us to "guess" and wonder along with the rest of the folk who viewed it. As to its oigin.... and destination, that still remains an unsolved mystery.

Pd. Pol. Adv. by Friends of Jim Smith, Geo. McBurney, Sec'y, Florence, Ala.

To The Voters of Shelby County:

During the years I have been privileged to serve you in the highly responsible position as Probate Judge of Shelby County, I have attempted, at all times, to give to each of you the prompt, efficient, and courteous service you had the right to expect. I have discharged the duties and obligations this office carries in an honest, constructive, and impartial manner, and I hope my record of public service has fully merited your continued confidence in me and my administration, and that you will evidence this fact by giving me your vote in the Primary Elections to be held on May 6, and on June 3, 1952.

During the weeks of this intensive campaign, I have had the pleasure of visiting many of you in your hospitable homes and in your places of business. I regret it has been impossible to see all of you, but, I offer my record in this office as a basis for your serious consideration when choosing your Probate Judge of Shelby County.

My record in this office presents to you concrete and indisputable evidence of my proven ability in the past; and the same policies of hard work, good, clean, honest, and constructive government is what you may expect from me in the future.

I realize that "public office is a public trust".... and I have done the job you delegated me to do to the best of my ability. The years have brought me valuable experience.... and remember, my friends, "there is no substitute for experience."

Your vote is important to your future! It is your voice in Tomorrow's Government. Use it wisely for a continuation of sound, honest and conservative government by re-electing me as your Probate Judge for Shelby County so that we may continue to move forward progressively, together!!

Thanking each of you for your countless courtesies to me during the campaign, and assuring you of my appreciation for each thoughtful kindness, I beg to remain,

Gratefully yours,

ARMISTEAD SELDEN urges you to

CHECK the RECORD

That's the fair way to make your decision on the Congressional race.

WHAT MR. DeGRAFFENRIED PROMISED:

During the 1948 campaign, he attacked his opponent for being absent from the House so much, and he pledged, if elected, to stay on the job so he could "vote for the welfare of the people of this district." He pointed out that his predecessor had missed 68 roll calls in 11 years.

WHAT MR. DeGRAFFENRIED HAS DONE:

Instead of a mere 68 roll calls in 11 years, he has managed to miss 63 roll calls in ONLY THREE YEARS. His record of absenteeism is the worst in the Alabama delegation, with only one exception.

WHAT MR. DeGRAFFENRIED PROMISED:

In 1948, he denounced his predecessor for his failure to vote for income tax reductions, with the implied promise that HE would vote for reductions.

WHAT MR. DeGRAFFENRIED HAS DONE:

He not only failed to vote for income tax reductions. He has voted to increase these taxes to the onerous heights which you remember as of March 15th.

WHAT MR. DeGRAFFENRIED PROMISED:

He denounced his predecessor for hiring his wife as a secretary, and he promised he wouldn't do the same thing.

WHAT MR. DeGRAFFENRIED HAS DONE

His wife, Mrs. Motie G. deGraffenried is now on the payroll as Mr. deGraffenried's secretary at $610 a month. Mr. and Mrs. deGraffenried draw more than $22,000 a year from the U. S. Treasury in salaries and expenses, plus travel allowances — explaining, we suspect, why he isn't interested in cutting your taxes.

WHAT MR. DeGRAFFENRIED PROMISED:

In 1948, he denounced his predecessor for being "closely aligned" with the Truman administration, and for his failure to express his opposition to Truman.

WHAT MR. DeGRAFFENRIED HAS DONE:

Mr. deGraffenried has forgotten his opposition to Truman; in fact, he has joined forces with Truman. He is recognized as a less important member of the "Me-Too" crowd which supports the extravagances of the Missouri Gang. On 14 vital bills, with the economy forces pitted against Spending forces, he voted with the Truman Spenders 9 times, and with the Economy forces only once. On five occasions he didn't vote at all.

We are not dealing in fancy; we are dealing in FACTS.

This is the deGraffenried Record A record of short memory, of broken promises, of sheer neglect

We think you have a right to know your present Congressman's Record. At the same time, we invite you to inspect Armistead Selden's Record.

ARMISTEAD SELDEN is young, energetic and capable; and, at the same time, a man of legislative experience.

He served in his country's Navy for 42 months during World War II. As a member of the Alabama Legislature, he has made an outstanding record. He is a member of the Judiciary Committee, and he served on the Interim Committee on Revision of Laws. He is acting Chairman of the Committee on State Administration. He is known as a legislator who isn't afraid to introduce constructive legislation, then has the ability to steer this legislation to passage. He was singled out as the member of the House who contributed most to Road Progress in Alabama during the last session. He knows how to co-operate with his fellow legislators for the welfare of his own people back home and for the betterment of the State as a whole.

In brief, he knows how to get things done. He is a man not only of ability, but of tireless energy as well. In Congress, he will give these eight fine counties of the Sixth District the real representation which they deserve. His age is just right. He is 31 — not too young to be without experience, and yet not so old that he will be ready to retire before he gets any real recognition, through the seniority system, in Washington.

Aaron D. "Tennessee" Harris was born on a cotton farm in Greenville, Miss. He is 32 and the father of three boys. His wife, the former Margie Woodruff, is the daughter of the late Dr. Roy Woodruff, former superintendent of Partlow State School from its founding until 1944. "Tennessee" Harris is a graduate of the University of Alabama, a Marine veteran, and is now in the real estate and insurance business in Tuscaloosa.

WE NEED A

SOUTHERNER IN THE WHITE HOUSE

The South is America's Land of Opportunity as a result of the great Democratic reforms of the past 20 years. As your Delegate to the Democratic National Convention, I will work for a fair and just Party Platform that will continue those benefits. I will vigorously oppose any plank in the Platform which will be discriminatory to the South or against our way of life.

I favor the nomination of a Southerner for President of the United States — a man like Senator Dick Russell of Georgia, for instance, who is regarded in both the North and the South as one of the great statesmen of our time. Regardless of who he may be, we must be sure of obtaining a Democratic presidential nominee who will carry through a favorable Party Platform.

GET A HOBBY

What would we do in this world of ours were it not for the land of "Let's Pretend" — "Make Believe" — or plain old DREAMLAND? A restful retreat it is and far removed from the prosaic old routine of a work-a-day-world! Some people call it a "hobby"—some an "outside interest"—but always people who have "Whatever-it-is," are far happier for the possession.

A friend of mine writes she has found happiness in her Flower Garden. Surely no more worth while project could be undertaken, in giving happiness to others, than sharing flowers grown in one's own garden. How many of you who have been the recipients of beautiful blossoms, have not loved the spell of their beauty and fragrance! How often have they come to brighten an otherwise dull day! There is a new book just published which they tell me is "extraordinary." It is called, "But For My Garden."

One commentator states: "The author tells of how life would have got her had it not been for the nerves and disappointments, worry and trouble, she tucked away under the soil with her little ten cent Trowel."

Another writer says: "I dig many a trouble into the soil — and many a joy grows out of it."

The sanest bit of advice I have recently heard runs like this—"Do not pack up your troubles in an old kit bag and cart them around on your shoulder, but plant them in the dear old back yard, a twisty little root, and reap a "golden glow"; a pepery little seed and reap a plume of lark spur; an ugly brown bulb and reap a jonquil. Let your troubles twine around the trellis in the form of a blue morning glory or climb the stalk of a pink holly hock or scatter fragrance in the summer moonlight from the night blooming jasmine, and they will roll away like dew before the rising sun."

If the GARDEN idea does not appeal to you, try making a Scrap Book. Many a little rain drop will be chased away on a gloomy day if you have a SCRAP BOOK filled with "Memories". You have truly missed something if you have failed to keep a SCRAP BOOK, a veritable reservoir of thoughts that have been expressed just "for you" by someone else. You will probably, on many occasions, wonder WHY you did not say it first—so applicable is it to the way you have always thought. So get out your scissors and begin one of these little "nuggets of gold gleaned from the Land of Literature".... You will love exploring and re-exploring this fascinating "world all your own."

Now, I have a little six year old pal who almost lost his belief in the "good fairy" a week or two ago, because he lost a tooth, and the "Good Fairy" failed to place a dime under his pillow. It did not take us long to tell this little fellow, that the "Good Fairy" came by our office, and told me how it all happened. You see so many little folk lost their teeth that week that he did not get to go by his house before dawn broke and he had to get back home.... so, the "Good Fairy" left the dime with me, to give to him, and pretty soon, that little cherub was o. k. again. His faith in Fairies, Santa Claus and Dreams, still unbroken, and with a big ice cream cone stuck in his chubby fist was telling me tales, far more fantastic, than the one I had just let him have ....

So, if LIFE has proven dull and uninteresting to any of you, try the few things I have mentioned and see if things do not "pep up a bit." Keep on BELIEVING! Find your HOBBY — Plant your Garden of Flowers! Sing your Songs! Paint your pictures! Start your Scrap Book! Do not let disillusionment in people and things make you cynical! Sure, I believe in the Good Fairy—he helps me over many a "bump!" And DREAMS? — Who could go through life without them? Make a DREAM BOAT and when things do not go to suit you hop in and sail any where you want to go away from those who do not please you—but NEVER let anyone take away your BELIEF in people or your DREAMS. LIFE is much sweeter while they linger!

REV. CURTIS BEAN

Rarely, if ever, has a new arrival in town received so universal acclaim as has the Rev. Curtis Bean and his charming wife and two adorable kiddies. There is a reason for this quick acceptance of these newly arrived citizens. Mr. Bean, as you know, is the newly elected pastor of the Baptist Church, and immediately upon his arrival he set about becoming a vitally important part of this community life, and as a result, the more people he meets, the more favorable comments we hear. This is as it should be. Ministers should lead the way in all walks of civic, cultural, educational and religious activities. Columbiana ministers the Rev. A. D. Wilson and the Rev. Curtis Bean are doing that very thing. The first outstanding agreement they reached came to light Sunday, when we learned that a Union Service each fifth Sunday night would be re-instated in Columbiana. This wise decision has pleased everybody. The fact that members of both churches have long realized that a united effort for church work was desirable, has become a happy reality, and each fifth Sunday night will find the congregations united again, as they so often used to be. This is, to this writer, one of the best forward movements made on the part of both churches, and wise leadership is responsible for it.

Mr. Bean is a lover of music. He realizes the potentcy of it in all walks of life, and soon his church will become a "singing church." More song books have been ordered, and the minister has taken charge of the Intermediate Choir, composed of the pre-teenage group. Bob Holliman and Ed Rush are doing a splendid job with the Youth Choir, and the Adult Choir continues regular study and work in their weekly endeavor to contribute worthwhile selections to the morning service. We, as do all others with whom we have talked, feel that Columbiana is richly blessed by having the privilege of calling Mr. and Mrs. Bean and children our citizens "for keeps," we hope!

RECITAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Mary Mims will present her piano pupils in a joint recital with the advanced pupils of Mrs. J. L. Davis on the evening of May 8, 1952, in the High School auditorium. The public is cordially invited to be present. The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

. . . Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gibson for a renewal subscription to the Reporter-Democrat. We immediately marked their records up for another year and reserved their upholstered chairs for 52 weeks in our ever widening encirclement of Shelby county.

. . . Garvin Baker, of Columbiana, called in our office Wednesday, and expressed his appreciation for the "Home Paper" by renewing his allegiance for another year, for which courtesy we are duly grateful.

JOHNNY FOX

One of the most personable and popular young High School Seniors in Columbiana is Johnny Fox. He has a host of friends who have been interested in him since Grammar School days and now that he is about to graduate and leave for College, many are predicting a brilliant future for him in his chosen profession or career.

Johnny took the first step forward, Sunday, as far as his religious activities are concerned, and joined the Baptist Church.

Johnny will be a vitally important spark of activity in the Youth Organizations of this church. It is a heart warming experience to see these young men step forward for the right. Something inspiring about their confidence and faith in things worth while that will weild a wide influence on others. We are numbered among Johnny's many friends who had the privilege of extending a welcome into this church and as he has expressed an interest in music, we shall be looking for him to take his stand with those who are promoting the musical interests of this church's program.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lovett of Columbiana, Route 2 are shown cutting their cake when they celebrated the occasion marking their 50th Wedding Anniversary, at their home on February 23, 1952. Open House was held during the afternoon and one hundred and fifty guests called to extend congratulations and best wishes for happiness thru all the years to be.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. George Dickinson (Marie Cosper) have asked that we express to their many friends in Columbiana, their appreciation for the countless thoughtful expressions of interest displayed during the illness of their daughter, Deborah, whom, we are glad to state is steadily improving at their home in Birmingham.

. . . Clyde Adams of Chelsea was in Columbiana Friday attending a meeting of the Board of Education.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Fulton, Jerry and Dawn Fulton, have returned from a week end trip to Mobile and Brewton.

. . . Rux Carter and Jimmy Harrison left Columbiana Friday for a week end in Biloxi and New Orleans. They attended the USF &G, as far as business was concerned, but for their favorite pastime, they were engaged in an attempt to inveigle the finny tribe to swim their way and swallow their "bait"....

. . . Sgt. Warren Duke is home from strenous maneuvers in U. S. Army and is receiving a warm welcome from his many friends on Main this week. A certain little "somebody" is especially radiantly happy over his arrival. More about the plans of this attractive "two-some" later!

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holliman and Ronald Holliman spent the week end in Aliceville.

. . . Had the pleasure of greeting Horace Polk, Sam Polk and L. M. Lyon of Birmingham Saturday. These loyal Shelby Countians had come "home to cast their vote." It was a pleasure to have them come by for a bit of social chatter before leaving town.

. . . Clayton and Maragaret McGhee of Columbiana, Jack and Betty McGhee of Eufaula, have returned from a week's fishing trip on the Coosa.

. . . Thanks to Fred Hayes for a renewal subscrption to the "Home Paper" which he says he enjoys reading each week.

. . . Mrs. E. W. Garrett is always a welcome guest in our little official quarters. She is a person whom everybody loves, and enjoys having around. I have never seen her when she failed to cast a ray of sunshine along my pathway in her own gentle and helpful manner, and we have enjoyed many sunlit hours, due to her kind thoughtfulness of us. She came in today to renew her loyalty to the old "Home Paper" which has been a constant visitor in the Garrett home for years. Thanks again Lady!

. . . It is "welcome-home-time" down Calera way for Miss Lucy Norwood, who has been in Birmingham for several months having suffered a broken arm. "Miss Lucy" has returned to her home in Calera now to the delight of her many friends, and, among the first things she did, after returning to Calera, was to send in her subscription to the Home Paper. Thats the kind of a friend worth having in this old orange ball of a world. (Thanks Lady!)

. . . Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Sharbutt who live at Graham Springs on Coosa River, have not resided in this county very long, but, Mrs. Sharbutt tells me that "thru the friendly columns of the Reporter-Democrat (which I admit meant nothing to me, when I first arrived in Shelby county), I have been introduced to many of your fine citizens, and now, we would not be without this paper in our home! We recently renewed our subscription for another year for the news items about people and things have become familiar and are always most interesting." (Now folks, if you can think up a more encouraging bit of news to those of us responsible for this paper getting filled up, every week.... come in and tell us about it. And thanks again Lady!)

. . . It was good to have Clara Shrader come by the office last Monday for a social chat while writing up her subscription for another year to this Home Paper. We always enjoy seeing our good friends from all over this wonderful county. Fact is, thats about the best thing about being connected with a weekly newspaper.

. . . Bobby Fortenberry of Siluria has just returned home from a week's vacation which he spent in New York and Boston, Mass.

. . . In ceremonies Tuesday, April 22, 1952, in Theater No. 1, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, Frederick Austin, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Austin, Columbiana, Alabama, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Field Artillery Officer's Corps of the U. S. Army. Lt. Austin was a member of the twelfth graduating class of the Artillery Officer Candidate cShool. The Officer Candidate School reopened in February, 1951, after having been closed since 1946.

. . . A host of interested friends in Shelby couty, especially in Wilsonville and Columbiana are eagerly and anxiously awaiting news from the bedside of popular Bob Kaplan who lies ill in an hospital in Birmingham.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Phil Johnson of Aldrich were in town Tuesday and witnessed the marriage of their daughter Clarice Virginia Johnson to John Victor Locke of Tennessee. The Johnsons formerly resided in Columbiana where Mr. Mr. Johnson held the position as section foreman.

REVIVAL MEETING SET FOR JULY

The Baptist Revival services will be held this year beginning July 6 and will continue for one week, according to an announcement made Sunday by the Rev. Curtis Bean.

. . . Harold Lewis, former resident of Columbiana, was seen on Main, Monday, chatting with old friends. I hear by the grape-vine route that Harold has accepted a lucrative position as Civil Engineer in our neighboring town, Gadsden, which is a lot better than being away off in Pennsylvania. If this is true, we shall be looking for Odell, Harold and the two attractive kiddies more often in our town.

RICHARD LEE EVANS

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Evans are congratulating them this week after hearing of the arrival of a son born Friday, April 25, whom they have named Richard Lee Evans. We join others in extending a welcome to Columbiana's newest, and perhaps most interesting... citizen!

RUMMAGE SALE

Did you know that the W. M.S. of time Methodist Church was sponsoring a Rummage Sale each Saturday in the building formerly operated as Marie Johnson Cafe? That there were many good buys on the racks consisting of slightly worn wearing apparel which is being offered at bargain prices. You, who are seeking a real bargain might take this tip from me and stop by for a "look-see" next Saturday. I feel sure you will get your money's worth on each article you buy.

CEMETERY PROJECT

Our attention has been called to the fact that it is now time to begin thinking of improvements needed in the Cemetery, before the weeds take over again and the cost becomes prohibitive. There is no spot more desolate to this writer, than an unkept country cemetery. Wish there were some way the Columbiana Cemetery could be sodded and a care taker be paid to keep it as it should be. Naturally, this would take money, but it is done elsewhere. Thru what avenues of financing I know not, but, maybe some plan could be worked out if we all would get our heads and hearts together on the project. Any suggestions?

. . . We are glad to have Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Stoneycypher of Shelby again numbered among our weekly readers. The writer especially enjoyed a chat with Lady Stonecypher when she came to Columbiana last Monday on a shopping trip.

VOTE FOR

Hugh W. Roberts, Jr.

Candidate for DELEGATE to the DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

FROM THE SIXTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Why should you vote for Hugh W. Roberts, Jr. for Delegate to the National Democratic Convention from the 6th Congressional District?

Hugh W. Roberts was born, reared, educated and has spent most of his life in West Alabama. His education at the University of Alabama was interrupted by World War II. He served over five years as a combat infantryman, fighting campaigns in Germany, France and Austria. After the war he completed his legal education at the University and health programs, assistance to schools under state control, waterways developments, social security, insurance of bank savings and many others as tangible evidence of the benefits we in Alabama have received.

Hugh Roberts believes that the rebirth of the South began in 1932 and that the greatest economic strides in our history have been made during the past 20 years under Democratic administrations. He points to the great farm programs, fair labor standards, veteran's benefits, hospital and health programs, assistance to school under tate control, waterways developments, social evidence of the benefits we in Alabama have received.

Hugh Roberts will go to the National Convention and fight for a Party Platform that will secure these economic advances to the South and will expand them. He will oppose FEPC, Civil Rights, and similar planks designed to humiliate the South.

Hugh Roberts is not committed to any candidate for President. He is fair and open-minded, and only asks for a presidential nominee who will give the South just treatment.

Elect Hugh M. Roberts, Jr. as your Delegate from this district and you will elect a man who will strive to protect your interests at the National Democratic Convention in July.

VINCENT SENIOR ACTIVITIES

The senior class of Vincent High School made a most enjoyable trip to Chattanooga, Tennessee on Wednesday, April 9. The group left Vincent at 6 a. m. and arrived at Chattanooga about 9:30 a. m.

Cars were parked at the foot of Lookout Mountain while everyone boarded the Incline for a ride to the top. Some time was spent at Point Park while the group read the placards and inscriptions telling about the battles fought there during the Civil War.

After lunch a tour was made through Rock City and Fairyland Caverns. The walk across the swinging bridge and the beautiful scenes showing "Hansel and Gretel," "Jack and the Beanstalk," and many other fairy tale characters thrilled everyone.

On the return trip, the Lookout Mountain Hotel and the Cloudland Canyons in Georgia were visited. The deep gorges in Cloudland with their waterfalls, overhanging rocks, and wild flowers were extremely beautiful.

Those making the trip were: Donald Attaway, Shorty Jackson, Edwin Moore, Eddie Raley, Calvin Smith, Charles Turner, David Whitfield, Dick McGraw, Jr., Barbara Bankson, Zora Culberson, Wynell Davis, Beth Green, Adilee Hendrix, Sarah Justice, Marie Kendrick, Clydean Manes, Lavelle Newman, Anne Sharbutt, Mavis Smith, Betty Erwin, Joyce King, Sarah Hoyle, Barbara Mooney, Mary Ann Milam, D. B. Smith, Miss Myrtle Brown, and Mrs. Nora Culberson.

A three-act farce, "Oh, Promise Me!" will be presented by the seniors on Friday evening, May 2 at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium. The cast includes: Earl Shoemaker, Junior Cook, Shorty Jackson, Zora Culberson, Anne Sharbutt, Clydean Manes, Sarah Justice, Sarah Mathis, Mavis Smith, Adilee Hendrix, David Whitfield, and Phyllis Segers. The play is under the direction of Miss Myrtle Brown.

The junior class will entertain the seniors with a prom on May 7.

The Commencement sermon will be May 18 at 2 oclock p. m. The Rev. W. J. Rudolph of K. Springs Church will bring the message.

Dr. Caldwell, president of Alabama College, will be the Commencement speaker May 20 at 8 o'clock p. m.

Diplomas will be presented to 39 seniors.

Mrs. Pauly is called on at all times for food, sewing, Youth and Farm Bureau jobs by her club, community and county.

The F. R. Wall, Yellow Leaf, (bottom) beam happily as they tell how they used the floor, walls and ceiling from their old house to make the panelled walls and ceiling in their living-room and dining room.

Mr. Wall and son, Billy, carefully removed all boards, resawed and derssed them on a farm sawmill and planning mill. The hooded fireplace with ventilators heats the living-room and 2 adjourning rooms comfortably. They have installed a bathroom and provided ample storage for linens and clothing as they remodelled the house. Underpinning the house with field stones and finishing the outside wall with white asbestos shingles made the house attractive from the outside as well as more comfortable from the inside. The walls have done the entire job themelves.

The next job will be remodelling the kitchen, and enclosing the back porch to make a sleeping porch, work room and more planned storage. An electric range and water heater will be added to the kitchen.

LET'S ELECT

Lawrence K. Andrews

Associate Justice, Place No. 1

Alabama Supreme Court

IN SO DOING WE WILL ELECT AN OUTSTANDING LAWYER, CITIZEN AND LEGISLATOR TO OUR HIGHEST COURT

For These Reasons Alabama Voters Favor Andrews:

1. He is splendidly trained for service on the Supreme Court.

2. As a member of the Alabama State Senate, he has championed the cause and interests of the school teachers, workers, farmers, War veterans, small business folks and the average citizen — and in so doing, has demonstrated that he is a progressive.

3. He does not wear the collar of any political machine, clique or organization, and, therefore, would not be obligated to protect or look after the interests of those seeking special privileges.

4. He is a man of good health and would be able to work hard and work long hours to carry his share of the Court work. He would not seek a place on the Court in order to have a pension or to retire from strenous law practice. He does not mind hard work. In fact, he has worked hard all his life to make a success in his profession.

5. As a member of the State Senate, Mr. Andrews fought the imposition of additional tax burdens of our people — and vigorously battled to defeat the Administration's heavy tax and spend program. He was, in other words, the average man's Senate spokesman in opposing the heaviest tax and spend program ever enacted in Alabama's history.

6. Mr. Andrews does not try to array one part or sectionof of the State against the others. He is an Alabama-minded man and can, when elected to the Court, decide fairly and impartially all matters coming before the court.

7. He has no prejudice against anyone, or any group, not even against the group definitely fighting his election today.

IN MEMORY OF W. A. JONES

On the 14th of April, 1952.

The gentle spirit of Bro. Jones took its flight and went to God to bathe in the sunshine of His Presence for ever. He was sick for many years. Bro. Jones was married for many happy years. He has 2 sons, 1 daughter. He loved his family dearly. He loved all he knew.

In all his suffering you would find him with kindness and good words for all that was in trouble and sad. For quite a number of years I have been closely associated with him and can truthfully say that I have always found him to be a faithful, honest, industrious, up-right man.

During his sickness he expressed himself as being ready to die that his way was clear.

I could not see him in death, but am going to meet him in Heaven. I am his friend and his friend I always will be.

JUNIOR CLASS OF VINCENT HIGH SCHOOL PRESENTS PLAY

On Friday night, April 18, the Junior Class of Vincent High School presented to a capacity audience a three act comedy entitled "The Antics of Andrew," with Tlyce Harris as director.

The fourteen characters who made a splendid success of each part were: Donald Furney, a handsome college boy who portrayed the leading role; Wilbur Florey and Charles Montgomery, college boys who masqueraded as two charming ladies, wife and mother-in-law of their pal, Donald, Barbara Osborne and Gene Davis, maid and butler-valet, respectively; Betty Jean Shoemaker, Ellette Hemphill and Gail Masterson, three lovely college girls; John Franklin Melton, Dean of Cameron College; Karol Johnson, head of the College English department and in love with the Dean; Pete Gay, Donald's millionaire uncle from New Zealand; Gill as Rev. Doolittle, and Glen Holcombe and Leroy Brasher, the two detectives.

The play owes its success not only to the fine cooperation and hard work of the cast but also to the entire Junior Class.

Bobby Ray Stevens, Lorene Hardin, Ray Moore and Bernice King served as ushers. The prompter was Erlee Salser, the stage manager, Freddie Smith. The property committee consisted of Gail Patrick, Ellett Hemphill and Herbert Whitfield. Charles Montgomery, Chick McCranie and Gail Patrick served on the publicity committee.

WANT TO GO TO WASHINGTON

For the past three summers Jacksonville Stat College has sponsored a tour to Washington, D. C., for the teachers' summer workshop study on government. Many teachers from northeast Alabama, as well as students and friends of the oclloge, have joined these parties and the trips have proven very beneficial.

Realizing that many others would be interested in an economical tour combining pleasure and educational opportunity and planned on a more extensive basis, Miss Maude Luttrell, of the English faculty, and Dr. T. E. Montgomery, sociology professor, have planned a trip to Washington and New York which will cost only $80.00. The tour will last six days, three days and nights of which will be spent in New York City.

The date of the trip will be May 31-June 6, between the spring and summer quarters so that only one day and a half of classwork will be missed. It will be made on the "Silver Comet" of the Seaboard Railroad. Teachers, high school graduates, and friends of the college are invited to be members of the party. The tour will include all the well-known places in New York City and Washington; the group will stay in the best hotels, and the $80.00 will include all expense except meals off the train. Every phase o fthe trip will be under the direction of trained guides.

Chrysler V-8 Saratoga Sedan, gasoline economy winner in Class "F". Entered and driven in the 1952 Mobiloil Gas Economy Run by Chrysler Dealer Mel Alsbury, Hollywood. It was one of three Chrysler FirePower V-8's to win in their respective classes.

180 HP CHRYSLER V-8 FIRST IN 3 CLASSES IN ECONOMY RUN!

Here is truly dramatic proof that Chrysler's great new FirePower 180 HP V-8 engine design sets an entirely new standard of efficiency among American passenger car engines!

In this annual economy test, rigidly supervised, and limited strictly to stock car entrants, cars competing are divided, by price and size, into 11 standard classes. The route, from Los Angeles to Sun Valley, covered 1,415 miles of every possible kind of driving. Average speed for all cars was just under 41 miles per hour.

And in 3 of the 11 classes, the Chrysler V-8 engine was best for gasoline mileage.

In Class "F", this magnificent new engine won first place for a Saratoga 6-passenger sedan (125½-inch wheelbase, 4010 pounds). In Class "H", it won first honors for a Saratoga model 8-passenger sedan (139½-inch wheelbase, 4510 pounds). And in the top price and size, Class "I", it was again first, in a Chrysler Crown Imperial Sedan (145½-inch wheelbase, 5360 pounds).

To travel these substantial cars at this speed under these conditions gives additional proof, we believe, that here in the FirePower V-8 engine is the finest and most efficient engine ever put into an American passenger car!

WE INVITE YOU TO DRIVE THIS ENGINE, YOURSELF . . .

The same engine which has just scored these remarkable accomplishments is no farther from you than your own Chrysler Dealer. He will welcome the chance to let you take the wheel and feel for yourself what Chrysler has done . . . not only in engine performance, but in power steering, power brakes, new shock absorbers, passenger comfort . . . to deserve the title: "Finest Car America Has Yet Produced!"

CHRYSLER the finest car America has yet produced

A REPORT

To the People of Shelby County — from HOMER J. WALTON

We are now in the home stretch of my campaign for Probate Judge. I have done my best to see as many voters as possible during this campaign, and will continue to do so right up until the last minute. To those whom I have missed I would like to make the following statement.

Before selling my Funeral Home to Robert N. Bolton last year, I served the people of Shelby county 21 years as their Funeral Director. During that time I learned to give the public the service they wanted and deserved. When elected your Probate Judge I will personally serve you in this new capacity to the very best of my ability.

My public and civic records have helped prepare me for your Probate Judge. Eight years as Mayor of Columbiana — Six years as Town Councilman of Columbiana — Two and one half years as Chairman of the Columbiana Housing Authority during which time a $600,000.00 Housing Project was built — Charter member of Columbiana Kiwanis Club. These and many other civic and public projects it has been my privilege to help promote.

My word is my bond, I won't go back on it. When elected I promise you a fair, clean cut, and honest administration of your Probate Judge's Office and your Board of Revenue and Control.

I want to thank you for the courtesies you have shown me and assure you that I appreciate any consideration you might be giving to my candidacy.

Respectfully,

HOMER J. WALTON
Candidate For Probate Judge

To The Homefolks...

If I have not seen you, or communicated with you, personally, please do not think that I will not appreciate your support.

It is just that I have a large territory to cover, and my means are limited. I feel that you people in Shelby county have known me for years, and that it is essential that I earn the friendship of as many people in Clay and Coosa counties as possible.

Sincerely,

FRANK HEAD

To The Voters Of Shelby County

To thank you and to remind all of us that within a few days the honored American privilege of voting will be ours!

As we all know, this is an hour in the history of our nation when each citizen should consider most seriously this priceless liberty, and cast the ballots for those whom we deem capable of efficiently and conscientiously fulfilling the duties of the office to which the candidate aspires.

Personally, I wish to thank you for the kind reception you have given me, for your assistance during the days of campaigning, and for the loyal friendliness you have shown me.

I shall appreciate your vote on May 6th., and should you elect me to serve as your Judge of the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit of Alabama during the ensuing term of office, I shall earnestly endeavor to merit your confidence by putting forth my worthiest efforts in the discharge of the important duties of this office.

POST-ELECTION MAIN STREET

The political fabric of Shelby county for the past few weeks has presented a colorful tapestry. It has been woven and interwoven with the hopes and dreams of various candidates. Facts-Fancies-Moods-Tenses - Potential - Upsets-Possibilities-Probabilities-This-That-These-Those and Them, have been subjects under discussion in and around the arm chair arenas in various parts of the county.

The political sea has been lashed into fury on several occasions and it was an impressive sight, but, today, the "shouting and the tumult" has died away, the "captains and the kings" have departed and Old Main Street has again reached the calm level. The tension of the past few weeks has lessened, and the same sparkling sunlight again sheds its radiance over friends and former opponents who have played their part in this political combat. Congratulations have been extended the winners, who will continue "running" thru June 3.

Those who lost the first round have returned to their vocations, apparently, unperturbed by the temporary set back in their plans, and have resumed their daily routine. Good sportsmanship among the candidates has been marked throughout the campaign, and this is as it should be.

A complete tabulation of the unofficial returns received in Columbiana as we go to press is published elsewhere in this paper.

A CITIZEN SUGGESTS, THE MAYOR AND COUNCILMEN ACT

No town government is any stronger than the citizens of the town will allow it to be. No town officials can promote progress without team-work with the citizens.

Here is a true example of the genuine worth of citizen-interest in civic improvement.

Several months ago, Mayor W. W. Wallace Jr., met E. B. Turner on the street ,and Mr. Turner suggested that the best project he knew for Columbana to undertake was procuring natural gas for Columbiana. A discussion followed regarding the possibility and the feasibility of this progressive idea and the Mayor and his councilmen went to work investigating this proposed project. To make a long story short, it now seems assured that this suggestion made by E. B. Turner, and followed thru by the "City Dads," will soon become a reality and if you will watch this paper next week, we will give you some facts and figures, which prompts this statement. Watch for it. It is good news!

COOPER DRAKE ELECTROCUTED

Cooper Drake, who was tried and convicted of the murder of four year old Dale Holley near Calera in 1951, was electrocuted Friday morning, at one o'clock, at the State Penitentiary.

NEAL HUGHES 4-H CALF SHOW

Brings 40c Pound At State Show In Birmingham

Fourteen boys and girls exhibited sixteen fat calves in the annual 4-H Fat Calf Show held in Columbiana on Tuesday, April 29. Neal Hughes of Columbiana walked off with the Grand Champion Award with his 1422 pound Hereford steer. Buddy Whitten of Vincent won Reserve honors with his 900 pound Angus steer. The showmanship award went to Joe Mooney of Columbiana.

These calves were taken from Columbiana to Birmingham where they were entered in the State Fat Calf Show and sale. Grades were the best we have ever had. Three calves graded prime, six graded choice and seven were classed as good steers.

Mr. Albert Scott and Mr. George Scott of Alabaster purchased Neil's Grand Champion for 40c per pound and the Reserve Champion went to Mr. Roy Downs and Mr. Robert Cleckler of Childersburg for 40c per pound. Wood's Grocery and Arthur's Grocery of Columbiana purchased one calf that will be on sale to their customers on Monday, May 12th. Lets show our appreciation to these men and go by their store for some real steak.

Calves in the County Show placed as follows:

Light Angus Class: 1st Larry Baker, Harpersville; 2nd Joe Mooney, Columbiana; 3rd Kenneth Steele, Columbiana.

Heavy Angus Class: 1st Buddy Whitten, Vincent; 2nd Wayne Milam, Columbiana; 3rd Joe Mooney, Columbiana; 4th Kenneth Steele, Columbiana.

Light Hereford Class: 1st Joe Mooney; 2nd Van Smith of Columbiana; 3rd Malcom Byrd, Montevallo; 4th Jake Overton, Leeds.

Heavy Hereford Class: 1st Neil Hughes, Columbiana; 2nd Luayne Revis, Wilsonville; 3rd Bill Eastis, 4th Douglas Cross of Wilsonville.

Shorthorn Class: 1st Frank Thiemonge, Jr.

The Show was financed and sponsored by the following businessmen and organizations: First National Bank of Columbiana, First National Bank of Childersburg, The Central State Bank of Calera, D. F. Bolton, Wilsonville, The Shelby County Cattlemen's Assn., The Columbiana Kiwanis Club, The Shelby County Extension Service.

ONE IN FOUR NOW SAVED FROM CANCER

American Cancer Society today reported that doctors are saving one in every four cancer patients, and could possibly double this rate if treatments start in time.

The society, in its annual report for 1951, said some 70,000 lives were saved last year. It said a higher recovery rate now is possible if the disease is caught early.

Consequently, the society said, it tried last year to foster "a new national habit of health which looks beyond the traditional signs of illness to the possible presence of this deadly disease in a minor symptom."

Fifty million circulars listing cancer's seven danger signals," were distributed as part of this public education project.

The report said that some 700,000 men, women and children now are under treatment for concer in the United States and added that about 215,000 Americans die of cancer each year.

Bandits Rob Vincent Store; Take $4000

Birmingham Post-Herald

Watchman Is Slugged

Bandits early Monday morning struck in Vincent, robbing a safe of between $4000 and $5000 after holding a night watchman at gunpoint and slugging him with a pistol barrel.

The robbery occurred at McGraw's Store, Vincent, where, in 1946, robbers killed J. F. McGraw, father of the present store owner, in an attempted holdup.

Solon E. McGraw, store owner, said he had locked his week end and month-end collections in the safe until he could deposit the returns in his bank.

Several hundred dollars of the stolen money, McGraw said, were being held in "safekeeping" for a new Vincent Baptist Church.

State Investigator Ben L. Allen said the robbery occurred at about 12:20 a. m.

The night watchman, John Cooper, investigating an open door while making his rounds, walked in on two men burglarizing the safe.

They pulled out pistols, he told Allen, and marched him to the front of the store where one of them slugged him.

The burglars then shoved Cooper into an office and covered him with a "drop cloth" they found in the store.

Returning to the safe, the burglars spent another "hour or two" Cooper told Investigator Allen, "punching" the safe and then escaping in a "pretty powerful car."

Cooper said he would be unable to identify the robbers.

Complete Returns Will Be Carried In Next Week's Issue

In the Democratic primary election held Tuesday, Judge L. C Walker leads in the race for probate judge with Owen Bridges o Montevallo second and Homer J Walton, Columbiana, in thir place.

For Circuit Judge, Frank Head led Solicitor A. L. Hardegree by about 225 votes in Shelby county. In the circuit it is reported that Mr. Hardegree has a substantial lead. In Shelby county Paul O Luck received 908 votes with 63 for A. L. Crumpton of Ashland.

In Clay county Hardegree received a small lead over Crumpton and in Coosa county he had a substantial lead over all the other candidates. For the circuit his lead is reported to be about 1400 votes.

In the race for Member of the Board of Revenue, Offie Stinson received more votes than both his opponents, Cecil Falkner and N. Y. Horn, combined. For Members of the Board of Education the vote was: Cowart, 1905; Foshee, 1618; McGraw, 1892.

The race for Congressman from the Sixth District furnished the surprise of the election. Armistead I. Selden of Hale county, apparently has won over Edward deGraffenried by a small margin of votes. In Shelby county the vote was: DeGraffenried 1735 to 1513 for Selden. In the district the latest unofficial returns give DeGraffenried 12,175 to 12,655 for Selden.

In the state races with about half the boxes reporting Merrill and Goodwyn were leading Andrews and Lamberth for two places on the Supreme Court. For the Court of Appeals Judge Annie Lola Price held a substantial lead over three opponents.

Incomplete, unofficial returns from the county, with three small boxes not reported, show the following results:

For Probate Judge: Walker, 1669; Bridges, 1180; Walton, 1013. For Circuit Judge: Crumpton, 63; Hardegree, 1270; Head, 1493; Luck, 908. For Board of Revenue: Falkner, 1036; Horn 695; Stinson, 1912.

Complete, official returns will be given in this paper next week.

Top: The Guy Youngbloods, Dargin, enjoy their bright cheerful living room, which they made from the old open hallway. The only expense was for materials since Mr. Youngblood did the work. They papered the walls, sanded, and refinished the original floors. Mrs. Youngblood made the draperies and painted the pictures. The green pastures enhance the view from the dinning room windows.

IT'S EASY TO MAKE A BED — says Mrs. E. C. Knight (in second picture) Home Management Leader, as she demonstrates the method of making a bed by only one trip around it to Mrs. M. W. Jacks, (left) Mrs. Carlos Warren, president of Calera Club, and Mrs. W. W. Godfrey. Mrs. Knight explains that we can improve our job work method by (a) breaking down the job, (b) question every step, (c) develop new methods, and (d) use the new method.

366 Women in 25 clubs attended this demonstration in Shelby county "Make Your Home Tasks Easier." 15 Leaders in 12 clubs gave the demonstration. They were: Mrs. Claude Winslett, Acton; Mrs. C. C. Martin, Little Cahaba; Mrs. R. C. Roach, Saginaw; Mrs. S. M. Embry, Klein; Mrs. E. C. Knight, Calera; Mrs. P. A. Garrett, West Calera; Mrs. William B. Todd, Mrs. R. H. Bailey, New Hope; Mrs. Bob Bolton, Mrs. Sam Pierce, Columbiana; Mrs. Ashley Jeter, Spring Creek-Valley Grove; Mrs. S. L. Crowson, Mrs. Harold Morris, Bethel; Mrs. Grady Wyatt, Mrs. W. A. Jones, Ebenezer; Mrs. Harry Jones, Pelham-Keystone.

Mrs. H. A. Pauly, (third from top) not only makes cookies and cakes that are good eating, she makes them good looking too. Past president of the Shelby County Home Demonstration Council, past president of her club, Farm Bureau Chairman, Citizenship Chairman, and Youth Leader, Mrs. Pauly makes the decorative cakes and cookies as a hobby. Mrs. Pauly is called on at all times for food, sewing, Youth and Farm Bureau jobs by her club, community and county.

The F. R. Wall, Yellow Leaf, (bottom) beam happily as they tell how they used the floor, walls and ceiling from their old house to make the panelled walls and ceiling in their living-room and dining room.

Mr. Wall and son, Billy, carefully removed all boards, resawed and dersed them on a farm sawmill and planning mill. The hooded fireplace with ventilators heats the living-room and 2 adjourning rooms comfortably. They have installed a bathroom and provided ample storage for linens and clothing as they remodelled the house. Underpinning the house with field stones and finishing the outside wall with white asbestos shingles made the house attractive from the outside as well as more comfortable from the inside. The walls have done the entire job themelves.

The next job will be remodelling the kitchen, and enclosing the back porch to make a sleeping porch, work room and more planned storage. An electric range and water heater will be added to the kitchen.

POWSs URGED TO LIST NAMES

The Department of Veterans' Affairs is currently compiling a list of all the Alabama ex-servicemen who were Prisoners of War during World War II, and today urged that each of them register with the County Veterans' Service Officer in his home county.

This listing is being made as a result of a present program of the Veterans Administration and the War Claims Commission, which is studying the long-range effects of the mistreatment, malnutrition, and exposure suffered by those who were held prisoner by Axis and Allied governments. It is expected that the study will disclose that certain mental and physical disabilities are the end-products of forced labor and confinement under unsanitary conditions such as prevailed in many prison camps.

A complete list of POW names will enable the Department to quickly get in touch with these veterans in the event the VA establishes service-connection for any such disability, and aid them in establishing their claims for benefits which might be authorized for those who were held prisoner under these hardship conditions.

Living ex-POWs and the next of kin of deceased POWs are reminded that the office of a Veterans' Service Officer is in or near the Court House of each county of the State, and that they should visit and record names and current addresses promptly to be included in the list of Alabama's ex-prisoners of war.

Dear Sir:

We want to give you a letter of praise and thanks to Birdies B-No. 1 Ointment. It's a wonderful product. I have a maid and she has a little boy about two years old. A little colored boy. His mother carried out a large pan of red hot coals, and the little boy came along and decided to play in the pan. He put his hands down in the pan and when they came out, there were coals sticking to them. His little hands were burned white. We applied Birdies B-No. 1 Ointment and in a few days, his little hands were well and he doesn't have any scars at all and the natural color returned, thanks to Birdies B-No. 1 Oinment. It's so wonderful for burns and other skin irritations.

Very sincerely,
Mrs. B. R. Teel,

Spring Creek-Valley Grove Club Very Active

Spring Creek-Valley Grove Club selected continued mail box, church grounds and cemetery improvement; giving aid to worthy organizations; and the naming of farms as homes and placing the names in attractive and suitable signs for their 1952 projects.

The people of Valley-Grove have done and are doing excellent work on their Church grounds. The entire lawn is being raked and cleaned. Dead and ugly shrubbery is being removed. The entire surrounding speaks well for those who care and share. The most attractive thing at present is two huge sweet-shrub bushes in full bloom shedding their sweet fragrance all about. A nice table has been built out under the trees and will afford much enjoyment this summer.

A nice name-sign has been placed over enratnce of Spring Creek Church and a marker, pointing the way across creek to cemetery has been erected on church ground. Two Sunday School rooms have been painted. A little work has been done on shrubbery planting on the grounds. With the financial aid of a few church members and the hard work of our men and boys the cemetery improvement is now plain to be seen. The entire cemetery was cleared and cultivated for grass sowing. Later it was fertilized and is now green and pretty. Information on all unmarked graves is being sought with the hope that names and dates can be placed on each. A committee is working on plans for shrubbery planting and attractive entrance to cemetery this summer and fall.

A shower of cards and a gift of money was sent indigent and aged patients at Jefferson Hospital. A large box of quilt scraps has been sent to ladies at Ketona Home in Birmingham.

Some mail boxes are being improved for first time and others are getting their spring painting and look all shiny and bright.

A few pretty name-signs have been erected in our community. You may see "Clear Water Farm," "Brookhill Farm," "Mockingbird Hill," etc. Many others are being planned and will be completed during the club year.

ON THE FARMS IN SHELBY COUNTY

B. F. Hatchett and G. C. Starcher

North Central Soil Conservation District Supervisors, in cooperation with Mansel Wolf, recently planted a seed patch of Argentine Bahia grass. This is a new importation that is promising to replace Pensacola Bahia.

Even the Pensacola strain is new here, but if the Argentine strain is able to live up to its reputation it will be a valuable addition to the summer grazing crops.

The Bahia grasses make a very dense sod, and if not winter killed can be managed on less plant food than is required for its cousin Dallis grass, of equal growth. (See 1948 Yearbook of Agriculture, page 680-681.) The old types of Bahia winter kill easily. Pensacola Bahia has stood Chilton county winters for years and Argentine is expected to do even better.

With this 4 acre planting to study, and about 100 acres of coastal bermuda on trial, we may have a new crop to recommend for summer.

At present, most farmers can continue to extend sericea plantings and improve management on the acreage now devoted to that crop.

CAMP BRANCH CHURCH

The M. Y. F. sponsored a chicken supper at Camp Branch school lunch room Saturday night, May 3rd. It was a huge success under the leadership of Mrs. Herbert Fulton, Adult Counselor. Plans are being made to use the net profits to enable the entire M. Y. F. group to attend the Retreat at Double Oak Mountain the week end of May 23. We are proud of our group of young people and they are doing a fine piece of work under Mrs. Fulton's leadership.

The W. S. C. S. will hold its regular program and business meeting at the church Thursday afternoon, May 8th.

From The Heart Of A Little Girl

Daddy, if you know we're hungry,
Know that we are very poor
It must break your heart in Heaven
Cause you never did insure.
Mommy wonders why you didn't
Save the dimes you threw away;
But you felt too strong and healthy
For insurance, people say.
You were taken without warning
Leaving us to fight alone,
You'd have taken out insurance, Daddy
If you'd only known!
Twasn't that you didn't love us,
I recall how dear you were;
But your little girl must suffer
'Cause you failed to save for her.
Mommy just can't make a living!
She is wearing out she said!
I shall have to miss some schooling,
For the sake of daily bread.
When she's gone, I guess they'll take me
To a place of charity,
To be clothed and fed, but Daddy,
It can ne'er be home to me.
Mary's Daddy left insurance,
And their home will still be theirs;
They're not hungry, and sometimes Mary
Gives me cast-off clothes she wears.
They don't have to take in sewing,
Mary's Mommy doesn't cry,
But her Daddy left insurance!
But you didn't Daddy — Why?

National Guard Has Weekend Training

The 675th Transportation Truck Company, a National Guard Unit stationed at Calera, Alabama, started field training last week end. Under command of Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson, Company Commander, the unit camped over the week end near Spring Creek church in Shelby county. The outdoor training consisted chiefly of individual and unit trainng. The men pitched tents and slept under the same condtions that would be found in Regular Army training.

The men were given training on the proper way to set up a bivouac on arrival at the camp area. Field Sanitation, First Aid, and many other military subjects were scheduled for the first day. Training films covering military subjects were shown Saturday night. Sunday morning, the program started with Reville at 5:45 a. m. followed by calesthenics and a good breakfast. After breakfast the training continued with Range Firing, Carbine training, Military Courtesy, and Customs of the Service.

All meals were prepared at the area with field ranges under the direction of Cpl. Walter Martin, Jr., and Cpl. Edward Bogle.

Sfc. Harvey T. Bagwell, Platoon Sergeant of the second platoon, states that more than half of his platoon would be able to qualify as sharpshooters or experts on the firing range according to the scores they fired this weekend. The men did not fire for record this week end. All the men fired good scores and received excellent training under direction of Warrant Officer Hobson G. Searcy, Range Officer.

Sgt. James B. Ellison from HQ and HQ Company, 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group, Selma, Alabama, attended the training and functioned as Platoon Sergeant of the first platoon. Sgt. Ellison said, "I have never seen a bivouac carried out with the organization this one had. This is the best I have ever seen."

All the men enjoyed the week end and they are looking forward to the second Weekend Bivouac that will be held May 17th and 18th.

The 657th Transportation Truck Company is located in the school building in Calera, Alabama.

innesota Community ames Old Man Winter

HELLY, Minn.—The community Shelly, in the Red River Valley, tamed old man winter. Once gued by huge snow drifts, up to feet high, that virtually buried town during mid-winter bliz- rds, Shelly today can take winter stride.

A town shelterbelt, planted in 8, is already protecting the town ainst the worst ravages of winter. ees in the shelterbelt are as much 20 feet high and cut down the ce of the wind and blowing snow. This minor miracle in taming e climate is the result of the joint forts of the townspeople, their al county agent, and the Univer- y of Minnesota Agricultural ex- nsion service. The university has lped several other towns plan milar protection.

Together, these groups worked to tablish a shelterbelt in the shape a huge "L" on the west and north des of the town. The belt is 150 et deep and nearly a third of a ile long.

The project was largely con- ived by Arthur Wollertson, then esident of the Shelly Chamber of ommerce. He was aware that mething had to be done to protect e village from the fierce, cold rthwest winds and drifting snow. ollertson contacted Oswald Dael- nbach, who at that time was serv- g as Norman county agent. To- ther, they worked out an outline how the problem could be solved y a tree windbreak which would ermanently protect the town and ntribute to its beauty.

The idea was discussed at length a joint meeting of the Chamber Commerce and the village coun- il. As a result, a referendum was eld, with an almost unanimous ote to purchase the land north and est of town.

Wollertson appointed a committee o work with Daellenbach and Ray ood and Parker Anderson, Univer- ity extension foresters. Together ey planned the arrangement and e of the trees.

West Indies Sundae Real Treat for Summer Parties

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

A BIG scoop of vanilla, coffee or mint ice cream with a tablespoon of molasses over it, and a bright red cherry on top—well, that's a West Indies Sundae. Isn't that the perfect treat for your next warm-weather porch party?

We like to serve old-fashioned soft molasses cookies with it. My grandmother used to make them—they are really wonderful.

Molasses Cookies
(Yield: 6 to 7 dozen 3½-inch cookies)

Seven cups sifted enriched flour, 4 teaspoons soda, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 cup shortening, 1-1/3 cups sugar, 2 cups unsulphured molasses, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 eggs, ¾ cup milk.

Sift together first six ingredients. Melt shortening in a saucepan large enough for mixing cookies. Stir in sugar, molasses and vinegar. Cool. Beat in eggs. Add sifted flour mixture alternately with milk. Chill dough about 30 minutes. Drop from tablespoon onto greased cookie sheets. Bake 12 to 15 minutes in pre-heated moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.).

If you like the rich flavor of molasses as much as we do in our home, you'll welcome this recipe, too.

Fruity Fudge Bars
(Yield: 24 bars)

Two-thirds cup sifted enriched flour, ⅛ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 6 tablespoons cocoa, 1/3 cup shortening, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ cup unsulphured molasses, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 eggs, ½ cup chopped nuts, 1/3 cup raisins.

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. (moderate). Sift together first four ingredients. Melt shortening in a saucepan large enough for mixing batter. Stir in sugar, molasses and vanilla. Beat in eggs. Add flour mixture; mix well. Stir in nuts and raisins. Spread batter in a well-greased, lightly floured, 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Bake 35 minutes or until done. Turn out on wire rack to cool. Cut into 24 bars when cool. Top with pecans or almonds if desired.

Windstorms Cause More Loss Than Tornadoes

DES MOINES, Ia.—Tornadoes which whirl through sections of the country every year cause tremendous property damage, but their destruction is almost negligible compared to that done by simple windstorms.

Calling windstorms simple may be stretching a point, especially when their annual cost runs into millions of dollars. The damage generally passes unnoticed, however, because they destroy farm buildings other than homes.

Figures compiled by the Iowa Mutual Tornado Insurance Association show that for every house wrecked by windstorms, more than 100 barns and other out-buildings are toppled and piled into smashed heaps of lumber.

It is next to impossible to build against tornado damage. It is feasible, however, to construct and maintain farm out-buildings against possible windstorm destruction. Properly anchored and braced, any building regardless of size will withstand not only wind pressure but the equally destructive suction on the lee side of the wind's force.

Human carelessness plays a large part in small damage losses. As examples small articles left lying near buildings where they can be blown into it, and failure to remove old and weak trees which might fall on a barn or other structure.

Pennsylvania Town To Hunt for Industry

BARNESBORO, Pa. — The community of Barnesboro—population 4,000—is in the market for a new industry. With this in mind, the community's Civic Improvement Association and the industrial committee of the Business Men's Association have joined forces.

The business men have been seeking a new male-employing industry for Barnesboro for some time. They have contracts with firms in New York, Pittsburgh and Connecticut which appear promising.

The businessmen also report that contact was being made with a factory locating service and that detailed information on Barnesboro as a prospective factory site was being forwarded to the firm.

They have purchased two sites suitable for the construction of a communal factory and have $42,000 in pledges toward construction.

Here again is evidence of a small town seeking to improve its economic picture by community enterprise.

Crystal Caverns, near Springville, are electrically lighted, clean and dry, with walls 75 feet high in places. The underground expanse of about a mile has beautiful formations of stalactites and stalagmites. The caverns were discovered in 1840 and, like many others in the State, served as a source of saltpeter during the War

DATE SET FOR ANNUAL JERSEY HEIFER SALE

The annual heifer sale sponsored by the Alabama Jersey Cattle Club will be held at the tSate Agricultural Coliseum in Montgomery, May 17.

Harry S. Gilmore, Jr., sales manager, says that 23 leading Alabama breeders will offer 65 heifers for sale. They include 14 junior calves, 24 senior calves, 15 junior yearlings, nine senior yearlings, and three two-year-olds.

"This sale will offer an excellent opportunity for 4-H club boys and girls, FFA members, and breeders to buy quality cattle," states J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman.

For a whiter meringue that cuts well, and is flavorful, add lemon juice to egg whites just before beating.

To The People Of Shelby County

Your vote of confidence in me and in my administration of the Probate Office of Shelby county as tabulated in the Primary Election held on May 6, has been most gratifying. I want to take this opportunity and express my sincere thanks to each of you who supported me so loyally, and to ask those of you who did not support me in this election, to give my candidacy your serious consideration as we enter the second Primary race which will be held June 3, 1952.

I expect to make an aggressive campaign, and will see and talk with you during the coming weeks when I shall visit as many of your homes and business houses as is humanly possible.

Thanking you again for your friendly interest and support which made possible my leading the Democratic ticket in Shelby county, I beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,

'POP' PLIER HONORED IN NEW ORLEANS

The name, "Pop" Plier, will bring to the minds of many people in Shelby county, the genial gentleman who once served as Director-Coordinator of Veterans Affairs in Shelby county. The writer frequently went by his office, and on these occasions, we invariably drifted into the discussion of "things musical." Pop was an ardent devotee of Opera and the Classics and knew the stories of all the Operas, and had his own favorite arias and themes, in his Album of Recordings. We had not heard from "Pop" Plier in some time, until Monday morning, May 5, which immediately became a "red letter day" to remember, for it brought the following information thru a letter just received.

The first request incorporated in Pop's letter was for a five year subscription to the Reporter-Democrat, and a crisp Ten Dollar bill to pay for it. He stated he had missed the "Home Paper".... and was lonely without it. We immediately remedied this matter by sending him the county paper. Then, we began to wonder what "Pop" Plier was doing in New Orleans, and here is the news along this line.

"Pop" Plier is a designing engineer for Chrysler Corporation in the Crescent City. The new engines were dedicated on April 30, and Pop was introduced as "Pop from Alabama and Columbiana".... and he writes us he was "mighty proud to be identified by this name and from this town and state."

So, there you have the latest news flash from "Pop" Plier.... once a familiar figure on Main, and a friend to many towns people and all the veterans. I feel sure this news item will be read with keen interest by many folk, who "knew Pop when."

We join a host of friends in sending congratulations and best wishes for continued successful achievement with the Chrysler Corporation. Should any of you wish to drop him a personal line or card, his address is Pop Plier, 2302 Canal Street, New Orleans, La.

COMMENCEMENT SUNDAY MAY 18

Commencement Sunday has been scheduled for May 18. This will be a union service and will be held at the Shelby County High School at eleven o'clock, and Dr. P. P. Burns from Howard College will be the guest speaker.

BOY SCOUTS TO RE-ORGANIZE

We are glad to report that the Boy Scouts in Columbiana are to re-organize, under the leadership of Milton Bird and Bill White. This organization is needed in this town, and deserves the full cooperation of every citizen. The movement has long been "talked about," but nothing done about it. However, with these alert and wide-a-wake leaders above mentioned, and the enthusiastic response from the 'scouts-to-be' success is already assured.

Congratulations!

. . . Mother's Day, next Sunday. Forget not the "pal of your cradle days."

ONNIE SAXON, FORMER RESIDENT RECEIVES SIGNAL RECOGNITION

In the official magazine of the Birmingham Southern Railroad, the Purchasing Department of the Birmingham Southern Railroad Company, of Fairfield is featured and the part that holds interest for Shelby county centers around L. V. Saxon, (Onnie Saxon) to a host of friends, who is Purchasing Agent. Mr. Saxon has been with the Birmingham Southern Railroad Company for forty-one years; worked in the operating and accounting departments; and was appointed Purchasing Agent in May, 1935.

The article says: "Mr. Saxon advocates the policy of developing a good reputation for the company in the purchasing department. He states that this department has more contacts than any other department and it is the buyers' responsibility to enhance the company's good name in his relations with suppliers, and between the purchasing department and other departments, as between the company and its customers.

Mr. Saxon is an active member of the Purchasing Agents Association of Alabama and the National Association of Purchasing Agents.

So, it is congratulation time fof another "home-town" boy who has scaled the heights and is speedily climbing to the top-most rung of the ladder of fame in his chosen vocation.

CONGRATULATIONS KEENER ROBERTS

A host of friends in Columbiana have followed with heart-interest the career at the University of Alabama, of Mr. and Mrs. Keener Roberts, since they picked up their two little ones, and made up their minds to complete their education in their chosen careers.

Today, we take pleasure in stating that Keener Roberts, who has made an outstanding record since entering the University School of Commerce, has been awarded, thru the Birmingham Chapter of National Association of Cost Accountants the $500 Scholarship. This Scholarship is based on: Scholarship, Leadership and Character.

We know of no one more deserving of this honor than Keener Roberts and we join others in sending best wishes to this gallant little crew, who merit our fondest hopes for continued happiness and success in all they may seek to attain in the future.

ANDREW L. CROWSON

Orleans, France — Andrew L. Crowson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos M. Crowson, Route 2, Calera, has been promoted to Master Sergeant at Headquarters, European Command Communications Zone, it was announced by Maj. Gen. Samuel D. Sturgis, Jr., commanding general.

Crowson is assigned to the Adjutant General Division here which is responsible for the administration and operation of all personnel actions within the command.

The European Command Communications Zone operates a supply line from French coastal ports to US Armed Forces in Germany. Its headquarters is located in this historic city which is now celebrating the 523rd anniversary of its liberation by Joan of Arc.

A graduate of Shelby County High, Sgt. Crowson served in the Pacific during World War II.

Congratulations from former classmates and friends are included as we release this news item we have just received from Orleans, France.

EDWINA LEE HOLCOMBE

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Willard Holcombe of Columbiana are being generously extended this week as friends learn of the arrival of a little girl in their home whom they have named Edwina Lee Holcombe.

. . . J. R. Meiggs of West End was a cordially greeted guest in our office Tuesday.

Vignette Club Members Complete Home Nursing Course

One of the most recent activities of the Columbiana Vignette Club was to sponsor a red Cross Nursing Class.

The Club accepted the responsibility for obtaining the equipment needed for the practice required and of planning the time and place of these classes.

Miss Sara Nell Lightsey, who is a qualified Red Cross Home Nursing instructor, generously gave her time to teach these classes.

Members of the club who have received certificates showing that they completed the Red Cross Home Nursing Course are:

Mesdames Alvin Lefkovits, Norman Lefkovits, Bruce Alverson, Gayle R. White, Frances Stinson, Lorene Falkner, Margaret McGhee, Hazel K. McCord and Wylodine W. Hill.

In giving their reasons for taking this course these women expressed first a desire to know more about caring for members of their own families at home, and second a desire to be prepared to offer aid in case of community disaster.

This makes a total of 53 who have received Red Cross Home Nursing Certificates in Shelby county within the past six months. It is hoped that other classes will be taught in the near future.

BIRTHDAYS TO REMEMBER

Tuesday was Election Day for most people; but, for a favored few, it was a birthday anniversary. Included among those who were honored on this May 6th, were: Melville Harlin, Mrs. Mamie George and Thelma Glenn. Thursday, May 8th, Coy Stone and Howard Hall, Jr., were engaged in puffing out the candle lit cakes. Sunday, Mother's Day will be a double celebration in the home of Mrs. L. M. Templin and in the Jimmy McDow home, when Daddy McDow will have a birthday all his own, and "Mommie Mickie McDow".... one of the most charming personalities in this town, will naturally share honors with other "Mothers" have this day dedicated to their efforts. May 12, in the Barney Isbell home, their talented daughter, Mary Jane, will be a birthday honoree.

. . . Barney Isbell, widely known Manager of Cardwell's Furniture Store, came by and signed with us for another year's following Shelby county's progress thru the columns of the Home Paper, for which courtesy, we express our appreciation.

. . . Dave Norwood of Walnut Ridge, Arkansas, is the guest of his brother A. E. Norwood and Mrs. Norwood in Calera. Dave has a host of friends in Columbiana who were extending the "glad hand" when we happened along last Saturday and had the pleasure of joining them.

. . . Mrs. Dixie Shealey of Montgomery spent a few days in Columbiana as the guest of the Misses Bishops. Mrs. Shealey holds a position with the State Education Department in the Capitol City, but retains her "right to vote" in Shelby county and always coms "home" on these occasions to express her preference among the candidates. We had the pleasure of enjoying a visit from her in our offices, Monday morning.

. . . B. H. Green of Harpersville Route visited our offices Saturday and re-entered his name as one "loyal to the Home Paper," for 1952. We appreciate these personal calls and expressed interest from our friends throughout the county. Fact is, without it, we could not travel merrily along!

. . . That pretty Ensign you saw walking around town last Saturday was your friend and mine, Sara Long, formerly connected with the Welfare Department and more recently a member of Uncle Sam's Navy. Ensign Long is stationed at Mechanicsburg, Penn.

LEWIS SIMPKINS TO PLAY FOR DANCE, MAY 9th

Lewis Simpkins and his orchestra will furnish the tempo for the annual Spring Dance to be sponsored by the Vignette Club next Friday night, May 9th, beginning at 8:30. Dancing will continue until 12 o'clock. Public cordially invited.

Tickets now on sale. Students, 50 cents, Adults, $1.00.

. . . We were delighted to welcome in our home Sunday, Mrs. Pattie Milner of Alberqueque, New Mexico, Mrs. Esther Christian and Mrs. Ed Hebson of Sylacauga. Nothing like a visit from old friends to make the sun shine brighter, and realize all over again the true worth of "old friends" who become more priceless as the years glide by.

. . . Sam Shultz is considered the best brick layer in Shelby county. He now has the contract to do the ground and brick work on the new Jack Campbell Apartments, under construction on Depot St. Sam came by Monday and renewed his subscription to the "Home Paper" and told us it had been on his reading list for many years.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. M .E. Smalley have gone to Biloxi, Mississippi to attend the Annual Torch Club Convention of the Liberty National Life Insurance Company as guests of the Company. Membership in the Torch Club is the highest honor that can be attained by a member of the Liberty National Company and is accorded to only those who achieve an outstanding life insurance production and policy-owher service record throughout the year.

. . . "Uncle Lank" Crumpton says when the Democratic Rooster begins crowing in Shelby county, it makes no difference how far he is from the home base, he "hears his voice".... and answers it. So, this week found this colorful figure back on Main Street, with the highlight of his visit centering around a reunion in Wilton with his cherished life lonf friend, "Uncle Ol Head," and what a reunion that happy meeting proved to be!

. . . Friends are expressing regrets and deep concern over Mamie Horn's painful accident, Tuesday, when she fell and turned her ankle and had the misfortune of breaking it in two places.

. . . Mrs. Maxey, mother of Mrs. John Rush, is a popular visitor in our town this week.

'BABY SPECIALS' IN W.S.C.S.

Mrs. Claire Harrison entertained all the circles of the W. S. C. S. in her home last Monday evening. A report from all committees was made, after which the tiny tots.... "Baby Specials" became members. Among those receiving membership certificates were Deetsie Spires, Dawn Fulton, Shirley Wallace and Sally McCord.

. . . Marianna Davis, who has been teaching in Munford was in Columbiana, Tuesday, and we had the privilege of congratulating her on the splendid year's work she had accomplished. We were glad to learn she would again be an instructor in this school next year. Durwood Davis, who will be remembered by a host of friends is now associated with the Southern Bell Telephone Company's advertising section. All this good news from our friends was most gratifying.

. . . If we had only had a candid camera Tuesday, we would have snapped a picture of Mr. Hardy Nelson when he met Miss Minnie Edwards on the street. It would have been a real "news item".... and what "they" said to "each-other" would have been an eye-brow raiser. Swell people. We were so glad to see them, and also Thomas Neal Nelson, Mr. Nelson's son, whom we had not seen in a long, long time! Thats one thing good about elections, old friends return to stand loyally by former fellow-travellers, whose paths once ran in parellel lines on Main. These folks are numbered among those never-to-be-forgotten priceless treasures from the Land of Used-To-Be.

. . . Mrs. T. K. Roberts, Mrs. W. L. Christian, the Rev. and Mrs. A. D. Wilson attended the District Meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service which was held in Sylacauga last Wednesday, April 30. Mrs. Roberts was featured on the inspiring program presented.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Taylor, James and Aileen Taylor of Birmingham, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wales W. Wallace, Jr., last Tuesday.

. . . Mrs. Taylor (Gertrude, to a host of loyal friends in Columbiana) was the proud owner of a lovely gold pin given her by the W. S. C. S. in Birmingham signifying honorary life membership. A merited recognition.

. . . Mrs. Rosa Teague of "The Pines,' 'spent Tuesday in Columbiana, greeting old friends.

. . . R. R. Robertson of Childersburg, took time out from a busy trip Tuesday to come by the office and renew his allegiance to the "Home Paper" for 1952.

. . . Mrs. Ila Gordon, looking as pretty as a picture, was greeting a lot of folk who were glad to see her in town, Monday. Naturally, we lost no time joining the friendly circle.

. . . H. M. Gordon of Wilmington, Delaware, spent a few days in Columbiana this week, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul O. Luck.

. . . Cloice Williams of Harpersville took time out during a visit on Main Street, Tuesday, to enter his renewal subscription to the Home Paper, and we were mighty glad he included this item on his "shopping list"....

. . . Betty Jo Willis and Mrs. H. H. Bearden, will soon be winging their way across the country, for a visit in California with Mrs. Blossom Rothberg, (Blossom Densler Black, formerly of Wilsonville).

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Tidmore have two lovely children. We were honored last Thursday by a visit from these "adorables." Their names are Patsy and Janet, and Janet, although only nine month old, is walking everywhere and fast getting perfectly able to keep up with Sister Pat. It is always good to welcome the kiddies and their mommies in our office. This kind of a "break" in a long days routne, is something we always enjoy having happen to us.

. . . Mrs. James G. Wallace of Wilsonville is being welcomed into our weekly reading circle this week, and will continue receiving the Home Paper for 52 issues. Thanks!

. . . The Rev. R. R. Brasher has returned to Columbiana, having completed his service with the church in Washington, D. C., as interim pastor

. . . Mr. and Mrs. William Clark proved their loyalty to this journalistic endeavor in Shelby county by renewing their subscription this week to the Home Paper, for which bit of consideration we are duly appreciative.

. . . Mrs. Grace Pope, from Siluria, and Mrs. E. A. Talton, of Columbiana Rt., were cordially greeted guests in our office Friday and they took this opportunity to line up with us for another year along the "printed word" highway. We always enjoy meeting our subscribers and hearing first hand what they think of us, and usually, we return to the desk, more determined than ever to give to these loyal folk, our best!

. . . By the way, we have not heard a single person say, they noticed that The Reporter-Democrat now carried 7 columns to a page, instead of the usual 6. This innovation now conforms to the majority of weeklies and gives to the readers and advertisers exactly 20 more inches to each page. Each page now carries 140 inches. We formerly carried only 120. It is more work for us, and more reading matter for you. So, send us in your interesting news items from your communities. We shall be glad to incorporate it in our penpoint rambles.

ble Comment:

emperance in All hings Is the True ey to Happiness

THE Lord knoweth the way of the righteous, but the way of ungodly shall perish."

That is as true concerning ples and nations as it is of inviduals. And it is as true today it was in ancient times.

t is recalled that 10 of the 12 bes of Israel revolted under Jeroam against Solomon's son, Reboam. Successful in revolution, roboam, leader of the Northern ngdom, had a great opportunity remedy the abuses of preceding igns. But he set up idols and led people in false ways.

Inner weakness left the nation prepared when danger struck m without. The situation called wise strategy and sound judgnt, but what can be expected en there is a lack of sound and nest character?

The weakness from within had familiar aspects of all social lure and deterioration—dishony and corruption in public life, entiousness and debauchery ong the well-to-do, disregard of poor, exploitation of the people. d all the evils that have cursed ciety in the past and are still to found today.

This is a temperance lesson, and prophecies of the time in their velation of the social abuses ress how large a part strong ink had in breaking down mole, bringing woe and destruction pon the nation.

Temperance lessons and lectures e not popular today. The prevlent psychology is favorable to rinking and indulgence, where a neration ago it was favorable to tal abstinence. It is fair to make distinction between drinking nd drunkenness, between use and buse of intoxicants as of other ings.

But it is important to remember at intoxicating liquor has in it herent dangers that do not apply all other things. The Bible is a emperance textbook, full of warnng, and its warnings are borne ut in the history of men and naions.

The Northern Kingdom went own to ruin, and any nation that oes not overcome evil with good s doomed to similar disaster.

VA BANS RECEIPTS FOR INSURANCE

Receipts for premium payments on National Service Life Insurance will not be mailed out by the VA after August 1, 1952, warns C. C. Horton, Director of the Alabama Department of Veterans' Affairs. Also effected will be holders of World War I United States Government Life Insurance. It is estimated that the new measure, designed in the interest of economy, will save the VA approximately one million dollars per year.

Policyholders, who, up to the present time, have received receipts from the VA will now need to save cancelled checks and money orders for record. No provision has been made for those veterans who send in cash payments, estimated to total thousands of policyholders.

Horton adds that there is nothing new in this procedure, since many of the larger commercial insurance firms have by now adopted the same rule of "no receipt." Individual policyholders will be notified by the VA well in advance of the August 1st effective date, and it is hoped that the full publicity planned on the change will prevent any confusion.

Notices of premiums due will continue to be mailed by the VA, to insure that policyholders will make payments on time. Veterans will be urged to pay premiums quarterly, semi-annually, or annually, since these methods of payment will result in fewer receipts for the veteran to keep, and will also greatly lessen the workload for the VA.

BIRD WEEK — MAY 8-14

Thursday: 8:45 A. M. - Film at High School.

Friday: 8:45 A. M. - Talk by Mrs. Homer Walton.

Monday: Mrs. John H. Williamson, Ornithologist, Birmingham Audubon Society, Talk and slides.

Tuesday: Program by Mrs. McKnight's Third Grade Class.

Wednesday: Exhibit of Bird Houses and Feeding Tables, Discussion by Mr. John H. Farr.

And great trees from little acorns grow. The same as from little hearts must come tomorrow's happiness, or despair. Time is fleeting, and the way is long, but there can be happiness instead of despair every mile. And there can be roses instead of thorns. And music instead of tears all the way.

Into some heart a dream is born.... in a still quiet fashion, out of reach of uncertainty and tears and chaos. While in some miraculous manner it makes its way out into the sunlight, touching other hearts with its golden wings, quietly, tenderly, until a whole portion of the world is made beautifully radient.

And we shall call it a Sanctuary for Birds. Because we want happiness instead of despair, roses instead of thorns, and music instead of tears. But in the end it will have become a thousand little sanctuaries.... of happiness and song and laughter and delight, where a hundred little hearts will grow strong and brave and kind. Hearts that will decide tomorrow's happiness, or despair.

Calera High School News

The Senior Play "The Brides Stand-In" was a tremendous success. The door receipts were greater than ever before in the history of Calera High Senior Plays. The seniors are taking some of the money to pay for the sound system for the school.

Betty Franklin won the County Birmingham Post-Herald Spelling Bee held at Columbiana. She will compete at Phillips High School in Birmingham May 3 for the state contest. Betty and Miss Bishop along with other contestants and sponsors will be entertained with a luncheon at the Bankhead Hotel. If Betty wins there she will go to Washington, D. C. for the national contest.

The P. T. A. is sponsoring a Teacher's Dinner Friday night at 7:00 in the Calera High School Auditorium. They are expecting every teacher from Shelby county to attend.

The Fourth Grade of Calera Elementary School taught by Mrs. E. M. Smith, completed a study on Alabama today.

The booklets made by the children were attractively decorated with pictures showing agricultural and industrial scenes of Alabama.

Letters were written by the children to the Chamber of Commerce in each of the principal cities in the state asking for booklets and other material.

The finished work is now on display in the Fourth Grade classroom.

ARMY SEEKS 41,000 IN JUNE, JULY DRAFT

The Army issued a call today for 10,000 draftees in June and 31,000 in July. It said selective service quotas will be about as large as the July call for the rest of the summer.

Only the Army will draft men during those two months. The Marines, who have been drafting men since last August, plan no calls for June and July. The Navy and Air Force have not taken any draftees since the outbreak of the Korean war.

The Army said its June-July quotas were planned to meet anticipated losses, provide replacements, and maintain its present strength of about 1,570,000.

It said the calls in August and September will be about the size of the 31,000 July quota.

Noccalula Falls, near Attalla, have a lover's leap legend common to most mountain regions. In this instance it was Noccalula, an Indian girl, who plunged to death over the falls rather than accept an unwelcome marriage ararnged by her father. After her death her lover saw her spirit in the spray of the falls and gave them her name.

I notice that Russia has come out with a new peace proposal. That's all Russia wants. A big piece of Europe. A piece of Asia.

WHEN THE SUNSHINES ON OLD AGE

"Your old men shall dream dreams" Acts 2:17

An old person is one who has permitted his years to become a burden. So long as he dreams of something yet to be done, some worth while achievement yet to be accomplished, the dew of youth is still upon his brow, even if he has reached his threescore and ten.

Little thrill is vouchsafed to those who are willing to sit with folded hands, with hearts withdrawn from interest in others, with minds enrapped in memories of earlier days. Christian people should not be numbered in that crowd, for according to the Scripture, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength." Of such is was said, "Your old men shall dream dreams."

As long as one dreams of something that he can do tomorrow, whether the undertaking be large or small, he may be assured that he is holding his own with God, with his fellowmen, and with the passing years.

When Henry W. Longfellow was well along in years, his head as white as snow, he was asked one day how it was that he was able to keep so vigorous and write so beautifully. Pointing to a blossoming apple tree near by, the poet replied: "That apple tree is very old, but I never saw prettier blossoms on it than it has right now. The tree grows a little new wood every year, and I suppose it is out of that new wood that those blossoms come. Like the apple tree, I try to grow a little wood each year."

What Longfellow did, every Christian should do. We cannot stop the flight of time; we cannot head off the one event that happeneth to all; but we can keep on growing "new wood." In that way we can bear both blossoms and fruit until the end. "They shall bring forth fruit in old age," so the Psalmist says.

For those who are undertaking to live without God, old age promises little and everything grows stale. But of those who dream dreams that are prompted by the divine promise, it can be said, (in the words of Longfellow, by the way):

"And their nights shall be filled with music,
And the cares that infest the day,
Shall fold their tents like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away."

ARCHIE H. ELLIOTT NAMED 21st JUDICIAL CIRCUIT JUDGE

Governor Gordon Persons has named Solicitor Archie H. Elliott, of Brewton, as Judge of the 21st Judicial Circuit, succeeding the late Circuit Judge Francis W. Hare.

Hare, who had served since 1928 as judge in the circuit which includes Monroe, Conecuh and Escambia counties, died April 18, following a short illness.

Governor Persons said that he would not at this time fill the solicitorship left vacant when Elliott was given the judgeship.

Elliott had qualified to run against Judge Hare in the May 6 Democratic primary. He will now get the party nomination by default. Judge Hare's unexpired term ends in January. Elliott's election to a full four-year term in the Nov. general election appears certain, since Democratic nomination is usually equivalent ot election.

Then there was the guy who sighed, "If I had my life to live over, I'd live over a saloon."

"Better Get the Vet on the Phone"

Pure-bred cattle—sign of the South's new, balanced agriculture—mean more money for stockmen, better standards of living on the farm, a growing demand for telephones.

Farm telephone expansion has been one of Southern Bell's biggest and most important jobs for years—and today is more important than ever. It is a job that takes a lot of money, materials, experience, know-how—and time.

In just the past 6 years we have tripled our rural telephones. We're building more and more rural lines as fast as scarce materials and defense needs permit.

FARM NEWS

IMPROVED CORN YIELDS IS GOAL OF PRODUCERS

The 1952 more-corn-per-acre campaign is on in many Alabama counties.

The object of this campaign is to increase the average yield to 30 bushels or more per acre. "But many county agents are hoping their growers can do even better than this," says J. C. Lowery, API Extension agronomist.

Discussing the value of higher corn yields, Lowery said to farmers: "Let's say you plant 20 acres in corn on the average and make 15 bushels per acre.... or 300 bushels in all. If you can make 30 bushels you will have 600 bushels of corn; if you make 50 bushels per acre, you will have 1,000 bushels of corn. Just a little figuring will show that at present prices you will have above $1,500 worth of corn. Furthermore, this is enough corn to grow about 100 top hogs."

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT FOR GOOD MILK MARKET

Dairy products are among the few items that bringing more money this spring than a year ago.

"And," says API Extension Marketing Specialist A. W. Jones, "prospects indicate that dairymen may enjoy a good market for sometime to come. Demands for dairy products continues strong ot keep prices up."

Dairy prices have been slightly above parity for the past five months, after running below the parity level much of the time since World War II. Jones says this may be due in part to the fact that there are two per cent fewer dairy cattle on farms now than three years ago. And the number of cows and heifers is about 10 per cent below the 10-year average. He adds that we have fewer milkers than at any time since 1930.

All this makes business look promising for the dairyman.

DATE SET FOR ANNUAL JERSEY HEIFER SALE

The annual heifer sale sponsored by the Alabama Jersey Cattle Club will be held at the tSate Agricultural Coliseum in Montgomery, May 17.

Harry S. Gilmore, Jr., sales manager, says that 23 leading Alabama breeders will offer 65 heifers for sale. They include 14 junior calves, 24 senior calves, 15 junior yearlings, nine senior yearlings, and three two-year-olds.

"This sale will offer an excellent opportunity for 4-H club boys and girls, FFA members, and breeders to buy quality cattle," states J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman.

USE OF LIQUIDS IN TIRES ON TRACTORS

Although better traction is obtained when tractor tires are weighed with liquid, it is important to know when and how much liquid to use.

Some tire companies recommend that tires be weighed not more than 75 per cent and that water or a calcium chloride anti-freeze solution be used for this purpose.

"If the liquid exceeds this percentage," says J. T. Gaillard, API Extension specialist in farm mechanization, "tires lose more of their bruise resistance and fail quicker."

He adds that properly weighed tractor tires gives better traction, less slippage and power loss, more drawbar pull, slower tread wear, and longer tire life. They also eliminate costly wheel weights.

If you have an aluminum pan that's stained, stew some tomatoes in it and the stain will disappear.

FOODS LEADERS TO HAVE SCHOOL ON CAKE BAKING

Foods Leaders will learn to bake better cakes on May 16th.

Miss Mary Hulsey, Extension Nutrition Specialist will conduct a Leadership School on "Baking Cakes" in the Old Courthouse Auditorium, Columbiana at 10:00 o'clock.

Foods Leaders will give tips on baking cakes at their Club meetings in June.

CAKE BAKING CONTEST WINNERS

Martha Pair, Vincent 4-Her, will represent Shelby county in The State Baking Contest. Runners-up in the county contest were: Amelia Frost, Calera and Martha Bentley, Columbiana.

Imogene Jones, Columbiana was winner in the Elementary Baking Contest. Runners-up were: Rhonda Sue Barefield and Linda Mims, Mary and Martha Walton.

These girls brought in cake and biscuits made at home and made biscuits at the contest. The Judges considered each of the three products for flavor, appearance, texture, and lightness.

Each contestant received a set of measuring spoons and an Auburn Cook Book. Martha's prize was contributed by Calumet Baking Powder Company and included all utensils and equipment needed for baking. Imogene Jones will receive a subscription to National 4-H News.

Judges for the county baking contest were: Miss Sarah Nell Lightsey and Mrs. B. F. Hatchet.

WITH EGG PRICE RISING, GIVE POULTRY BEST CARE

Egg prices are now moving up and soon will be at a very profitable level.

"Therefore," said API Extension poultryman, John Weeks, "it is important to get the greatest production possible out of the hens we now have in the laying house and to keep them in a high rate of lay.

"Cull and market all hens that go out of production. Watch for those yellow beaks and shanks, indicating a non-layer.

"Be sure that lights are off the laying flock now," continued Mr. Weeks. "These lights will be needed on the flock again in June or July. Make plans now for moving the old hens to temporary laying shelters when the pullet flock is ready for the laying house."

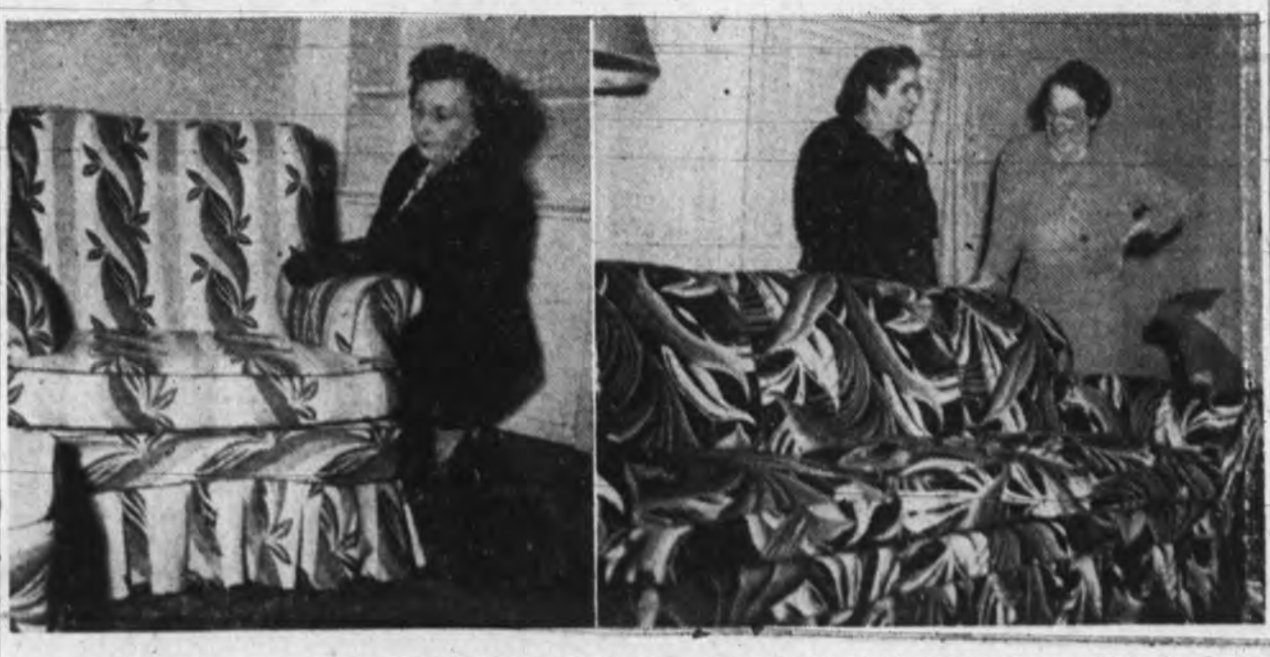
SILURIA H. D. C. NEWS

Since Mrs. W. A. Jones finished remodelling her home on the Montevallo Highway, it looks like a brand new one. The house was well built and sound but Mrs. Jones wanted to bring it up to date. She added a breezeway and garage to the side, giving it the new look so popular these days. The breezeway is pine-pannelled with large windows on the front. The floor is inlaid linoleum. It is used as a den and sewing room. Mrs. Jones also added a breakfast room at the rear of the house and put inlaid linoleum in it and her kitchen. Then the entire house was shingled with color-grained sidewalls. In addition to Mrs. Jones activities as a music teacher in the community and as president of the Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club, she still found time to do much of the work herself.

Mrs. Ferman Albright, Mrs. Grady Wyatt, Mrs. W. A. Jones, Mrs. Minnie MacDonough, Mrs. Robert Lovelady, Mrs. Nathan Frost and Mrs. Leila Douglas were members from the Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club who went with the group on an all day trip to Decatur and Cullman. The group visited Little Jerusalum at Cullman, the Mother's Best Flour Mills, the Whiteway Dairy and the Goodyear Round Mill at Decatur.

The ladies took and spread their lunch together. It was a delicious lunch consisting of stuffed eggs, fried chicken, potato salad, sandwiches, cake and iced tea. Everyone had a wonderful time and their chartered bus returned to Alabaster about 9 p. m.

To stretch whipped cream, fold in a meringue made of one egg white and two tablespoons sugar to one cup whipped cream.



SLIP COVERING PROVES PROFITABLE HOBBY — Mrs. O. B. Clark, West Calera Club, is shown fitting slip covers she made for a customer at Montevallo. Mrs. Amos Hollman (left), Columbiana Club made slip covers for two chairs and a sofa for Mrs. Nell Davis (right). Many Home Demonstration Club members have made slip covers for their own home since attending the demonstration. Twenty women report they have done this work and also re-upholstering for others.

MRS. J. M. DENSON WINS LETTER WRITING CONTEST

Mrs. J. M. Denson was winner in The Letter Writing Contest "What Home Demonstration Work Means To Me." She will be awarded a subscription to Better Home and Gardens Magazine. Mrs. Denson is a charter member of the New Hope Club.

Ten other letters were submitted with Mrs. C. C. Martin, Little Cahaba, winning second place and Mrs. Frank Wyatt, Klein third place. Others entering the contest were: Mrs. P. A. Garrett, West Calera; Mrs. Lawson Ingram, Spring-Valley Grove; Mrs. A. M. Muncy, Mrs. F. R. Wells, Yellow Leaf; Mrs. E. A. Turner, Mrs. G. S. Wilson, Mrs. Bessie Limbaugh, Klein; and Mrs. Zora Dunaway, Pelham-Keystone.

Mrs. Denson's letter follows:

"Home Demonstration work has been an outstanding phase of my life because it gave me the dependable information of experts.

I learned the meaning of good nutrition; how to save vitamins, as well as how to cook and serve meals more attractively. This has meant better health for my family.

A study of fashions has taught me how to choose suitable fabrics, patterns and styles and more important, how to sew and save. This has not only meant a saving in the family budget, but has also made me fashion conscious.

I have been able to make my home more beautiful, comfortable and convenient as a result of the demonstration given in the club on home improvements and interior decoration. The demonstration on landscaping, gardening, laundering, child care, freezing and canning foods, dyeing, and several hundred other subjects of vital importance to a rural homemaker have meant better and happier farm living.

Home Demonstration work has given me an opportunity to meet with, and to enjoy the fellowship of friends and to have an afternoon of recreation each month. Twenty years of the work has taught me ingenuity, given me more leisure, enabled me to spend wisely, and become a more efficient homemaker."

WATER THAT 'RUNS AWAY' CARRIES SOILS WITH IT

Water that "runs" down hill usually runs away with soil and plant nutrients.

"And," says API Extension Soil Conservationist S. R. Doughty, "it doesn't take a 'gully-washer' to rob land of fertilizer and topsoil. Bare land, row crops not on the contour, over-grazed pastures, and burned woodland invite rainfall to escape and carry soil with it."

Doughty points out that sod crops act like blotters. In other words, they absorb and hold water needed to produce good crops. Well-terraced lands farmed on the contour and supported by good crop rotations, which include the maximum of thick-growing legumes and grasses, help the land absorb and store water.

KEEPING QUALITY OF HOMEMADE DRY MIXES

For convenience, variety, and extra nourishment in biscuits, muffins, and other quick breads made at home, many housewives like to make up their own mixes with dry milk and keep them handy in the cupboard.

How long such mixes can be kept is a question many homemakers have asked Mary Hulsey, A. P. I. Extension Service nutritionist.

She says that cookery specialists of the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics have found that the mixes they prepared kept well for six months in closely covered containers at room temperature — 70 to 75 degrees F. These mixes were made with nonfat, dry milk powder and cooking fat, which need no refrigeration.

For a whiter meringue that cuts well and is flavorful, add lemon juice to egg whites just before beating.

EGGS ARE DELICIOUS AND NUTRITIOUS, TOO

Eggs are "tops" in nutrition, according to Mary Hulsey, A. P. I. Extension Service nutritionist.

She points out that eggs are in the same top class with other protein foods, such as milk and meat. They contain three of the B vitamins plus A and D. The egg yolk holds a rich store of iron for red blood cells, as well as phosphorus and other mineral for the needs of the body.

"Eggs are a very versatile food as they can be baked, broiled cooked in the shell, fried, poached scrambled, or made into omelets, asserts the nutritionist. "They are useful in binding, coating, garnishing, leavening, thickening, or in giving framework to a dish. They also add color, flavor, richness, and tenderness."

Town Celebrates Good Luck

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. — The town of Arkadelphia held a wild celebration recently when it was learned the Reynolds Metal Company planned to construct a $30,000,000 plant near the community.

The news was made official during a noon hour. The fire siren went wild. Folks down town let loose with wild whoops. The local weekly newspapers put out extra editions.

The plant will be located at Gum Springs, five miles from Arkadelphia. It will be in production early in 1953.

A local newspaper reporting the event, said: "Taut nerves began to relax. A long season of anxious waiting, hoping, despairing, hoping again, dispairing, groaning had come to a climax, a victorious climax."

One of West's Most Famous Rodeos Held In Town of 1,500

SIDNEY, Ia.—Jingling spurs and drumming hoofbeats are providing musical accompaniment for the contented grunts of Iowa hogs.

Iowa has long been famed as the tall corn state. Its fame as a center of top rodeo entertainment is more recent. Nevertheless, it has grown to the point where a great many Americans think of Iowa in terms of sweating broncos instead of golden ears of hybrid.

One of the state's most famous rodeos is held annually at Sidney, a community of about 1,500 people. Sidney's rodeo is unique in two respects. It is the only rodeo in the world which owns the horse stock in the show, and there are more performances offered (10) than in any other outdoor rodeo.

For 1952 there are already eight Iowa rodeos on the Rodeo Cowboys association approved list. This is one more than 1951. And in case you weren't aware, the Rodeo Cowboys association is to rodeodom what the PGA is to golfing.

Founding of the Sidney rodeo opened the door for an entirely new Iowa industry. From publisher of a small weekly newspaper, J. C. Howe, owner of the Argus printing company at Sidney, became the Lord Beaverbrook of the chuck wagon circuit.

It happened this way. When the American Legion, which sponsors the Sidney rodeo, planned its first show 28 years ago, Howe was retained to print programs and advertising posters.

Other contracts followed, first from Iowa rodeos, later from rodeos all over the country.

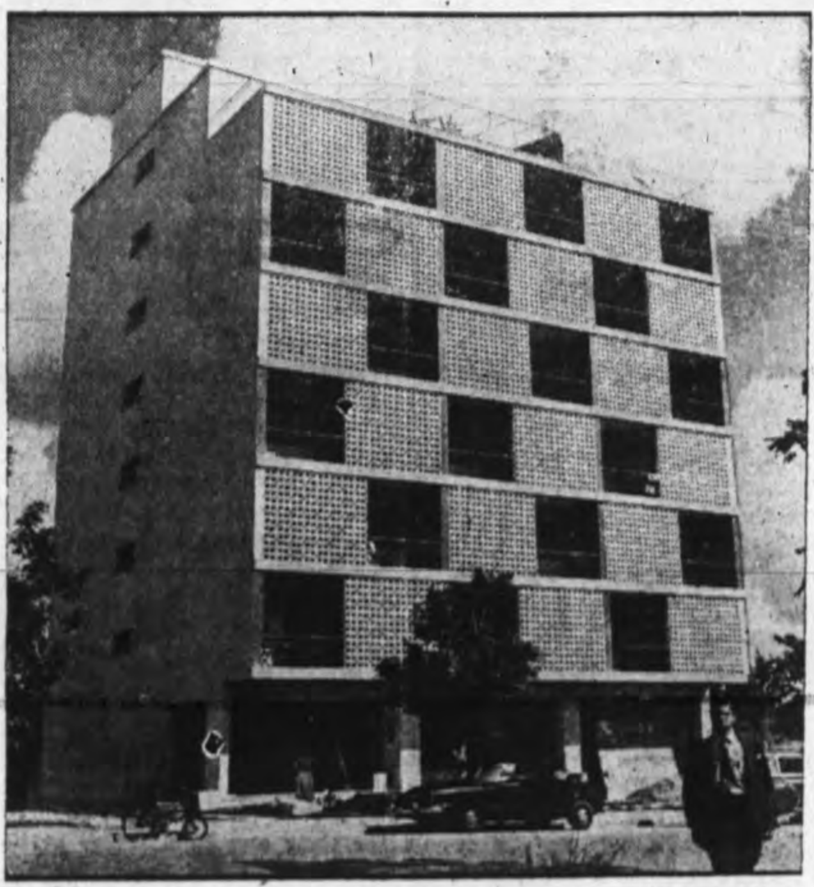
CLUB NEWS

Neighbors and relatives took part in the building of Hazel Davis' home on Montevallo Highway. After the walls were up, the windows in and the roof on, Hazel and her husband moved in and have been working on it since. Mrs. Davis even laid the pine flooring herself. She has also been busy in the yard, clearing and planting. She isn't finished with her house yet, but by next year we should be able to report a great deal of progress on it. Mrs. Davis is a member of the Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Jesse Faust, member of the Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club, had hot and cold water brought into her home and also added a new modern bathroom with tiled walls. She will use rubber tile on the floor. Mrs. Faust also added a cement back porch and a concrete block utility room to her home. Mrs. Faust is also handy with a needle and her home has many decorative touches which she has made by hand.

QUICK WITH NEEDLE

Quick with a needle is Nona Fay Roberson, fifteen year old 4-Her of the Wilsonville 4-H Club. During the six years she has been a 4-Her Nona Fay has carried Sewing as her project every year along with projects of Personal Improvement, Calf and Room.



THE BEEHIVE LOOK—With a boom in oil and iron providing big budgets for new homes, apartments and office buildings, Venezuela is witnessing new trends in architecture. The first unit of a development in Caracas displays a beehive brick design which creates a natural air flow and gives protection from the sun. Each studio apartment runs the full width of the building.

The banks of Lake Martin, near Alexander City, is the homeland of the Creek Indians who were defeated by Andrew Jackson and his Tennessee soldiers on March 27, 1814, at the historically famous "Horseshoe Bend Battleground," on the Tallapoosa River. An old covered wooden bridge leading to the battle ground is one of the longest (922 ft.) in the nation. It is held together with wooden pegs.

As the judge said of the auto accident, most of them occur when you dim the lights and start hugging curves.

Big Crowd Greets Pupils In Exchange Program

MANITOWOC, Wis.—Thirty young visitors from Macon, Ga., got a taste of northern hospitality when they were welcomed by a noisy crowd at the Manitowoc railroad station recently.

The visitors are high school juniors and seniors taking part in a pupil exchange program between Manitowoc and Macon. A similar number of Manitowoc pupils will go to Macon to learn about life in the south.

As the southerners' train pulled into the station the high school band broke out with "Dixie." A barrage of confetti met the Georgians as they stepped from their special car.

The Macon pupils attended classes at the high school and lived in the homes of pupils who will later visit in Macon.

IS THIS TRUE?

The father of a student approached Prin. Leonard Rogers: "My boy will never take all that in," said he. "He wants to get thru by a short route. Can't you simplify the course?"

"Certainly," said Leonard, "It all depends on what you want to make of him. When God wants to make an oak, He takes one hundred years. When He wants to make a squash, He requires only two months."

BEST WISHES TO HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

The day you have long looked forward to is.... just around the corner .The diploma you have worked for is now within your grasp. It is a wonderful day in your lives; one you will never forget. But, after graduation, what?

Many young men and women stand this week on the threshold of a new life. They face a tense and war-torn world, but, as one writer says.... "the very elements that have given it tenseness and that have ripped it apart are responsible for giving the class of 1952 many of its opportunities."

There is no widespread unemployment for the young graduate. Many fields of worthwhile endeavor are open. There are actual jobs awaiting them in defense or in industry. There are attractive careers in the military, and skilled trade is on the general upswing. Newcomers are welcomed. Look thru the daily papers at the nnmber of advertisements, "Women Wanted" .... "Men Wanted" .... "Help Needed"....

There is also a challenge to the graduate of 1952, in all walks of life. Faith and confidence in our leaders is at a low ebb. This writer believes this generation of voters will more intelligently use this priceless heritage of individual expression at the polls, than we have done in the past. They are becoming more vote-conscious and what is more heartening, they are studying the qualifications of the men and women now offering for public service before making their cross mark.

If you don't believe this, read that "Election Special" just published by the American Problems Class of Shelby High School. Votes will not be cast carelessly in the future, by these students. They are going to know for whom they vote, and why!

In this way we may look forward to wiser leadership and perhaps a world less filled with uncertainty and fear for Tomorrow!

Your task is a big assignment my dears, but knowing you as I do, I am confident you will emerge, the winner! So, congratulations to each of you, and may success and happiness crown your every effort in whatever walk of life you may elect to travel.

NEXT ELECTION JUNE 3, 1952

The ticket next June 3, will be a short one. Hon. Frank Head has conceded the election of the Circuit Judgeship to Circuit Solicitor Arthur L. Hardegree and will not run off this race. See Mr. Head's statement elsewhere in this issue of the Reporter-Democrat.

We learn as we go to press that Mr. Owen Bridges will continue his opposition to L. C. Walker for the Probate Judgeship.

The only state race on the ticket will be between Lola Price, Judge of Court of Appeals and George Johnson who will oppose her retention of this post.

R. F. C. APPROVES LOAN FOR GAS IN COLUMBIANA

The R. F. C. has approved Columbiana's application for a loan to arrange for piping gas into Columbiana homes and business houses. The loan is subject to the number of applications received for gas installation and, at an early date, applications will be available to the people, so that it may be determined whether or not enough Columbiana citizens care to avail themselves of this opportunity to have gas in this territory to warrant the acceptance of the loan.

55 FINISH AT SILURIA

The fifty-five seniors graduating at Thompson High School on Monday, May 19, will be the first class to receive their diplomas in the new high school plant.

The Baccalaureate address to be delivered by the Reverend John B. Haskew, Jr., of Madison, Alabama, on Sunday, May 18, will mark the beginning of the graduating exercises. On Monday evening, Dr. Hallie Farmer, Head of the Social Science Department, of Alabama College, will deliver the Commencement address. She has chosen for her subject, "Education and Responsible Citizenship."

S.C.H.S WILL HOLD COMMENCEMENT

Dr. P. P. Burns of Howard College will be the guest speaker at the eleven o'clock hour at the Shelby County High School next Sunday morning. There will be no eleven o'clock hour service at the Methodist or Baptist Churches. The musical program for this occasion is under the direction of Mary Mims, and the speaker will be introduced by Principal Leonard Rogers.

AMERICAN LEGION TO PRESENT GIFTS TO HIGH SCHOOLS

American Legion posts all over Alabama will initiate a program on Monday, May 12th, which is designed to place in every high school throughout the state a handsomely framed copy of one of the world's greatest documents, the Declaration of Independence.

In keeping with the Legion's Americanism program, the beautifully illustrated and readable copies of the Declaration will be presented to the high schools to to encourage the youth of Alabama to read and to appreciate the content and significance of this charter of human freedom.

All over the state, the response has been enthusiastic, and as the program progresses, it is expected that it will prove to be one of the Legion's finer patriotic efforts of 1952.

OLD CHURCH TO BE REVIVED

A meeting will be held at Ebenezer Primitive Baptist Church, Sunday, May 25th. This church has been closed for almost 30 years and an effort is being made to revive it. The church is located on the newly paved Westover-Sterrett road.

Rev. Walker and Aaron Hartsfield from Powderly will assist in the days program. The public is invited to attend, bring a lunch and spend the day.

ANNUAL REVIVAL

The Annual Revival will begin at the Shelby Baptist Church the 4th Sunday, May 25. The Rev. Floyd Olive of Nashville, Tenn., will preach. Everyone is invited to attend.

Neal Hughes Wins Award For Champ 4-H Hereford

Meet Neal Hughes, the winner. Neal is the winner of one of The Birmingham News, Post-Herald and Radio Station WSGN prize awards.

He is also the winner over a very tough calf. Neal got his Grand Champion calf about 18 months ago and shortly after he named the calf "Tuffy." Not without reason, either. From the very beginning it was a nip and tuck battle to see who was the toughest, the calf or Neal. While the calf won several rounds, Neal won the bout and he's a mighty proud boy today.

Neal is the son of E. B. Hughes of Route 1, Columbiana. He is in the 9th grade at Shelby County High.

Neal began raising fat calves when Buck Clark, Assistant County Agent, talked him into feeding the corn he was growing to calves and then marketing the calves.

This is the seventh year that The Birmingham News, Post-Herald and Radio Station WSGN have given the winners of the county shows $100 to buy a calf. The winners must feed and show the calf in the Birmingham show in 1953.

There are two things a county must do to make its winner eligible for the award.

The county must enter at least eight calves in the Birmingham show. It must have its own county show.

This year 17 boys and girls will receive the awards. This brings the total number of awards given by the Birmingham News, Post-Herald and Radio Station WSGN to 136 in seven years. This adds up to around $13,600 invested in the Alabama livestock industry.

NEAL HUGHES

Since the beginning of these state shows, the grade of calves shown has made a healthy advance.This year 34 per cent of the calves shown were graded prime and 41 per cent graded choice. This is the best gradings of any district ever held in Alabama. Thanks, to kids like Neal, livestock is looking up in our state.

In June, Neal, his parents and adviser, will be guests of The Birmingham News, Post-Herald and Radio Station WSGN at a barbecue for the winners. There will be special entertainment for the guests and the awards will be made then.

Graduation Exercises At Calera Sunday

The Baccalaureate sermon for the graduates at Calera High School will be delivered Sunday in the school Auditorium by Rev. John Smith, pastor of the Baptist Church in Tallapoosa, Georgia.

Local churches will join in the service in the school auditorium.

NO RUN-OFF IN CIRCUIT JUDGE'S RACE

There will be no run-off in the race for the Circuit Judgeship. Frank Head, who ran second in this race has issued a statement which is printed elsewhere in this issue of the Reporter-Democrat. Judge W. W. Wallace's terms expires January 15, 1953, at which time he will be succeeded by Circuit Solicitor Arthur L. Hardegree of Ashland.

Highway 31 To Be Improved At River

Governor Gordon Persons has announced that the state will improve two bad stretches of highway between Birmingham and Montgomery, on U. S. Highway 31.

Persons said bids will be taken May 16 on two projects, one a four-lane bridge over the Cahaba River at the Jefferson-Shelby County Line, to cost about $350,000. The other will be a widening operation at the highway entrance to Montgomery. The present four-lane drive into Montgomery will be extended one mile to the Oxmoor Road intersection at a cost of about $350,000.

Highway officials also plan completion of the 19th Street-Ensley overpass and its approaches at a cost of $1,700,000.

Thank You!

To The People Of Shelby County:

I take this opportunity to express my appreciation to friends and supporters who assisted me in my race as a candidate for Member of Board of Revenue and Control of Shelby County. I bear no ill will to those who did not see fit to vote for me, and I offer congratulations to Mr. Offie Stinson who won the race for this responsible position on our county's governing board.

Thanking each of you for your many courtesies extended me as I traveled over the county and assuring you I shall never forget your kindness to me, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

House or Home?

Lesson for May 18, 1952

ANYBODY with pencil and paper can count the number of houses on a street. Counting the homes is something else. Anybody can sell you or build you a house, any kind you can pay for; but no one can sell you a home. A house is a house the minute it is finished. A home never is finished, it goes on being built year after year.

Dr. Foreman

Edgar Guest said what everybody knows: "It takes a heap o' livin' to make a house a home.' A house begins to be a home when two people move in who love each other; but it is much more of a home after the grandchildren start coming back for visits.

A house may be running down while a home is growing better and better. Besides, a home does not necessarily have to have a house.

Does the Family Live There?

ALL of us would rather have a home than a house if we had to choose. Whatever we live in—a separate house, a "flat" or "duplex," an apartment, a trailer, or what not—it can become a home—IF.

A house becomes a home in the first place only if the family live there. If all they do is to come in when there is nowhere else to go; if they seldom see one another and then almost by accident; if the place is only a lunch-counter, a rooming-house, a place to be fed and to stay in when it rains; then it is no home, it is only a house.

Animals don't have homes; they have kennels, barns, styes, stables. They can have very expensive stables too, as you can find around the Bluegrass country. But no one has ever succeeded in making a home for horses because horses have no family life, they are quite content if the roof doesn't leak and if there is enough to eat and a clean place to lie down in.

People have minds and hearts and souls, and they can know comradeship and unity such as are completely beyond the reach of even the most intelligent of animals. Living is much more than existing; and it takes a heap of living, not just existing, to make a home.

Who Runs the Place?

A HOUSE is a home if it is well run. This does not refer to paying the bills, keeping up the repairs, keeping down waste in the kitchen and so forth. A house is a home only if it is in charge of those who have the most wisdom and can best bear responsibility.

The Bible comes to us from a time and place in history very different from ours; so that we are not wise if we take just any family in the Bible and use it as a model. Solomon had 700 wives and 300 minor wives or "concubines;" Abraham had at least three.

We have progressed (thanks to Christianity) past these things. But still the Bible does give us some indispensable guidance in this matter of the home. And one of the points you will find in both Old Testament and New is that the parents ought to have the place of authority in the home,—that is, they are expected to run it.

Some families aren't run by any one; they are pure anarchies, continual rumpus and riot. Some families are run by the children, which means they are run by those with least sense and experience. "Honor thy Father and thy Mother" also means, "Father and Mother, be honorable."

Are Children a Nuisance?

A HOUSE IS A HOME if children are expected, welcomed and loved. It is not a home if children are regarded either as nuisances, as items of expense, or perhaps shut out entirely.

Now there are true homes which are of necessity childless; but a house where children would not be welcome and where they are not loved, is no home.

The parents ought to be in charge, by all means. But they ought not to be tyrants, dictators. They run the home for the childrens benefit, which is quite a different thing from letting the children run it as they please. Eventually, if the parents are wise, they will send out into the world young people who have been taught to stand on their own feet. They will cut the apron-strings, they will train their children so that they will be capable of founding and living happily in homes of their own.

Quality Refreshment Costs So Little

When you raise a frosty bottle of Coca-Cola to your lips, you can be sure it is always delicious—always refreshing. You know you can trust its quality.

You may find you are paying a penny more for each bottle now. Due to rising costs, we have finally been forced to raise our wholesale price for the first time in our history since World War I when shortages caused a temporary increase.

Even so, the cost of quality in Coca-Cola is remarkably low. At work, at play, at home—where else can you get so much refreshment for so little than in ice-cold Coca-Cola?

National Guard Men Attend School

Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson, commanding the 657th Transportation Truck Company at Calera announced today that two members of his unit had returned from Camp Rucker, Alabama after attending Food Service School since March 15th. The two mem who completed the course were Cpl. Edgar L. Crowson and Cpl. Lynn D. Naish. These men are assigned to the 657th Transportation Truck Company as cooks.

Cpl. Joseph S. Childress, another member of his unit left last Friday for Camp Rucker to attend the Food Service School. He will be returned to his unit the last of August.

The Department of the Army is conducting schools of this type at all times for National Guardsmen. The men are carefully selected from National Guard units in Alabama and attend these schools upon their request and upon recommendation of their company commanders. No men are required to attend these schools unless they desire to do so.

Lt. Nickerson also said that several more men are being processed to attend a General Mechanic School at Fort Jackson, S. C., next month.

Men attending these service schools are paid Regular Army pay while they are there. When they have completed the course they are attending, they are returned to the unit to which they belong, to receive additional training at Armory drill which is held weekly.

The 657th Transportation Truck Company, which is located in the High School in Calera, Alabama holds it's weekly drills every Tuesday night at 7:00. Men who are interested in joining this unit can call at the headquarters from 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. Monday through Friday of every week. 1st. Sgt. James C. Martin and SFC Harvey T. Bagwell are on duty there and will be glad to discuss the possibilities offered by that unit.

To embroider initials or small designs on napkins, baste the stamped corners of four napkins together, edge to edge, and center the designs in an embroidery hoop. You can work all four corners this way, without changing hoop until ready to work the next four napkins.

Red Letter Day For Methodist Conference

It is expected that Sunday, May 18, will be a red-letter day in the history of the two Alabama Methodist Conferences. For some weeks a period of cultivation has been under way among all the Methodist churches in the state and in Western Florida in the interest of the Wesley Foundations at the University of Alabama and at Auburn.

The conferences voted to raise $500,000 for new buildings at these two student centers. Sunday, May 18, was designated by the Joint-Committee as Wesley Foundation Advance Day. Every Methodist Church throughout the Area is expected to have the campaign culminate on that Sunday.

Dr. Paul Hardin, Jr., Chairman of the Executive Committee, states that there is an increasing interest in the movement. Daily reports from various sections of the two conferences indicate that many pastors and churches are taking the matter seriously. It is expected that many churches will report their goals in full on Wesley Foundation Advance Sunday.

To The People Of The Eighteenth Judicial Circuit:

This is my announcement to you that I am withdrawing from the race for Circuit Judge. I wish to assure you that my aspiration is no less ardent than when this campaign began. The plain facts are that my opponent received approximately 45 per cent of the votes, while I received only 20 per cent. These odds seem almost insurmountable, and I am unwilling for a campaign of bitterness to be waged around the office of Circuit Judge such as would probably take place, should this campaign proceed further. To the many who registered their confidence in me, I am profoundly and humbly grateful.

My profession has meant a great deal more to me than any pecuniary remuneration which I may have received. In fact, the victories of which I am now proudest are those for which I received no such remuneration. To extend special favors from the bench to any individual or group because of past friendship, or from any personal motive, is to me most reprehensible. If such favors should ever be granted, they would be to the weak, never to the strong. With those who might entertain any other concept of judicial integrity, there could be no compromise.

We shall now have for our judge a gentleman whose integrity is unquestioned, but his responsibility will be great. It is especially incumbent upon the members of the bar to up-hold him, always, to the end that the confidence of the people in their court shall not be shaken. To this end I pledge my best efforts.

Sincerely,

FRANK HEAD

Bible Comment:

Judah's Unsteady Course Indicates Lack of Morality

JUDAH became the Southern Kingdom of Israel after the division of the country into the southern and northern kingdoms by Jeroboam's successful revolt against Rehoboam, son and successor of Solomon.

The strength of David and the glory of Solomon soon waned when a people who ought to have been united with a common heritage in history and religion became strife-torn and divided. In this history there is a warning for modern nations.

The freedom that our democratic lands accord in speech and action is being used by some to promote discord and draw lines of hate and prejudice, sometimes in the sacred name of Christ and Christianity.

Along that way so surely lies ruin that all who love God must set themselves to do everything possible to promote the national strength that can come only to a people united in justice and righteousness.

The Northern Kingdom, as we have seen, was the first to fall. It was swept away eight centuries before Christ when the armies of Assyria came down upon it. Its people became known to history as the "Lost Ten Tribes." The Southern Kingdom survived for another 136 years, but it also went down before the armies of Babylon.

There was an interlude during this 136 years when a good king, Hezekiah, and the noble prophet, Isaiah, were dominant in Judah. But at best, Judah's course was unsteady. Periods of better living, wise kingly guidance, and welfare were intermixed with periods of bad leadership and idolatry.

Hezekiah himself, though a good king, was by no means perfect. He did a foolish thing when he vainly displayed to envoys from the king of Babylon his wealth and the treasures of the palace. The prospect of loot, in ancient as in modern times, was a fruitful cause of war and invasion.

AH ME! 5-CENT COKE GIVES UP BATTLE AGAINST INFLATION

Is Nickel Doomed Like Buffalo?

The 5-cent Coke, symbol of the good old preinflation days, bowed off the stage Monday in southeast Texas. Like that "good nickel cigar," and other traditional Americana.

Beaumont Coco-Cola Bottling Company, with branches in Liberty, Jasper and Silsbee, announces this week an increase in the wholesale price of bottled Coca-Cola from 80 to 96 cents for a 24-bottle case, effective now.

"This probably will have the effect of increasing the retail price of Coca-Cola by 1 cent a bottle, making the retail price 6 cents where it has been 5 cents, and the price of the six-bottle carton 30 cents instead of 25," the Beaumont company said.

The same action is being taken by Port Arthur Coca-Cola Bottling company, serving Orange county and south Jefferson county.

R. Darden Armistead, manager of Beaumont Coca-Cola Bottling company, pointed out that except for a short period during the acute sugar shortage of World War I, this is the first price change in the history of the local Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

He said that "in spite of rising costs of materials and production," they had postponed the increase long after most other soft drink manufacturers had announced a raise. This postponement was done "in the hope production costs would stabilize, and that a price increase would be unnecessary." However, the company finds itself unable to postpone it any longer, the manager declared.

Mr. Armistead pointed out further this increase, the first in over 25 years, "is probably the smallest increase that has occurred in any food or household commodity over the same period."

"While it represents an increase of approximately 1 cent a bottle, compared to other things, Coca-Cola is still one of the lowest price values to the housewife," he maintained.

Mechanisms for coin vending machines to take a deposit of a nickel and a penny, instead of the usual 5 cents, will be made available as rapidly as possible, Mr. Armistead said. Only a brief time usually is required to accomplish this.

31 COUNTIES SELECT SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS

In the election primary of May 6, 31 counties selected the county superintendent of schools. In 10 counties there was no contest: Autauga, Dale, Chambers, Houston Jackson, Lamar, Lee, Limestone, Lowndes, and Winston.

In 8 counties the incumbents were defeated: Blount, G. E. Weaver defeated by C. B. Phillips; Elmore, J. R. Formby defeated by J. H. Nolen; Franklin, Victor H. Wood defeated by Grover Morrow; Henry, J. A. Roberts defeated by W. J. McLain; Lauderdale, W. H. Walker defeated by R. A. Thornton; Tallapoosa, J. A. Pruett defeated by W. W. Weldon. In Cleburne, where the incumbent, Noel Hand, was defeated, a run-off involves J. H. Newell and E. A. Parker. In Coffee, where K. J. Crook, the incumbent, was defeated, a run-off involves R. L. Farris and C. E. Peacock.

In 4 counties the incumbents will enter the run-off primary to retain their posts. The counties concerned are: Clay, M. G. Satterfield, incumbent, and B. B. Finley; Concuh, Harvey G. Pate, incumbent and G. S. Kelley; DeKalb, W. H. Hayes, incumbent, and John W. Honea; Lawrence, L. E. Moody, incumbent, and C. G. Horton.

In 9 counties the incumbents were re-elected: Cherokee, Frank R. Stewart; Clarke, Dayton Robinson, Coosa, H. L. Street; Etowah, J. O. Dickinson; Marengo, S. D. McKnight; Marion, Solon Gregg; Perry, L. G. Walker; Randolph, J. L. Lovvorn; and Washington, T. B. Pearson.

PASTOR SAYS THERE IS A NEED FOR A REVIVAL IN COUNTY

There is a need for a spiritual revival in our county. We Baptist are losing the things we have stood for. We have been an organized body for 100 years. We have 44 churches with 6571 members in the Shelby Baptist Association, yet we are not the influence which we should be.

The ideals of Christian integrity are forgotten on election day when our people receive barbecue and alcoholic beverages as an inducement to vote for public officials. Much liquor was given away in Wilsonville and other communities in Shelby county on May 6, 1952, as an effort to get people to vote for county and district officials.

I hope that our Christian people will not sell their birthright for a mess of pottage and a drink of booze in the coming runoff.

IN MEMORY OF GARY KEITH MARTIN

In sad but loving memory of our darling baby, Gary Keith, who departed to live with Jesus on March 21, 1952, being 17 months old.

There's a little snow white casket that is resting on the sand. There's a mothers jewel in it, Taken from her tender hand; Though the little form is silent, The spark of life has fled. Darling baby thou art sleeping, Little one thou art not dead. Loving hands that once caressed thee Laid sweet flowers upon thy breast, But the fairest flower was thy face, sweet baby dear.

Oh, this jewel, how we miss him! Miss the little smiling face, Miss the cooing happy laughter, yes we miss him in our peace.

Darling baby, Darling baby, though they've laid thy form away. loving hearts will not forget you, Precious little darling babe. Out on the hills of that wonderful country, happy, contented and free, you will be watching and waiting my coming, Heaven holds all to me. Sweet little darling, the light of the home, taken so early is beckoning us home: Safe with the angels, as pure as the dew, Anxiously looking Mother and Dad for you.

Mrs. T. E. Arnett

NOTICE TO TAX PAYERS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Equalization of Shelby county has completed its work of reviewing assessments for the tax year 1951-52 and any changes that the board may have made in assessed valuations may be observed from the books on file in the office of the Tax Assessor. Those who may be interested are requested to come by the assessor's office for further information.

No notice will be sent to any tax payer unless his valuation was raised by the Board of Equalization higher than the valuation of the previous year.

CITIZENS MAKE SUGGESTIONS FOR IMPROVEMENT

Several weeks ago we wrote that a town could be no stronger than the citizens would allow it to be. We also spoke of how much the city officials appreciated expressed interest in town improvement and beautification ideas from the citizens. Since that time two very worthwhile suggestions have been sent us, and we pass them on "to whom it may concern."

The first, I believe, comes under the supervision of the County Board of Revenue and Control. Here is the suggestion sent us. "I would like to suggest that a complete re-finishing job on the outside of the courthouse be undertaken. Repaint the aluminum domes, and place a flag on the pole and, above all do something about the appearance of this impressive marble structure which is one of the most beautiful courthouses in Alabama".... Tom Stinson.

(Now, this suggestion certainly warrants consideration, and we hope the proper authorities take it under advisement.)

Next suggestion, I believe concerns City Officials Attention .... "Why do we not do something about getting the Community Chimes ringing again? Everybody enjoyed hearing them...."

Perhaps some civic organization can take this matter up, and various organizations, be responsible for keeping the music ringing out. "At close of Day".... and on Sunday morning and evening. It only takes a little time for one person to turn the table, put on the record, and give a lot of folk pleasure. Let us hear from some public spirited somebody, who is willing to undertake this assignment.

Next.... "What about the Cemetery Clean Up before the weeds get started?" We know of no one more interested, nor one who does more to keep this City of the Silent Sleepers project alive, than Mrs. Eula Carter, who spends much of her time setting out flowers and personally attending to the Carter plot in the Cemetery.

Here is one from a fellow who can't get anybody to cut the lawn. "If I were a youngster in this town and wanted to make some money this summer, I would immediately invest in a Lawn Mower and hire myself and the lawn mower out for so much an hour, which would soon pay for the Mower, and the rest would be clear profit for the owner."

We'll say Amen, to that scheme!

The appearance of a town certainly plays an important part in creating favorable or unfavorable impressions, and now is the time for all home-owners, to get busy on their individual property and beautify the grounds, paint and fix up wherever and whenever possible, for tourists continue driving thru and who knows, if we looked all "spic and span".... they might decide to remain with us permanently. Saw a fellow last week looking for a "place to settle".... away from the hustle and bustle of the "big town."

. . . The Harrison's from Montevallo have opened a new Jewelry Shop in Columbiana. It is located in the Cafe formerly operated by Marie Johnston.

. . . The A. A. Lauderdale home in Columbiana was the scene of a happy family gathering last Sunday, when Mr. and Mrs. Lauderdale and Mrs. Gilmore entertained Dr. Pritchett, Miss Daisie Currie of Montgomery, Harry Gilmore of Marion Junction and Miss Onie Pritchett of Fla.

Mrs. Gilmore, one of the town's most loved personalities will celebrate the passing of her 90th birthday anniversary on May 25, and friends will join her family in extending best wishes for continued health, and happiness thru many more years to be.

. . . Mrs. George Barrow, Janet and Susan Barrow came up from Florida to brighten "Mother's Day" in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Curlee.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Garrett entertained 18 members of their family last Sunday with a delectable Buffet Luncheon honoring the occasion that brought so many folk back home, Mother's Day! A day filled with thoughtful remembrances and expressions. Unforgettable!

. . . Mr. Smith of Montevallo is the newly elected Principal of the Elementary School and was in town Saturday looking for a place to live. We hear today the Smith's have rented an apartment from Luther Curlee.

. . . Beth Wallace Yates and Mrs. Tom Lane, Chairman of the Sylacauga Park and Recreation Board met with the members of the Columbiana Park and Recreation Board Tuesday afternoon and made plans for the coming summer season. Interesting things are on the agenda for summertime. Watch for further announcements.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tinney had as their guests on Mother's Day, Mrs. Tinney's father, Mr. J. E. Johns, her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Johns, Mrs. J. H. Hoyle, Miss Elizabeth Hoyle of Montgomery; her daughter Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Grelier and their 2 boys from Birmingham.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lee, Sr., of Lindsay, Oklahoma, visited in the home of Judge and Mrs. L. B. Riddle. Judge and Mrs. Riddle acompanied them on a vacation trip to Daytona Beach, Florida, where a most pleasant week was enjoyed on the Coast. Miss Ellen Elkins of Lindsay, also accompanied them. They had the pleasure of hearing both Senators Kefauver and Russell, candidates for President of the United States, speak while in Daytona.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Lefkovits will leave Sunday for a vacation at Ft. Walton.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Crabtree, LeAnne and David Crabtree of Goodlettsville, Tennessee were guests of Mrs. Crabtree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Stinson during the past week end.

MRS. EDMUND EWING TO RESIDE IN COLUMBIANA

Here is good news to friends of Mrs. Edmund Ewing's, who, occasionally, have the pleasure of welcoming her in Columbiana, when she comes from the University of Alabama to spend a short time with her brother, Luther Fowler, and Mrs. Fowler. Now, this charming personality has, for several years, been one of the most popular "House-Mothers" on the campus of the University of Alabama, but, we learn this morning that she will come to Columbiana in June, and will be associated with the Gordon-White Real Estate & Insurance Company. Mrs. Ewing is no novice in the insurance business. She was, for a number of years, engaged in the insurance business in Birmingham. Mrs. Ewing will certainly be a valuable addition to this well known firm. But, in addition to the attractive commercial side of it, we happily join other friends in extending this gracious lady a cordial welcome to "Your Little Old Main Street And Mine," and hope she likes us well enough to remain with us from now on out!

SALLIE SUE ROBERTS

"Mother's Day," 1952, will always hold two very good reasons for supreme happiness in the annual observance in the H. M. Roberts home, for on this day, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Roberts had the pleasure of announcing the arrival of a little "dream-come-true" in the dainty personage of Sallie Sue Roberts who was born Sunday, May 11th, in Sylacauga Hospital. Sallie Sue is named for the late Sallie Roberts Elliott and Mrs. T. K. Roberts, better known as "Miss Sue".... and if little Sallie Sue lives up to the example these treasured ones have given this world, she will indeed be numbered among the most distinguished and widely beloved citizens in Alabama.

We met Harry Mims Roberts this morning, leaving the P. O. on his Rural Route, he was, by far, the happiest fellow we have seen in a long time. So, congratulations are in order from their host of friends in Columbiana and the welcome mat is out, just waiting for "Lady Roberts" and Sallie Sue to return home and receive our tribute of love and good wishes.

. . . Friends whom we had the pleasure of greeting during the past week end included: Mr. and Mrs. Perry McCormack (Dottie Carter), Mr. and Mrs. G. R. McNeill and handsome young son, G. R. Jr., Mrs. Aubrey Peyton of Birmingham; Mrs. Charles Allen, who was the guest of her father, Lloyd Cole, Sunday, also Denton Cole from Auburn, Ann Hatchett from A. P. I.; Bake Elliott, Barbara Horn from University, and many other visitors who had returned home to observe "Mother's Day" with their parents. Sunday, was truly a memorable occasion, not only for all "Mommies," but for the happiness always enjoyed when "old friends" meet again and paths long divided by miles, again cross, and golden days are retraced bringing tender memories that can not ever fade from our hearts.

. . . Carolyn Evans came by the office today and tells us she is thinking of spending the summer months in Mississippi with friends and relatves. We hope if she does decide to go, that some of the time will be spent in the study of Voice. Personally, I know of no one thing more satisfying than part-time study and part-time play, and at all timesMusic.

LADIES CHORUS CALLED OFF DURING SUMMER

The Ladies Chorus has called off lessons thru the summer months. They will re-organize this Fall and exact date will be announced when plans are perfected for study during the winter semesters.

. . . Hugh Shaw, alert A. B. C. investigator, took "time out" from his active duties long enough Monday to add his name to an ever widening list of interested people in Shelby county who welcome the "Home Paper" each week, for which courtesy we say, "Thanks a million."

. . . From Niles, Michigan comes the following treasured recognition of the Home Paper. "I enclose $2.00 for renewal subscription. The paper is truly 'just like a letter from home' and I look forward to its arrival every Friday, feeling, after reading it as if I had revisited my old home town" etc.... (Mrs. G. F. Thompson, Niles Rt, Michigan).

(Many former friends and classmates of Erma Elliott will be glad to learn that she keeps up with them thru these pages each week, and we were delighted to hear from her and to know she will continue following thru.... each week. Thanks Lady!)

. . . I have heard nothing but favorable comments on the Vignette Dance which was held last Friday evening at the High School. With such a congenial group, and that super-duper orchestra Lewis Simpkins always has, that evening just had to be a success.

LEARN ABOUT POLIO

Many serious effects of polio and much needless worry may be avoided by the knowledge of and use of some basic precautions for polio season.

These basic precautions are being given in the form of a leaflet entitled "Polio Pledge" to every school child in Shelby county this week. This distribution has the endorsement of Mr. W. W. Elliott, County Superintendent of Education, and Dr. E. F. Sloan, County Health Officer, as well as State and National health and education authorities.

Precautions listed in the pledge are simple summaries of the "do's" and "don'ts" compiled from the latest scientific and medical knowledge of the disease.

Each child and parent is urged to read and keep the pledge. Additional material on polio can be secured by interested people through the Shelby County Chapter of the Foundation For Infantile Paralysis.

Distribution of the pledge is being handled by the principal of the public schools of Shelby county.

SHE CAN DRAW 'EM—With understandable pride, Mrs. Doris Gregor, a graduate of Boeing Aircraft's drafting school in Seattle, views the section of a modified B-50 bomber which contains a part she drew on her drafting board. In eight-week courses, the company's school has turned out 271 students, 25 per cent of them women.

A. W. STUMPF, JR.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stumpf (Louise Holman) will be sending congratulations when they learn of the arrival of Andrew William Stumpf, Jr., who was born in Birmingham on May 6, 1952.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA MEETS

The Alpha Nu Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society held its last meeting of the school year on Saturday, May 3, at the beautiful estate of Dr. E. H. Hargis. A delicious picnic lunch was enjoyed by seventeen members at noon. The program and business meeting was held on the spacious screened porch overlooking the lake.

A playlet, Women Educators Accept the Challenge, was given by the following members: Misses Bernice Dilworth, Minnie Dunn, Anita King, Nona Sparks, and Mrs. Winona Brooks.

Officers for the new year are: President, Nona Sparks, 1st. Vice President, Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, 2nd Vice President, Myrtle Brown, Recording Secretary, Mrs. W. Brooks, Corresponding Secretary, Beautrice Kunstler, Treasurer, Lavada Harper. The two new members who were welcomed into the group were: Mrs. Rebecca McGaughy, and Miss Vinnie Lee Walker.

'MISS MARY' RECEIVES WELCOME FROM S. C. H. S. STUDENTS

"Oh-h-h!" "How wonderful!" "Have you seen her?" "Whee-e-e! Its just like old times!" If you were around any of the students of Shelby County High School last Tuesday, May 6, you would have heard the above remarks. We students of the Senior High School were "all smiles," because a lady very dear to our hearts had come once again to see us, Miss Mary Peters. We felt indeed honored to have her in our school for just a visit. We know, as I feel, do all the alumni of Shelby High, that Miss Mary has been an inspiration to everyone who has had the privilege of being in her classes and under her wonderful love and splendid guidance. We have had some wonderful English teachers since Miss Mary retired but we know we shall never be fortunate enough to gain another like her, but there is a real good reason for this, there just isn't anyone and there never shall be like our own "Miss Mary."

The members of the Senior Class are looking forward to seeing her once again at our commencement Exercises May 18 and 19.

PRESIDENTIAL PREFERENTIAL

Have you seen a copy of "Election Special" published by Shelby County High School American Problems Class? This booklet contains information every voter should have, and we offer congratulations to those responsible for its publication. The views of potent presidential candidates — Taft, Kerr, Warren, Ike, Stassen, Russell, Stevenson, and Kefauver are included. This class has done much research work and letter writing to obtain direct expressions from these men, one of whom definitely will be the next president of the U. S. A.

Following thru with this project, these students have made arrangements to obtain a Voting Machine which will be placed in the School House on some future date to be announced, at which time, students will go thru the entire voting procedure, from properly qualifying to casting their ballots. This project has been sponsored by Mrs. W. Y. Johnson, and she is to be commended on so keen visioned a movement.

. . . One of the happiest family reunions we have heard about during the past week end was in the home of Mrs. Fay Miles Benton when all her children and grand children were present to honor "Her Day." They included: Mr. and Mrs. John Benton and family of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Benton of Gadsden; and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Roberts and family of Columbiana, and Charles Benton of Birmingham.

. . . Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunt and Harry Hunt are spending a two weeks vacation in Indiana.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Young are vacationing in Camp Lee, Virginia, as the guests of their son, Lt. Joe Young and Mrs. Young.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. James Bohanon and Jenny Kay are spending several days vacationing on the Gulf Coast.

CONGRATULATIONS TO SGT. JAMES F. DUKE

From the Commanding Officer of 199th Engr. Bn., Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, comes the following regarding one of Shelby County's finest representatives in the U. S. Army, namely, Sgt. James F. Duke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Duke. We quote: "It is the desire of the undersigned to commend Sgt. F. Duke, a member of your unit, for the efficient manner in which he operated the battalion consolidated mess while the battalion was participating in flood control duty.

"Sgt. Duke organized the consolidated mess into a highly efficient unit under adverse conditions. He was untiring in his efforts to better the mess, and gave unselfishly of his time to this cause. His attention to duty, his loyalty, and his aggressiveness reflect nothing but credit on his unit.

"It is directed that Sgt. Duke be apprized of this commendation, and a copy of this communication be made an integral part of his 201 file."

Signed: Joe R. Fuller
Captain CE Commanding

Friends join the writer in extending congratulations. We know Sgt. Duke has merited this recognition!

. . . Measles continue making little folk miserable. Several of our favorite tiny tots are housed in the Land of Counterpane this week, watching the other kiddies play, thru the window pane.

. . . Friends of Bob Kaplan's are delighted to learn he is "home again" and resting comfortably at home in Columbiana. Hope soon, Bib will be able to return "downtown" and make Old Main a happier street on which to spend the work-a-day hours.

VETERAN,S COLUMN

E. J. SULLIVAN, VSO

There has not been a GI Bill passed by Congress for the benefit of the Korean Veterans, but there will be one sometime soon since the Veterans Affairs committee of the House is definitely in favor of passing certain benefits for Korean Veterans, but they haven't been able to agree on just what should be provided to them. At one time, it seemed that these veterans would not get Unemployment allowances such as was received by World War Two veterans. However, the picture seems to be changing a little, and Korean veterans may get those "52-20" benefits after all.

COMBAT PAY — A bill has been approved by the Senate which makes thousands of discharged Korean Veterans who served under fire, eligible for a Retroactive Monthly Combat Bonus. However, there seems to be such a bitter fight shaping up between the Senate and House, that all combat bonus provisions might be wiped out, and only pay increases for enlisted men and officers allowed. The House bill, which was approved in January, provided for a flat 10 per cent increase in pay and allowance for military personnel. The Senate came along and cut the pay increase to 3 per cent and provided for various increases in quarter and subsistence allowances. The Senate rejected the amendment which would have given officers $100 and GIs $50 for each month of combat.

Two Federal Employment Advantages. The Senate has passed a bill which would take away from veterans, two Federal employment advantages they now enjoy. This proposed law would remove a veterans lawful right to use the 5 per cent point preference to attain a passing grade in examinations and withdraw the veteran's right to 10 point preference unless he is a VA Compensable disability.

FORMER PRISONERS OF WAR — Former Prisoners of War can draw that extra $1.50 for the days that they spent in the hands of the enemy, if you were forced to do labor, or if you suffered INHUMANE treatment. Both the House and Senate passed the bill authorizing the additional pay, which will amount to about $537 for each eligible former prisoner of war. Claims must be reached by the Claims Commission by April 9, 1953. If you are a former prisoner of war, come by the office of the Department Of Veterans Affairs and we shall be glad to help you file the proper papers without cost.

ALABAMA FORESTS

State Forester Jake Stauffer says that Alabama forests last year brought in an income of $450,000,000.

He added that forest and forest products alone provided gainful employment during 1951 for approximately 75,000 Alabamians. From the standpoint of lumber production, Alabama is the leading state in the South. Alabama tree-farmers annually are paid close to $30,000,000 for their raw timber.

HUSBAND'S NIGHT ENJOYED

In observation of National Home Demonstration Club Week, members of the Pelham-Keystone club enjoyed Family Night with emphasis on husbands, April 26 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. McCoy. A huge bonfire provided outdoor pleasure for roasting weiners for the hot dogs. A horseshoe pitching tournament proved George Bentley and Don Busby an unbeatable combination. The ladies enjoyed their session of "Gossip Swapping" while the youngsters participated in rope skipping and games of their own choosing. The men are urging more such outings.

Those enjoying this affair included, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stubbs, Elaine and Martha Ann Stubbs, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Elliott, Barbara and Linda Elliott, Mrs. John Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hodges and son Brad, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Cumberland, Billy, Nancy, and Jane Cumberland, Mr. and Mrs. Kenith Cooper and Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Grady King and Elaine, Mr. and Mrs. Robert oPwers and Ida Eleanor, Mr. and Mrs. George Bentley, Mynna Eddie and Roger Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Don Busby, Jerry and Johnny Busby, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones, Raymond and Patsy Jones, Mrs. Zora Dunaway, Mittye Dunaway, Rev. Willard Jones and son Garry, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pool, Mr. and Mrs. John Pool, Margaret of Comden, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pool, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. McCoy, Betty and Richard McCoy.

FAMILY WEEK OBSERVED

The South Calera and Minooka Demonstration Club met together Saturday evening, May 3rd to celebrate "Family Week," at the J. T. Underwood place on highway 31.

Quite a number of families enjoyed this get together, dressed in fancy dresses, tacky costumes etc.

Prizes were given to the tackiest dressed person, the prettiest and the ugliest. Games for young and old were played. Refreshments were served to about 40 persons, and from all indications every one present had a most joyous evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Underwood offered their store building as a community center until the time they may want it for business.

This gracious hospitality is deeply appreciated by the clubs and young people.

A CARD OF APPRECIATION

To The Voters Of The 18th Judicial Circuit:

I wish to express to you my deep appreciation for the ballot cast for me on May 6th, 1952, in my candidacy for Circuit Judge. To those of you who voted for me, I am most grateful. To those of you who voted for my opponents, I hold no ill-will, for it is one of the great principles of our democracy to be able to cast our ballot for the candidate of our choice.

Sincerely,

A. L. HARDEGREE

CUTTING WIDTH IS ONLY THE BEGINNING

The Dearborn-Wood Bros. Combine Has Extra Capacity Throughout

Too often combine size is judged by width of cut. Actually, if the rest of the machine lags, cutting width means little.

Capacity PLUS—With the 6-foot Dearborn-Wood Bros. Combine you cover acreage and get clean grain fast! That's because there's balanced design in cutting, threshing, cleaning and separating. And the big walker-type straw rack keeps straw moving in a rapid, steady flow. Why not find out more about the Dearborn-Wood Bros. Combine soon?

4-H NEWS

CHELSEA 4-H GIRLS CLUB NEWS

The Chelsea Elementary and Junior High 4-H Club had a joint meeting Friday, May 9th.

Miss Boysworth gave a demonstration on making peach jam. She used colored slides to illustrate the steps.

Officers for 1952-53 were elected. The junior high officers elected were:

4-H GIRLS THANK LEADERS

We, the girls of Wilsonville 4-H are expressing our thanks for the cooperation of the leaders of the past year, who have worked their duties as they should. They are:

President, Jimmie Lou Bishop; Vice President, Dorothy Rogers; Secretary and Treasurer, Jorene Andrews; Reporter, Shirley Beavers; Song Leaders, Eva Bishop and Ruth Watson.

Our Club had 36 members on roll and all the members worked well with their projects as well as club activities. Next year we know we will have a club just as good or better. For we have the following officers, who are willing to cooperate:

President, Freida Jane Barnes; Vice President, Dorothy Rogers; Secretary and Treasurer, Margaret Mitchell; Reporter, Jimmie Lou Bishop; Song Leaders Eva Bishop and Yvonne Stephenson.

We also have enjoyed working with our teacher sponsor, Mrs. Bertha Cosper. She has been willing and cooperative, and has helped us very much with our problems.

Everyone has also enjoyed working with Miss Boysworth and Miss Cotney. We are looking forward to meeting with them next fall at regular monthly meetings.

Home Towners Make Marbles for Defense

PARKERSBURG, W. Va.—Home town workers here are turning out 7,136,040 marbles a week, enough for all of the lads in the land, but these taws are not being produced for play. They are going into military products.

The manufacture of the marbles is the first step in producing fiber glass at the new plant of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, which is working on military contracts. After the transparent little globes are inspected carefully for quality, they are subjected to 3000 degrees of heat and drawn into filaments that are too fine to be seen by the naked eye.

Each marble yields about 42 miles of filament. With plant production running about 1,019,520 marbles a day, that's a total of 43,227,684 miles of gossamer glass for textile yarn turned out each 24 hours. It's enough to reach to Mars with several million miles to spare.

Although the Parkersburg workers are making their first fiber glass, many of them previously had experience in making glass, having been employed in the L-O-F Vitrolite plant which formerly occupied the site of the new factory.

AN APOLOGY TO OFFIE STINSON

I call your atention to Offie Stinson's message to the voters of Shelby county in the current issue of the Reporter-Democrat. This message should have appeared in last week's issue, but in the last minute rush was over-looked until too late for it to be included. Mr. Stinson made a most creditable race for the position of Member of the Board of Revenue and Control. He ran second in popular votes to Solon E. McGraw of Vincent, who led the ticket in his race for Member of Board of Education. Mr. McGraw received, according to official tabulation, 2007. Mr. Stinson received 1916 in his race for the retention of his official post with the Board of Revenue and Control. Judge L. C. Walker, in his race for the Probate Judgeship was high in the total tabulation and received 1646 votes of approval.

SHELBY ROAD NOW BEING BLACK-TOPPED

Black-topping on the Shelby Road is progressing at a rapid clip. Soon another shining example of the efficiency under which the highways are being maintained and improved throughout Shelby county will be too obvious for argument to the contrary.

DR. CARMICHAEL TO SPEAK AT ALABAMA COLLEGE

Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, former president of Alabama College, now president of the Carnegie Corporation for the Advancement of Teachers and executive associate of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, will return to Montevallo June 2 to deliver the Commencement addres at eleven o'clock A. M. in Palmer Auditorium.

OVERHEARD ON THE CURBSTONE

Said the minister: "Why, Brother, you have much to be grateful for. Providence cares for us all. Even the birds of the air are fed every day."

"Yeah," growled the farmer, "off my corn."

ABSENTEE BALLOTS

The Absentee Ballots for the June 3 Primary Election have been received and early indications are that an even lighter vote will be cast in June than was recorded on May 6. Lack of interest in our democratic elections may osmeday be the cause of our losing the "right of individual expression at the polls." It is, not only a privilege to be able to vote, it is an obligation every citizen, who is qualfied, should faithfully and conscientiously discharge.

The ballot is short, and yet very important to all citizens. The highest office in the county is to be decided, namely the Probate Judgeship, and one member of the Court of Appeals. In the first named race, L. C. Walker, incumbent, is opposed by Owen Bridges. In the state race, Lola Price, an appointee of James E. Folsom is being challenged by George Johnson, prominent attorney of Athens. Be sure and go to your polling places and cast your vote for the one whom you believe best qualified to fill these important public offices.

HERE'S A TIP TO CONSIDER

Some weks ago a loyal subscriber came by our office and remarked that Coca-Cola, a penny box of matches and the Reporter-Democrat were the only "commodities" that had not raised their prices. You may now eliminate Coca-Cola from the trio, for last week this "pause that refreshes" went up to six little pennies. Better send in that subscription while yet there is time, before we, too, are forced to follow the lead of practcally every newspaper in Alabama, and raise the price per year.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS

According to Mrs. Pauline Bird, Register of the Circuit Court, as we go to press, there have been 116 ballots cast for the Primary Election which will be held June 3, 1952.

Congressman Selden Plans To Visit Whole District Very Soon

Greensboro, Ala — Armistead I. Selden, Jr., 31-year-old Greensboro legislator who was recently nominated for Congress by the Democrats o fthe Sixth District, announced this week that he had plans to visit every county in the district during the next few months.

"I expect to see as many people as physically possible during this period, and to discuss with them their problems and their views on legislation.

"In the meantime, I want to thank them all for the wonderful support they gave me in my race. I am both grateful and humble, and I can assure you all that I will do the best job within my ability as your congressman."

The official count, as announced by the State Democratic Executive Committee, showed Selden's majority to be 740 votes.

Decline In April Welfare Payments

Assistance payments by the State Welfare Department were made to 1,018 fewer cases in April than in March, Welfare Commissioner Bill Dorrough reported recently .

In April, Dorrough said 103,276 cases received assistance compared to 104,294 in March.

Stricter requirements for aid to dependent children were cited by the commissioner as one of the reasons for the drop in the case load. They were put into effect in April.

"We continue also to feel the effects of other new laws and policies," Dorrough said, stating that the relatives responsibility law caused the greatest number of cases to be closd durng the month.

During April, the commissioner continued, the 103,276 cases received a total of $2,482,316, a drop of $11,490 from the total of the previous month.

Average assistance payment last month was $24.04, up 13 cents from March, Dorrough said.

DECEMBER FEDERAL SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS NUMBER 936 IN COUNTY

Checks for insurance payments under Federal Social Security went to 936 aged persons, children and their widowed mothers in Shelby county for December, 1951. Today the figures are slightly larger.

In releasing these figures today, Jack Adamson, Field Representative of the Birmingham Social Security office, also said that these monthly payments under the old-age and survivors insurance program amounted to $25,141 in this county. "Without these payments earned by workers under this contributory system, the ability of many people to pay for necessities would have been drastically curtailed or entirely ended," he said.

More than one-third of all people over 65 in the United States who could not count on income from work for support, were getting social security insurance benefits. About 569 persons over age 65 in Shelby county were receiving these payments.

Mr. Adamson pointed out that this Federal program is affording substantial survivor insurance protection. Three out of every four mothers and young children in the nation are now assured of monthly payments if the insured breadwinner of the family dies.

In this connection, he cited monthly payments totaling $7,973 to 296 children and 71 widowed mothers in Shelby county. These monthly payments are going to families deprived of earned income by the untimely death of the wage earner. They are making it possible to keep families together, and keep children in school, and, at the same time, lessening the drain of both public and private welfare funds, he declared.

Mr. Adamson added that he is at the Employment Office in Calera the first and third Thursdays in each month at 9:30 a. m. to assist the public in social security matters .

VINCENT GARDEN CLUB SPONSORS FLOWER ARRANGEMENT ARTIST

Members of the Vincent Garden Club are promoting a program on May 23, in which centers wide spread interest, especially among the Shelby County Garden Club members and lovers of flowers. This club will present widely known, Mrs. John M. Strange of Birmingham, in a lecture-demonstration on Floral Arrangements in the School Auditorium, in Vincent, on the afternoon of May 23, beginning at 3:30.

In addition to the interesting lecture Mrs. Strange will demonstrate 20 different arrangements of flowers for various occassions. She will be assisted by Mrs. John G. McReynolds.

The price of admission is $1.00 and members of the Vincent Club extend a cordial invitation to other clubs in the county to share with them this afternoon featuring artistic arrangements of flowers for the home and for festive occasions.

REV. H. B. RAMSOUR, JR.

REV. H. B. RAMSOUR JR. TO SPEAK AT BETHEL CHURCH

The Rev. H. B. Ramsour, Jr., of Hilo, Hawaii, is a foreign missionary from the Southern Baptist Conventon, who has been in this field of service since 1939. He will speak in his father's church, Bethel Baptist, next Sunday morning and evening.

Mr. Ramsour possesses a pleasing personality and is an interesting conversationalist. He is a native of Brownwood, Texas, however, his work in the foreign mission field has taken him to many parts of the world. He has spent one and a half years in Japan, and was stationed in Argentina for four years. At the present time he is residing in Hilo, Hawaii, and says he finds the country delightful, with much work to be done, but he "enjoys it."

Judging from our very brief interview with this young gentleman, we know that Shelby countians who live near Bethel church have in store for them next Sunday, something very special and feel sure a large assemblage will greet Mr. Ramsour as he speaks on this occasion.

LADIES NIGHT TO BE OBSERVED BY KIWANIANS THURSDAY

The annual event, known as "Ladies Night" will be observed by the Kiwanis Club in Columbiana and this will be a District meeting in which all clubs in this district will be represented. James L. Brakefield, prominent author and teacher, will be presented as the guest speaker. The program has been arranged by Alvin Stinson and his committee.

HENRY L. NICHOLS, JR. TO BE COMMISSIONED

Raleigh, N. C.: Cadet Captain Henry L. Nichols, Jr., of Columbiana will complete the requirements for a commission as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force Reserve at the end of the current academic year and will receive his commission upon graduation from North Carolina State College.

This announcement was made by Colonel W. J. Jowdy, professor of air science and tactics at North Carolina State College.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Nichols of Columbiana and is enrolled in Architecture at State College. He expects to graduate in June, 1953.

4-H Club Featured In New Hope Program

The people of New Hope Community enjoyed a rare treat Sunday evening, when the youngsters of the 4-H Club presented a colorful program at the New Hope Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. R. H. Bailey, an Adult Leader, arranged the program which included the pledge to the American Flag; the pledge to the Christian Flag and the 4-H pledge.

Freddie Bishop was program leader and extended a welcome to the parents and friends. The topics of loyalty, clear thinking and service were discussed by the youngsters, and solos and duets were also enjoyed.

Mrs. Bailey gave a brief review on the activities of the local members for the year.

With their attractive insignas and emblems, these youngsters made a colorful picture, and this together with their outstanding accomplishments, make them a group which is the pride of the community.

Waxahatchie Creek Below Shelby To Get New Bridge

Announcement was made Monday by Guerry Pruett, State Highway Director, that plans have been made for building a bridge on the Columbiana-Clanton road, over Waxahatchie creek, at the Shelby-Chilton line. The project has been programmed and a survey will be made at an ealy date.

This should mean, it is hoped, that some day soon the paved highway now being built from Columbiana to a short distance below Shelby will be extended to the Chilton county line.

Other projects to be undertaken in Shelby county, as announced by Mr. Pruett, include, 4-lane paving on U. S. 31 from Acton to Cahaba river bridge. Overpass and approaches on U. S. Highway 31 over L & N Railroad, north of Calera. This work is under construction.

On Monday the Highway Department let a contract for building a 4-lane bridge over Cahaba river to G. W. Norrell Company of Georgiana, for $248,658.

Another project that has been planned, on which work will begin at an early date is grading, drainage and paving on Highway 31 between Saginaw and Pelham.

In Jefferson county a four-lane highway with bridges will be built from the Cahaba river north to present 4-lane pavement south of Homewood.

Grading, draining, and 4-lane pavement on Highway 31 in Homewood from Shades-Cahaba school, south to the present 4-lane pavement.

All thes improvements will be paid for from the $25,000,000 bond issue recently voted by the people of Alabama. The money from the bond issue will be matched by the Federal Government, providing a total of $50,000,000, for highway improvement in Alabama. To date about $40,000,000 has been alloted to 58 of the state's 67 counties.

Survey Being Made For New Road Over Dunnavant Mountain

The County Highway Department is engaged in surveying the route for a new highway over the Dunnavant mountain toward Leeds, according to J. W. Watson of Vandiver who was in Columbiana Wednesday. The surveying crew, Mr. Watson said, had already reached Vandiver. When it is completed this will be one of the important highways of the county system, providing a new outlet to Leeds and Birmingham for the whole northeastern section of the county.

F. H. A. And F. F. A. Entertain Parents

The Columbiana Chapter of F. H. A. and F. F. A. entertained their parents, April 30th with a Chicken Fry, on the Shelby County High School Athletic Field. Fred Wood the F. F. A. President was Master of ceremonies and Jane Morris the President of the F. H. A. gave the welcome. The Rev. O. M. Moore, father of an F. H. A. member, gave the invocation.

After all had eaten, Carlos Moorer introduced each person. Later, Mary Ann Dorough led the group in singing and playing games.

Honorary membership was conferred upon the following people with a short initiation: Dr. Sam Shafferman, Mr. L. F. Rogers, Mr. George Starcher for the F. F. A. Mrs. James Crawford, Mrs. Homer Walton, Mrs. G. C. Moore and Mrs. Oakley Vincent for the F. H. A.

Approximately 260 people were present for this occasion including many of the parents, teachers, F. F. A. and F. H. A. Hoonrary members and F. H. A. and F. F. A. members, and Related Agricultural and Home Economics Agencies.

Eggs with clean shells keep best. Wipe off soiled spots with a damp cloth, but dont wash eggs until just before you use them. When eggs are first laid, the shells have a film known as the "bloom" which seals the pores and keeps out bacteria and odors. Washing removes this protective film.

LEARN TO BAKE BETTER CAKES THE H. D .C.

"What a marvelous cake" will be heard at all turns after the June Home Demonstration Club meetings.

27 Leaders from 18 clubs learned tricks to better cake baking from Miss Mary Hulsey, Extension Foods Specialist, Friday. She emphasized the importance of accurate level measurements in standard measuring equipment, an accurate pre-heated oven at room temperature, good ingredients, and right size pan.

Leaders who attended this Training Meetng and will give the demonstration were: Mrs. J. W. Willis, Mrs. H. P. Cox, Saginaw; Mrs. Ferman Albright, Ebenezer; Mrs. Irval Arnold, Mrs. Farris Oldham, Acton; Mrs. M. P. King, Mrs. W. W. Stillwell, Klein; Mrs. O. F. Lokey, Wilsonville; Mrs. P. G. Sailors, Mrs. Joe Hodges, Pelham-Keystone; Mrs. C. T. McGuire, Mrs. L. S. Bailey, Little Cahaba; Mrs. Douglas Kent, Siluria; Mrs. C. C. Miller, Wright; Mrs. O. M. Perry, Mrs. B. M. Morris, Bethel; Mrs. William Good, Mrs. Robert Ingram, Spring Creek-Valley Grove; Mrs. Charles Cordes, West Calera; Mrs. Era Nelson, Mrs. Bob Lacey, Helena; Mrs. C. W. Champion, Mrs. Mavis Tennyson, Sewell Hill; Mrs. B. H. Green, Westover; Mrs. E. C. Dupree, Fourmile; Mrs. Frank Baker, Dargin; Mrs. Carlos Warren, Calera.

Keep an ironing board and iron set up while sewing and press each item as it is finished. This produces neater, more tailored results, and makes the final pressing a simple matter.

In washing your linoleum use soap and warm water sparingly. If any water gets under the linoleum, it will tend to rot it.

STUDENTS STUDY U. S. POLITICAL PROBLEM

The American Problems Class of the Shelby County High School, under the guidance of Mrs. W. Y. Johnson, recently made a study of several of the Presidential propects who have been in the news. They examined their announced platforms and statements concerning their views on problems confronting the American public today.

From their study the class published a booklet giving the results of the survey. It is printed below. It is not guaranteed to be perfect but the students made a very earnest effort to secure accurate information from the headquarters of the several candidates and from other sources. You are invited to read this information.

Introduction

You, as a voter, have not had the chance to express your selection for a presidential candidate.

The American Problems Class is conducting a Presidential Preferential Primary Poll, at a near date to give you this chance.

This booklet is published to help you in your selection of a candidate.

We hope you will cooperate with us in this project.

Voting Requirements In Alabama

There are two kinds of requirements for voting, called absolute and alternative. A voter must satisfy all of the absolute requirements, in addition, he must satisfy any one of the alternative requirements.

ABSOLUTE REQUIREMENTS

A voter must:

1. Be a citizen of the United States.

2. Where are the national conventions to be held? Ans. Chicago.
3. How is Alabama represented at each convention? Ans. By delegates.
4. Who pays the expense of the delegates to the conventions? Ans. Delegates pay own expenses.
5. How are these delegates chosen? Ans. The Democratic delegates are chosen at a primary; the Republican delegates by the State Republican Convention.
6. By what vote is a candidate nominated at the national convention? Ans. A simple majority.
7. Does Alabama hold a Presidential Preferential Primary? Ans. No.
8. What kind of ballot is used in Alabama and through the U. U. S.? Ans. Australian-secret.
9. Why is a closed primary unlike an open primary? Ans. You must state your party preference in a closed primary.
10. How is a president elected? Ans. By electors.
11. How many electors make up the nation's electoral college? Ans. 531.
12. How are electors chosen in Alabama? Ans. They are nominated by their respective parties and voted on at the general election in November.
13. How is the number of electoral votes determined? Ans. The combined number of Senators and Representatives. Alabama has eleven electoral votes.
14. How many electoral votes are necessary to elect a president? Ans. A majority or 266 votes (531-2 plus one) or 266.
15. In case of a tie in the electoral college, how is the President chosen? Ans. The House of Representatives decides, from the top three, each state having one vote.

Conclusion

Write to your district and state-at-large delegates before the national party convention in July if you wish to have a voice in nominating candidates for President and Vice-President.

In this letter, you could also state some items you would like to see incorporated in your party's platform.

Views

According to our research to date, the following information has been found concerning certain people mentioned prominently as likely candidates for presidential nominatons.

Taft

TAFT'S VIEWS

"I do not favor additional taxes. I favor cutting the federal budget to seventy-five billion dollars. I think the only way to bring peace is to continue peace negotiations, but bomb Manchuria. To stop communism over here, we must continue to investigate them. There should be a requirement for registration of communists every six months. For controllng atomic weapons, I think our present Baruch Plan is sufficient. The present U. M. T. plan is not very substantial. I think it can be postponed for three years. I oppose Acheson's plan for disarmament. We need to send money to foreign countries but be sure it is put to a good purpose. I have supported anti-poll tax and anti-lynching bills but I am against filibustering. The president should have power to fix prices and wages. We should control inflation by holding all government spending down to twenty-five per cent of the national income. We need federal aid for education. We should keep private health legislation. We also need more universal coverage by social security."

Eisenhower

EISENHOWER'S VIEWS

"I think international understanding, disarmamont, freedom and justice for all is our best policy. We should avoid using any inhuman methods to check communism. We should have Universal Military Training. Our present plan of disarmament is fine. In aiding foreign countries, I do not think temporary aid is enough. Technical aid is what they need. We need to have segregation in the Armed Services and we also need an increase in veterans' benefits. There should be government control of high prices. We need labor unions only as long as they promote the national welfare. Alaska and Hawaii should remain as territories. I believe in federal aid to education."

Kerr

Kefauver

Stassen

KERR'S VIEWS

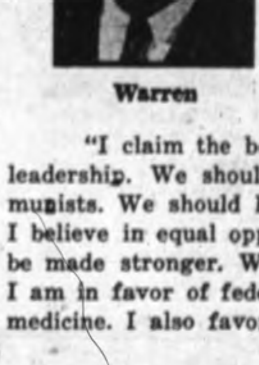
"I think taxes can be raised. We must keep our present friend and keep war away from our shores. To do this we must mobilize our man power. A bipartisan policy would help to stop communism. Our atomic weapon and disarmament plans are all right. We should have U. M. T. I think regional pacts are a necessity. I vote with the South on the question of tide land oil."

KEFAUVER'S VIEWS

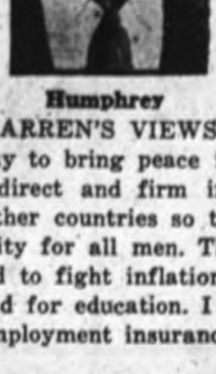
"I think there should be a reduction in the budget. To bring peace we need to raise the standard of living in other countries, clean out corruption in our own government, and make moves before Russia has a chance. I am against U. M. T. I think we should keep enough soldiers on hand for protection. We should store enough weapons to defend ourselves. I am against F. E. P. C. but will support it if it is in the democratic platform. Instead of giving money we need to raise the standards of living in foreign countries. Free nations should band together. We should have federal aid for education. Congress should not postpone action on statehood for Alaska and Hawaii."

STASSEN'S VIEWS

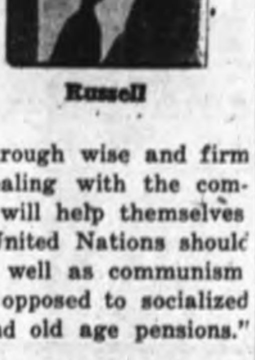
"I think taxes should be increased ten billion dollars to curb inflation. We should put more pressure on communists. I am for U M. T. and I think more men should be put in the Air Force. Atomic weapons should be used (if Russia starts war) to protect our soldiers I agree with our present plan of disarmament. I think the Taft-Hartley Act is all right, but some points in it should be repealed. We should go back to the gold standard. Federal aid for schools should be given according to size and need. Improvements should be made in the health legislations."



Warren



Humphrey



Russell

WARREN'S VIEWS

"I claim the best way to bring peace is through wise and firm leadership. We should be direct and firm in dealing with the communists. We should help other countries so they will help themselves I believe in equal opportunity for all men. The United Nations should be made stronger. We need to fight inflation as well as communism I am in favor of federal aid for education. I am opposed to socialized medicine. I also favor unemployment insurance and old age pensions."

HUMPHREY'S VIEWS

"I think the present budget on additional taxes is necessary. We must be prepared for a long period of tension. We must make an end to discrimination because of race, religion, and color. Both Alaska and Hawaii have met requirements for statehood and deserve favorable consideration by Congress."

RUSSELL'S VIEWS

"I feel we should cut down on taxes and reduce the present budget. I think the armed forces should be strengthened so no one will attack us. We should have U. M. T. I agree with the South on controversial civil rights legislation."

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS HAVE MEETING AT JACKSONVILLE COLLEGE

Miss Lucille Branscomb, Jacksonville, was elected State Sponsor, and Benjamin Nodal, Jacksonville, Student for Havanna, Cuba, was elected State President of the Alabama State Chapter of Future Business Leaders of America formed recently during a two-day meet on the Jacksonville campus. The new state organization will assist in the formation of new chapters, publish bulletins periodically, and cooperate with other youth and adult organizations, and co-ordinate the activities of the local chapters.

Other officers elected were: Joanna Wilkinson of Blue Springs, Vice President, Barbara Bain, Jacksonville High, Secretary and Treasurer; Mary Margaret Martin, Thompson High, Publicity Director; and the following district directors: Marion Crutchfield, Samson, District two; Frances Bearden Shades Valley, District five; Roland Baird, Double Springs, District eight; Ruby Huckaba, Oxford High, District six.

Homer Stephens, President of the Jacksonville Chapter along with the local membership served as host at the two day meet. On Friday there was a reception, a banquet, and committee meetings. On Saturday, demonstrations of business machines, films, and audio equipment were given. Delegates made reports of chapter activities.

Miss Sylvia Pitts won the typewriting contest for the high school division and Homer Stephens, for the college division.

The meeting was concluded with an installation ceremony for new officers and for the state chapter. An executive meeting followed the luncheon.

Mrs. Louise Peete, Marclyn Amerine, Mary Margaret Martin and Rowena Grimes of Thompson High School attended the meeting.

Bible Comment:

Good King Brings About Religious Reforms in Judah

ONE of the mysteries of life is why good men should sometimes have evil sons, and conversely why bad men have good sons. Both phenomena are illustrated in the history of the kings of Judah.

Hezekiah was a relatively good king, but his reign was followed by that of his son, Mannasseh, who was corrupt and evil. He not only shed innocent blood, but he sought to overthrow the religion of Israel and replace it with idolatry.

His son, Amon, proved no better, becoming king at the age of 22. He ruled for two years and was slain by his own servants. Then came the good son of a bad father.

Those who slew Amon were themselves slain by those who took Josiah, Amon's son, then a boy of eight, and made him king. He ruled for 31 years, and must have been under good influences from the first, for as boy and man he was great and strong.

Good and well-intentioned men are often lacking in initiative and forcefulness in action, but King Josiah was aggressive and competent in his goodness. He vigorously attacked the idolatrous places and practices, threw down and destroyed the altars of iniquity, and restored the Temple as the place of true worship.

It was in this restoration of the Temple that the "Book of the Law," the book of Deuteronomy in our Bible, was discovered. It became the occasion for an impressive dedicatory service in which king and people made a covenant to obey its precepts and serve the one God.

Centuries later Jesus proclaimed the spiritual nature of the true God, whose worship is in spirit and in truth and is not confined to temples, mountains or other professedly holy places. But the effect of the reforms under Josiah was to purify religion of its abuses. In its emphasis on the holy place it destroyed the unholy places; and unholiness, whether in place or in person, is the denial of essential goodness and of all true worship.

The Closed Mind - Satan's Field Of Operation

"For what if some did not believe? Shall their unbelief make the faith of God without effect?" Romans 3:3

The story goes that a good many years ago the Dutch ambassador to the court of the king of Siam lost his standing with His Majesty because he told in all sincerity a fact about his native Holland that the king refused to believe. In describing his home country to the king, he remarked that during the winter the water there became so hard that men could actually walk on it. The king at once flew into a rage, saying that he was not prepared to credit so monstrous a falsehood; he had never seen such a thing happen; it was ridiculous, preposterous, impossible; the ambassador was either a wilful liar, or was mentally incompetent to serve at his court.

We smile at that story, but it might be wise for us to consider for a moment the king's violent reaction to a simple recital that would have caused no surprise whatever to the informed. He suffered under the handicap of ignorance. A mere provincial was he, knowing little of the world beyond the borders of his own small kingdom. His egotism disqualified him from accepting the reliable testimony of those who knew more about this big round world than he did .... for ignorance and egotism are twins.

We will now transfer this incident to the area of things spiritual. Many people today who would make a laughing stock of the king of Siam are guilty of the same attitude when it comes to the concerns of the soul. They are slaves of the closed mind. They ridicule the idea of eternal life through the atonement of the Son of God. Through their sense of self-sufficiency they become arbiters of their own destiny. They perish for lack of knowledge, all the while refusing to learn from those who know. The testimony of intelligent Christian people does not rate with them.

But it was learned G. K. Chesterton who said: "If a dozen honest men tell me that they have climbed the Matterhorn, I am satisfied that the summit of that mountain is accessible." All of which means that people of humble and honest spirit should not be thwarted in their desires toward God and his salvation by unreasoning and defiant critics of the Divine revelation. "For what if some did not believe?"

'CALM AS A MAY MORNING'

The old saying.... "As calm as a May morning," certainly holds true this 21st day of the aforementioned month! Political guns have ceased their barrage from the first Primary, and only mild interest is being manifested in the run-off.

Commencement activities are ended. We no longer see groups of the High School contingent racing around town in a last minute rush for the coveted diploma. This document is safely tucked away with their Memories, and they are now engaged in making future plans for vacation thru the summer, and hoping, for college next fall!

So, Main Street is practically deserted this morning. Naturally, those fortunate ones who are Washington-bound next Sunday are excited over the many splendid things in store for them on this sight seeing expedition arranged by Mrs. W. Y. Johnson, and who wouldn't be? This trip will be an educational delight to remember as long as they live. Again we offer congratulations to Mrs. Johnson who has done so much thru the years for the advancement and educational advantages of her pupils.

MORE WELCOME CIVIC SUGGESTIONS

The more people in Columbiana who become aware of the needs of this community and are willing to help do something about it, the sooner the task will be accomplished.

Today, we are grateful for the following suggestion regarding the Columbiana Cemetery. It came from the Columbiana Home Demonstration Club members following a meeting held Tuesday afternoon .

These ladies suggest and request that all persons interested in beautifying and cleaning the grounds of the Cemetery come to this place Friday, May 30, and spend the day. Bring tools and equipment for a complete one-day concerted effort to do the ground work on this project. Bring lunch and spend the leisure noon hour together discussing plans to work in full cooperation with the Cemetery Association. The ladies made it clear, they had no idea of taking over this work, but they did want it understood that this potent organization was behnd the effort and were willing to do their full part toward accomplishing what we all desire regarding this sacred spot.

Remember the date, May 30. If you can't come yourself, send a hand and this workman will be directed what to do by those in charge for this one day's endeavor.

COURTHOUSE FACE LIFTING NEEDED

The suggestion that something be done regarding the condition the courthouse building is in, the exterior especially ,made by Tom Stinson, has really caught the popular fancy. Several citizens have now noticed that the window frames need repairing, that the marble is so dirty, it is hard to believe it was once "pure white". The paint on the columns is peeling off, and on the whole, a complete face lifting is needed, and perhaps some way may be devised by the "powers that be" which will bring this project.... now a dream.... into a reality. We join in "hoping" and may we most respectfully request that Venetian blinds be incorporated in the "dream for Tomorrow?"

Ann is a lovely girl and the grand-daughter of our good friends Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. West of Columbiana. We extend our sincere greetings across the miles and all good wishes for Ann's future career.

. . . Thanks to Lee Carter of Wilsonville for sending in his renewal subscription to the "Home Paper" for 1952.

. . . Seniors of Shelby High enjoyed a trip to Cheaha Park last Thursday. They enjoyed this well earned day of recreation follow- the strenuous routine of final exams.

. . . Next Sunday afternoon at the Terminal in Birmingham, you will find Mrs. W. Y. While playing around the cemetery grounds, a heavy tombstone fell on him, inflicting this painful injury.

. . . The Rev. Cutris Bean is most enthusiastic over the propects of an early beginning on the new Baptist Church. More definite news soon!

. . . Cpl. Jack Goodwin is now stationed in Camp Crawford, Japan. He is in General Trades School and when Uncle Sam releases him, he will be a professional linotype operator, and thats a trade worth knowing, for there will always be a newspaper, and it takes a good linotypist to "keep the presses rolling."

. . . Mrs. H. H. Bearden and Betty Jo Willis flew to California last Friday for a visit with Mrs. Blossom Rothberg.

. . . Mrs. Harry Mims Roberts and Columbiana's newest citizen, little "Sallie Sue Roberts," have arrived home from the Sylacauga Hospital and naturally, Sallie Sue is holding the spotlight of attention.

. . . Vacationing at Laguna Beach this week are Wales, Sis, and Shirley Wallace; Dick, Sara and Grace Carter Ozley. Alvin and Dot Lefkovits are at Fort Walton.

. . . Judge W. W. Wallace and Harold Harlin have returned from a pleading term of Circuit Court held in Rockford.

. . . Congratulations to Hugh Sims, Jr., who will represent the local Post of American Legion at Boys Town in Tuscaloosa this week.

. . . Glad to learn that Marie Shogren and two children have landed safely on Okinawa where they will reside for a year while Capt. Jerry Shogren finishes his "hitch" with Uncle Sam's bird-men.

. . . L. C. Taylor has returned from a trip to Clayton, Alabama, having been called there on account of the death of a relative.

MAY 3 JOINT BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION FOR FARR BOYS

Johnny and Jacky Farr are ten and eight years of age. They are all American jolly good fellows and the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Farr. To be exact, Johnnie's birthday is May 1st, and Jacky's is May 5, so Mr. and Mrs. Farr split the difference and observed the gala occasion with a joint birthday party on May 3.

Games (particularly baseball) and various contests furnished the entertainment for the forty guests who shared the joyous event, after which ice cream and cake was served.

BIRMINGHAM SUBSCRIBERS DELAYED IN RECEIVING 'HOME PAPER' - COMPLAINTS

Complaints continue to pour in the office regarding Birmingham subscribers. The fault is with the delivery at Termnal Station! Please check with your postal authorities in charge of this substation. The mail leaves Columbiana postoffice Wednesday afternoon, never later than Thursday morning. It goes straight to Birmingham, yet, subscribers across the continent are receiving mail sooner than Birmingham subscribers. Several of them have written us, stating they "never get the paper until Tuesday-week following its release." Naturally, nobody wants news that old! Phone the postal authorities or contact them in Birmingham, please. We have done all we can do about it.

THE 'UNITED STATES', AMERICA'S BIGGEST LINER

Last week, we read with interest about the trial run of the "United States", America's challenge to Britains two largest vessels afloat, namely, the "Queen Mary", and "Elizabeth." It cost Uncle Sam 72 million dollars. It is much heavier than the Queen Mary, and weighs 52,000 tons. It's speed is a secret, but it is believed to exceed that of the Queen Mary. The liner is back at Newport News, after its trial run. The "United States" is the greatest commercial vessel ever built in an American ship yard. It is the last word in luxurious furnishings and interior decorating. After all, it should be rather impressive, it represents an expenditure of 72 million dollars, and thats a lot of money "splashing around."

. . . Mrs. Mary W. Luck, after spending several weeks in Columbiana with Mr. and Mrs. Luck, has returned to her home in Birmingham.

. . . One tree will make a million matches. One match will burn a million trees. Remember this while camping in the woods and be sure and put out all cigarettes you light.

. . . We are indebted to Herbert Milstead, successful pharmacist of Montevallo, and a friend of many years standing, for subscriptions to the Reporter-Democrat, not only for his own use, but also one for his mother, Mrs. Vesta M. Milstead who resides in Calera.

. . . Mrs. Dixie Shealey of Montgomery whites us how much she enjoys reading the Reporter-Democrat each week in the Capitol City where she holds a responsible position with the State Department, and to make the statement stronger, two dollars is enclosed for a renewal subscription. So, here we come each week for the next 52, and thanks for the privilege!

. . . Mrs. Fermin Moore of Montevallo fills her busy days with her duties at the popular Derby Cafe, but, she writes she finds time, "between orders" to read the "home paper" and "our customers enjoy reading it, too, for I always take it to the Cafe for them to enjoy when we have read it at home."

(Such personal interest is indeed heartening to those of us who "cover the county for news about pepole and things each week. Thanks, Lady!)

. . . Due to the thoughtfulness of Mrs. A. A. Blackerby, her son, Billy J. Blackerby, A. F., Medical group at Shaw A. F. Base, South Carolina, may now keep in touch with his buddies, former classmates, and friends, in Columbiana and Shelby county.

MOST VERSATILE

Miss Pat Mullarkey, 1952 Maid of Cotton, shows how charming and adaptable cotton can be! She's wearing a three-piece costume by Chee Armstrong—one that's right for day or night. For dancing she can wear the strapless brown velveteen dress with the beaded camisole. For daytime, she's got that covered look with a smart, fitted waist-length jacket.

CONGRATULATIONS TO COLLEGIATES MAKING AN ENVIABLE RECORD

Ann Hatchett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hap Hatchett, has been tapped for the honorary society of Sphinx, which is based on high scholastic rating. Miss Hatchett is also on the Dean's list, and has made a brilliant record during the years she has spent in Auburn.

Henry Nichols, Jr., of North Carolina University is not only widely acclaimed as an outstanding student, his name is on the Dean's list, but his paintings are receiving wide recogniton. Some of his recent painting have been chosen to be used in a Southern Exhibit. Henry is majoring in architecture and a successful career is being predicted for him in his chosen profession.

Fred Nichols, of Auburn, has been elected Editor of Glomerata, the College annual for next year. He is now circulation manager and writes his own column in the College paper, The Plainsman. Fred also won second place in an oratorical contest and was presented a silver key to add to the eight honorary keys he has already been given for outstanding achievement.

Fred and Henry, Jr. are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nichols of Columbiana.

Joan Nichols, who is in Shelby High School was recently elected Secretary of Student Government of S. C .H .S. for next year and is one of the most popular members of the high school contingent.

We join many friends in our pride and keen interest in their personal attainments and send our sincere congratulations along with our best wishes for continued success.

JON MORRISON YOUNG

Friends of Capt. and Mrs. Joe Young who are now stationed at Ft. Lee, Virginia, are sending congratulations today as they learn of the arrival of Master Jon Morrison Young who was born May 20, 1952.

(Saw Grand-Dad Young today passing out the cigars with chest expanded about four inches.)

'MR. MANN!'

Mr. Mann, is all we know at present regarding the fellow you saw and asked about last Wednesday morning, except that there is a possibility of seeing him around more often, if he accepts a Coaching position at the High School. We met him, and liked him, and found that he knew a lot of folk whom we knew from Jacksonville, Alabama.

. . . Cpl. Jack Godwin, although now stationed in Japan with the Air Force, will keep right up to the minute with his friends in Shelby county, for his sister, Mrs. John Farr, has just been in our office and asked that we send Jack the paper. During Mrs. Farr's visit, she showed us a lovely Bon Bon Dish just received from Japan. It was black etched with gold and lined with gold. Exquisite is the word for the bon bon dish!

. . . When Mrs. Houston Richards began casting around for an appropriate birthday present for her son-in-law, John F. Helms, Jr., and his lovely wife, (Wynona Richards), who are enjoying Hawaiian Honeymoon, she came to our office and remarked that she knew of nothing that would give both John and Wynona more pleasure than a paper of their own each week, so presto, here we go to gladden their apartment in far away Hawaii.

BRADLEY-RAY MARRIAGE SOLEMNIZED

The marriage of Richard Bradley of Sylacauga and Willie Fay Ray of Four Mile Community was impressively solemnized at the home of the Rev. Ramsour last Sunday morning at nine-thirty o'clock. The double ring ceremony was used and the wedding was witnessed only by a few close friends and relatives of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley are spending their honeymoon in Florida. Miss Ray has been associated with the Alabama Power Co. in Columbiana for several years as Book keeper, and Mr. Bradley has an auto business in Sylacauga where they will make their future home.

God and Life

Lesson for May 25, 1952

IF THERE IS any one commandment which Jesus not only did not abolish but made far clearer and sharper, it is the commandment, Thou shalt not kill.

By word and act, the Master showed that life is sacred. It is sacred because we are God's children; and whatever injures life, whatever makes it less worth living, whatever tempts men to do way with their own lives, whatever shortens life and makes it wretched and unbearable, this violates the will of God, this is a form of killing.

Dr. Foreman

Jesus' attitude to disease is a case in point. We do not read of a single case where he came in contact with a sick person and urged the patient just to be patient. He always restored the sick to health; sickness in his eyes, is a thing that ought not to be.

Blunt Instruments

MURDER MYSTERIES are always solved in the detective stories. In real life we are not always so fortunate. Many a murder mystery remains a mystery after long years. All the police could ever be sure of was that "some person or persons unknown" hit the victim with a "blunt instrument."

Now you would think that a murderer would pick out something more efficient. Why not a sharp instrument? However, the blunt instrument, whatever it was—a sashweight, a brick or whatever,—did the work. A man can be just as dead from being hit with a sandbag as from being shot with a rifle.

As Simeon Stylites pointed out some time ago in the "Christian Century," there are all kinds of blunt instruments besides crowbars, sash-weights and bricks. Whatever tends to shorten life is a kind of blunt instrument; it may take a long time to have its effect but if it is deadly in the long run, then it is deadly, period.

Any sort of habit that cuts down one's good health; any carelessness or neglect; any stupidity or foolishness such as driving too fast on a wet night; giving way to worries and getting indigestion from them; these are not un-heard-of ways of shortening life. They are, in plain language, murderous.

Alcohol the Killer

AS THIS IS the temperance lesson, this is a good place to recall the fact that alcoholic liquor is a too popular deadly weapon.

You have heard of the so-called antibodies or phagocytes which are in a healthy blood-stream. These are the little fighting cells which gather around invading germs and kill them. Without these in our blood we could scarcely survive a single day, the air is so full of germs which we cannot help taking into our throats and lungs.

But alcohol taken internally will paralyze these phagocytes to such an extent that they are no use. This is not to say that a single bottle or drink of liquor kills all a man's phagocytes at once.

But still, as David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University, once said, if a man were telling the whole truth he would not say, Let us have a drink together. He would say, Come, let us paralyze our phagocytes together!

Insurance companies which insure only ministers and religious workers, that is to say, which insure mostly non-drinkers, can and do offer insurance for much lower premiums than companies that have to insure all sorts of people including "moderate" drinkers.

Hit by the Bottle

A DRINKER is said to be hitting the bottle. Not at all. The bottle is hitting him. Liquor kills, in more ways than by paralyzing the health-cells in the blood. Time is the stuff life is made of; and how much time liquor kills, how many "lost weekends" it is causing this very week, only God and the devil know.

Liquor also creates poverty and poverty helps to shorten life. Liquor also makes a man reckless. The trade of prostitution would not be quite so flourishing without liquor. Many a serious disease is contracted under the effects of liquor.

As for violent and sudden deaths, read carefully next Monday's papers for the lists of the people killed on our American highways this beautiful May week-end. Read again after Decoration Day. Read carefully: how many of these dead people, if sober, might have lived?

ON THE FARMS IN SHELBY COUNTY
B.F.HATCHETT & G.C.STARCHER JR

To reach C. Cordes' contour planted strawberry patch one walks along a sericea field border. For several years this sericea has furnished good hay, although the tree shaded area would produce little else.

Below the terrace interval planted to the luscious Blackenmores is a strip planted to corn, following contour lines. Each row helps handle rains that would erode this light soil, and also helps slow the water so that more of it soaks in to help the corn weather droughts such as this April-May dry spell.

Mr. Cordes insisted that I stop eating berries long enough to walk down to the terrace interval below the corn.

"Now there," he said," is a grazing combination you can really recommend for winter and summer use!"

There it was, a "critical slope," a steep area winding around the hill between two less sloping areas, bright crimson with reseeding clover blooms, but with thousands of waving tendrils of new kudzu growth.

An electric fence around the long irregular area told how he utilized the area for emergency summer grazing," grazed it very close at frost to allow the clover to grow early, then to graze the clover just a few feet from tender green early corn.

Yes, Mr. Cordes, we'll buy that, but how about Rescue on kudzu, (Hugh McDanal, 5 years), or Caley peas on kudzu (John Rucker, W. J. Bailey, F. E. Williams, etc) or just add Rescue to your clover! And, another F. E. Williams, this one in Chilton, finds hogs do fine year-round on that Cordes mixture.

Speaking of Rescue, see it NOW somewhere, and BUY IT where you can get mildew resistant strains!

ITS NEW KIND OF HORSEPOWER IS SOMETHING TO FEEL!

With its 180 HP V-8 engine, on 125½ inches of wheelbase, many people think the Saratoga is the best Chrysler car of all.

We invite you to take the wheel and feel what happens! There's a new sense of easy power, of reserve power that make driving a new experience.

Its revolutionary combustion chamber develops more of the power in each charge of fuel than other engines can do. One result is performance, even on non-premium fuel, such as you have never felt. Another result is new economy. It's an engine that scarcely forms carbon at all. It creates less heat. It will last much longer, stay younger on the way!

And with Chrysler full-time Power Steering*, you steer with one-fifth the usual effort . . . drive with five times the usual control! With Power Brakes you need up to two-thirds less foot pressure . . . and still stop in many feet less than other cars can do.

Yes, behind Chrysler's new engine you'll find a new kind of car. Won't you come in and feel what we mean?

CRIMSON CLOVER SEED HARVEST REPORT UPPED

A final estimate on last year's U. S. crimson clover seed crop has been placed at 27,360,000 pounds.

Ralph Jones, API Extension seed specialist, says that this is an increase of about 6,000,000 pounds over earlier reports.

The final yield for Alabama's 1951 crimson clover crop was 8,500,000 pounds.

"This year's harvest is under way," states Jones, "and, of course, weather conditions during the season will affect the size of the crop. However, the Alabama yield should be about the same as for 1951, since the current crimson clover acreage about equals last year's."

SPACE FARM BUILDINGS SO FIRE WON'T SPREAD

Fires may quickly destroy all farm buildings that are close together, especially if roofs are made of flammable material.

William Cox, API Extension specialist in farm buildings, admits that little can be done about the location of existing buildings, but a new house, barn, or tool shed should be located a safe distance from its neighbors. When fire starts in one building, it can be more easily controlled if buildings are adequately spaced.

"If buildings are closely spaced," states the specialist, "use fire resistant roofing, such as asphalt shinglee, metal, asbestoes, or slate."

NEW-TYPE BARN LOWERS MILK PRODUCTION COST

Time spent in the milk barn adds up to one of the big costs in milk production, according to J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman. He points out that the average dairyman spends 125 10-hour days with 20 cows in one year.

"To make these work hours as efficient as possible," says the specialist, "several new-type dairy barns have been on the planning boards of Extension Service, agricultural engineering, and state health workers for some time. Some of these plans are now available on request through the local county agent.

WATER FOR DAIRYING

Water is an important factor in the operation of modern dairy plants. Each cow requires a minimum of 25 gallons daily, and many more gallons are needed in the dairy barn.

RESULTS OF GOOD LAND USE PLUS MANAGEMENT

Above-average, yields, low production costs, and higher average farm incomes are some of the results of good land use and land management.

"Despite the many and varied soil conditions in Alabama,' says S. R. Doughty, API Exetnsion soil conservationist, "a few broad suggestions on good land use may be applied to most all farms. They include using more fertile, less erosive, and more level land for row cropping; using crops adapted to the soil, and using gently rolling and rolling land in good rotations planned to fit the land pattern."

Doughty urges that strongly rolling and hilly lands be used for sod crops. Steep and stony lands should be used for permanent pasture and woodland. Of course, wet or damp land are best suited for pastures.

The State of Alabama, Shelby County
Probate Court For Said County
May Term, this 19th day of May, 1952

To Renna Mae Coe; John Clark; Horace Clark; Adelene Carden; Bob Spear; Hugh Clark; Mrs. J. H. Wynn; Mrs. H. J. Jones; H. R. Taylor; O. R. Taylor; Mrs. W. B. Appleby; Mrs. Harold Gruetzner; Mrs. Eldon Scott; Mrs, W. E. Scott; S. H. Taylor

You will hereby take notice, that on this day came Lester B. Clark and produced to the Court a paper writing, purporting to be the last will and testament of William W. Clark, deceased, and moves the court to admit the said will to Probate and Record.

You are hereby notified to be and appear before me, at my office in the Court Honse of said County at Columbiana on the 14th day of June, 1952, when the motion will be considered, and show, if anything you have to allege, why said paper writing should not be admitted to Probate and record, as the true last will and testamen of said decedent.

L. C. Walker,
Judge of Probate,
Shelby County, Ala.

REAL WEED KILLERS
TO DO CLOSE, ACCURATE WORK AT HIGH SPEEDS

McCORMICK FARMALL Cultivators

● Stubborn, noxious weeds just don't have a chance when you put a Farmall-mounted 1-, 2- or 4-row cultivator to work on 'em!

Today's demands for fast cultivation are really answered with the high-speed sweeps and covered shields that are supplied with Farmall cultivators. Parallel link construction of gangs keeps sweeps at the correct angle regardless of depth. Yes, these cultivators "stay put!"

Equipment combinations for practically any crop—corn, cotton, beans, potatoes, peanuts, etc.—and for rows spaced from 28 to 48 inches (as narrow as 22 inches with 6-row spacings on tool bars.) See us now for all the facts on Farmall Cultivators,

AH ME! 5-CENT COKE GIVES UP BATTLE AGAINST INFLATION

Is Nickel Doomed Like Buffalo?

The 5-cent Coke, symbol of the good old preinflation days, bowed off the stage Monday in southeast Texas. Like that "good nickel cigar," and other traditional Americana.

The Alabama Coca-Cola Bottling Company, Anniston, Ala., announces this week an increase in the wholesale price of bottled Coca-Cola from 80 to 96 cents for a 24-bottle case, effective now.

"This probably will have the effect of increasing the retail price of Coca-Cola by 1 cent a bottle, making the retail price 6 cents where it has been 5 cents, and the price of the six-bottle carton 30 cents instead of 25," the Beaumont company said.

The manager of the Alabama Coca-Cola Bottling Co., pointed out that except for a short period during the actue sugar shortage of World War I, this is the first price change in the history of the local Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

He said that "in spite of rising costs of materials and production," they had postponed the increase long after most other soft drink manufacturers had announced a raise. This postponement was done "in the hope production costs would stabilize, and that a price increase would be unnecessary." However, the company finds itself unable to postpone it any longer, the manager declared.

It was pointed out further this increase, the firswt in over 25 years, "is probably the smallest increase that has occurred in any food or household commodity over the same period."

"While it represents an increase of approximately 1 cent a bottle, compared to other things, Coca-Cola is still one of the lowest price values to the housewife," he maintained.

Mechanisms for coin vending machines to take a deposit of a nickel and a penny, instead of the usual 5 cents, will be made available as rapidly as possible. Only a brief time usually is required to accomplish this.

Gift for Small Town Hospital is Withdrawn

UKIAH, Calif.—The small town of Ukiah will not get its memorial hospital after all. The gift of approximately $300,000 to establish the institution has been withdrawn.

Mrs. Florence Longland Kasch had offered to donate her entire fortune to establish a hospital in memory of her brother. It was to have been a non-profit hospital, planned ultimately for 75 beds. The corporation had been approved by the state, priorities obtained and plans drawn.

However, Mrs. Kasch's attorney reported his client had been unable to secure from the internal revenue collector a definite ruling regarding the gift tax and for that reason had withdrawn her offer.

He said that an exemption from the gift tax might be made after the hospital had been in operation for two years, provided every rule of the revenue tax department had been met. There was nothing definite in this proposition, he said, and the possibility that before two years were up an entirely different staff might be in control of the revenue department and an entirely different ruling be forthcoming, made the proposition one of "playing with fire."

The federal and state gift tax would approximate $35,000 with the federal tax indefinite.

Scouts Take Over Town, County Offices for Day

NAPOLEON, O.—For one day during Boy Scout Week, the Boy Scouts of Napoleon took over the town and county offices as a lesson in government and the functioning of departments and officials.

During the day city and county officers made three arrests and mock trials held before the boy officials. One citizen was arrested on charges of parking too close to a fire hydrant. He was brought before the boy mayor and sentenced to two hours in jail. After considerable bickering he was released on good behavior.

Another citizen was hailed into police court charged with crashing a traffic light. He was also brought before the mayor, pleaded not guilty and was granted permission to carry his case to a higher court.

In the county a woman was charged with taking a 50 cent toy automobile in a department store. After hearing the case, the boy judge probated the woman to her sister where she is to do farm work and milk cows daily for a period of 18 months.

Veterans' Column
State Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

E. J. SULLIVAN, VSO

In order to give veterans all over the State of Alabama a closer picture of our VA hospitals, and what to expect if they ever have to be admitted to any of them. George Cameron, the Chairman of The American Legion's Rehabilitation Committee, and incidently, the Chief of Claims Service for the Alabama Department of Veterans' Affairs, wrote a little booklet several years ago to be distributed to those veterans going to the hospital for the first time. This little booklet contains a number of helpful hints, so let's glance through it. Here we find some things to remember. How Are You Going To Travel? By bus , Train, Private Automobile or Ambulance? Has the Veterans' Administration Authorized you to travel so that they can reimburse you for your expenses? If your case is an EMERGENCY, maybe your veterans service officer or your physician will call the hospital and have your admission authorized.

Next, Mr. Cameron tells us in his booklet What To Take To The Hospital. When you are admitted to the hospital, you will be furnished with pajamas and a bath robe. Towels and soap will also be furnished. In addition to the clothes you are wearing, it would be well to take along an extra change of clothing. You will need toilet articles, such as a razor, shaving cream, tooth brush, comb and brush. It might be a good idea to take a few post cards, stamps and stationery. You need not take a large amount of money. All you will need is enough to buy smokes and a few small items.

What will happen when you arrive at the hospital? If you are an emergency case, you will be admitted at once to the hospital ward. If you are not an emergency, there will be a few more things to do. The first stop will be at the INFORMATION desk in the lobby of the hospital. The lady at the desk will point out the admitting office to you. Next, you will go to the office of the Property Clerk. There you will strip and turn in to the Property Clerk all your clothing, your bag and all valuables, and be issued a suit of pajamas and a bath robe. You will then be escorted to your ward by an orderly and assigned to a bed. If you are not a bed patient, the chances are that for the first two or three days of your stay in the hospital you will be kept pretty busy reporting to the labaratory for tests.

You will find your nurse attentive and courteous. She is a busy person and may not have time to pause and talk with you as long as she would like but you will find her very efficient and sympathetic.

Ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary are regular visitors to your hospital and one day each week they visit all wards and offer their services to all patients. If you want to see an American Legion Service Officer ask them to arrange it for you.

Another person you will come in contact with is your Ward Doctor. He bears the same relation to you as your family doctor does to you while you are at home.

Your ward sergeon has nothing to do with rating your claim and determining how much compensation or pension you may receive. He is interested in your health and wants you to remain in good health after you leave the hospital.

Thank You

Editor, Reporter-Democrat:

Please permit me to speak a few words through your paper to the people of Shelby county who stood so loyally to me during my recent campaign as Member of Board of Revenue and Control. I do not know what words to employ in trying to express my gratefulness to you and each of you.

I wish to further say to you who may not have supported me, I am no less your friend than had you supported me.

I pledge to you my best effort in the discharge of my official duty, to you, as citizens of Shelby county.

Again, I say to you if I can serve you in any way, I am ready to go the last mile with you and for you.

Outstanding Value On Your Shopping List
You get so much for so little when you take home a carton of delicious Coca-Cola. Refreshment the whole family loves. The beverage of hospitality your guests always welcome.
You may find you are paying a few cents more for each carton now. You see, rising costs have finally made it necessary for us to raise the wholesale price of Coca-Cola. This is the first increase in our history since World War I when shortages caused a temporary price rise.
The increase is trifling in relation to our added costs. It is necessary to maintain quality you know and trust. And where else can you get such outstanding value as in a carton of Coca-Cola?

EVERY VOTE IS IMPORTANT

Hugh Forester, Chairman of Civic Committee, Lancaster, Pennsylvania says: "Our forefathers fought for the right to vote, but do we care for that right today?" Apparently, we do not!

Mr. Forester cites some facts which every American citizen should consider seriously. In a recent election, .90 per cent of Belgium's eligible voters went to the polls. Almost as many eligible Italians cast ballots in the election that rebuffed Communism, and 82 per cent voted in the last British election. Other nations have comparable records. But only 51 per cent of eligible Americans voted in the Presidential election of 1948.

It is, I grant you, sometimes more convenient to remain at home and comfortably and carelessly neglect the priceless heritage of the ballot, but, is shifting this responsibility of selecting our officials on the "other fellow" exactly the wise thing to do? When we do this, have we fulfilled our obligation as a true citizen of our country and state? Is this indifferent attitude one that reflects any credit or appreciation for the sacrifice our forefathers made when they bought with their own blood this privilege for us to exercise and enjoy.

The present campaign is drawing to a close. Next Tuesday, June 3, qualified electors will name our next Probate Judge and also our representative on the Court of Appeals. Both positions are highly important.

Every vote is most important. Yes, even one vote has been known to decide closely contested races. For instance, in 1884 James Blaine lost New York State by much less than one vote per precinct. Had he carried New York, he, instead of Grover Cleveland would have been President.

But, aside from many historic instances recorded, of the importance of one vote, our freedom depends on the right of franchise. The secret ballot is our greatest deefnse against tyranny. Bonnie Hand, editor of Lafayette Sun, says on this subject.... "No one who fails to vote can call himself a good citizen. He is, instead, a shirker of the worst possible kind".... With these facts before you will you not lay aside your daily routine long enough to cast your ballot on June 3? It is your duty and should be a joyous privilege. Remember, "every vote is important."

It could be your vote that would decide the outcome of the two races now up for your consideration. A place on the Court of Appeals, which is being contested by Lola Price, incumbent, and George Johnston, prominent attorney of Athens, Alabama, and L. C. Walker, Probate Judge incumbent, who is opposed by Owen Bridges of Montevallo.

The result of these state and county races now rests with the qualified voters. It is up to you!

DR. GATES TO BEGIN INOCULATION OF DOGS

According to legal requirements all dogs must be inoculated once each year. Dr. John Gates is the Rabies Inspector for Shelby county and will begin his regular rounds in the county June 9 and continue thru June 14. His schedule will appear in next week's paper.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS JUNE 3 ELECTION

As we go to press we learn that 322 people have voted the absentee ballot. This is considerably more than were voted in this manner in the Election held May 6. Thursday is the last day an absentee ballot may be cast.

BIDS TO BE OPENED

The State Highway Department this week is to open bids on 28 Alabama road and bridge construction projects, to cost an estimated $3,600,000.

F. F. A. Boys At Shelby High Harvest $2000 Seed Crop

The F. F. A. boys at the Shelby County High School, Columbiana, under the direction of Elvin Hill, Vocational Agriculture teacher, this week are harvesting a fourscore seed crop from Rescue grass. They have harvested almost 6,000 pounds with one acre still to be combined. Over 7,000 pounds of seed were harvested which have already been sold at 30c per pound. At this price the boys hope to have a profit of about $2,000 as they had very little expense in producing the crop.

This project has been studied and worked with intense interest by Mr. Hill and the F. F. A. club members. Marvin Etress operated his father's combine in harvesting and served as F. F. A. treasurer for the year. Freddy Wood '1951) and Horace Vansant (1952) were club presidents while the project was underway.

G. H. Eastis furnished a combine and Bolton Farm Equipment Co., Wilsonville, furnished a tractor to help with the harvesting. B. B. Mooney is furnishing half the ammonium nitrate for an experiment in producing a second crop of Rescue seed in July on the plot from the cut-over grass.

Rescue grass seed is in high demand and was selected as a club project by Mr. Hill and his boys with the idea of furnishing supplies of seed to local farmers. The planting seed, 100 pounds, were furnished by the North Central Soil Conservation district, with a return of an equal amount from the harvest as payment.

The seed were planted October 24, 1951 by the club members who brought tractors from home to turn and disc the field. Local Soil Conservation men advised and helped with the seeding. Parker Fertilizer Company, Sylacauga, donated two tons of fertilizer, half of which was applied in the fall and the rest in February. The club purchased 800 pounds of ammonium nitrate for top dressing.

No mowing was done on the grass but it was mowed once over the tallest growing areas. The Chapel Hill variety of Rescue was used which is a variety of Brome grass. It is exceptionally winter-hardy, mildew resistant and is a fine grazing crop or hay producer, it will reseed itself very readily.

Money derived from the sale of these seed will be used by the F. F. A. group to purchase shop equipment and to finance a summer trip by the club. They plan to make a tour of South Alabama and Florida.

DR. GATES TO ANNOUNCE INOCULATION SCHEDULE NEXT WEEK

The Alabama law requires that all dogs over thre months old be inoculated by a veterinarian or a legally appointed qualified deputy, before September 1st of each year. After this date a penalty will be charged for not conforming with this legal requirement.

Next week a complete schedule will be found in this paper. Check the time and date in the community nearest your home and meet Dr. Gates and his deputies at the time specified.

POPPIES TO HONOR NATION'S WAR DEAD

Poppy Day will be held on May 31, 1952, in Alabaster. Let us remember, as you see the girls standing on the streets, that they are not holding just a bunch of crepe paper flowers but a symbol of the sacrifices which made and kept us free. The American Legion Auxiliary has brought joy and comfort to thousands of veterans and their families because we have been faithful to the trust of the poppy.

So, "Wear a poppy to honor the war dead and aid War's living victims."

Health Department Adopts Resolutions

On April 17, 1952, the State Committee of Public Health in regular session adopted the following regulations:

1. Regulations governing the production, handling distribution and sale of milk and certain milk products.

2. Regulations governing the processing, manufacturing, handling and sale of ice cream and similiar products.

The adoption of these regulations was in the interest of promoting a uniform state wide control program of milk and milk products. Ice cream and similiar products, thereby creating the possibility of a free flow of these products through the state.

The enforcement of these regulations are contingent upon the adoption of local ordinances by County Board of Health and or municipal governments.

Copies of the regulations are available to interested parties at the County Health Department.

Miss Jo Anne Todd, Annie Bell Owens, Reba Carol Bailey and Mary Margaret Martin represented the Thompson High School in the State-Wide Typing Contest sponsored by the Birmingham Business College at Birmingham. Miss Billie Mizelle, a second-year typing student from Sylacauga High School won the State Championship. She made the high score of 72.2 words per minute on unfamiliar material.

Miss Jo Anne Todd made the highest score of any student entering the contest from Thompson High School and was awarded a special prize for her school and district.

657TH TRANSPORTATION TRUCK COMPANY CONDUCTS OUTDOOR TRAINING

Last weekend the National Guard Unit located at Calera conducted the second of a series of three weekend training periods. The 657th Transportation Truck Company bivouac was held Saturday afternoon and Sunday near Spring Creek in Shelby County. Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson, Commanding Officer of the company, directed the training for the men during the training period. He was assisted by Lt. Charles A. Knowles and Warrant Officer Hobson G. Searcy.

The 657th is receiving training in basic military subjects at this time in preparation for the annual summer camp. At camp this summer the men will receive training in the jobs they will be expected to perform in the company such as truck driving, mechanics, clerks and other jobs essential to keep the company in operation.

The men of this company are progressing satisfactorily in their training according to First Sergeant James C. Martin. They are rapidly forming into a military machine that would be able to operate as a Truck Company in the event they were needed.

Regular Armory drills are held at 7:00 p. m. every Tuesday night at the Calera High School by this National Guard Unit.

ALABAMA POTATO CROP HARVESTING UNDERWAY

Graveside Rites Held For Earl Robinson

Graveside rites were held Friday afternoon in the Columbiana Cemetery for Earl Robinson of Denver, Colorado, who passed away suddenly Monday, May 19. Mr. Robinson was the husband of Mary MacMillan, daughter of Judge and Mrs. D. R. MacMillan, and former resident of Columbiana.

Former residents here for this sad occasion included: Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Dozier, Mr. and Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Clarice Harris, C. J. Christian, Howard Milner, Mr. and Mrs. Dougald MacMillan, Miss Annie Ree Milner and Mr. Harris and others from Birmingham; Mrs. Patty Milner of Albuerqueque, New Mexico; Mrs. Esther Christian from Sylacauga; Dr. Pierce Mason from Stockton; Mrs. Sam Wallace, Mrs. Dan Cosby and Mrs. Rosa Teague from Wilsonville.

The Rev. A. D. Wilson conducted the service. Mrs. Robinson was accompanied from Denver, Colorado, by her son, Dr. Ben Robinsom.

EDUCATION BUILDING OF THE COLUMBIANA BAPTIST CHURCH

The Columbiana Baptist Church thru its pastor, the Rev. Curtis Bean, announces plans which have been approved by the church, which call for construction to begin on its new education building July 1, 1952. Mr. Earl Hendricks has been employed by the church as building superintendent.

Ross Bob Mullins is chairman of the building committee. This committee will purchase all the materials in order to keep the cost at a minimum.

When fully compieted the building will consist of forty class rooms, seven assembly rooms, one large choir room, kitchen and dining room, library, office, reception room and pastor's study. The building will provide for a Sunday School attendance of five hundred and forty two.

Hugh Sims is chairman of the finance committee for the building program. Any member of the Church or friend of the Church wishing to make a contribution to the building program may do so by sending their contribution to Mr. Sims.

OLD POST CARD RECALLS C. W. O'HARO, TAX COLLECTOR

An interesting reminder of other days was discovered recently in some old papers in the probate office in the form of a post card bearing date of April 3, 1882 and addressed to C. W. O'Haro, Tax Collector of Shelby county. It was written by W. R. Furman making a suggestion as to the payment of Dr. T. G. Tichener's taxes by Randolph Nash.

The card is post marked Siluria and the stamp is canceled by hand.

GOV. COMER PLANS HOME NEAR MARDIS FERRY

Governor B. B. Comer has recently purchased a hundred and fifty acre tract of land on the Coosa River, about one mile below Mardis Ferry. Naturally, it is as pretty a spot as could be found anywhere with its big bubbling springs and it is being modernized in every way. There is a big crew of men at work having pitched their tents and are camping until the project is completed. A road has been graded from the main road to the camp.

AMERICAN AVIATOR COMPLETES FLIGHT FROM N. Y. TO PARIS

Capt. Charles Linbergh, an American aviator of Little Falls, landed in Paris Saturday afternoon, completing the first flight from New York to Paris, a distance of 3,600 miles. He was in the air 33 ½ hours. Capt. Linbergh named his plane the Spirit of St. Louis. He made the flight alone and has been acclaimed as few men in the United States have been. He is 25 years old. Six years ago he was a plough-boy on a farm. He took a short course in an aviation school and was soon recognized as a natural air-man and was dubbed "The Flying Fool."

The government has arranged to bring him and his ship back home on a battleship.

Columbiana Cemetery Will Be Cleaned Off Friday Of This Week

All those who are interested in the Columbiana cemetery are asked to remember the announcement made in last week's Reporter-Democrat. Friday, May 30th, of this week, has been set for cleaning off the grounds of the cemetery.

The clean-up project is being sponsored by the Columbiana Home Demonstration Club and the members of the club are very hopeful that the undertaking may be well carried out. The need is so great.

All who can do so are urged to come to the cemetery on Friday to spend the day; to bring some kind of suitable tool with which to work and to bring lunch.

Those who can not come to have part in the work are urged to send some one or to make a contribution.

Please remember the day, next Friday, May 30.

Harold Gibson Meets Tragic Death May 24

The entire town of Columbiana was shocked and grieved to hear of the tragic accident which took the life of Harold Gibson, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gibson, which occurred Saturday night about ten-thirty o'clock, when a motorcycle on which Harold Gibson and Sonny Braxton were riding collided with an automobile near the Summers Store on the cut off from Florida Short Route, near the Wallace Place.

Funeral rites were held Monday at two-thirty, the Rev. Lee Davis officiating.

Surviving Mr. Gibson are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gibson; two brothers, Frank and Edward Gibson; and one sister, Mrs. Mildred Sullivan of Birmingham.

Interment in Summerhill church, Bolton in charge.

CANNING PLANT SOON READY FOR HOME CANNERS

The Shelby County High School Canning Plant will open the later part of June or the first of July. So, work out the garden and have those vegetables ready to be preserved.

Bushels and bushels of lima beans, string beans, cabbage, corn, squash, beets, tomatoes, apples, blackberries, peaches, and other foods are easy to can in the canning plant. A hundred cans can be canned in less than half a day, provided you have plenty of help and work fast.

Just think, you can save so much time and energy by canning in the plant where there is plenty of equipment and space. Believe it or not, the plant is one of the coolest places that can be found in the summer.

Approximately seventy - five families canned in the plant last year and they will agree that the work is lots easier than any way they have ever canned.

The plant will be operated under the supervision of Miss Sara Nell Lightsey, Vocational Home Economics Teacher, the first part of the summer and Mr. Elvin Hill, Vocational Agriclulture Teacher, the later part of the summer.

HUGH SIMS JR., TO REPRESENT POST 131 AT BOY'S STATE

(G. C. Moore, Jr., Adjutant)

NEW RECEPTION CENTER AT KILBY

Alabama Prisons Director J. M. McCullough has disclosed plans for a new reception center at Kilby State Prison.

McCullough said the work should be completed in about 30 days. It will enable prison authorities to seperate new arrivals from the regular inmates, while they are being classified, equipped and assigned.

The new center will be in the Kilby wing now occupied by the laundry. The prison showers and clothing issue centers had been located in teh same wing.

A new laundry, which will take care of the needs of all the prisons and road camps, is being installed at Draper Prison, Speigner. The showers are being scattered through the cell blocks, and a clothing center is being located in each cell block.

TIMBER MONEY

Nine Towns Will Divide Forest Income

BRISTOL, Vt.—Nine Addison county towns will get $13,142 as their share in the Green Mountain National Forest receipts for the fiscal year ending last June 30, according to the forest supervisor. A total of $33,961 will be awarded to 39 towns as their share of 25 per cent of the gross revenue of $159,-845.

This total represents an all-time high due to the abnormal revenue realized from the sales of timber blown down by the November, 1950, hurricane.

The towns sharing in the money are: Bristol (pop. 1,200) $886.25; Goshen $597,19; Granville $2,473.03; Hancock $2,571.03; Leicester $486.40; Lincoln $1,796.62; Middlebury (pop. 2,200) $465.24; Ripton $3,291.21; and Salisbury $573.17.

Salvage Operations

The salvage of blow-down timber on the National Forest started as soon after the hurricane as the stumpage could be appraised and sold. About 90 per cent of the windthrown timber that can be salvaged has already been sold and about 40 per cent of this has been cut into logs and pulpwood by logging operators.

Of the 18 million board feet of blown-down timber that occurs in amounts and in locations where it can be salvaged, 16½ million board feet have already been sold and 7¼ million board feet have been salvaged.

The clearing of the Long Trail, which runs the entire length of the National Forest, was a big job and it took three crews working with power saws five months. However it was ready for use on August 1.

The clearing of National Forest and town roads in the blow-down area was a substantial job and in addition many roads suffered extensive washouts as a result of the heavy rains that accompanied the windstorm. The roads were all cleared by late spring and all of the roads but one opened to traffic. The Stratton Turnpike, running from West Arlington to West Wardsboro, is still closed to traffic due to washouts in Stratton and in Sunderland. Plans have been made to repair the damaged sections in Stratton this summer. ●

Revenue to Drop

The division of this $39,961.44 between the towns amounts to 19 cents per acre. This is the highest return per acre since the establishment of the National Forest and is 9 cents above the 10 year average.

The shares of the towns for the year ending June 30, 1952, will be somewhat less than for the current year, but will exceed the 10 year average. The following years will probably show a slight decline and it is possible that by the end of fiscal year 1954 the earnings will approach or be less than the 10 year average.

The study of the amount that can be cut safely from the National Forest, giving full consideration to the hurricane damage, may necessitate some adjustment in the annual cut. In the meantime, communities that benefit from sale of timber from the forest will have to plan budgets with the cut in revenue in mind.

Village Is Being Moved To Make Way for Road

AGNEW, Mich.—The 100-year-old village of Agnew on U.S. highway No. 31, seven miles south of Grand Haven, is being moved to make way for a modern highway.

Plans call for hauling to new sites a little white frame church, a tavern and a dozen houses to make way for widening to 200 feet highway No. 31. The Agnew school and a gasoline station are among the structures that will not be moved. But the school will be flush on the new highway.

William Brolick, operator of a 30-year-old feed and grocery store, said he would benefit from the road widening. His store building will be torn down and a new structure erected for him on a site near by.

The state will pay for moving the buildings, which are to go on new foundations already put in. A dozen houses clustered in the village will be set back several hundred yards.

Agnew is one of the many communities that sprang up along the eastern shore of Lake Michigan during the beginning of the sawmill industry a century ago. Many of these towns have disappeared completely and some like Agnew, consist of a few stores and a cluster of houses.

During the present century Agnew has served as a trading center for farmers and of recent years has benefited from the growing tourist trade in west Michigan.

Utah Village Completely Paralized by Blizzard

EUREKA, Utah—The recent storms in Utah so crippled the small community of Eureka it had to appeal to the state for aid. Schools were closed in the town for several days. The mayor reported that at one time the streets were blocked by five feet of snow, that is, mixed with drifts piled to the rooftops in places by the high wind. The community has a population of about 1,000.

RETIREMENT CREDIT EXTENDED HEALTH AND WELFARE DEPARTMENTS

The Board of Control for State Employees Retirement has opened the system to certain employes of the Health and Welfare Departments so they can receive retirement credit for certain years of prior service.

Resolutions by the board said that eligible persons in the Health Department shall receive credit for service rendered prior to October 1, 1945, including service in county units.

County Health Department workers can receive credit for service prior to July, 1947, under the new board regulations.

The board voted to allow Welfare Department employes who are eligible for prior service credit to get credit toward retirement for all service prior to October 1, 1945, including county service.

The board voted to allow workers who become servicemen to get retirement credit for their time in the military service after they return to work for the state.

Such servicemen must pay a make-up contribution to the retirement system fund upon return to their job with the state.

JUSTICE GOODWYN LEADS DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET

Justice John L. Goodwyn, Montgomery, polled the most votes of any candidate in the May 6 Alabama Democratic primary, in which a total of over 286,000 votes were cast.

Goodwyn got 168,889 votes in his successful race for Supreme Court nomination against former State Senator Broughton Lamberth. Lamberth received 102,112 votes.

Goodwyn and other candidates supported by Governor Gordon Persons won clear-cut victories over the slate of former Governor James E. Folsom.

A STATEMENT

BY OWEN BRIDGES

Candidate for the Office of Probate Judge, Subject to the Primary Election of June 3, 1952

I want to express my appreciation to the people of Shelby county for the many courtesies extended to me during my entire campaign.

It is my feeling that the office which I seek is one of dignity and honor; that a candidate for this office should not stoop to mud-slinging and smear tactics; therefore I have waged a clean, aggressive, campaign, at all times showing the proper respect for my opponent.

With an unshaken faith and the utmost confidence in the good people of Shelby county, I leave the fate of my candidacy in your hands.

Your vote and active support will be appreciated.

UP AND DOWN MAIN

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE

JIM ELLIS COPELAND

We had not seen personable Jim Ellis Copeland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Copeland (Margaret Ellis), since she was stricken last summer with Polio. That is, not until this morning. However, Monday started off just right, for this little six year old lovely walked right in our office with her proud Grand-dad, L. H. Ellis, and is perfectly well! In talking with Jim Ellis, we asked her how old she was. She proudly proclaimed that she was six years old and minus one tooth, and proved it by showing us exactly where the "tooth" used to be. Jim Ellis has as pretty a pair of eyes as we have seen in a long time, and says she is enjoying her visit in the home of her grand-parents Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Ellis. At the time we saw Jim Ellis, she was ordering "Big Handy" around, and believe it or not this fellow was doing her bidding "on the double" and whats more, smiling about it. I am further dead certain that Handy Ellis' grand-children hold the distinction of being the only people in the world who have ever made him STOP - LOOK - and LISTEN. Nobody else, can stop the fellow long enough to put a period on the end of a sentence.

JESSE HORTON

Jesse Horton is one of the brightest youngsters we have encountered this summer, and Jesse is not only a jolly good fellow among his classmates, he has a keen eye for business during vacation and is mixing work with play, which is as it should be.

Now, here's a tip for you folk who have wanted your lawns cut, just get in touch with Jesse Horton and turn the job over to him. He will do you a splendid piece of work and he furnishes his own equipment. We personally recommend him and his lawn mower for a 'good deal!'

FISHING AT FOSTER'S

Foster's Lake seems to be the most popular place around here for taking a rod and reel or a hook-line and sinker. If we thought we could ever make anyone as happy as those five "fishes" Judy Carter caught made Judy, we would think our life had not been spent in vain. Curtis Bean and Bob Holliman also caught a nice string, and Barney Isbell and Carl South, who arrived last Thursday at daylight, at this place after a breakfast in the Isbell home for the party of four, simply caught the limit with a whopping good sunburn for good measure. We have promised to drive out to this "fabulously beautiful retreat," but as far as those fish go, they can swim right on wherever they are going. I would not touch one with a forty foot pole. They are the deadest-dead looking things my eyes have ever seen, and O-so clam-my! Now, when the next phase of their former existence is reached, and Cookie has "egged and battered and browned them," thats a different story and one which we can always finish with the rest of them. In other words, we can always 'eat'em'.... but catching the wigglers, is definitely not "my line!"

LETTERS WE LIKE TO GET

Dear Friend: I am sending you two dollars for the renewal of the Reporter-Democrat. I can hardly get along without the home paper. Thank you so very much for your special offer.

Mrs. Ira Ray

Dear Mrs. Wallace: Enclosed find $2.00 for my subscription to "Our Home Town Paper." Feel lost without it.

CULTURE CLUB MEETS

The members of the Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. Barney Isbell on the afternoon of May 15th, and one of the most interesting programs of the year was presented by Mrs. Oakley Vincent, Columbiana Florist. Mrs. Vincent gave a talk and demonstration on the making of Corsages, presenting members with various designs. An orchid was the reward offered by this popular Florist, and Mrs. Luther Curlee won this prize.

Following the program, Mrs. Isbell served a delectable salad plate. On Thursday, May 22, the Club members met in executive session at the home of Mrs. Rux Carter. Installation of officers included the following members who will serve for 1952. Mrs. Rux Carter, president; Mrs. Howard Hall, Vice President; Mrs. L. H. King, Secretary and Treasurer.

After a discussion of next fall's activities, Mrs. Carter, assisted by Mrs. Luther Fowler and Mrs. Conrad M. Fowler, served a sea-food salad plate with tea.

WILLIE KELLY CIRCLE

The Willie Kelly Circle met May 19th at the home of Mrs. Lonnie Brown with Mrs. Gene Edmondson, chairman, in charge of the meeting.

The meeting was opened with our year song "All Hail The Power of Jesus Name," after which Mrs. N. T. Atchison gave an inspiring devotional "What More Are You Doing Than These?"

Mrs. Arthur Wood, secretary, read the April minutes, called the roll and gave the financial report. Mrs. Stella Stokes joined the circle.

Reports of the different committees were made and plans were discussed to help furnish the church kitchen.

Mrs. Brown served a delicious plate of sandwiches, cookies and drinks to eleven members, two visitors, Mrs. Bean and Miss Rena Taylor and six children.

RAYS OF SUNLIGHT ALONG THE WAY

New and renewal subscriptions come into this little journalistic retreat daily, and they are veritable sunbeams across the Inky Trail. Often friends come by personally to ask that we send the "Home Paper" to a loved one. Mothers of soldier boys in camp come by to tell us how "lonely" Johnny Doughboy would be without this messenger from home each week, and realizing that much depends on what we write into these columns, and how dependent we are on you and you and you to let us know what is happening in your communities and in your towns, we hope you will send us in the interesting news items or call us if you reside in Columbiana and give us the latest news flashes. The boys and out of county folk, I know, will appreciate it, and certainly, I shall be grateful, as it is impossible for me to know who went where and why, unless you tell me about it. Then, when you do this, I gladly take it from there, and it goes to the four corners of the globe. Never doubt it, for Shelby county is represented in a lot of countries, by our splendid young men and women, and they tell me that no one thing brings them more happiness "away from home" than the news they read in the Reporter-Democrat.

Now let's see how many new folk will take their seats in the "reserved section" of our weekly reading circle this week.

. . . And, while having luncheon at Edmondson's Friday, we saw our good friends Mr. and Mrs. Orin Pearson from Shelby, who also requested that we reserve their "box seat" which they have occupied for years in our reading arena. This we hasten to do with our thanks for "fellowing us thru all these years."

. . . Simon Blackerby was a student in S. C. H. S. when we used to "wave our baton" as we treked the Melody Highway with these interesting folk. We had not seen Simon in several years, until Friday, when he came by and we had the pleasure of greeting him, and chalking up his score with the "home paper" for another 52 issues. It is always good to see old friends and review old familiar scenes which we both happily recalled during his short stay. Yes, we may wander far, and in many different fields of endeavor, but we have never forgotten our days at old Shelby High, nor those who made them.... unforgettable!

. . . Mrs. Talton, mother of James Talton, is our first visitor this Spring morning. Mrs. Talton says, "I lay awake last night just wondering what I could send my son, James Talton (who is stationed in Spokane Washington), for his birthday, which is June 2, and by the way, this date also marks his wedding anniversary, and quick as a flash, it popped into my mind.... "The Home Paper".... so here I am this morning asking that you send it to him beginning this week."

Mrs. Talton has had four sons in the service and is thankful to an all wise Providence who sent them all safely back to her. However, James, she tells me, "didn't get enough of it. So, he has returned." (O. K. James, be on the look-out for us up there in busy Spokane, Washington, for we are on our way to 1808 West College Street, to greet you this very week and to wish for you a happy happy birthday.)

. . . Next, from way up in Nebraska, from Jean and John McCrory comes a splendid letter, ordering the Reporter-Democrat for another year. A host of friends remember Jean and John who made their home here for a few months, and they are hoping they will return and bring that little one in to see us who has arrived since they left us.

. . . Our appreciation to A. P. Longshore Jr., of Birmingham, for a splendid letter expressing personal interest in the Reporter-Democrat evidenced by a renewal subscription to the "Home Paper." The Longshore's have many friends in Columbiana who remember their hospitable home and the good times we had when craming for exams or celebrating after they were over with a spend-the night party. How Mrs. Longshore ever managed to provide enough food for all those twelve children, plus several more of us, and with a smile of welcome thrown in for good measure, is yet a mystery to this scribe who, frequently, was a member of this Lilliputian Merry-Go-Round. We still regard these halcyon childhood days as bright beacons along the trail that leads to.... Memoryland .

. . . T. C. Rush, Sr., paid a visit to our office and says he "does not believe he and his wife could keep house without that little old paper known as the Reporter-Democrat" which, he stated is read each week from "cover to cover" and always enjoyed! (That is the kind of visit this scribbler just loves!)

BEG PARDON BRIAN GORDON WAY UP IN WILMINGTON

Last week in mentioning the visit from the H. M. Gordon's to the Paul Lucks, which is scheduled for June 15, the name of Brian was inadvertnently omitted from the names of the children, Wayne, Gregg, and Janet. This was simply a linotype error, that we failed to catch, for we would never be guilty of leaving out that little cherbub's name. He is the baby in the crowd, but about the roly-polyest big fellow you ever saw, and we are all eagerly anticipating the arrival of Bub, Ruth, Gregg, Wayne, BRIAN and Janet, when June 15 comes rolling around.

. . . Mrs. Mae Gilmore was the honoree in the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Lauderdale Sunday, when she celebrated the passing of her ninetieth birthday anniversary. Friends and loved ones had the privilege of extending their good wishes for "many happy returns of this day."

. . . Speaking of folk who are happily travelling along the sunset years, we hear that Mr. Irvin Wingard who resides near Wilsonville is, or soon will be, ninety-eight years young! Isn't that marvelous? Mr. Wingard still maintains a keen interest in all current happenings and is remarkably active for his years.

. . . Thanks to Mrs. E. F. Sloan who found a copy of April 24th Reporter-Democrat. We are short on this issue for our files.

. . . Friends enjoyed greeting Carl and Gertrude South of Tuscaloosa, last week when they spent a few days in Columbiana as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Isbell.

Duke-Brown Wedding In July

PATSY FAY BROWN

DUKE-BROWN ENGAGEMENT AND APPROACHING WEDDING ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Brown, Columbiana, Alabama ,announce the engagement of their daughter, Patsy Fay to Warren Cecil Duke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Duke, Columbiana, Alabama.

The wedding will be solemnized in July..

. . . Jay and Myra Falkner and two children and Alvin and Frances Stinson joined the Ozley-Wallace houseparty at Laguna Beach last Thursday and returned home Sunday, with the popular Florida tan!

. . . Pvt. Homer C. Joiner who is stationed at Camp Gordon, Ga., will be happier this week on account of the thoughtfulness of his mother, Mrs. Jack Joiner, who has just been in and ordered the paper sent to his camp.

. . . C. R. Montgomery, of Shelby paid us a personal visit to renew his loyalty to this county wide read paper each week, for which we express our gratitude.

. . . The Rev. and Mrs. David Bentley of Riverside Baptist Church, near Wetumpka, spent the week end with Mr. Bentley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bentley. We have just had the pleasure of writing up a renewal subscription to the "Home Paper" for Mrs. Bentley, who says this paper is a "must" on her reading list each week. And thats the "best news" we get around official quarters! (Thanks, so much for telling us so!)

. . . Glad to learn Glenda Davis is on the road to get-well-again following two invasions of measles.

. . . Sam A. Lokey had the privilege of candle-puffing last Tuesday, when he said hail and farewell to another birthday anniversary.

JOHN THOMPSON CALLS OUR HAND

Alabama Power Company's John Thompson gets around about as fast and regularly as any fellow we know, and when I say "regularly" I mean on the dot each month. His theme song is "pay up or your light goes out." Now, last week, we made the assertion that only a "penny box of matches, and the Reporter-Democrat, remained the same in price." John Thompson came into our office on the double, immediately after the paper hit the Main Drag, and says "Lady, I usually agree with you on what you write, but, you are all wrong regarding items left in 'no advance in cost'. The Alabama Power Company has not advanced one single copper penny," he continued. "No, not one penny." Finally, we got a word in edge ways and asked him "How come, light bill so much more than it used to be?". He replied.... "All those new fangled gadgets, thats what!" We admitted we had a few "Ready Kilowatts" in our home, but we had had them for a long time. However, the man simply argued so fast and made so many negative gestures, we could not keep up with him. So, you who have been complaining about your light bill, see John Thompson, and he will either convince you that you are wrong, or you will be so weary trying to convince him you are right, that you will give up, go home, and turn on every "gadget" you can find, and whats more, pay him when he comes smiling around with that "yellow reminder."

. . . Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ray celebrated the passing of a wedding anniversary last Sunday.

. . . Betty C. Weldon received the good wishes from her friends on May 27, when her birthday anniversary was observed.

MARY MIMS TO RETURN TO SHELBY HIGH

The good news is going around Main this morning that Mary Mims, popular Director of Music for Columbiana schools, will return to Columbiana next September and continue the excellent work she is doing here in the Elementery and High School music departments. Miss Mims is one of the most talented and versatile musicians we have ever known and Columbiana is indeed fortunate in obtaining so gifted a person to direct these all important factors in a well rounded education.

MORE GOOD NEWS

Sara Nell Lightsey, efficient director of Home Economics Department of S. C. H. S. will be with us for six weeks this summer directing the canning activities at the Hgh School Canning Center. A complete schedule will be released at an early date thru this paper.

. . . Benny Owens will share honors with Memorial Day, May 30, for this date will be "his day" in his home where the traditional birthday cake with the proper number of candles on it will be in readiness for the celebration.

. . . We appreciate Mrs. Edith Eaves bringing us 'one of the editions of our paper dated April 24, which will certainly be a great help to us in completing our files.

. . . The prettiest secretary in this man's town, according to the way we look them over is Annette Thompson who is pinch-hitting in her father's office for Mrs. Bradley during her absence.

. . . Mrs. Rose Collins is visiting Mrs. Nona Little this week and it looks good to see Rose and Nona down town together this morning. Mrs. Collins now resides in Gadsden.

. . . Bob Holliman has finished his course in Music Appreciation, Piano, Voice and Choral work in Chelsea School for this season and is well pleased with the progress his pupils have made in their individual and collective work.

Bob divided his piano pupils into three grades a few months ago, and an enthusiastic contest has been waged bewteen these pupils for the award he offered which was a gold Music Pin, signifying Excellent Work. The winners in the first grade were Brenda Turner and Sandra Champion who tied for first place; Anna Fay Hill walked off with the honor for the second grade and Charlotte Ann Carlisle won top score in the third grade group. Congratulations.

. . . Waylon Davis, Bobby Martin and Jack Butler will leave June 2, for San Diego, California, to begin training with Uncle Sam's Blue Jackets.

. . . Newsprint has taken another jump. Canadian newsprint now sells for $126.00 per ton. Those people who claim to be "in the know" state that this continued upsurge in essential material going into the publication of a paper, will force many more daily periodicals to merge their interests, as well as have the effect of tending to drive out of print small county papers. Here's hoping this little Democrat Donkey can keep on "swimming' 'around on the sea of popular favor with his chin up.

ART SCHOOL TO OPEN

The Art School which will be directed by Mrs. John Jones will open in the High School June 2, and will run thru July 9. A number of students haev already enrolled, but there may be others who want to take advantage of this school. If so, please contact Mrs. Jones for further information regarding it. Her phone number is 5263, Columbiana.

RICKY EVANS

Have you seen little one month old Ricky Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Evans? If you have not, then, you have something very special to look forward to. Ricky made his first visit down town last Friday, and slept thru it! Evidently Ricky did not think enough interesting things were happening to risk even one eye on the surroundings, but, remember Ricky is only one month old. Watch for a paragraph about Ricky sixteen years from now and see how wide awake he is to happenings on the Main Drag.

MEMBER TAKES INTEREST IN SEWING PROJECT

Pat Mooney of the Camp Branch 4-H Club really takes an interest in her 4-H Sewing Project.

Pat likes to sew and in completing her 1st year's eSwing Propleting her 1st year's Sewing Pro-4 pot holders, 4 dish towels, and and apron. Her apron of blue and red flowered print won first place in her Club Apron Revue. In making her dish towels, she designed tulips of green, yellow, and red which she stenciled on the edges.

She also likes to cook and plans to take Foods as her project next year along with sewing.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:8, 13-16, 27-32; Mark 10:2-12; Luke 2:40.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Ephesians 5:1-10.

Why Purity?

Lesson for June 1, 1952

AMONG THE NEW IDEAS that come into the world with the Christian religion is the ideal of purity, as we understand it. We acknowledge our debt here to Judaism, but Judaism never pushed into all the world as Christianity did.

Dr. Foreman

Christianity took over from the Old Testament and renewed with fresh emphasis an idea of which the entire ancient world knew nothing, the ideal fo purity as God's will for all of us.

The Greeks and Romans admired vestal virgins and the like; but they looked on them as a small and special class, not like ordinary mortals. All peoples even the most primitive have some kind of sex taboos; even those that permit adultery impose some limitations on it.

What Purity Means

THE TRUE CHRISTIAN idea, the New Testament idea, Christ's idea, of purity means something far deeper and higher than merely not committing adultry. It means chastity in its full sense.

It is not the same thing as celibacy or not marrying. It is not the same thing as perpetual virginity, otherwise we could never speak of a chaste wife. Put as simply as possible, purity in the Christian sense of the word means that sex is always to be thought of in the closest connection with love and the home.

It is not true New Testament teaching to say that sex is bad in itself. It is even farther from the New Testament to say that sex is good in itself.

Pursued for its own sake, it destroys the happiness of the pursuer; taken into the atmosphere of true love, bound in the solemn vows of genuine marriage, it can belong in a life of real happiness and goodness.

Forsaking All Others

CHRIST QUITE CLEARLY taught as the ideal of marriage a lifetime unbroken union of one man and one woman. Since the times in which he lived were, like ours, a time of easy divorce, his disciples, good men though they were, felt puzzled about this.

Today on all sides the Christian ideal of marriage is still under attack as too rigid, as beyond the capacity of normal human beings, as being a sort of cage invented by priests and preachers. Love should be free, we are told.

You do not need to go to the Bible to see how wrong this is. Just fall in love and you will understand the truth. When a man and woman are in love, really in love, enough to dare marriage together, they do not need a priest or a preacher or a Bible to tell them what God who made them has already put into their hearts: that true love means just each for the other, for always.

What young man would care to marry a girl who would say to him on their wedding ay, "Darling, you are the only man I love—with maybe half a dozen exceptions." What girl would feel like going on with the ceremony if at the altar the young man said, "I take thee for my wedded wife, from this day forward, for better not for worse, for richer not for poorer, in health but not in sickness, till discontent do us part."

The flower-to-flower notion of love is something every couple truly in love can see is nonsense, and worse.

Heart of the Home

PREACHERS HAVE BEEN saying for a long time, but now they don't need to say it any more for a while, because scientific investigators, sociologists, psychiatrists, probation officers, juvenile court judges, all are saying the same thing: It is the home that makes, or unmakes, the boy and girl.

Juvenile delinquents, we are told by those who know, come from all sorts of homes, but not from homes where the parents live in harmony.

So it is not only for one's own sake that purity is an ideal to be cherished and lived out. It is for the sake of the rising generation, it is for the whole community's sake.

Do you want to know whether the next generation will be strong and good or weak and bad? Look into the homes where they are now growing up. The homes of today tell the story of the characters of tomorrow. And nothing eats out the heart of a home so quickly, no other serpent has so potent a poison, as impurity.

Veterans' Column

State Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

E. J. SULLIVAN, VSO

Direct Loan - The Regional Office of the Veterans' Administration in Montgomery has announced that the sum of $835,000 has been appropriated for the purpose of making direct home loans to veterans in Alabama. This money is to be used for the quarter ending on June 30th, at which time another appropriation will be made.

Officials of the VA Regional Office in Montgomery say that they now have on hand about 400 applications for direct loans. In addition, they have about 300 letters requesting application forms. These letters have been received since the VA discontinued accepting applications some time ago. We are informed that the present $835,000 will take care of about 111 loans. We are unable to say how much the additional amount to be received on July 1st will be. It may be more and it may be less, or it may be the same.

It is believed that a number of applications now on hand will be cancelled. Also, it is probable that a number of veterans who wrote the VA requesting loans, have now made other arrangements for financing their homes. The Veterans' Administration advises us that interested veterans who have not filed formal application or who have not written letters about a direct loan, should continue to write letters, stating their desire, so that they may be placed in line for consideration.

At the present time, the Regional Office is Processing formal applications on file according to the date of receipt of the application and will continue this policy until the total number of pending applications is disposed of. When this is done, they will send a notice to each veteran who has made a request by letter, as their names are reached by receipt date, informing them that they will be allowed 15 days to file a formal application. The application form will be enclosed with the letter. There are some cases where the veteran filed formal applications after the date on which the VA stopped receiving them. In these cases, the application was returned to the veteran with a notice that he would be advised when his name is reached for consideration and that application could again be made at that time.

Former Prisoner Of War - The Alabama Department Of Veterans' Affairs is compiling a complete list of all former prisoners of war residing in the state. If you were in the hands of the enemy during war time, we ask that you contact your nearest County Veterans Service Officer of the State Department of Veterans Affairs. This might be of great importance to you or your survivors.

AMERICAN PROBLEMS CLASS TABULATES PRESIDENTIAL STRAW VOTE

Were you given the privilege of participating in the recent poll of presidential candidates taken by the American Problems Class of Shelby County High School? Did your family receive the pamplet, "Election Special," which was prepared and distributed by this class?

The class wishes you to know its method used in this project. A list was made from the qualified voters' list of Box 1 and 3 of Beat 1. Each member of the class was responsible for seeing several voters, carrying with him a prepared poll list and the complimentary pamplet. One pamplet was to be left with each family represented.

Your failure to be included in this public opinion poll was due to one or more of the following reasons:

1. Your name was not on the list of qualified voters.
2. You were not at home when the class representative went to your home or place of business.
3. You refused to participate in the project.
4. The member of the class, who was responsible for the visit to you, failed in his responsibilty.

The class wshes to thank each one who cooperated in making this preferential, presidential poll a success.

Below you will find the results.

Improving Farms For Higher Production

Outstanding progress in farm improvement and better farm management by families cooperating in the program of the Farmers Home Administration, was reparted today by Stephen S. Pierce, FHA Supervisor for Shelby county.

Increases in feed and forage crops, better pastures, more livestock, and newly constructed or repaired farm buildings are among the major steps being taken in Shelby county to make this year's production top that of last year.

James B. Crawford, Jr., near Calera is clearing 40 acres of land for pasture. Joe M. Smith near Columbiana has planted 20 acres of Sericea for grazing and hay. He has also added 10 more cows to his beef herd. Joe D. Kinney of Wilsonville is finishing a new barn and James M. Hall, his neighbor ,has added 5 cows and a pure bred bull to his beef herd. He has also completed a new laying house and has 500 pullets for fall layers.

This increased income spent locally helps strengthen the whole community. It helps local business, makes better customers for banks, means larger contributions for churches, and increases tax resources for schools, good roads, and other public projects. It also represents food and fiber increase for the national emergency.

Major earnings of farm ownership families this past year were from cotton, beef cattle, and dairying.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: Complaints continue to pour in this office with the request that law enforcement officers crack down on speeding automobiles that whizz thru this town totally disregarding any speed limit and endangering daily the lives of pedestrians. Why it has not been done, is the $64.00 question!

This past week end, had a properly authorized person been stationed down our way where hundreds of cars passed going to the fishing grounds at Shelby, they would certainly have had convincing evidence that something drastic needs to be done and should no longer be ignored.

BURNS BENNETT

Glad to learn that my good friend, Burns Bennett, versatile columnist with Alabama Journal, and director of Records and Reports from State of Alabama Capitol offices, is gaining fame as a lecturer or guest speaker at various civic clubs throughout the state. I hear that Mr. Bennett's appearance before the Kiwanians in Opelika all but "put 'em in the aisles".... This is just a tip to the local members of Kiwanis if they happen to be in the market for a scintilating session.

Burns Bennett has a Lincolnesque 'figure'.... or should I say 'physique', with a Red Skelton personality, if you get what I mean.

REV. J. E. FRANKS MAKING SPLENDID RECORD AS CHAPLAIN

A gentleman from Montgomery came by to see us one day last week and told us of the outstanding success the Rev. J. E. Franks was making in his position as Chief Chaplain of Alabama Prisons. A few days later, Mr. Franks was in Columbiana proudly displaying some of those lovely leather Bill folds, which are hand made by some of the inmates of these prison camps. The craftsmanship is truly amazing and the genuine leather makes them practical. So, the next time he comes this way, better get him to send you one. The price is only $6.00 and in none of the regular stores could you duplicate this grade of leather for less than $12.00. These unfortunate ones deprived, for the time being of their freedom, we feel sure will appreciate the personal interest this minister is taking as he goes about doing his part in the state's rehabilitation program and in addition to regular assignments, he finds time to lend encouragement to their various interests and readily helps them whenever and wherever possible.

ATTENTION BOSSES BEHIND YOUR MAHOGANY DESKS

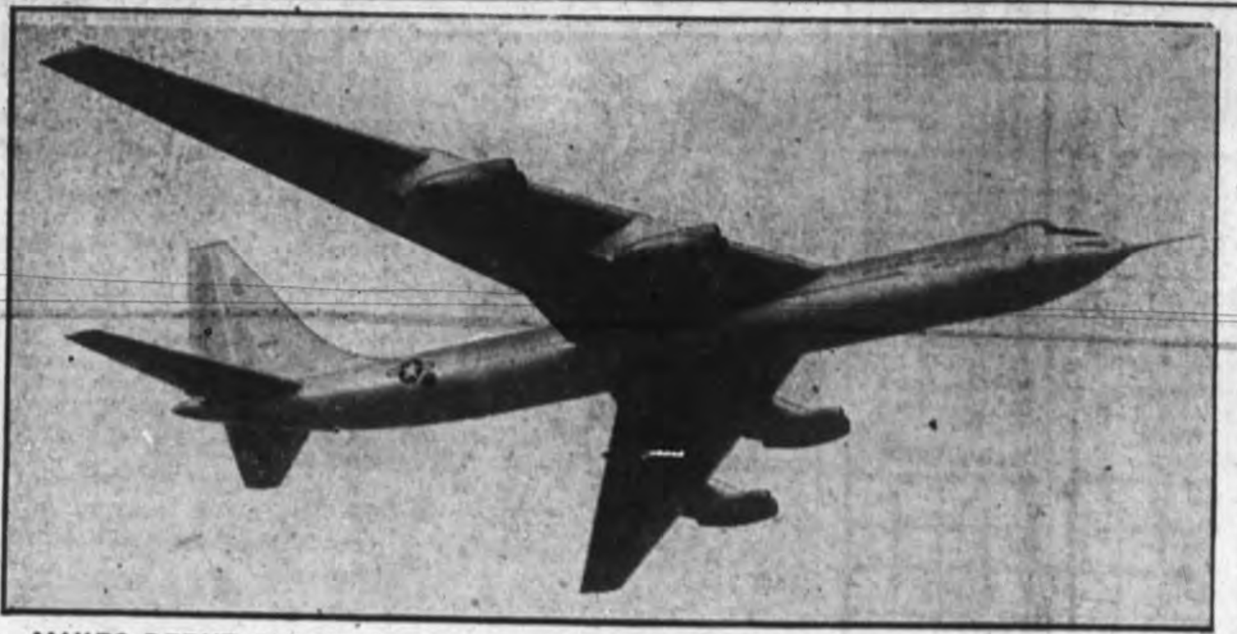
This is National Secretaries Week! It has been set aside to honor the American Secretary "upon whose skill, loyalty and efficiency the functions of business and government depend."

Our attention has been called to this fact, with the request from one of the pretty scribes in town, to "say something about it, hoping the Boss will do something about it".... So, here goes!

Every executive who has a secretary should take time out to express his appreciation for her conscientious work in his behalf. Some token of gratitude, other than 'words', or "take a letter," should be given her. When this thoughtful courtesy has been extended by "His Nibs".... the day will be highlighted for her during many days to come. There is a shortage of competent secretaries and no longer should they be taken for granted.

It has been said that we only realize our blessings, after they are gone. Now I ask you lawyers, courthouse officials, store owners, and professional men, how do you think you would fare even one day without the assistance of that little secretary, you have possibly taken, up to now, for granted?

Better stop and salute that manipulator of the black and white keys. Remember this is "Her Week!" Say it with something, somehow, somewhere, sometime or you might be sor-ree!



MAKES DEBUT FLIGHT—Powered by eight jet engines, the Consolidated Vultee YB-60 swept-wing bomber thunders over Fort Worth, Tex., where it is undergoing flight tests. The new bomber flew for the first time April 18, but the U. S. Air Force authorized release of pictures only recently.

Circuit Court Called For Early July

According to an announcement just made by Judge W. W. Wallace, presiding judge of the 18th judicial circuit, a two weeks session of the Shelby County Circuit Court will be held in Columbiana beginning July 7, and continuing thru July 19th. The Grand Jury will also assemble on July 7, for the investigation of cases on the Grand Jury Docket.

ALABAMA LOCAL BOARDS TO INDUCT 1398 IN JULY

Alabama's induction call for July will be 1398 men according to Colonel J. T. Johnson, Jr., Acting State Director of Selective Service. The figure of 1398 men represents Alabama's part of the national call of 31,000 men.

The number of men Shelby county will be called upon to furnish for the July call is 20.

'QUO VADIS' TO BE IN MONTEVALLO

The magnificent portrayal on the screen of the immortal book, "Quo Vadis" will be shown in Montevallo at the Strand Theatre on June 12-13. NEW METHOD OF SELECTING SCHOOL BOOKS

Dr. W. J. Terry, state school superintendent, has disclosed that a new method of selecting Alabama public school books may be adopted.

The possibility resulted from a recent attack by Birmingham real estate men on selection of a 12th grade social studies book. In their recent meeting, Terry, and other State Board of Education members agreed that "a more adequate" system of reviewing textbooks is needed.

Terry said the 14-member textbook committee must review as many as 2,900 volumes in the 25 days they are allowed to go over the books.

"It is a physical impossibility for 14 people to do a thorough job of reviewing that many books," he declared.

HOLIDAY TOLL IS RECORD 500

(Birmingham News)

Observance of the three-day memorial Day holiday this year cost the nation more than 500 lives—a record number for the holiday.

Traffic accidents accounted for at least 363 dead, the worst highway slaughter for an extended Memorial Day week end in the nation's history. Off the highways, 85 persons were drowned and 62 others died in various accidents of a violent nature.

This year's record breaking traffic toll for the three-day period exceeded by 16 the previous Memorial Day all-time high of 347, recorded in 1950. And that was for a four-day Memorial week end. The previous three-day toll was 253 in 1949.

DR. GATES TO BEGIN INOCULATION OF DOGS

Monday, June 9, in Siluria Dr. John Gates, veterinarian, will begin his rounds for the purpose of inoculating dogs against rabies. The fact that in several parts of the county rabies has been found makes this year's program more necessary than ever before.

The law plainly states as follows: "Every owner of a dog shall cause the dog to be inoculated against rabies by the Rabies Inspector, or a competent veterinarian.... (Dr. Gates qualifies under both positions) when the dog becomes three months old, prior to September 1, of each year."

The above law will be strictly enforced by Dr. John Gates as a precaution against rabies. His complete schedule appears in the current issue of the Reporter-Democrat. Please check it and go to the clinic nearest your home and take the dog for his shot. You owe this precaution, not only for your own protection, but for the protection of your neighbors.

Dr. Gates will hold these clinics from June 9, thru June 14.

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT DARGIN

The Concord (Dargin) Baptist Church has completed plans for their annual memorial day service on June 8th (2nd Sunday). The public and all singers are cordially invited. We are expecting lots of good singers, there will be lunch for all, at the lunch hour.

The Winner

L. C. WALKER

County Shows Only 114 Vote Difference In Two Candidates

In a close race Judge L. C. Walker won re-nomination for the office of Probate Judge over Owen Bridges of Montevallo in the run-off primary election held Tuesday. The complete but unofficial count gives Judge Walker a total of 1975 votes to 1861 for Bridges. A majority for Walker of 114 votes. The total vote was 3836.

In the only other race in the run-off election, the state-wide contest between George C. Johnson and Judge Annie Lola Price the vote in Shelby county was, Johnson 1726; Price 1606.

In the state Judge Price won over Johnson by an estimated majority of 16,000.

Speaks At Montevallo

DR. O. C. CARMICHAEL

Dr. Carmichael Delivers Address At Alabama College

Oliver C. Carmichael, President of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, paid tribute to the teaching profession of the nation in his commencement address Monday morning to the Seniors of Alabama College at Montevallo.

A former president of Alabama's state college for women, Dr. Carmichael returned to the platform in Palmer Auditorium Monday to address 120 graduating seniors, and to recognize the work of Dean Thomas H. Napier and President John T. Caldwell.

Dr. Napier retires as Dean of Alabama College on July 1st, and Dr. Caldwell assumes the presidency of the University of Arkansas on the same date.

"First of all, let me suggest that the teacher is the central figure in education," Dr. Carmichael said. Acknowledging the importance of the library, the laboratory, the physical plant and the endowment, the former president pointed out that genuine educational results may be measured "only by proformance in the classroom and by daily contacts between the mature and the immature mind."

Aware that business, medicine, law and engineering have great appeal and perhaps enjoy greater prestige, Dr. Carmichael asserted that these professions have less potential influence on the social progress of the nation than does college and university teaching.

"The profession in the college and university guides, inspires and instructs the doctor, the lawyer, the preacher and all other business and professional leaders," the speaker said. Continuing he noted that the teaching faculty must mould the socal outlook and crystalize the ethics and philosophy under which business and professional leaders are guided. Too often the brunt of scorn and derision in the past, the professor of today is respected and admired," said Dr. Carmichael.

"Pure research led to the discovery of atomic fission, the greatest achievement of a technological age, so the scholar is not so impractical after all. The practical business man, the hard-boiled military leader and the government expert are all turning to the universities for help in the solution of their problems,"

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR SAM HOBBS

Funeral services for ex-Congressman Sam Hobbs, a champion of States Rights and bitter foe of the Truman racial program, was held Monday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church at Selma, where he was an elder.

The 64-year-old lawyer died Saturday from the long illness that forced his retirement from the House.

He retired to private life in 1950 near the end of his eighth term when doctors advised him it would be suicidal to seek re-election.

Hobbs was chosen to head an "Alabama Democratic Party" earlier this year when Senator Byrd of Virginia delivered a blistering anti-administration speech at Selma.

Hobbs was first elected to Congress in 1934. A native of Selma, he attended Vanderbilt University and the University of Alabama.

GOVERNOR TAKES STEP TO STAMP OUT GAMBLING

Governor Gordon Persons has taken another firm step in his drive to stamp out gambling in Alabama.

At the request of the governor the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, the licensing agency, voted to revoke or suspend the licenses of all retail beverage venders who allow gambling in their establishment, or have in their possesson equipment used for gambling.

State Asst. Atty. Gen. William N. McQueen, serving as the governor's legal adviser, said the governor would not tolerate the operation of slot machines and punch boards in Alabama.

He asked that the board clamp down on the ABC licensees who have gambling equipment in their possession, whether it be in use for gambling or not.

The board complied with the governor's request, stating that it deemed it undesirable for gambling devices such as slot machines and punch boards to be operated by retail liquor licensees.

The new regulation became effective June 4 to give time for the board to distribute copies of the regulation to its licensees.

LIVESTOCK COLISEUM IN MONTGOMERY

Agriculture Commission Frank M. Stewart says $1,250,000 worth of bonds will go on sale on June 16 to finish work on the State Livestock Coliseum in Montgomery.

Working on the structure was halted last year when the $1,500,000 originally provided for the job was used up. Stewart said the bond money would be used to close up the unfinished north and south ends with glass brick, install windows, lights, ventilation, heat and provide for acoustics.

The commissioner said the bonds will be retired over a 30-year period. Income from rentals and promotions at the coliseum is pledged to pay them off. If this is insufficient, the state agricultural fund will make up the difference.

Stewart said he believed that within two years after the building is ready for "year-around use" it will be payng for itself.

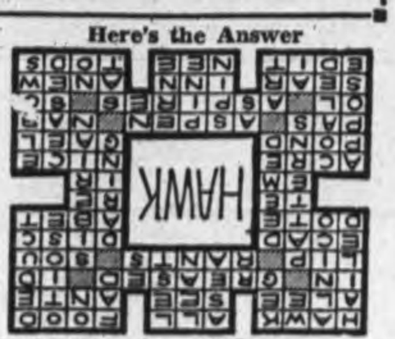
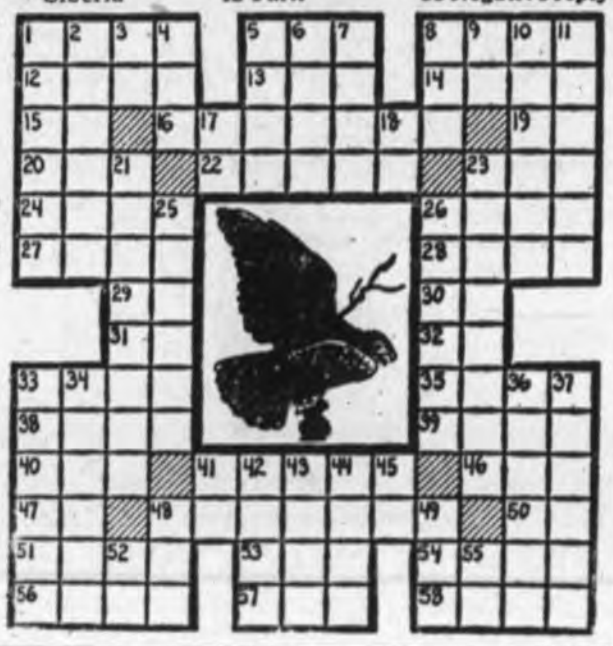
Here's the Answer





CONSUMERS WANT FRESH FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

Much of the usual loss in freshness and food value of fruits and vegetables can be eliminated if a few simple precautions are observed.

"For example," says Austin Ezzell, API Extension distributor marketing specialist, "everyone who handles fresh foods must be more careful than usual to see that they are not exposed to high temperatures and strong air currents for prolonged periods. If this is done, good retailers will complete the job by keeping the quality high until the foods are sold to the consumer."

PULLETS ON RANGE MAKE MORE PROFIT

The poultry range can be a source of health and feed for growing pullets, and higher growing cost make it necessary to raise healthy birds that will produce more eggs.

"Of course," says John Weeks, A. P. I. Extension poultry specialist, "chickens don't like hay. They like short tender grass, and it is good for them. Clipping the range whenever it becomes over six inches high will keep the grass short and tender. If it is mowed early it isn't necessary to rake up and haul off the cut grass."

The specialist reminds poultrymen that worms in chickens are an increasing problem. Therefore, it is advisable to treat the flock for roundworms two or three weeks before birds are housed.

If your waffle irons stick, try filling the irons with dry salt and heating. While the irons are still hit, clean out the salt wth a dry brush or cloth. Grease old-fashioned irons, when ready for use, with shortening. For electric irons, dip dry cloth or brush in olive or Wesson oil, and rub irons. They will not have to be greased again.

U. OF A. HAS 121ST COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES JUNE 1-3, 1952

The University of Alabama held its 121st commencement exercises on the campus June 1-3.

The ceremonies began with the baccalaurate sermon in Foster Auditorium at 5 P. M. Sunday and continued through the graduation at 10 A. M. Tuesday. Alumni day activities were scheduled Monday.

The University will confer two doctoral degrees and 73 masters degrees. Six hundred students are candidates for bachelors degrees, and eight students will receive certificates in library science or public administraton.

Sixty-three of Alabama's 67 counties will be represented by the graduates. Jefferson county leads with 122 students, and Tuscaloosa county has 79 candidates for degrees. Forty-two graduates are residents of Montgomery county, and 36 live in Mobile county. Only Cleburne, Conecuh, Coosa and Lowndes counties are not represented.

Florida led in the number of out-of-state candidates for degrees, with 26. Other states with more than 10 graduates included New York 25, Mississippi 22, Georgia 17, Tennessee 13, and New Jersey 11. Graduates represent 29 states, in addition to Alabama.

Seven foreign students will be graduated. They represent Canada, Canal Zone, Korea, Mexico, New Zealand, Puerto Rico and Sweden.

Shelby county graduates are: Frank Baker Elliott, Columbiana, BS in Commerce and Business Administration; Loy Jackson Hill, BS in Electrical Engineering; Helen Sullivan Hood, BS in Home Economics; Milton Cuyler, Smith, Jr., all of Montevallo.

THE CHRYSLER IMPERIAL 6-PASSENGER SEDAN

YOU'LL FIND IT EVEN BETTER THAN YOU'VE HEARD!..

It's been many years since a new car has caused as much talk as today's Chrysler Imperial has. What you may not realize is how long it's been since a car gave so many reasons for excited talk as this one.

May we invite you to drive and test the best and most worth-owning engine on the road today? (Chrysler's magnificent new 180 H.P. FirePower V-8.)

May we invite you to handle the easiest and safest steering wheel in existence at the moment? (Chrysler's full-time Power Steering.)

May we invite you to try out brakes which require as little as one-third the usual foot-pressure, and still stop you in many feet less than other cars do? (Chrysler Power Brakes.)

May we invite you to sit on the most comfortable seat cushions, and enjoy the fullest window vision you can find? May we invite you to ride on the rough-road miracle of the Oriflow shock absorbers which only Chrysler-built cars have?

May we invite you to drive a Chrysler Imperial . . . and learn how much you'd miss, and deeply regret, if you bought another car today without knowing this one first?

We . . . and Imperial by Chrysler . . . are at your service, any time.

Country Stores

Trend Toward Self-Service

MADISON, Wis.—There is a general trend toward self-service in country and small town stores, a recent survey reports. The system spells high efficiency and good profits.

Country stores, the survey reports, have relatively low expenditures for rent and personnel in comparison with city stores. And in terms of percent of sales, city stores pay more than twice as much rent as small town merchants.

On the other hand, city merchants have a drop on country operators with lower expenditures for truck maintenance and operation; for phone, heat, light and ice; and for freight and cartage.

The trend toward self-service in small town stores is further boosted by the fact that cash-and-carry keeps prices down, expenses low, and net profits at a higher level.

artinsburg Citizens ooperate to Build Successful Library

MARTINSBURG, Penn.—This is success story—the story of how small town built a community brary that has been going full tilt r a number of years.

A progressive, clean little comunity of approximately 2,000 peole, Martinsburg had about everyhing a small town should have but library. There had been talk of tarting one from time to time, but othing definite was accomplished.

Then, Jane Hoyt, a librarian oved into the community. Teamed ith the editor of the local newsaper, the two organized a library lan, assembled a board of direcors, and started to campaign.

Civic clubs immediately took noce of their efforts. One donated room in the municipal building. he Community Chest donated funds r supplies. And the people of the wn came through with donations books—books that had been easured by people for years, and ew ones as well.

At this point women in the comunity offered their help and arned how to catalog and run a brary.

For several years the library has rown. In addition to the book deartment, there is a children's story our every Saturday afternoon.

All of this was accomplished on voluntary basis by scores of peole in the community who serve ithout thought of pay.

Blair M. Bice, editor of the week Herald, was the driving force ehind the program of building the brary. By means of his newspaper ditorials he aroused the interest f the community. And by his contant plugging he has aided its rowth and insured its future.

ansas Town Shows Way o Solve Health Problem

MANKATO, Kan.—The small comunity of Mankato is being cited as example of how other small wns in the state can solve their ural health problems.

Several years ago a group of citins tackled the problem of inducg a doctor to move to the comunity. Since then between 75 and 0 other small towns of the state, ith populations from 500 to 5,000, ave followed Mankato's example.

Mankato's program was simple nd practical. The townpeople raised oney among themselves to build home and office, and to buy the ecessary equipment for a doctor. aturally enough, a doctor moved to stay.

For a number of reasons the plan ppeals to many young doctors. To egin with, the day when a young eneral practitioner could walk into rural community, buy a home, ang up his shingle and begin to rosper, passed with the horse and uggy he used to have.

Today, his medical education is xpensive. He needs an office and a ar. When another $10,000 is added or X-ray, electrocardiograph, basal etabolic and other equipment his raining calls for, the total cost is ften too heavy for him to bear lone.

For that reason he has been going to the cities where the facilities lready exist. But now, by raising heir own funds to finance these ecessities, Mankato and other Kanas towns have attracted their own octors. The pattern differs, of ourse, with the needs and limitaions of the individual community, ut it is working and solving the ural health problem for many communities.

illage Businessmen rovide Mill Capital

SCOTTSVILLE, Ky.—The businessmen of this community have ubscribed to $50,000 worth of preerred stock in a new business to be built near the town.

A fireproof concrete building will e built with the funds to provide ousing for a large lumber mill that lans to move to the community rom Tennessee. The company will make finished flooring and will have machinery and other equipment alued at $250,000.

Businessmen report the new firm ill employ approximately 70 men nd give the town an economic oost.

Colorful Paper Plates Ease Duties of Summer Hostess

BY EDNA MILES

TO entertain with the least effort and the greatest results is the aim of almost every woman during the hot summer months. She wants her guests to have a good time. But she doesn't want to spend long, hot hours in the kitchen before they arrive nor does she want to return to the kitchen for another session when they've gone.

One of the simplest and most pleasant forms of party-giving is the buffet using paper-plate service. It leaves the hostess free to enjoy her own party, to talk to her guests and to eat without feeling harried.

As the buffet moves out-of-doors for warm weather, the hostess may utilize almost any open space, from a small terrace in a city apartment to a back porch or a lawn.

Color, in a buffet, can be gained through the striking pastel shades of the paper plates—jonquil yellow, avocado green, paradise pink and blue—or in patterns on white grounds. The hostess can use a dark cloth for contrast or she can let the wood of the table top set off the plates.

Table decorations need not be elaborate to be attention-getting. Flowers in an unusual arrangement, an interesting candelabra, a functional relish ferris wheel—any of these will turn the trick.

When the buffet is over, neither guests nor hostess need feel obliged to ruin the balance of the evening by doing dishes. The paper plates and matching paper napkins can be thrown out, thus getting rid of most of the clean-up work.

Gay paper plates add to the friendly atmosphere of the outdoor buffet. Hostess relaxes, free from visions of stacks of dishes. Note relish "ferris wheel" at left.

COOSA RIVER NEWSPRINT PLANS GIANT PINE SEEDLING NURSERY

Plans for a nursery capable of producing 6,000,000 pine seedlngs a year were approved by the board of directors of Coosa River Newsprint Co.

Construction will begin immediately on the nursery which is part of an expansion plan in connection with the company's forestry activities.

The appropriation for construction was approved at a directors meeting which followed the annual stockholders meeting at Coosa Pines.

At the same time the directors decided against a price increase of its newsprint.

A statement released by A. G. Wakeman, re-elected executive vice president, said, "no action was taken relative to the price of newsprint.

Canadian producers had recently boosted their price $10 a ton.

Two new directors were chosen by the stockholders.

They were Henry G. Boon and William H. Clifford, both of Neenah, Wis. All officers were re-elected.

In addition to Boon and Clifford, the following were re-elected directors:

Donald Comer, Edward L. Norton and Thomas W. Martin, all Birmingham; Roy A. Roberts, Kansas City; Stuart M. Chambers, St. Louis; Clarence B. Hanson, Jr., Birmingham; John F. Tims, Jr., New Orleans; James G. Stahlman, Nashville; John R. Kimberley, Neenah; Wakeman, Coosa Pines and Ralph M. Wyatt, Birmingham.

Officers re-elected were Comer, chairman of the board; Norton, president; Wakeman, executive vice president and general manager; Watt, vice president, charge of sales; Clifford, treasurer; Walter Bouldin, secrtary; P. A. Bachelder, comptroller and assistant secretary and J. Leslie Sensenbrenner, assistant treasurer.

Coosa Pines is one of two mills in the South producing newsprint. Stock in the company is held by various newspapers throughout the country.

ALL-TIME FAVORITES

Both suits and cottons are now year-round favorites for fashionable women, the National Cotton Council reports. This cotton suit is in Hope Skillman's black and white "City Blocks" plaid and was designed by Benham Originals.

WAS THAT THE CHOW CALL?—Clutching her jacket in one hand and her shoes in the other, pretty 20-year-old Irene Robertson takes a hurdle as she hears someone shout "lunch is ready" at the National Physical training center, Bisham Abbey, England. Irene hopes to be chosen for Britain's Olympic team.

ON THE FARMS IN SHELBY COUNTY

B. F. Hatchett and G. C. Starcher

Chapel Hill Rescue grass has won almost universal approval from farmers using it this first year in this county. All of them to whom we have talked are saving all the seed they can and are going to use it on many acres this fall. Floyd Hawkins, Burdette Bates, Roy Kent, Alec Etress and the three F. F. A. groups are combining seed. Some plantings of as much as 30 acres each were being combined in Chilton county recently.

K. E. McWilliams, Columbiana, has mowed his new "Sawmill Ranch" pastures, to control weeds and has agreed to mow and remove some 8 tons of growth from the F. F. A. Rescue patch so that the boys can topdress and try to make a good second crop of seed in July.

Mansel Wolf reports that cattle fatten well on Rescue "in the dough."

S. C. S. workers got special instruction in combining the newer crops, at a school in Clanton this week. Rescue, for example, is very difficult to harvest because of the very heavy production and the fact that the plant is still live and green.

Coastal bermuda and spring planted sericea got off to bad starts on most farms due to a six weeks dry spell. What bermuda comes up should be top dressed to get cover as quickly as possible to prevent erosion.

GOVERNOR PERSONS COMMENDED

Governor Gordon Persons has been commended in a resolution adopted by the United Church Women of Alabama in their recent convention in Mobile.

And State Corrections and Institutions Director J. M. McCullough was lauded for the improvements which have been inaugurated in the Alabama prisons system during the present administration.

Concerning the prisons, the resolution said, "the present governor of the State of Alabama has recognized needed reform in the prison system of the state; and the Diretcor of Corrections and Institutions is establishing changes and putting into effect ideas of rehabilitation, and there is emerging some order out of the past chaos of the prison system."

The resolution also asked the governor to establish a Department of Religious Education in the Department of Corrections and Institutions, with a full-time Chaplain.

McCullough said that every effort is being made to make religion a part of the life of inmates of the Alabama prison system.

He said, "We have Protestant and Catholic religious services every Sunday in all of our institutions, and midweek services in most of them."

VIGNETTE CLUB MEETS

The Vignette Club met with Mrs. Frances Leonard on the evening of May 28, and presented Robert Holliman, well known musician as guest speaker.

Mr. Holliman spoke on "Music in Shelby county" and handled his subject with a fresh spontaneity that impressed all his hearers. Mr. Holliman spoke of the importance of music in the life of the child from Grammar school days on thru college, and interspersed his talk with some incidences he has experienced in teaching this subject in the schools of the county. Mr. Holliman proved well versed in his subject and the talk was educational and entertaining.

Plans were completed for the June Dance which will be given on the evening of June 13.

Mrs. Harold Lewis was guest of honor on this occasion.

GREETING TO JUNE

I never knew a June that did not stir
A hundred songs of gladness in my heart,
That did not start a caroling of praise
For the rich working of God's perfect ways;
That did not make me humbly glad that I
Could gain new gladness as the hours go by,
All that I hear is the same lilting tune—
That throbbing, pulsing measure that is — June!

—Young

June-Time! Wedding-Time! Moonlight and Roses-time! Soft music and shaded tapers lighting the way to the altar where low whispered promises will soon be made for several widely known and popular couples in town now busily engaged in making plans for that day of days.... when that final "I do" and "I will" are said. Specifically speaking, Mary Moore at the First National Bank, and lovable Patsy Brown in Gordon-White office, are both performing their assignments in their own creditable manner, but when there is a pause in the daily routine, it's dreamin'-time!

More about these approaching events, when plans are completed.

MRS. J. E. FRANKS HONOREE AT AFTERNOON TEA

Mrs. L. B. Riddle, Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Clayton McGhee, Mrs .Myra Chandler and Mrs. P. B. Shaw, were hostesses last Friday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Riddle, when they entertained with an informal Tea for Mrs. J. E. Franks who will leave soon to join the Rev. J. E. Franks in Montgomery.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Myra Chandler who presented them to the receiving line composed of Mrs. L. B. Riddle, Mrs. Clayton McGhee, and the honoree. Guests were registered by Mrs. John Thompson.

From an artistically appointed table covered with lace tablecloth and lighted with pink candles in crystal holders, and decorated with Magnolias and Pink Roses, delectable iced frappe was poured by Mrs. P. B. Shaw. Cakes, nuts and mints were served by Nancy Horn, Kyle Lyon, Joan Nichols, Charlie Ann Goodwin and Betty Watts.

A musical program was furnished throughout the afternoon by Mrs. Henry Nichols, Bunny Crawford, Annette Franks, Annette Thompson and vocal numbers were rendered by the Girls Quartette composed of Lanelle Moore, Margaret Moore, Catherine Walton, and Kyle Lyon.

A number of lovely gifts were presented the honoree and approximately 65 guests were registered during the afternoon hours.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Conrad M. Fowler were hosts Monday evening when they entertained the Bridge Club with a dinner party. Following the course dinner, Bridge was played and the following winners declared: Mrs. Jay Falkner, first prize; Jay Falkner, low score trophy; Mrs. Elvin Hill won the floating prize and Mrs. Sam Shafferman, who will soon move to Birmingham, was presented a lovely Brass Planter as a token of remembrance from the hosts.

. . . Cruising around in an automobile Tuesday, we passed thru Harpersville, and stopped for a Coco-Cola at Kimbrough's store, and who should we have the pleasure of meeting but little Martha Jackson, 18 months old daughter of the Fonza Jackson's. A lovely petite brunette with an irrisistible smile and a friendly manner which has endeared her to the Harpersville people and, in fact, to all who meet her.

. . . Mrs. Rosa Teague of "The Pines" spent the day in Columbiana, Tuesday, with Judge and Mrs. W. W. Wallace.

. . . Mrs. Phelps (Skeet Lokey) and her attratcive little daughter Ann, were in town Monday finishing the "shots" necessary before sailing for Bermuda, where Mr. Phelps awaits them. They will be away from the states for about two years.

SUBSCRIPTIONS CONTINUE TO BRIGHTEN OU RWAY

. . . R. E. Liveoak, the best "shoefixer" in the whole wide world, came by the office today and signed on the dotted line for another years following thru the Home Paper for news items of interest. We appreciate this thoughtful courtesy.

. . . Thanks to Mrs. R. C. Foster for a delightful visit in our office and for renewing her allegiance to the Reporter-Democrat for another year.

. . . Glad to have our good friends Mr. and Mrs. Bruton Lyon come in and renew their interest in this county wide paper. It is always good to know that home folk are interested in each issue of the paper. The encouragement we receive thru renewals and new subscriptions is our greatest joy as we continue our pilgrimage along the Inky Trail. Thanks, so much!

. . . Nuna Freeze lives at Wilsonville, and for years has been a loyal subscriber to the county paper. Nuna taught in the negro schools until she retired and is now living on her farm and enjoying an easier life than the daily routine the school room offers. She has just been in to renew her paper for another year for which kindness we say.... Thanks!

. . . Mr. and Mrs. A. P. McGhee, our friends and neighbors, have sent in their reservation for a ring side seat in the circle now fast enveloping the circumference of our county, and we appreciate their continued loyalty.

. . . Mrs. A. A. Gorman of Vincent sends word she is still interested in "The Home Paper" and will be all thru 1952. So, we gladly pull up her chair for another year. (Thanks so much Lady Gorman).

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Keener Roberts, Sissy and Tommy Roberts of University are spending a brief vacation away from collegiate activities before returnng for the summer months study. They are guests of Mrs. Roberts' parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Sloan.

. . . A. B. Baxley of Calera, came by the office Friday, and renewed his subscription to the Reporter-Democrat. Mr. Baxley is most enthusiastic over his coming trip to the Republican Convention which meets in Chicago in July. Wish we could attend both conventions. Can't imagine anything more exciting or more interesting from every standpoint, than watching this battle between the Elephant and the Donkey in the Windy City during the hectic month of July. Each party has put up a million dollars to buy out Television facilities, and both Democrat and Republican Conventions will be televised. We shall be looking and listening from the arm chair section.

. . . Thanks to Marvin Crowson, alert representative of the Birmingham News delivery service, for renewing his subscription to the Reporter-Democrat. Marvin says he has the "largest paper in the South and the best county paper on his reading table." His brother, who is across the pond, is also receiving the home paper and enjoying it.

. . . We are glad to have the pleasure of enrolling the name of Fred Harrison, former Shelby Countian, now residing in Columbus, Mississippi, on our ever widening list of weekly readers.

. . . Miss Novie Crumpton kindly sends us a copy of the Reporter-Democrat we have been wanting. Thanks so very much. By this courtesy several of you have rendered us, our files are now complete. Thanks a million.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Mann and adorable little nine months old Jane Mann are quickly winning their way into the hearts of this community as Coach Mann goes about getting "all set" for summer activities in the Recreation Field, and looking over prospective Football candidates for next September. This family will be a wonderfully fine addition to this community.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. George Horn, Barbara, Nancy and Judy Horn and Mr. and Mrs. John Tompson, Annette Thompson and Carol Thompson, spent Sunday in Lineville.

DR. SAM SHAFFERMAN

DR. SAM SHAFFERMAN LEAVES COLUMBIANA

Friends and patients of Dr. Sam Shafferman's are mingling congratulations with regrets this week as they learn that The Shafferman family will make their future home in Birmingham. The field for professional services in his chosen feld is a wider one and possibly a promotion from his professional offices in Columbiana, and friends rejoice with him in attaining this signal recognition, but they also realize that in Dr. Sam's going, they are not only losing a splendid representative of the medical profession, but are losing a personal friend. This fact is especially true among the children for whom "Dr. Sam" always had an understanding heart.

The Shafferman family carry with them best wishes for their future success and happiness.

. . . Cpl. and Mrs. Hugh Stone were cordially greeted guests in our office Monday, at which time we had the pleasure of congratulating Mrs. Stone upon the completion of her college course at Alabama College in Montevallo, and wishing for both of them every happiness in Camp Stewart where they will make their future home. Mrs. Stone is a Shelby county girl, and we are very proud of our "sweet girl graduate."

. . . Congratulations were in order Tuesday for Mr. and Mrs. Noland Barnett who celebrated the passing of their 46th wedding anniversary. We join a host of friends who wish for this couple continued happiness thru all the years to be.

. . . Friends regret to learn that Mrs. Thelma Vincent is in the Highland Baptist hospital for surgery.

. . . Denton Cole home from A. P. I. receiving congratulations for being elected president of his fraternity, Sigma Pi.

. . . Baker Elliott home for the summer vacation after successfully completing his collegiate course at University, and has a diploma to prove it. Congratulations.

. . . Bob Kaplan down town today, and receiving the glad hand of welcome from legions of friends who have missed him from his place of business during an enforced absence, due to illness. Bob looked fine today and was exercising his right of vocal expression at the polls, as all good citizens should always do.

. . . Mrs. O. W. Horton of Downey, California, who is a former resident of Shelby county, will be able from now on to keep in touch with friends in her former home town thru the Reporter-Democrat. We take much pleasure in recording the names of former residents, who, no matter how far they may journey, invariably want the "Home Paper" to follow them.

. . . Speaking of loyalty to old friends, we saw pretty Vivian McNeill with her handsone son, Kicker McNeill in town Tuesday, and the reason? Vivian had "come home" to place her cross mark by the name of her old friend, Judge Walker. No friends like old friends, and not a better time on this earth to prove it, than when a fellow is up for the folk to accept or reject as a public official. We feel sure Judge Walker deeply appreciates the many former residents who came miles to place their seal of approval upon the excellent service he has rendered the people of Shelby county as their Probate Judge.

BROTHER CAN YOU SPARE A DIME?

The above caption might have been the theme song of E. M. Young as he bought his Baseball ticket and took a ten cent chance on an automobile which brought him good luck and a 1952 Chevrolet Sedan, which he is proudly piloting around the Main Drag this morning.

I do not know whether he is prouder of the auto tag, or, the card announcing the arrival of his grandson, Morrison Young. He had both tightly clutched in his fists when we saw him, and either furnish sufficient reason for his jubilant mood.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Christian, former residents of Pascagoula, Mississippi, and Columbiana, have moved back to Birmingham. Mrs. Christian is associated with the medical nurses at Jefferson Hillman.

. . . Charles McGhee left Columbiana Friday for a vacation in Corpus Christi, Texas, the guest of his aunt Mrs. Aileen Rentfrow and Mr. Rentfrow.

. . . Mrs. H. H. Bearden and Mrs. Betty Jo Willis have returned from a trip to Los Angeles, California and Mexico.

. . . Gray Atchison of the U. S. A. spent a few days at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nath Atchison.

. . . J. W. Whorton came to town Saturday and when we saw this well known fellow he was surrounded by a host of friends who were glad to learn he was able to be out again following a spell of illness. Mr. Whorton hails from Wilsonville Route, but he says.... "Just put Jim Whorton on that paper, and I'll get it, needn't mind about the address".... and thats just about the truth, for everybody knows Jim Whorton and whats more, likes him!

. . . That pretty sub-deb you see with Annette Thompson this week is Carol Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Thompson, from Tuscaloosa. She is spending the week with the John Thompsons.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Montevallo, have taken one of the Curlee Apartments and will make their future home in Columbiana. Mr. Smith will succeed Braxton Baker as principal of the Elementary School.

. . . J. O. Oakes of Columbiana Route, has two "believe it or nots" worthy of Ripley, as far as large hen eggs go. He brought two specimens in our office Saturday afternoon, and one egg weighed 6 ounces, and the other 5½ ounces, the very largest ones we have yet seen. Mr. Oaks says if you "doubt it" come out and he will show them to you. His main brood of chickens are the Rhode Island Reds. One of those eggs would have been plenty for two people had they been scrambled.

. . . Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Clyde Moss, please contact his wife Minnie Moss in Columbiana.

. . . Pvt. E2 Charles and Sue Spearman of Camp Gordon, Augusta, Ga., spent the week end in Columbiana as the guests of Mrs. Rosa McDanal. Sue is employed at the gigantic plant Dupont has about 25 miles from Augusta and says she likes her assignment which keeps her occupied while Charles is doing his part with Uncle Sam.

. . . Wedding Anniversaries were celebrated Tuesday, June 3, by Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Luck, and Mr. and Mrs. John Martin, who were the first couple to be married in the New Methodist Church, returned to Columbiana (June 3) for a few hours visit. Mr. Martin leaves for the U. S. Army service June 9, and Mrs. Martin will go to Augusta, Ga., where her parents Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Luttrell now reside until she finds out definitely where Mr. Martin will be stationed. He will receive basic at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

. . . The Methodist church presents a colorful setting this week as the kiddies go into their second week of Bible School. Stop from your work long enough to watch them gather on the lawn about ten-thirty each morning for refreshing iced punch the ladies are furnishing.

FURTHER SUGGESTIONS RECEIVED

"If some drastic steps are not taken in Columbiana and on the Highways by the patrolmen, more lives will be prematurely snuffed out. Very little difference is noted as far as speed regulations go, and very few are observing the Town's limit on speed. Cars continue speeding thru the Main section of the town, and nothing is done about it".... says a prominent citizen of the town who visited our office this very morning, urging that the laws be enforced.

The writer truly echoes this plea for a slow down, before some child pays the penalty with his life for this carelessness. Rarely a day goes by that we do not get a call from citizens living on the main highway going toward Chelsea and from Shelby to Columbiana. Complaints are made regarding the lumber trucks and week end travelers who find fishing a profitable past-time over the week end near Shelby. Cars whizz by intersections and up and down Cemetery Hill, endangering many lives. They seem to feel an urge to pass the cars on top of the hill. Any patrolmen or legally authorized officer would have no trouble "catching" these road menaces, if they would only observe their passing.

'UNCLE CHARLIE' MALLORY DIES

The Rev. Charlie Mallory was born November 5, 1872, in Talladega county and died May 28, 1952, at the ripe old age of eighty years. He joined the church in Talladega county, but later moved to Wilsonville and joined the Star of Bethlehem Church. He was a devout member until his death.

Many people in the vicinity of Columbiana will recall "Uncle Charlie" and his old steer hitched to his wagon. He drove proudly into town each day for his groceries and always had a cheerful word of greeting for those he met along the way. His favorite topic for his sermons, he used to tell us, was: "Ef you lives long enough de people will fin' you out". Folk who knew this jolly exponent of good cheer, will not soon forget him. He was a typical example of the polite old-time southern negro about whom many stories, songs and legends have been written, but who are now fast fading from the southern picture of the bygone days.

"Uncle Charlie" was a good natured fellow and had many friends among his own race and the white race. He was the father of 21 children, and was married twice. His faithful wife Mary Jane survives. Also four daughters, namely Velma, Cora, Eunice and Daisy Mallory; one step daughter, Arvella Burns; four sons, Jackson, Fancher, Walker and Rufus Mallory; 4 step sons, Ollie Williams, Em Williams, Thomas Williams, and Sam Williams; 23 grand children, 6 great-grand children; two sisters, and a host of other kinsmen.

. . . Congratulations to Billie Jean Young on her first appearance over television. Billie Jean did a magnificant job as she spoke of various travel resorts and summer trips for those seeking vacations which are planned by the Brownell Travel Bureau. Not only did Billie Jean make a splendid narrator, she looked just about as pretty and well poised as most movie queens. Congratulations!

. . . Glad to see our good friend Houston Fancher of Birmingham in town Tuesday, and regret to learn that he, along with other of our Magic City subscribers, are still having difficulty getting the paper on time. This delay is definitely with the Postoffice substation at Terminal in Birmngham, as the truck leaves here Wednesday afternoon and the papers are in it. They go to Birmingham straight from this point. From there, we have no idea what happens, but, many of our subscribers tell us they do not receive the paper until Tuesday of the week following its release on Wednesday. Something definitely is wrong at the Magic City end of the line. Please check.

. . . Little Judy Lansford continues seriously ill and painfully wounded from a dog bite received Monday afternoon. She is in the Sylacauga Infirmary. Friends await the verdict from the doctor as to whether or not the animal was mad. Flash: The dog was mad, according to medical report just received.

. . . Don Lovelady of Montevallo spent Tuesday in Columbiana.

. . . Loyd Harris of Montevallo says he is well pleased with the reception he has received since opening his Jewel Box in our town. Mr. Harris has a large selection of beautiful jewelry and leather goods and pottery, go by and see him next time you are in town.

. . . The Finley family, with Simon and Meta Wagner as hosts, held a reunion in Columbiana Sunday and for the first time in 15 or more years all the children of the late Mr. and Mrs. James A. Finley were together. Enjoying the "get-to-gether" dinner served at Simon's Cafe were, Mrs. Jimmy Holder of Nashville; Mrs. Sadie Hill of Montgomery; and Mr. and Mrs. Whitson Finley of Bessemer, Simon Finley and Mrs. Meta Finley Wagner of Columbiana.

. . . Martha Falkner has resigened her position with the "Varsity" and Barbara Horn will be in charge during the summer.

. . . If everyone who has purchased one of those lovely bill folds the Rev. J. E. Franks brings along with him when he comes up from Montgomery, had plenty of the long green to match them, everybody would be happy about the whole thing. The Judge is very proud of his new possession, and so is the writer. Genuine leather, and hand-made by inmates of the prison walls. If you haven't seen that genuine leather Secretarial set, you have missed a splendid buy. And those ladies, fortunate enough to have a shoulder bag, presented by friend husband, are truly in the fashion parade. Look them over as they swing by.... Mae Sims, Mrs. Stinson and others.

. . . Sunday, June 1st, was Happy Birthday time to Mrs. G. C. Moore and Patsy Dorough. Tuesday, June 3, it was time to wish "many happy returns of the day" to Erskine Bentley, Mrs. Frank Head and Howell Holland. Of course on this date in 1808, Jefferson Davis was born. (In 1952 it was a bank holiday). June 4, brings the celebration of a wedding anniversary for Captain and Mrs. J. C. Bohannon, and what a celebration this will be, now that the Captain is home from Korea and Jenny Kay to join in the festivities with her baby lingo!

. . . Mrs. L. C. Walker entertained with a dinner party Tuesday evening and guests who shared this happy occasion included: Dr. and Mrs. Paul Nickerson, Mrs. Mera Shinn, Misses Tress and Jeff Nickerson of Sylacauga; Dr. and Mrs. Pearly of Birmingham; Dr. and Mrs. Stinson of Siluria; Mr. and Mrs. George Scott, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Nickerson of Alabaster; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phillips of Siluria.

SMALL TOWN OPERA

Central City Holds Annual Song Festival

CENTRAL CITY, Col.—This little community will soon begin another of its famous opera festival seasons with stars from New York's Metropolitan and City opera companies.

The story of Central City's opera season really starts back in 1859 when gold was discovered in the area. Overnight, thousands of miners descended upon the community and staked claims. Over $85 million in gold was mined in the area the following years.

Gradually the output of the mines diminished, people moved away for other parts, and Central City went down from a population of 15,000 to 500. And finally, the opera house, which was built during the boom period, closed.

Given to University

For years it stood unused and then in 1931 the building was presented to the University of Denver by its owners, Frederick McFarlane and Mrs. Yetta McFarlane Demeter. A committee was formed to decide on the future of the structure. A visit was made to Central City and the group was impressed by the perfection of the building. Here was a theatre, with perfect acoustics, a spacious auditorium, and beautiful decorations.

The group raised enough money in six weeks to restore the building. The roof was repaired, chandelier replaced, and ceilings and three-dimensional frescoes restored.

The triumphant reopening of the opera house was held on July 16, 1932, with a performance of Damas "Camille" starring Lilliam Gish.

With each passing year the opera and stage season has grown until today Central City is known throughout the world for its festival.

Summer Festival

The life of Central City is now centered around the summer festival. And in an attempt to give the community the atmosphere of the gold boom days, many of the old buildings are still maintained.

Next door to the opera house is the old Teller House. This fabulous old hotel has played host at times to such notables as President Ulysses S. Grant, Horace Greeley, Edwin Booth, John L. Sullivan, Otis Skinner, and Fannie War. It is the home of the renowned "Face on the Barroom Floor" and the beautiful "Gold Nugget Bar".

Each summer thousands of people journey into the past by visiting the town's Antique Vehicle Exhibit, Coeur d'Alene Mining museum, Central City Historical museum, "Old 71"—an old narrow gauge locomotive and its train.

Central City is unique in that it lives in the present and the past. Its history is becoming legend and for this its future seems assured.

Wisconsin Communities Are Being Inventoried

MADISON, Wis.—Every community in Wisconsin of 2,500 population or more is being surveyed by the state employment service to get a clear and factual picture of their economic problems. The "inventory" has been underway for a year and will be completed by the end of 1952.

The survey highlights the various factors which actually go to make up a community. The examination is begun with a series of tables which depict the community's "working force." The community's location in terms of railroads, highways and air lines; its industrial "pattern": its community facilities—hospitals, schools, police and fire services—and the housing situation are also surveyed.

Recreational opportunities, such as parks and the natural setting are taken into consideration.

Factories looking for new locations often ask first about schools and parks—and housing.

State employment officials report the survey will result in a concise document of facts—giving the same basic material for all communities in the state. Executives seeking a location for a firm can then turn to this one book and obtain nearly all essential details.

It is also a part of the Wisconsin plan for a long range economic plan for the state's smaller commuities.

Stassen, Taft, Bulls And Corn Upsets Village

MURPHYSBORO, Ill.—A comedy of errors involving candidates for the presidential nomination all but paralyzed this little town recently.

Senator Taft's caravan arrived in the town square simultaneously with that of Harold Stassen moving in the opposite direction. Traffic became snarled. While the police attempted to untangle it. Taft entered Jackson county courthouse to make a speech to 300 persons, while across the street Stassen climbed a flight of stairs to a radio station to deliver a broadcast.

While the speaking was in progress, a large truckload of Black Angus bulls became stuck between Taft's automobile and Stassen's station wagon. Then a five ton truckload of corn also got stuck.

The square finally was cleared of candidates, bulls and corn 30 minutes later.

Veterans' Column
State Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

E. J. SULLIVAN, VSO

Compensation and Pension Increase — If you are a veteran with a Service-Connected disability of LESS than FIFTY PERCENT, you will receive a FIVE PERCENT INCREASE over what you are receiving at the present time. If your service-connected disability is FIFTY PERCENT or MORE, then you will receive a FIFTEEN PERCENT Increase.

Veterans of World Wars One and Two, and veterans of the Korean War who are now receiving the Non-Service Pension will have their pensions raised from $60 a month to $63.

Those who have been receiving the pension for ten years, and those who have reached the age of 65, will get an increase from the present $72 a month to $75.

Widows with children of veterans who died from service-connected causes will receive a 15 percent increase in compensation, but widows without children and dependent parents are not slated for an increase.

Widows of World Wars One and Two and Korean War veterans who are now receiving the non-service death pension will get a hike of $6 a month. Those who are drawing the $120 non-service pension will get a $9 raise.

Veterans of the Civil, Indian and Spanish-American Wars will get a 7½ percent increase.

I know that all of you who are to be benefited from the new bill are delighted to get these increases, even though they may not be quite as much as you think they should. But have you stopped to think just why certain benefits have been increased? I can assure you that Congress did not, out of a CLEAR BLUE SKY, just happen to think that it would be very nice to raise compensation and pension payments to help offset the present day cost of living. The present compensation and pension rates are the results of the Veterans' Organizations of the United States. The American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans, the American Veterans of World War Two and Others, have worked untiringly for years in their efforts to take care of the disabled veterans and their dependents.

In order that these organizations continue to do a good job for you, it is necessary that they have support in numbers. I suggest that if you are eligible, join one or more of these veterans' organizations. You will not be only helping your disabled comrades, but you can also take part in the work which is constantly being done by the veterans organizations for the betterment of every community and the State and Nation.

WHERE IS MACEDONIA?

"Come over into Macedonia and help us." Acts 16:19

Here is an oft-quoted sentence taken from the portrayal in the New Testament of a dramatic scene in the life of the apostle Paul. It has contributed the name of an ancient country to our modern vocabulary. Had it not been for this incident Macedonia would be a seldom used word in our day.

Where is Macedonia? It was an obscure province of the Roman Empire, lying immediately north of Greece and bordering on the Mediterranean Sea. It was the eastermost country of the continent of Europe, while Troas, the other place mentioned in the narrative, was on the western coast of Asia. Therefore it is not difficult to visualize a call that spanned the sea. Asia had the Gospel, while Europe had not.

When Paul, standing on the Asian shore at Troas, saw the vision recorded in this passage, it could easily be interpreted as God summoning the Christian forces to plant the standards of their faith in a foreign land. It was in entire accord with the post-resurrection commission of Jesus, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

Where is Macedonia today? It is every continent on earth, and every spot on earth where the message of salvation has not been proclaimed. The Kingdom of God is both expansive and inclusive. Its field of operation is boundless. Beginning with you at your own front door, your Christian sympathy is privileged to encircle the globe, including people of every age, every language, every race. Any person be he near at hand or far away, who needs your help is a citizen of Macedonia.

The only message that is competent to relieve the distressed is the message that Paul carried in his heart when the plaintive cry from a dark continent broke upon his listening ears.

Pursuant to the mighty urge that captured his soul on the occasion of his own conversion, the Apostle became the pioneer for God, and with daring courage he invaded the continent of Europe in the interest of hopeless humanity. The response to the vision recorded in the sixteenth chapter of the Book of Acts was the initial "push" in Christianity's campaign that changed the map of Europe and in the course of time affected every country on earth.

The end is not yet. Every believing man and woman, by the fact of his own conversion, is committed to the task of carrying on in the promotion of the Kingdom until every person, far or near, has been faced with the question, "What will you do with Jesus who is called the Christ?"

RECIPE FOR SUCCESS WITH ALFALFA CROP

It's time for those who plan to seed Alfalfa in September to get seed and fertilizers or locate them so they will be easy to obtain when planting time comes.

"Everything should be ready to do all jobs right when they should be done," warns J. C. Lowery, API Extension agronomist. "However, this does not mean that alfalfa is a very difficult crop to grow. Most farmers can grow it if they follow Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station recommendations."

Lowery emphasizes the fact that alfalfa is Alabama's finest hay and grazing crop. Therefore, those interested in growing alfalfa should ask the local county agent for Extension Service Circular 309.

CULTIVATED LAND NEEDS COVER CROP

A sound land-use program for a farm or a field provides for cropping the land in such a way that the soil will be held in place and its fertility maintained and improved.

"The cropping system or rotation that should be used on any given piece of land will, of course, depend upon the slope, type, and condition of the soil," states S. R. Doughty, API Extension soil conservationist.

He adds that regardless of the system used, maximum use should be made of good thick-growing cover. Such sod crops will serve a three fold purpose by protecting the ground surface from erosion, providing forage for livestock, and returning to the soil enough plant manure to help build up and maintain a satisfactory level of productivity.

EGG CARE DURING HOT SPRING DAYS

With temperatures zooming upwards, Mary Hulsey, A. P. I. Extension nutritionist, believes it's a good time to mention some tips on hot weather care of eggs.

She points out that eggs left for three days at ordinary room temperature may lose as much "Freshness" as eggs kept in the refrigerator for two weeks.

"To hold the quality of eggs," says the specialist, "put them in the refrigerator as soon after buying as possible. Don't leave eggs in a hot car while taking a prolonged shopping tour. Some quality will be lost just by leaving a carton of eggs on the kitchen table until all the other groceries are sorted. When the eggs are put in the refrigerator, leave them in the carton, large end up."

AVOID RING WHEN REMOVING A SPOT

The formation of a ring is one of the greatest problems in stain removal. Levice Ellis, A. P. I. Extension clothing specialist, reveals that rings may be caused by the stained area being cleaned and the rest of the garment showing soil, dressing in the material being removed, texture of the material being changed by tightening of the fiber, impure solvents, or by incorrect application of the solvent.

"To avoid these mistakes," says Miss Ellis, "use an absorbent cloth or a blotter beneath the stain; use straight, light strokes and begin in the area around the stain and work toward the center of the stain; use solvent sparingly and work rapidly."

ADJUST IRONING BOARD FOR BETTER PRESSING

The ironing board should be the correct height for comfort and padded to give it a smooth, even, hard surface, according to Levice Ellis, A. P. I. Extension clothing specialist.

She suggests that the padding may be cotton flannel, old blankets, or sheets without wrinkles or uneven places in the padded surface. Each ironing board should have several covers. They will give better service if laundered as often as necessary.

"A piece of asbestos cut to fit the board end of the ironing board and fastened with thumb tacks will prevent scorching the covers," Miss Ellis.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT BLOAT LOSSES?

Q: Which farm animals are most susceptible to bloating?

A: Cattle and sheep, especially when on early pasture.

Q: What causes bloat?

A: All forage and feed taken in by cattle or sheep goes through a process of fermentation in the rumen or storage paunch with formation of various types of gas. Under certain conditions, as yet not fully understood, excess amounts of gas become trapped in the paunch and cause bloating.

Q: What happens then?

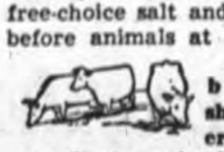
A: The cow's rumen swells up like a balloon. These gasses will make the cow very sick and may even cause death if they are not released.

Q: How can bloat be prevented?

A: Pastures may be sown with a mixture of half grass and half legumes. This combination will usually give the cow enough roughage to help prevent bloating.

Q: What other preventive measures are there?

A: If pasturing legumes only, farmers should feed their cattle hay before putting them on pasture. This rougher feed will help forestall bloating. Otherwise, animals should be kept off pasture until the legumes reach the bloom stage. There should also be a gradual change-over from barn feeding to pasture feeding. Keep free-choice salt and other minerals before animals at all times.



Q: If a cow bloats, what should the owner do?

A: If the animal is to be saved a veterinarian should be called immediately. There are several emergency measures, but none are of value if too much time has elapsed.

DRINK NUTRITIOUS THIRST QUENCHERS

Those who substitute soft drinks for fruit juices, milk, and milk shakes replace needed vitamins and minerals with sugar and calories, points out Mary Hulsey, A. P. I. Extension Service Nutritionist.

To avoid this, she suggests that a can or two of citrus fruit juices or tomato juice, or a pitcher of homemade lemonade, and the full quota of milk for each child and adult be kept in the refrigerator. "These drinks will provide a variety of thirst quenchers that will promote good nutrition and cost no more than an equal quantity of "sodas," declares the nutritionist.

HORN FLY POPULATION CAN BUILD UP RAPIDLY

The horn fly population on cow herds in Alabama is building up rapidly.

W. H. Gregory, API Extension livestock specialist, says a spraying at this time will make the cows much more comfortable, enabling them to produce more milk to grow better calves.

Each horn fly takes two meals of blood daily from a cow, and if the first flies are not killed, their numbers will increase rapidly. Most any of the new sprays will kill the horn fly. They are the easiest of all external parasites to control.

"However," states Gregory, "cost should be a major consideration in selecting a spray. One of the new sprays containing lindane and toxaphene might prove the cheapest to use. When using any of the new sprays, care should be taken to us it in the exact concentration recommended by the manufacturer."

If cattle are sprayed now, not only will horn flies be controlled but mosquitoes, other flies, and lice will be, too.

Save juices from canned pineapple, pears, apricots, cherries etc., and add to whipped cream as a dressing for fruit salads. A few ground nuts make a pleasing addition.

Dr. Carmichael Speaks At College

Institutions, today, are entrusted with the youth of the nation, which Dr. Carmichael regards as this country's greatest asset, and as such, are highly regarded, capable of preparing and equipping the young people to fight the battles of tomorrow, he asserted. the marvel of this century, as evidenced by growth of college population, by the increase in its support, and by the expansion of the demands made upon it," Dr. Carmichael told the audience, adding that "this is another way of saying that America's faith in its teachers is unbounded."

The former Alabama College president urged teachers to maintain confidence in their own importance, warned that indifference may cause the student to lower his drive so that his education is less effective.

Referring to the waste in human resources, Dr. Carmichael noted that "home, school and church are the responsibility for this waste and consequent retardation of social progress."

The great teacher, he said, "has an inquiring mind, is alert, curious, interested in all knowledge, in knowledge for its own sake. He is a pioneer, striving constantly to push back the frontiers of learning."

"There is danger that more will be trained for specific occupations, such as law and engineering than are needed," the speaker warned but reminded that here the college professors have another task in helping to adjust society to greater educational needs.

"Science and technology can teach men how to go but not where, what to do but not what to be, the means of living but not the meaning of life," he concluded.

FAIR TRADE LAWS TO BE SET UP

The State Revenue Department says action has been taken to set up Alabama fair trade laws that will cut out low priced cigarets at cut rate stores using them as "loss leaders" to draw trade.

B. B. Atkins, chief of the Tobacco Tax Division of the tSate Revenue Department, said prices of cigarets in these cut rate stores will have to be increased about 10 cents per carton.

"There will be no increase to consumers except those who were buying cigarets at cut-rate prices," Atkins said.

One cut rate firm official said his store had been paying about 20 cents a package for cigarets and the tax on them. Thus, the retail price would have to be 22 cents per package under a new ruling that retailer must make a profit of eight per cent.

Wholesalers are required to make a profit of at least [illegible] per cent, plus cartage on cigarets. The wholesale price is not expected to be raised by the new ruling.

When making Butterscotch pie, try adding one tablespoon of molasses to the filling. This will enrich the color of the filling, and the molasses will blend with the sugar, butter, and vanilla, giving the pie a real butterscotch candy flavor.

HARRY S. LACKEY

Harry Lackey Named Manager of Southern Bell In Alabama

Harry B. Lackey, a native of Alabama who started a career with Southern Bell Telephone Company in the Birmingham business office, soon will head his Company's business operations in his home state. He has been appointed Alabama Manager, with headquarters in Birmingham, to succeed Sam H. Youngblood, who has been appointed Tennessee manager effective July 1.

The new Alabama manager, born on Sand Mountain in DeKalb county, was educated in the Birmingham public schools, Marion County High School at Guin, the University of Alabama and Georgia Tech, being graduated from the latter. Joining Southern Bell in 1927, he steadily advanced to positions of increasing responsibilty. He is wdely experienced and is well qualified to assume his broadened duties.

In addition to his telephone duties, Mr. Lackey has been active in civic and other public spirited enterprises wherever he has lived. While in New Orleans, he was a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau, International House, Safety Council, American Red Cross and Boy Scouts. He is a past president of the New Orleans Rotary Club, New Orleans Electrical Association and Louisiana Armed Forces Communication Association.

He and his family are members of the Decatur, Ga., Presbyterian Church. He is married to the former Alice Louise Green, of Atlanta, and they have three daughters.

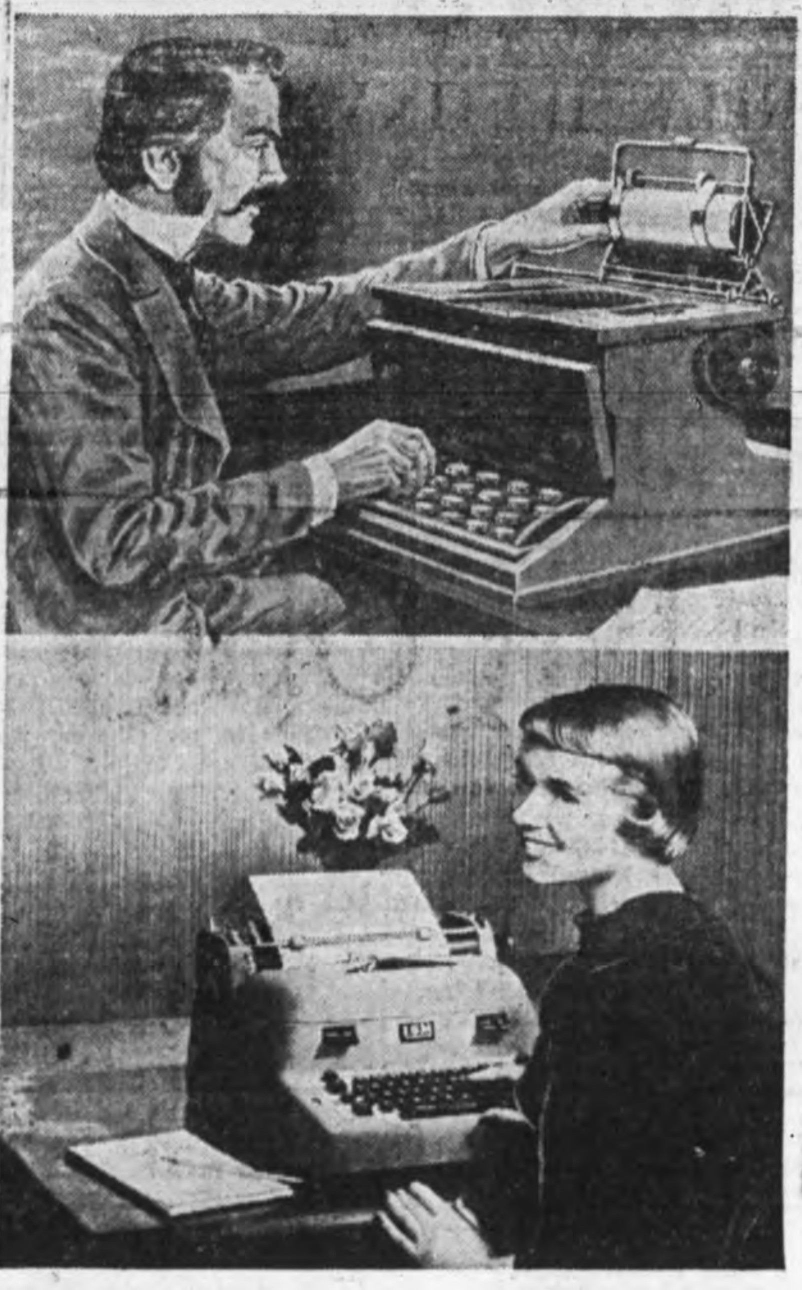
How Times (and Typists) Have Changed!



NOW, after more than 50 years, our Girl Fridays are getting the recognition they deserve. The sanction of the U. S. Department of Commerce has been given to the celebration of National Secretaries Week, June 1 to 7. It was a different story, however, before the turn of the century when business was still considered man's domain. Because of a shortage of operators for the then new-fangled writing machines, the New York YWCA advertised a course in typewriting for "strong women." The "athletic" eight who enrolled formed the vanguard for the more than 1,500,000 typists, stenographers and secretaries in business today. No doubt, the early operators found typing fatiguing, but today thousands of typists enjoy using electric typewriters like the IBM seen immediately above.

RECORDING ONE ABSENTTE VOTE COST $240

From Oneonta, Alabama, comes the following news item. As prescribed by law, the register in chancery met with six election officials to tally the absentee box in Blount county in June 3 election.

They opened the box. It cetnained one vote. The vote was duly counted and recorded.

The register receives $210 for handling the absentee ballots. Each election official gets $5 for his services. That made the lone absentee vote cost $240.

IMPROVED HIGHWAYS CONTINUE

This week we carry the advertisement for bids on the Westover Road which, when completed, will cross Highway 91 and connect with the Vincent-Leeds Highway. From Westover to Sterrett has already been paved. Shelby county is now enjoying a highway development program never before experienced in its long history, and more highway improvement is on the agenda for the coming months. No one thing can add more to the value of your property and to the prosperity of the whole county than Good Roads! No one thing can turn away tourists and prospective residents from this section of Alabama quicker, than unimproved and neglected highways. People all over the county are now realizing this fact, and are enjoying these modern highways, now running in every direction. They are glad they lived to see this "dream-come true."

STARS AND STRIPES UNCONQUERED!

The Stars and stripes, or red, white and blue flag, is a banner of hope to all mankind, wherever unfurled. One hundred and seventy-five years ago this month, the Continental Congress adopted a resolution which declared the flag of the United States should have thirteen alternating red and white stripes and an equal number of white stars against a blue background.

As new states entered the Union additional stars were required on this blue field, but the basic design originated 175 years ago and popularly termed the "Betsy Ross" flag, remains unchanged today.

The American flag is a symbol of all that is great and good in a democracy. In recent years, it has been a banner of hope to millions of people enslaved by power-crazed dictators. Today it carries the hopes of all humanity's yearning for liberty, justice and right. It remains the eternal symbol of hope to all mankind.

June 14th is Flag Day, it will be well for every citizen to remember the pledge of allegiance, and pause for one moment on this day, and say it with your hand over your heart, and mean it!

In the event you have forgotten it, we reprint it:

"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands. One nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

COMMUNITY MEETING WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Mayor W. W. Wallace Jr., and his councilmen have invited the citizens of the town to sit in on a discussion of some of the problems confronting this town and precautions necessary to be taken. For instance, enforced inoculation of all dogs, or else! Better be on hand and express yourselves on these pending matters. The writer believes these open discussions on mutual interests should be held more often. They would, in time, we belive, bring the people of this community closer together.

What do you think? Come out and express your opinion Wednesday evening 7:30 in the Courthouse.

COUNTY FARMERS ASKED FOR MORE FOOD IN 1952

This year the United States Department of Agriculture is asking the American farmer for more food and fibre than ever before in our history. The Farmers Home Administration through its county supervisors is working to help all farmers in Shelby county with especial emphasis on the family-size farm to achieve this production goal says S. S. Pierce, FHA County Supervisor. More and greater production of food is essential to maintain our national eating standard since our armed forces must be properly fed, our Allies assisted, and our national population is increasing on an average of 7000 every day, Pierce also advised.

"In feeding this daily increase of 7000 people, more than two and a half million persons per year - the Home Garden is going to play a vital part," says Pierce, "and the selection of a good 1/8 acre garden patch for family of five, proper fertilization, good seed, variety of vegetables, and proper insect control will be deciding factors."

"All Agricultural Agencies are working together to get this food production job done and getting greater yields from the same acres and the same manpower is the key policy of the Farmers Home Administration," the Supervisor further stated.

The national slogan for home gardens adopted by the FHA is, "Grow More, Preserve More, Use More," and the way to do this is to have a home garden with the proper equipment and instructions necessary to grow and properly preserve fresh foods. Now is the time for planting lima beans, pole beans, field peas, okra, tomatoes, and sweet corn in home gardens in Alabama according to the API Experiment Station at Auburn and the Farmers Home Administration is ready to assist," says Pierce, County Supervisor for Shelby County. We are asking families to can or freeze 100 quarts of food per person. Don't forget that your hogs, milk cows, and chickens, along with your garden are essential to a good Food Program.

SHELBY COUNTY GROUP AMONG TEACHERS ATTENDING WORKSHOP

Teachers from Cullman City, Cullman county, and Shelby county have met on the campus of Alabama College for a two weeks workshop in Child Study under the direction of Dr. Daniel A. Prescott, Director of the Institute for Child Study at the University of Maryland.

Dr. Prescott was appointed in 1939 by the American Council of Education to head the Commission on Teacher Education. He and his staff have worked subsequently with systems in various states of the nation.

The purpose of this workshop is to train leaders of Child Study groups, which will be organized within the In-Service Training Program of their respective systems. The purpose of the Child Study groups is to help teachers have a better understanding of children.

Teachers participating in this program are:

Cullman City: Doris Wheeler, Lorine Bailey, Robert Stewart; Cullman County: Mrs. K. O. Hamner, Mrs. Faye Rice, Nina Gay Whatley, Hazel Farmer, Lou Proctor, Clara Nell Hawk, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Smith, Ray Brown, J. L. Lovvorn, John Harding.

Shelby County: Mrs. Margie Sullivan, Mrs. Bertha Cosper, Mrs. Nannie Dee Durden, Elizabeth Mays, Mrs. Sara Walker, Mrs. Ulmer Fancher, Mrs. Sara Phillips, Mrs. Irene Hamric, Aileen Pope, Anita King and S. H. Hurt.

AMERICAN LEGION ELECTS OFFICERS TONIGHT

AUTO TAXES NOW COST MORE THAN ALL STATE TAXES IN 1939

Motor vehicle registration fees and gasoline taxes paid into the state treasury now cost the people of Alabama more each year than the total of all states taxes cost them in 1939, according to W. B. Timmons, Secretary-Manager of the Alabama Motorist Association.

"This shows how the state tax burden has grown in recent years," he said, "and it also shows how much of this burden has fallen on motor vehicle owners."

These figures do not include approximately $4,500,000 in local gasoline taxes collected in fiscal year 1950-51.

Registration fees and the state gasoline tax brought in $46,359,779 to Alabama last year, Timmons said. This tops the state's total tax receipts including automotive taxes, of $40,189,00 in 1939, he added.

Besides these state highway user taxes, the federal government levies a whole series of excises on new cars, tires, tubes, parts, accessories and lubricating oil, plus an extra two cents a gallon gasoline tax, he explained.

"In combination, federal and state gasoline taxes total 8 cents on every gallon purchased in Alabama," he said, "making this the heaviest part of the special tax burden of most car-owners here."

COMMUNITY NEWS

SHELBY: Mr. and Mrs. Jim Taylor and daughter Mary Nell, spent Sunday with Mrs. Taylor's mother, Mrs. Zudie Seales.

HARPERSVILLE: Luther Davis and Miss Rowe were happily married near here last Saturday evening. Rev. Levie saying the words that made them man and wife.

Since we proffered in early spring to help those wanting to get maried and couldn't, there has been four or five marriages and as the good presiding elder says: "As these retire, let others come forward." We are still ready to help.

Duncan Kimbrough was out of Harpersville Sunday. He is gone but we don't know where.

DUNNAVANT: Ernest and Marvin Williams of Birmingham Southern College and their sister, Miss Emma Lowery of Alabama College are spending a few days with their aunt, Mrs. E. D. Holliday.

EBENEZER: Mr. Carl Wyatt is seriously sick this week. The community citizens are going to give him a full days work Monday and finish planting and working out his crop for him. I like to live in a community and teach children of such parents as these that treat their neighbors in this way.

KINGDOM: Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Crumpton were called to Hollins last Monday on account of the death of Mrs. Crumpton's nephew, Herbert Wilson who was killed by a passenger train forty miles north of Birmingham. He was 18 years old. Mrs. Crumpton was formerly Miss Myrtle Jackson of Shelby County.

COLUMBIANA: There were 23 new members who joined the Baptist Church during a recent revival. They are: L. F. Vershot, Elvina Vershot, Edward German, J. M. Butler, Mrs. J. M. Bradshaw, Mary Catherine Bradshaw, Kathleen Mooney, Eva Walton, F. D. Robinson, Mrs. F. D. Robinson, L. B. Riddle Jr., Tyrie Lawson, Charlie Verne Tinney, Eleanor Atchison, Mrs. J. W. Edmondson, Annie Davis, Mary T. Goodwin, John T. Goodwin, John Howell, Donald Falkner, Myrine Edmondson, Neil Crumpton, Agnes Wingard.

Local Boy At Boy's State This Week

Hugh Sims, Jr., local high school senior next fall, is representing our local post 131 of the American Legion at the annual Alabama BOY'S STATE, this week in Tuscaloosa.

Boy's State is sponsored by the Department of Alabama, American Legion each year for a select group of good citizenship boys from all over Alabama for the purpose of demonstrating to them how the state government works and many important phases of civic life and good citizenship.

Hugh Sims, Jr., is being sent under sponsorship of local Post 131 of the American Legion. Upon his return he will make a report to the Local Legion Post and possibly to the student body next fall.

One who gets this trip each year receives an outstanding honor that can come to only ONE BOY each year.

BURIAL SERVICE HELD FOR MRS. SALLIE L. HUSBANDS

Burial Service for Mrs. Sallie Liles Husbands was held Monday afternoon, June 9th at the family cemetery in Columbiana.

Mrs. Husbands was the youngest of the nine children of the late Rev. F. A. Liles, and sister of the late A. S. Liles.

After her marriage, Mrs. Husbands resided in Geogia, having been a teacher of piano for many years.

However, for several years she has been in failing health and had she lived until September would have reached her 90th year.

She is survived only by neices and nephews. J. V. Liles and daughter, Mrs. Lanigran, of Gadsden; Mrs. Walter Mims and daughter, Mrs. Hoyt Ellis, of Birmingham; Mrs. J. A. Cates, and son, Cecil Cates, and Mrs. L. M. MacKnight, of Columbiana attended the burial service which was conducted by the Rev. T. K. Roberts.

Interment by J. O. Johnson, of Moultrie, Walton-Bolton of Columbiana assisting.

Holcombe Goes To Girl's State

JOY HOLCOMBE

Miss Joy Holcombe was selected by the American Legion Auxiliary to represent Montevallo High School at Girls' State at Huntingdon College June 8 to 14. Miss Eleanor Mitchell was selected as alternate and is being sent by the Montevallo Rotary Club.

Joy is the daughter of Mrs. Robert P. Holcombe and the late Mr. Holcombe. She is head majorette for the high school band, member of the concert band and glee club. She was Homecoming Queen for 1951-52.

Among her other attainments and activities, she is song leader for the Montevallo Chapter FHA, vocalist for the Montevallo Swing Band, vice-president of the M.Y.F. of the Methodist Church, junior choir director for the church. She sings in the church choir, and takes part in various community activities.

MRS. LEONA STEELE PASSES

On Friday night, May 30, 1952, the entire Bethel community was saddened by the death of Mrs. Leona Steele.

We feel we have lost one of our oldest and best neighbors in the community.

She was a good mother and friend, devoting her life to those whom she loved.

We do not understand why one has to linger and suffer as long as she did. We only know that it was God's will.

She will be greatly missed in this community.-Mrs. E. B. Hughes

State of Alabama, Shelby County:

I, L. C. Walker, Chairman of the Board of Revenue & Control of Shelby County, Alabama, certify that the foregoing pages one to twenty-three both inclusive, contain a true and correct report of receipts and disbursements of said board for the six monts period ending March 31st, 1952, together with a schedule of indebtedness as the same appears and remains of record in the office of the County Treasurer.

Witness my hand this 26th day of May1952.

L. C. WALKER, Chairman of the Board of Revenue & Control of Shelby
County, Alabama

NUMEROUS WAYS TO ADD MILK TO DIET

Soups made with milk make an excellent main dish for a meal.

Mary Hulsey, A. P. I. Extension nutritionist, points out that one can use soups made with milk as appetizers. A serving of cream soup and a green salad or sandwich makes a satisfying luncheon.

"Milk has a big place in salads, such as cheese," states the specialist, "and of course, milk can go into a frozen salad or into the salad dressing. Also, creamed or scalloped foods, croquettes and meat or fish loaves made with milk are excellent main dishes."

MAKE USE OF CHART IN PTTERN BOOKS

In front of each pattern book is a chart showing the various sizes available.

Levice Ellis, A. P. I. Extension clothing specialist, says that the best measures of Junior Miss and half sizes are an odd number of inches, such as 29 inches for size 11 or 35 inches for size 14½. Junior Miss, Misses', and Womens bust sizes are in even numbers.

"The same bust measure in a Girl's Misses', or Women's patern will not fit the same figure," adds Miss Ellis. "The curve of the bust differs. The Girl's bust is only slightly curved, the Junior Misses, is more fully developed, The Misses' is more pointed, and the Woman's is fuller but more rounded.

"Another difference to be found in patterns is the variation in the length of sleeve and waist. This difference can be checked on the chart of measurements found in the pattern book or on the back of the pattern.

NOTICE OF SALE OF LANDS

No. 3386 In the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, In Equity

Nuna Freeze and Waree Brooks, Complainants,

SPRING CREEK

Milton Bridges, Jr., left Wednesday for California after spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bridges. He doesn't know just where his new assignment of duty will lead him but he does know he will sail soon for the Far East.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Ingram spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Frost in Valley Grove.

Mrs. Lloyd McLaughlin, Mrs. Yarbrough and daughter Barbara, and Miss Lorraine McLaughlin of New Merkle were Friday afternoon visitors of the R. D. Ingrams.

Cpl. and Mrs. Bobby Ingram and baby of Fort Benning, Ga., spent the past week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ingram and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Taff.

Mr. and Mrs. James Landrum of Birmingham were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Goad.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ingram were Mrs. W. L. Brantley of Excell, Mrs. Bob Echols and children of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ingram of Montevallo.

Miss Dora Grace Frost has completed her years work as Home Ec. teacher at Beatrice High School and is at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Frost.

Mrs. Chick Knowles of Siluria spent several days of last week with Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Ingram.

Jackie and Houston Ingram attended the F. F. A. State Convention at Auburn Thursday. Houston was honored by being presented a State Farmer's Degree.

Jean Ingram was among the large number of girls attending F. H. A. Meeting at Alabama College Wednesday through Saturday.

Saturday evening, May 29th, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bridges entertained in honor of their soldier son, Milton Jr., who was home for a few days. The young people from here and surrounding communities enjoyed the courtesy.

Mrs. Bert Ingram's home in Calera was the place of meeting for the Spring Creek-Valley Grove Home Demonstration Club Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. William Goad gave the demonstration on Cake Baking.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ingram, Jeannie and Houston Ingram visited the David Scoggins near Bessemer last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Shepherd and Mrs. Eddie Hancock of Birmingham visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frost Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Frost returned home with her daughter, Mrs. Hancock (Martha Jo) for a two weeks visit. After that time Mrs. Hancock will be moving to California where she will join her soldier husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Cary are visiting Mrs. Florence Cary.

Mr. Graves of Birmingham was a recent visitor of Mr. and Mrs. W. Goad.

Mr. James Frost left last Saturday to join his wife and baby in Summerdale. For the past three weeks he had been a visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frost in the H. J. Ingram home. After their vacation they will return to their home in Birmingham where James is employed by T. C. I. Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Ingram spent last week end in Cullman with Mrs. Ingram's neice, Mrs. Mae Abercrombie.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Montgomery and children, Mrs. Laura Ingram and Jim Ingram visited in our community Saturday.

Mrs. Gladys Allen and son, Stanley spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ingram.

Miss Mattie Spain and Mr. Everett Taff were married May 29th and are now at home in Spring Creek. They bought the William Goad place.

Mr. and Mrs. William Goad and children are living in one of Mr. Felix Lewis' houses while their home is being built. They began work on it Saturday. This new home will be near the Will Allen place.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Taff and children moved from Baker's Dairy to the place formerly owned by the Josh Frost family.

Misses Della and Alta Lee, of Leeds were Saturday guests of Mrs. Florence Cary.

Mr. and Mrs. David Scoggins and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Scoggins of Bessemer visited Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Ingram Sunday afternoon.

ALABAMA PRESS ASSOC. PAST-PRESIDENTS TO BE HONORED

Past-presidents of the Alabama Press Association will be honored at the association's summer convention July 10, 11 and 12 at Panama City, Florida, Cecil Honady, APA president and publisher of The Talladega News, announced this week.

Included on the program will be a special banquet July 11 at which time the APA's past-presidents will be presented with awards of appreciation from the association. Since the founding of the Alabama Press Association in 1871, 57 Alabama newspaper publishers have served as president.

The 22 living past-presidents are being invited to attend this special program. Cash M. Stanley, The Alabama Journal, Montgomery, is chairman of the program committee. Jep V. Greer, The Sylacauga News, will be master of ceremonies.

The remainder of the convention program will be designed to appeal to Alabama's publishers and their families. Headquarters will be at the Cove Hotel, Panama City.

Veterans' Column
State Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

E. J. SULLIVAN, VSO

The army is planning to lower the Boom On Reservists who Wilfully disregard orders to attend a 15 day training period this summer. Organized Reserves who fail to show up, unless properly excused, will find the Army's attitude a lot tougher than it was last year. The 15-day active duty training periods are mandatory for all O. R. C. Troop Program Units and Mobilization Designees. The Army states that individuals will be excused where attendance might cause Undue Hardship. Say, for example, where illness in the family requires the reservists' presence, or where he might risk the loss of his job. Such cases will be judged on their individual merits, and mere inconvenience to the individual will not count.

Army commanders have been told, in effect, that those that wilfully disregard orders to report for training, are to be considered just as any other Army AWOL, subject to apprehension and trial by court-martial.

I would like to put you GI Home owners WISE to several RACKETS which have been worked on those who have become delinquent in their monthly payments. I want to warn any of you who may be delinquent to CHECK VERY CAREFUL any offers by STRANGERS to pay delinquent payments if you will sign on the dotted line. We have reports that in some parts of the country, there is a REVIVAL of the practice sometimes called MILKING, or EQUITY SKINNING. In one form of this racket, the VETERAN, who is behind in his GI loan payments, is approached by individuals offering to pay the delinquent installments if the veteran will just sign the paper he is presented with. Later on, the veteran learns that he signed a deed, and can get his property back only signing a LAND SALE CONTRACT at a much higher price. When the veteran finds that he is unable to meet the often excessive terms of the land sale contract, legal action is taken to obtain possession of the veterans home.

In OTHER instances, a low cost subdivision will be canvassed to learn whether veterans are having trouble meeting their GI loan payments. If so, these individuals offer each veteran a NORMAL AMOUNT for his EQUITY, PLUS the privilege of purchasing another home in a lower cost area on a land sale contract. The veteran agrees to give possession in 60 days, and signs on the dotted line, unaware that he is signing a deed. When the 60 days are up, the veteran is advised that NO LISTINGS are AVAILABLE in the lower cost development. He is then EVICTED from his home.

If such a person approaches you to pay your back payments and have you to sign any kind of papers, you should see the holder of the MORTGAGE and notify the nearest Veterans' Administration Regional Office before you sign any papers.

CARD OF THANKS

It is impossible to express in words our appreciation for the countless acts of kindness rendered us during the illness of our little one, Judy Lansford.

We take this opportunity, however, to thank each of you and to assure you that we shall ever remain grateful. We continue to pray that if it be God's will that she will completely recover.

HIGHER YIELDS PAY FOR TRUCK CROP IRRIGATION

Experimental work with 16 different vegetable crops over an 11-year period has shown that irrigation increased yields an average of 28 per cent.

"In fact," says John Bagby, API Extension horticulturist, "the average increase in gross value per acre was $79 for a single crop, and it was twice that amount when two crops were grown on the same land in one year."

He adds that water is often the limiting factor in truck crop production. Dry periods lasting from two to four weeks often seriously reduce yields or cause complete crop failure.

The specialist says growing crops need about one inch of water each week for satisfactory results. This amount of water per acre costs about $7. Therefore, increased yields will soon pay for the cost of an irrigation system.

The Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of Calera, Shelby County, Alabama, Mary Campbell Martin, as Trustee of the Presbyterian Church of Calera, Shelby County, Alabama.

To: The Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of Calera, Shelby County, Alabama.

You will take notice that on the 6th day of June, 1952, a petition was filed in this Court by the Town of Calera, setting forth its desire to condemn for certain purposes therein stated, certain lands belonging to The Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of Calera, Shelby County, Alabama, et al, described as follows:

Part of lots ten and eleven in Block 268 according to J. H. Dunstan's survey and map of the Town of Calera, Alabama, more particularly described as beginning at the southwest corner of lot 11 in said block and running east 110 feet; thence north 100 feet; thence west 110 feet; thence south 100 feet to point of beginning. In the Town of Calera, Alabama.

by petition filed in this Court, and said plaintiff prays that this Court will make and enter an order appointing a day for the hearing of said petition and for such other and further orders and procedures as may be necessary.

You will take further notice that the Court has appointed the 2nd day of August, 1952, to hear said application or petition, at which time you may appear and contest the same if you so desire to do.

Witness my hand this the 6th day of June, 1952.

NOTHING THE MATTER WITH AMERICA TODAY THE BOY SCOUTS CAN'T HANDLE TOMORROW!

As long as there are Boy Scouts like two young fellows we have just encountered on Main Street this morning, we are not too much worried over the country and its problems. If this generation can't solve them, the next one will. That is, if they are as alert and patriotically inclined as young T. O. Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Smith and James Clinkscales, son of the Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Clinkscales of Wilsonville.

But, let's get on with the story. We met these young scouts on Main Street this hectic morning, and immediately became interested in them, and as always, with an eye for worthwhile news items, we began a conversation with them and learned that this morning (Monday), at four o'clock A. M., James and Tom donned their scout uniforms and began a twenty-mile hike which carried them from Wilsonville to Shelby, then to Columbiana and back to Wilsonville, by the mountain route. These splendid young Americans are working for a merit badge, and we are sure by the time they reached Wilsonville (nine miles on up the road), they had truly earned their badge of merit.

The themometer was lurking around 96, so, we asked the boys to go with us to the drug store where we could get something cool to drink and find a cooler spot to chat. These gallant lads quickly agreed to this idea, and after downing a chocolate malted milk, they admitted feeling better, and were eager to be on their merry way.

Tom and James are as bright as new money, as cute as a wink, and as refreshing as a June breeze, and, as stated above, we are not too much worried over America's problems, for, if this generation can't solve them today, these Boy Scouts will successfullly play their part and find the answer.... TOMORROW! We hope to report soon on the organization of a Troop in our own community. I hear Bill White and Milton Bird will direct this worth while activity.... and whatever amount of energy and time they spend on this project, I will wager my last penny that they will feel fully repaid for their endeavor in the genuine pleasure they find in being associated with fellows like Tom Smith and James Clinkscales, typical all American boys, who deserve a county wide salute thru the Reporter- Democrat. And here tis!

SACRED SONGS TO INCLUDE ON YOUR CHURCH PROGRAMS

The sacred song.... "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked" was written by my friend Daniel Twohig and Geoffrey O'Haro, two widely known writers, and was published in 1937.

The song is now coming into its own, after lying practically dormant for 15 years. According to a letter just received from Mr. Twohig, the sheet sales will top 1,000,000 and 500,000 records have already been sold. The popular evangelist, Billy Graham, has had it programmed with his singer, and it was the only song chosen to be used on the Universal Day of Prayer in all churches.

The song is beautifully written and deserves the international recognition it is receiving.

In a letter just received from Dan Twohig, he states that he has been writing songs for thirty years, but only in the last ten years has monetary success crowned his efforts. His second best seller, in the sacred field of songs is: "Come To The Stable With Jesus".... and is also becoming one of the great religious songs widely used as a solo.

Dan is now retired and resides in Boston, Mass. Next time you want a splendid sacred song, place these songs on your list. Hear them on the records, if you have not already done so. I know you will be delighted with them, and, if you are looking for the prettiest waltz lullaby secular song, you will likely ever hear, ask for Dan Twohig's, "Little Bluebird Of My Heart" published as a solo and in all choral arrangements. It is truly beautiful!

MAIN STREET MERRY-GO-ROUND

The welcome mat is out this morning for Lady Edmund Ewing to step on. Mrs. Ewing arrived from Tuscaloosa last week to make her future home in Columbiana and has taken an apartment in the hospitable home of Mr. and Luther Fowler. Mrs. Ewing is a sister of Luther Fowler, and he has been counting the days until her arrival. In addition to the joy her presence will bring to her loved ones, a host of friends are eager to extend a cordial welcome. Lady Ewing will soon be a familiar figure on Main as she has accepted a position with the Gordon-White Real Estate Company, and necessarily will join those of us who circulate on Main Street's Merry-Go-Round each day. Naturally, we are delighted to have this charming and gracious personality with us, and Columbiana must have something "very special".... for Mrs. Ewing chose this place above several other much larger towns to make her permanent home, and thats the best recommendation we know of for any town.

... The office of the Tax Assessor is a more attractive place this week since Lady Fowler, after a few weeks vacation, has returned to her secretarial position.

... Those two Freshmen you see getting acquainted with Auburn summer students are Fred Wood and Carlos Moorer, and thru the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Johnnie Wood, those two young fellows will be able to keep right up with the news in their old "home town" for this week we enter Magnolia Hall to say "Hello" and to wish for them every success in their college careers.

... Captain Joe Young was bound for Europe last week, but, before reaching the Port of Embarkation was taken seriously ill with acute appendicitis and an emergency operation was performed. "Captain Joe" is now in a hospital up North, and will await further orders, after he is well again.

... Harry Atchison, on his way to work stops by for a cheerful little earful this bright Spring morning, and flips out the required amount to assure his ring side seat in the weekly readers of this little old "Home Town Paper" for which we say, thanks a million!

... Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Christian, Mr. and Mrs. Ehney A. Camp, Patsy, Mary Gene and Ehney Camp Jr., joined other members of the Hendricks family in Montevallo Sunday when they met for their annual reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Latham.

... Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Duke and Frank Fulton are the guests of Dick Fulton this week who is stationed at San Antonio, Texas.

... Mr. and Mrs. David MacKnight and family of Birmingham spent the week end as guests of Mr. MacKnight's mother, Mrs. Lillie Mae MacKnight.

... Thanks to Mrs. Henry Brooks, former resident of Columbiana, now residing in Goodwater, for a subscription to the Home Paper. Mrs. Brooks says, she believes she will like her new home better if this "weekly messenger from Main" comes in for a visit. So, we become a part of the Brooks family circle this very week.

... Mrs. Claude Heaton leaves a note on our desk stating she does not "want to miss a single copy of the paper,' 'and a please renew plus the required amount enclosed, for which courtesy we are truly grateful.

... Baptist S. S .officers-teachers met at the home of the Rev. Curtis Bean Monday evening for a picnic supper which was enjoyed by sixty members of the church before taking up the business scheduled for this evening. The Rev. Edwards with the Home Mission Board was guest speaker.

TRAVIS SHELTON

TRAVIS SHELTON GOES TO SOUTHERN METHODIST UNIVERSITY

Friends, and there is a host of them, in Alabama, especially in Shelby county, and more particularly in Sylacauga, Ala., who will be mingling their congratulations with regrets, just as soon as they learn that Travis Shelton, former director of Music in the Marble City, and Director of Columbiana Male Chorus and the Ladies Chorus, will not be back in Alabama in his former professional capacity, but has accepted a position as Director of Music at Southern Methodist University and will begin his work there in September 1952.

Alabama loses, not only a splendid musician, but a wonderfully fine citizen. Personally, we can only say, "Congratulations".... "Good Luck".... and "So Long" to a treasured friend and fellow traveller for many years along the Melody Trail. No one knows, better than we, how very much Travis deserves this coveted recognition of his outstanding ability. We regret that the monetary consideration Alabama had at her disposal, was not sufficient to keep a man of Travis Shelton's ability in our midst.

What are we going to do, as far as choral clubs are concerned in Columbiana is the $64.00 question. In Sylacauga, it is the $164 query?

COACH MANN

If you want to see a real live wire who recently hit the town, go by the recreation field at the High School and meet Coach Mann, S. C. H. S. new Coach. This fellow must have taken a course in "How to make friends and influence people," for he is right on his toes and getting everybody else recreation-minded, and making more friends by the minute than we have time to tabulate. If you haven't met him, his charming wife and babette, lose no time in doing so. You will get what I mean quicker. The "Mann's" are definitely splendid additions to this community.

... Friends are welcoming Cecil, Blanche and Roland Davis from San Antonio, Texas, this week as the guests of Mr. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Davis. Mrs. Davis is Choir Director of her church in San Antonio, Texas, and Mr. Davis, now a salesman of Americana Encyclopedia, plans to enter the Church School this fall to work on his degree and will enter the ministery of the Presbyterian denomination as soon as his theological course has been completed.

The Baptist Choristers were delighted to have these distinguished guests at Choir rehearsal Tuesday evening.

The Choristers will offer as their special numbers Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour, new arrangements of old hymns, which include "Rise Up O Men Of God".... and "Rock Of Ages" with John Rush as Bass Soloist.

... Olive Ruth Autrey is the attractive addition to the Welfare Department's official staff of workers. Miss Autrey is from Wilcox county and a recent graduate of Alabama College.

... "Coach" Roy Mann has lined up with the readers of the Reporter-Democrat each week and naturally, this pleases this wielder of the penpoint.

G. C. MOORE, JR.

G. C. MOORE, JR. MAKES GOOD WITH BROWN-SERVICE

G. C. Moore, Jr., came to Shelby county in January 1950 and served until March 8, 1952, as assistant county agent for Shelby county. Mr. Moore then resigned from this position to accept a position with the Liberty National Life Insurance Company and Brown Service with which company he had previously worked for two years during 1935-36 at Monroeville, Alabama and Defuniak Springs, Florida.

Mr. Moore and his family have become a vital part of the community life of Columbiana and his many friends will be delighted to learn he is making a success in his new venture with the above well and favorably known Company.

Mr. Moore is a native of Crenshaw county, a graduate of Auburn, a veteran of World War II, being called into active military service as a reserve lieutenant in 1941, and remained in active service for four years, several months of which was spent in the European Theatre, stationed in England.

Mr. Moore is a public spirited citizen and takes an active part in civic, religious, educational and social life of Columbiana. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club, a deacon in the Baptist Church, Member of Church Building Committee, Training Union Director, Associate Director of Training Union Work, Shelby County Association, Chairman Boys and Girl Committee, and Adjutant of the Legion Post in Columbiana.

Mr. Moore states he heartily appreciates the friendship and helpfulness everyone extended him during his tenure of office as assistant county agent and he especially enjoyed the 4-H club work. He will be grateful for the opportunity to serve his friends in their insurance needs.

... Slick Robinson, star athlete of Shelby County High School, is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robinson in Wilsonville. "Slick" is stationed in Albuerqueque, New Mexico, and is not too enthusiastic over the hectic climate out there. However, Slick is taking the army in his usual good-natured stride, but mighty happy to be home again even for a short time. Slick might, confidentially tell you a few things about army life, that is if he is in the mood to "bat the breeze" in military lingo. We thoroughly enjoyed Slick's visit with us.

... Mrs. A. P. McGhee has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGhee in Eufaula for a week. She returned to Columbiana with them Sunday.

... Charles McGhee is spending the summer in Corpus Christi, Texas with Mr. and Mrs. Rentfrow.

VIGNETTE DANCE FRIDAY NIGHT, JUNE 13th

Everyone is cordially invited to the Vignette sponsored dance Friday evening at the High School Auditorium, with Lewis Simpkins and his Syncopators furnishing the tempo for a splendid evening of entertainment. The dance is informal. The proceeds, all over expenses, will be given to Leonard Rogers for the Free Lunch Program.

This Free Lunch Program is most essential for the school term. The appeal we made thru this paper last semester, brought forth a generous sum, enough to take care of the deficit for last year, but, there is an empty treasury now, as far as food for the underprivileged children in school is concerned, and the Vignettes want to take this project, along with their other worthwhile endeavors and will present this evening of melody for your entertainment.

Students will be charged only 50 cents, Adults $1.00. Make a note of this and "swing your partners".. or, if you prefer, take a dreamy waltz, or an up to the minute fox trot, Rhumba or Samba, or get a congenial partner, and sit it out by an electric fan on the sidelines and watch'em!

MR. BEAN, ON THE BEAM

The Rev. Curtis Bean is, to this writer's way of thinking "true religion in action," which to make it even shorter, is "service to his fellowman". The news of little Judy Lansford's tragic accident, flashed like wildfire over Main Street. Judy was rushed to the hospital in Sylacauga. No sooner had the Lansford's arrived, tha this popular little minister was right there, too. He learned that no serum, the kind that was needed, was nearer than Montgomery, but, quicker than it is taking me to record the fact, Mr. Bean and his friend N. A. Jones were on their way to the Capitol City and brought back the required "shot" for Judy, which may save her life. This is only one instance we have heard of where this comparatively new comer in our midst, has been by the side of those in trouble, just when they needed a friendly and an understanding comrade. In my humble estimation, this young minister is destined to go far, in service for his Master.

Columbiana Baptist Church is one of the most fortunate churches we know anything about in having him for its leader.

... Milton Bird left the Main Stem Saturday in a jubilant mood, bound for Laguna Beach, Florida, where he will join Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor for a week's vacation, after which time, the incorrigible and hard to cage "bird" states he will answer the requests from many of his friends for another chatty, human interest column about this and that. He has told this writer that sameold story for weeks, so, I will have to see it to believe it. However, here's wishing the lucky Post-Man, a happy vacation flirting with the finny tribe, et al!

... Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cunningham left Wilsonville Sunday, for the garden spot of the world, Gatlinburg, where they will enjoy that incomparable mountain scenery found only in the "Sokies."

... Alvin Stinson, who is an officer in the U. S. Navy Reserve, left Columbiana, Saturday, for Chicago, Illinois, and for a cruise on the Great Lakes for two weeks.

PATSY BROWN HONORED WITH SHOWER

The home of Mrs. William Clark furnished the artistic setting for a Miscellaneous shower honoring bride-elect Patsy Brown on Tuesday afternoon, June 10, when Mrs. Clark, Mrs. W. R. Carter and Mrs. Ralph Hunt, Jr., entertained.

The guests were greeted at the door by Judy Carter and Mrs. Clark received them and presented them to the receiving line composed of Mrs. L. O. Brown, mother of the honoree, Patsy Brown, Sue Daniel (Jim Duke's fiancee), Mrs. Ralph Hunt Jr., and Mrs. Rux Carter.

Guests were registered in the bride's book presided over by Brenda Brown, sister of the honoree. The gorgeous gift display was in charge of Peggy Edwards and Charlie Ann Goodwin.

From an exquisitely arranged table sovered with a mexican hand-drawn table cloth and set in the Clark's floral gardens, delectable iced punch, cakes, mints and nuts were served by Bunny Crawford, Martha Turner, Barbara Cutler, Betty Ruth Watts and Jeanette Niven.

The two bride-elects were presented with miniature bride's bouquets. The table appointments and floral arangements throughout the home were in charge of Thelma Vincent and Elizabeth Isbell.

Miss Brown was beautifully gowned in white embroidered Organdy with blue satin ash and shoulder corsage of glamellia, and Miss Daniels wore navy blue sheer with navy accessories, with gardenia corsage.

The wedding of Miss Daniels and Jim Duke will be solemnized in Center on June 28th, and the marriage of Patsy Brown and Warren Duke will be solemnized in Columbiana in July.

... Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Moore, Jr., and family spent the week end in South Alabama attending a joyous family reunion.

SCUE LADINO HOG STURE PAYS OFF BIG

Ve want to tell you of a real gain in pork, one ton for about cents per pound!

dward Lansford, Vincent, gave the figures that proves his acre Ky. 31 Fescue and Ladino ture has produced 2,005 pounds pork in only ninety days, with itional feeding of only 12 bush- of corn and 300 gallons of slop.

his gain was made on twenty mals, three of which were al- dy mature sows, 12 were light ats, and 5 were only pigs which e not in the herd th full ninety s.

he grass and clover was deem- ready for grazing on February nly a few months after being nted. The hogs were put on and plenty of fresh water was nished. Five gallons of slop rgely bread) was fed each ool day. Twenty bushels of was bought, but fed so spar- y that eight bushels remained May 1!

o be figured as costs, Mr. nford gav this list:

ertilizer	$21.00
abor, 50c per hour	45.00
orn $2 per bu.	24.00
lop can	4.00
holera serum	2.00
lose (deprec.)	1.00
lop (converted to sup-ment value)	25.00
	$122.00

t least one item given is ex- rated, since Mr. Lansford him- says "the pasture is three es as good now as it was in ruary." Thus, the fertilizer should hardly be charged en- ly to this pork chop. Also, little n was made on the sows, litters pigs expected cannot be count- yet, the slop can is still ser- ble, and the market value, per nd, of the shoats has increased they have reached tops.

n May 1 we assured the lower re given for hogs sold that locally, 16.00 per cwt, valuing 2,005 pound gain at 320, Sub- ting the 122.00 listed as cost found a net gain of $198.80.

Ir. Lansford, vocational agri- ure teacher of the Vincent high ool, admits not everyone has s to 100 gallons of slop per th. However, he has figured t the twenty five dollars as- ed for its value would pur- e supplement or tankage of al or better feeding value. s genial farmer-teacher is glad show interested parties his ctical application of grazing to production.

CHRYSLER SARATOGA
6-PASSENGER SEDAN

DON'T LET YOUR WIFE DISCOVER THIS TOO LATE!

Women by the thousands are discovering in the beautiful Chrysler Saratoga the easiest "big car" of all to handle . . . the most generously comfortable to ride in . . . and the most instantly responsive to their command.

That's why we say to you . . . and your wife . . . "Come in and see for yourselves what the Saratoga does for you." And do it now, before you decide on any car . . . not later, when you may regret not having all the things you can have in a Saratoga!

Yes, it is a big car with big car power . . . a breath-taking 180 H.P. performer (the most revolutionary V-8 engine in 25 years) that answers to the touch of your toe with delightful gusto. And it doesn't call for premium fuel, either!

Does your wife think there's too much car here to handle? . . . let her try its Power Steering that does 4/5 of all the steering work and gives five times greater control on the road and when parking!

Is she safety-minded? Chrysler Power Brakes give her quicker, safer stops . . . with up to two-thirds less foot pressure. She'll appreciate Chrysler's Safety-Cushion dash panel. And in case of a blowout, she'll have the assurance of Safety-Rim wheels that won't "throw" a tire.

How about comfort? Come, both of you, for a ride! . . . feel how those amazing Oriflow shock absorbers "liquidate" even the worst road bumps. Chair-high seats plus big, big windows let even the tiniest little lady see out properly. Doors open wide . . . and she can keep her hat on!

Here, in short, is the car beautifully designed for men and women. The liveliest, best handling car in America. The car you'll both be glad you saw first. Why not stop in today?

NOTE: Power Steering standard on Crown Imperial. Available, extra, on any new Chrysler.

BISCUITS ARE BETTER IN DIXIE!

And Martha Pair gives a winning touch to hers.

This young lady has just been announced by Home Demonstration Agent Marian Cotney as the topnotch biscuit baker in the Shelby County 4-H Club senior girls' baking contest held May 3, in Columbiana.

Miss Pair, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Pair is a member of the Vincent Junior 4-H Club.

The winner in the junior girls' baking contest was Alma Jean Jones. She is a member of the Columbiana Elementary 4-H Club and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Jones.

"There were twelve contestants, and each girl is to be congratulated upon her baking ability; the judges can vouch for that;" said the home agent.

Both winners are the proud receipients of certificates of merit. In addition, Miss Pair received a complete 26-piece set of baking equipment and Miss Jones a year's subscription of the National 4-H Club News. All of these presents, explained Miss Cotney, are Calumet Baking awards.

"We feel confident that Miss Pair will put her equipment to good practice, because now she is eligible to enter the state contest to be held in Auburn, July 7-12, at the state 4-H Camp. And the state Calument Baking Award, a $100 scholarship, is rally worth working for, said Miss Cotney.

Miss Cotney said the county-wide baking contest is another 4-H Club program to teach girls to be better homemakers. "And judging by the fine response we have to the contest this year, we certainly are making progress in this direction," she added.

HATS OFF TO KLEIN CLUB!

Hats off to Klein Club! They have recently erected 62 new Mailbox posts on the Harpersville-Pell City, Westover-Childersburg Road.

Sixty-two mailboxes meant a cooperative project of the Klein Home Demonstration Club, Vincent F. F. A. Boys, and their instructor, and several husbands of club members.

Mrs. Frank Wyatt, President of the Club and Mrs. S. M. Embry, Community Activities Chairman were the leaders in the Project. Work got underway after voluntary committees on each segment of road made contacts and got agreements for the improved posts and boxes.

Each patron agreed to pay $1.50 for a new post, painted and erected a fresh coat of paint on the box and names printed on the box and post. Club members met at the Vincent Vocational Shop and painted the posts. These people erected the posts and boxes. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Butler, L. J. Embry, W. B. Cranford, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wyatt.

The club treated these F. F. A. Boys who made mailbox post at a Fried Chicken Picnic Spread at Jackson's Lake recently: E. L. Lansford, Instructor; Roy Lee, Billy R. Watson, Charles Turner, Eddie Raley, Ray Morris, Jimmie McCall, Robert Gardner, Robert Mooney, Wayne Jemison, Glenn Holcombe, Buster Weathers, Jack Snyder, Richard Hoyle, Reed Smith, Bernie Howard, Charles Wright, Billy Bragg, Marlin Brasher, Bobby Murphy, Jerry Chesser, Donald Overton, Frank Thomas, Sammy Reynolds, Norman Clinkscales, Nolen Clinkscales, Coy Brasher, Dan Donavan, Kenneth Gann, Beunic King, Wayne Webster, Kenneth Hendrix, Gleen Kendrich, Kenneth Nivens, Joe Moore and Gene Evans.

All club members sent food for the Picnic Lunch which was served by: Mrs. L. N. Wyatt, Mrs. Frank Wyatt, Mrs. M. P. King, Mrs. W. W. Stillwell, Mrs. L. H. Hoyle, Mrs. E. A. Turner, Mrs. A. W. Justice, Sr., and Mrs. Tillman Edwards.

WEST CALERA H. D. C. HAS FAMILY NIGHT

The West Calera Home Demonstration Club honored their families with Family Night, May 24, with a Weiner Roast at Camp Lake Forest.

Each member brought the "makings" for Hot Dogs and Mrs. Lindbloom brought ample potato salad for everyone.

Those attending were the A. J. Lucas', C. R. Lucas, E. R. Lucas, Howard Mitchell, P. A. Garrett, Lindblooms, Lawlers, Charles Cordes, E. S. Killingsworth, Mrs. Arlie Lucas, Mrs. Odie Killingsworth, W. J. Bailey families.

Games and gossip was enjoyed by all after supper.

H. D. C. NEWS FROM WEST CALERA

The West Calera Home Demonstration Club held its monthly meeting May 20th, at the home of Mrs. Howard Mitchell. The house was beautifully decorated with pot flowers and cut flowers. The dining table was covered with a hand-crocheted cloth. During the business meeting, plans were made for the club to have "Family Night." It was decided to have a "Weiner Roast" at Lake Forest.

The demonstration "Secrets to Smart Sewing" was ably given by Mrs. O. B. Clark. She showed us how to finish seams, make buttonholes, put in zippers and the good appearance of your garment if the seams are pressed as you go along.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. C. R. Lucas, Mrs. E. R. Lucas, Mrs. P. A. Garrett, Mrs. W. J. Bailey, Mrs. Lawler, Mrs. Bill Yawler, Mrs. Myers, Mrs. O. B. Clark, Mrs. E. S. Killingsworth, Mrs. L. S. Bailey, Mrs. Charles Cordes and several visitors.

FROZEN CRUSHED FRUIT DELICIOUS IN DESSERT

Crushed frozen fruit gives a delightful flavor to ice cream, sherberts, and beverages.

With this fact in mind, Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist, urges that some fruits be crushed and frozen for this purpose.

She points out that the natural flavor of these crushed or pureed frozen fruits is more pronounced than that in sugar-packed halves or slices.

SEWING PROFITABLE SAYS 4-HER

"Knowing how to sew is like money in the bank," says Annie Lou Edwards of the Vincent 4-H Club.

Annie Lou has saved about $15 on the sewing she has done on her 4-H project. In completing the project she has made: a skirt, 2 blouses, garment bag, cotton dress, which she entered in her Club Dress Revue, 3 sets of doles, sewing box, and 2 scarves.

This is Annie Lou's 3rd year in 4-H and she has taken sewing as her project each year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Edwards of Harpersville.

IME TO GET LAND READY OR SERICEA

Farmers who were unable to et lespedeza sericea planted in e spring should get land ready r late June or early July plant-g.

S. R. Doughty, API Extension il conservationist, says many rmers prfer planting sericea at is time in preference to spring lanting because they avoid the rd spring rains that frequently ash the seed away. Also, they port less competition from weeds d grass when sericea is planted June or July.

Doughty adds that sericea will ovide excellent grazing and hay ile protecting and improving e soil.

COUNTY AGENT HAS TIPS ON POND CONSTRUCTION

Farmers or sportsmen planning to construct new fishponds this year should contact their local county agent.

He is well qualified to locate a good pond site, survey the site of the dam, and make necessary recommendations for future management.

"In the past, too many farmers have made mistakes in building and managing ponds, resulting in complete failure," warns Earl Kennamer, API Extension fish and wildlife specialist.

"On the other hand, more than 8,000 properly constructed ponds in Alabama are largely the result of cooperation of pond builders with the county agent and his assistants."

Kennamer reminds pond owners that the ratio of watershed to each surface acre of pond, weed control, and fertilization are all important considerations if the pond owner wants the most for his money. The local county agent can supply this information.

THIS MONTH ALL DAIRY PRODUCTS TAKE A BOW

June DAIRY MONTH IS HERE The purpose is to advertise and encourage increased use of milk and other dairy products during the peak production period of the year.

"For instance," says A. W. Jones, API Extension marketing specialist, "tasty, wholesome, and economical dairy products include whole fluid milk, buttermilk, ice cream, cottage cheese, flavored milk drinks, cheese, dried skim milk powders, evaporated milk, and butter."

To make lettuce or celery crisp in a very short time, put in very cold water to which a little vinegar has been added.

HE'S Guarding your Phone

Guided by electronic "eyes and ears", the test deskman spots line troubles at once and gets repairmen there quickly, often before service is actually interrupted.

HEADING OFF line troubles helps keep telephone service good, and costs down. Growing efficiency all along the line is one of the reasons why the price of telephone service has gone up less than most other prices.

Through good management . . . by improving methods and equipment, and working facilities to the utmost . . . telephone folks are doing their best to provide the most and the best service for your telephone dollar. That's mighty important to Southern progress and to National Defense.

Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company

CIRCUIT COURT JULY 7

A two weeks session of the Shelby County Circuit Court will begin on July 7, at ten o'clock. A new Grand Jury will be drawn and empanelled.

The first week will be devoted to the trial of civil cases and the second week will be taken up with criminal cases docketed. There are 42 civil cases and 46 criminal cases on this docket set for the two weeks term of court.

'GENERAL IKE' OR 'MR. PRESIDENT'

General Ike Eisenhower is now a retired five-star general. He is a candidate on the Republican Party's list of potent contenders for president of the United States. Upon entering the political arena, he took off his uniform and became an ordinary citizen with an ambition for further service to his country and according to the information we have, he cast aside what amounts to a $300,000 endownment policy.

The actuaries report that if he had paid $19,541 annuity it would have cost him $269,000 spread over his 37 years of service. Since the retirement benefits of a military man are considered part of his compensation, states the Montgomery Advertiser.... and Old Grandma is for Eisenhower, the general actually threw overboard $269,000 of hard earned money.

Crystal ball gazers are deep in their reflexions now as to who among many candidates now in the public eye will be chosen to head the Republican Ticket, but, even more concerned are we, about who will unfurl the Banner of Democracy on Capitol Hill next November! Thats the $64 question on our political calender.

ATTICUS MULLINS IN HOSPITAL

Friends and readers of "The Passing Throng" edited each week by Atticus Mullins, former Shelby county resident, now residing in Montgomery, will regret to learn he is a patient at St. Margaret's Hospital. During his enforced absence, there will be no "Passing Throng" substitute. This is a wise move on the part of the Advertiser's official personnel, for we know of no one who could fill Atticus Mullins' place in the newspaper field. His human interest stories have endeared him to the Southland, and all followers of this unique feature will miss his cheery chatter and his "memories" he so tenderly records, and whats more, everyone of us will be pulling hard for his quick recovery. Until he does return, "Old Grandma" will lose her chief charm for this part of the state.

WRITERS CONCLAVE TO MEET IN MONTEVALLO

Writers from all over the Southland will gather in Montevallo June 22, and remain thru 24th for sessions of the Writer's Conclave. The highlight of the occasion as far as we are concerned, will be the appearance of Archibald Rutledge famed writer of "Home By The River"....

Naturally, it will be good to see our old friends Dr. George Lang, Martha Lyman Shillito, Mary B. Ward, Lucile Reynolds, Ruby Apsey and Frances Durham. It has been years since we attended one of these literary "gab-fests".... but think we shall take "time out" next week and check up on our artistic friends and find out whats new in the professional field of poetry-books and music. It is a long leap from the artistic world into a sea of printer's ink, but, both worlds are interesting. They thrive on people, and if there is anything more entertaining or intriguing than Old Man People, we haven't found it, yet!

'WHO SHALL BE THE JUDGE?'

An article appearing under the and article appearing under the editorial column this week written by William Crowe, furnishes all who will read it plenty of food for thought. These short essays are furnished us each week thru State Records and Reports, and some of them have been particularly good.

LEGION TO HEAR REPORT ON BOY'S STATE TRIP

All Legionaires who would like to hear about the 1952 Alabama Boy's State, held at Tuscaloosa last week, will want to be present at Town Hall tonight, Wednesday, June 18th at 8:00 P. M.

Hugh Sims, Jr., who represented our local Post, will be on hand to tell us about the "State" for 1952.

Our local Post 131 sponsored the trip for Hugh, Jr., as did other posts all over Alabama for their boys. The Boy's STATE is conducted each year by Department Of Alabama, American Legion, Montgomery, to promote good citizenship and better understanding about our State Government for the several hundred High School Seniors next fall.

Local Legion Post Will Meet Tonight

The regular meeting of Shirley-Holloway Post 131, American Legion, will meet at the Town Hall Tonight (Wednesday, June 18th), at 8:00 P. M., says G. C. Moore, Jr., Post Adjutant.

Last Wednesday night was to have been the meeting time, however, the Legion meeting was postponed in order to allow those who wished to attend the Special Meeting called by the Town Council concerning the Mad Dog and stray dog situation, to do so.

Elections of New Post Officers for the year 1953 will be held tonite.

Commander Frank Head urges every member of the Legion who can come to be there tonite and help start YOUR post on its new year by selecting the most capable and most interested men in the Legion for these important jobs.

FRED DURAN, PRESIDENT FIRST NATIONAL BANK AUBURN, ALABAMA

"Fred A. Duran, is a native of Shelby county. He was born in Calera and reared in Montevallo and Birmingham. He is the son of Mrs. Lena Duran of Montevallo and has recently been elected president and chief executive of the First National Bank of Auburn, Alabama.

Before accepting this position, Mr. Duran was assistant cashier of the Traders National Bank of Birmingham, which later merged with the First National Bank of Birmingham. Mr. Duran next served as vice president and secretary of the Bankers Mortgage Bond Co., of Birmingham, and from 1932 to 1938, he was assistant manager of the Alabama Agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

In 1938 he became vice-president of the Union Bank and Trust Company in Montgomery where he has resided for the past fourteen years. Mr. and Mrs. Duran will make their future home in Auburn. Their only son, Fred Duran Jr., is a graduate of Auburn in engineering and is now associated with the General Electric Company at Bridgeport, Conn.

The above information will be of interest to a host of friends of Mr. Duran's who join us in wishing for this young executive continued success and happiness in his chosen profession.

BOARD HITS CONGRESS FOR POSTAL DEFICIT

A presidential advisory board blamed Congress today for the annual postal deficit and recommended that the Post Office be allowed to run its own business.

The board, named by President Truman to carry out reforms recommended by the Hoover Commission, said Congress should lay down the postal service's operating policy and then let the Post Office Department determine mail rates, subsidies and employes' pay.

The Post Office grosses more than $2,000,000 a year, but in recent years has run up annual deficit of more than $650,000,000.

The board noted that only first class mail pays its own way while an annual subsidy of about $255,000,000 goes to newspapers and magazines for second class mailing permits, and about $75,000,000 a year to airlines for carrying air mail.

BRIDGE BILL PASSES LOWER HOUSE 71 TO 22

The bill introduced by Speaker Long providing for the organization of a corporation to build fifteen bridges in the state was passed by the lower House Monday afternoon by a vote of 71 to 22. One of the bridges provided in this bill would be over Coosa River between Columbiana and Talladega.

(Now known as Morgan Bridge).

SHELBY COUNTY IRON ORE IN HISTORY

Joseph H. Parsons of Talladega writing to the Talladega Home calls attention to the fact that Alabama is the largest producer of brown ore in the United States. The total output of brown ore in 1925 was 884,600 tons of which Alabama produced 639,375.

The furnaces of Shelby county using its brown ore produced most, if not all of the iron used in the great Confederate arsenal at Selma during the war between the states.

HEALTH OFFICER TELLS OF RABIES DANGER

The continuing outbreak of Rabies among dogs in nearly all parts of the county makes it imperative that more stringent action be taken to enforce the State Dog Control Act.

Failure of dog owners in the past to comply with the existing Regulations and to cooperate with the Rabies Inspector has brought about this situation.

It is the responsibility of the dog owner to have his dog innoculated against Rabies once a year.

The Rabies inspector makes this as convenient as possible by conducting clinics in various parts of the county.

The schedule of these clinics is published in your county paper and you are further notified of the dates and time by posters.

The Dog Control Law was passed for the protection of you, your family, your community and your dog.

Records have been checked on the known rabid dogs and no record is found that these dogs were innoculated within the last year.

After the Rabies Inspector has given dog owners the opportunity to have their dogs innoculated, a check up will be made and those who have failed to comply with the law will be brought to Court.

Should the present Rabies Control program fail to be effective the only alternative will be for the County Board of Health to adopt Regulations requring that all dogs be kept constantly and continuously confined and any dog found running at large be summarily destroyed.

If such regulations become necessary, it is probable that a yearly dog license of $1.00 a head would have to be imposed in order to pay the enforcing officers.

Remember, if you are a dog owner, it is your own responsibility to see that your dog is innoculated each year against Rabies.

E. F. Sloan, County Health Doctor

Memorial Windows Installed In New Methodist Church

Adding a note of refined beauty, entwined with tender memories of loved ones who gave so many years of their lives in service to the Methodist Church in Columbiana, are the beautiful stained glass Memorial windows now being installed in this historic old church. No one thing could add more to the beauty of this Sanctuary than these softly shaded, colored windows. This church is a credit, not only to the county, but to the state, and should be an inspiration to the Baptist denomination of this town who are now making a concerted effort to build a new church. It takes willing hands and faithful hearts to fulfill this mission, but it can be done! And the Methodists have proven it in a most magnificent manner. M.W.W.

Cotton Meetings Scheduled In County

The cotton crop is important in Shelby county, but the most important thing is to make a good yield.

Farmers know that insects must be controlled but results depend on dusting at the right time with the right material.

Mr. W. A. Ruffin, Entomologist from Auburn will be with us for 2 meetings and demonstrations on insects.

The meetings ar scheduled as follows:

June 24th - 10:00 A. M., Harpersville Gin, Harpersville, and visit farm of Defford Morris.

1:30 P. M. - Bethel Church, Rt. 1, Columbiana and visit farm of S. L. Crowson.

We hope every cotton farmer in the county will visit the most convenient meeting.

Farm Bureau Officers Will Meet June 20

All Officers, Directors, Home demonstration chairmen are being urged by their President H. A. Pauly to attend a meeting on Friday night, June 20th, in the Old Courthouse Auditorium, Columbiana at 7:30 to attend to important matters. Bring your husband or wife. Refreshments will be served.

PATROL CRACKS DOWN IN ALABAMA

The Alabama Highway Patrol in full cooperation with Governor Gordon Persons desire to eliminate the outrageous number of fatalities in the state due to traffic accidents, is getting tough on heedless motorists who take a chance on the Highways. Exceed the specified speed limits, pass on curves, and on hills, risking, not only the driver's life but the lives of the occupants of the car involved in the accidents. The writer drove in from Sylacauga Monday keeping strict observance of the 50 mile limit. Ten cars from Childersburg to Columbiana passed us, four heavily loaded trucks, and the Crescent Bus. We saw no patrol cars, but this is a heavily travelled highway and needs motor-patrol supervision.

Ten people lost their lives in accidents during the past week end, highway crashes killed seven. However, the Highway Patrol reports that 557 were arrested for speeding Saturday and Sunday, which is a good start in the right direction.

Columbiana and Shelby county officers should fully offer their services in this worthwhile endeavor to save human lives. The Chelsea Highway, and Wilsonville-Calera Highways are widely travelled and the Shelby Road is the necca for fishermen, who seem to forget that there is a speed law in the state when bound for the fishing grounds. Local officers should check on this situation and follow the course laid down by the Governor.—M. W. W.

Dr. Gates Continues War Against Rabies

Dr. John Gates, veterinarian and rabies inspector is continuing his careful check on dogs which have not been inoculated against rabies. Last week he inoculated over 1000, but he states there are still at least a thousand more who have not been inoculated and that he intends to make a house to house canvas unless this dog law is complied with. This house to house campaign will be more expensive to the owner of the dog as there is a penalty attached after September 1st, for all delinquent owners of these animals.

Parents Warned Against Polio

Alabama parents were warned today against the unsuspected case of poliomeylitis. This, they were told, is as contagious as the other kind.

"Nobody knows, or has any idea, how many unrecognized cases there really are," Dr. D. G. Gill, State Health Officer, said. "Estimates vary from ten to 100 unrecognized cases for every recognized and diagnosed case. These cases do not produce any of the characteristic swmptoms of poliomyelitis. Usually those who have them recover without ever knowing they have had the disease. Some, however, progress to regular cases with the usual symptoms. But, in either case, they are contagious."

Because of the part played by those unrecognized cases in the poliomeylitis picture, the State Health Officer said, the protection against infection obtainable from trying to keep children away from those who have the disease is far from complete. He urged parents to keep this danger in mind whenever epidemic or near-epidemic conditions prevail.

WORKING FOR WOMEN

In its recent meeting in Montgomery, the Alabama League of Women Voters plumped for equal rights for women.

WILLISTON BASIN

Oil Discovery Enriches Six Small Towns

WILLISTON, N.D.—The discovery of oil in North Dakota and Montana last year is being felt by a number of small towns. The discovery was made in what is known as the Williston Basin.

In one year, the impact of oil on Williston basin life and economy has already been vast. The finances of Williston and Minot, in North Dakota, have been enriched by the influx of oil firms, with the accompanying service organizations like truckers and land brokers. In the 12 months or so since the wildcat came in, many local businesses in these two towns have noted a 25 per cent increase.

Bank deposits in Tioga and Williston are up 30 per cent. Tioga's population is up from 450 to 800, and Williston, now has 9,000 people and is planning for 18,000 within the next three years. Housing in both towns is scarce—and Cadillac sales have been excellent.

Farm Economy

Over in Montana, the towns of Richey, Vida, Wolf Point and Circle have all felt the baby oil boom's power. The entire area had always been dependent on wheat and cattle; crops have been good for 10 years, but the farmers can't erase the memories of the dust bowl years of the past. They look on their oil leases and the oil inspired income as anchors against another era of bad times.

Farmer Berry is an example of the local feeling. He kept growing wheat all the while the Shell men were drilling Northern Pacific No. 1. He is still in the wheat farming business, even though he has leased most of his acreage to oil firms. And the usual royalty paid under the standard lease is one-eighth the value of the oil, paid in cash. That adds up.

"We don't plan to give up farming," says Berry. "But oil in this country will sure help us through any bad harvests."

Just how much oil Williston basin will ultimately yield can't be estimated yet, although everyone agrees that it represents a valuable addition to United States oil reserves. Jacobsen says the total oil from Amerada's 400,000 acres could be "very large indeed," and the total from the entire basin could be "very, very large indeed."

It all depends on how much is very, very large.

Dream of Oil

The dream of oil in the 100,000 square mile area that lies within the Williston basin isn't a new one. Geologists have long suspected there was oil present, because the area met all the geological tests.

Hundreds of thousands of years ago, it was the bottom of a great ocean that stretched from Alaska to the Gulf of Mexico. When the sea withdrew, vast pressures and bacterial action transformed the mud and silt—the remains of billions of marine animals and plants—into pools of oil.

Wherever oil is found, that is its history. The same ocean that once covered the Williston basin also covered the known oil fields—like those of Louisiana, Texas, and Oklahoma.

Caught in War Games, Lampasas Bows to Victor

LAMPASAS, Tex.—The community of Lampasas knows now, in a minor way, what it is like to be captured by an aggressor.

During recent war game, green clad "aggressor" troops with fixed bayonets, secured the central Texas community and a military government took over.

With an okay from city officials, civic leaders and residents, Maj. Alton Shipstead, military government officer for the 82nd air borne division, set a coldly realistic stage.

Concentration camps, property confiscation, quick, one sided trials were part of the "lost day of democracy", as were "thought control" for schools, closed churches and propaganda broadcasts.

Huge printed proclamation announced the "liberation" of Lampasas were plastered over the town. So were "laws" to govern the citizens and the announcement that all political parties were abolished; that the "Centralist" part was the only permissible one.

It was a realistic and education experience was the community verdict when the war games ended.

Flowering Crabs Give Town a New Attraction

SPENCER, Iowa — This community is well on the way toward a third top-flight tourist attraction to add to the two which already exist.

In 1950 the Clay County Garden club adopted the flowering crab as the community tree and sponsored the planting of 300 of the trees in the town. Plantings will continue until the club goal, at least two flowering crabs per block on every street in Spencer, is reached.

The first of the newly-planted trees flowered last year and more are expected to bloom this year.

The community is the site of the Clay County fair, "the world's largest county fair," and the Spencer rodeo.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation
For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT HOG CHOLERA?

Q: How dangerous is hog cholera?

A: Cholera is our worst swine killer; causes losses running into many millions of dollars annually.

Q: Why is cholera so dangerous?

A: The virus of cholera is extremely contagious and one of the most deadly of all in the field of swine diseases.

Q: How is the virus spread?

A: In many ways. It may be spread by contaminated feed bags, garbage, wagon and truck wheels, or on the shoes of visitors. Even biting flies may spread it.

Q: What are the symptoms of cholera?

A: Usually it strikes without warning. Pigs lose their appetites, keep to themselves, become weak and depressed, get wobbly on their feet, and may scour. There is no cure. Sick pigs usually die within 4 to 7 days. Very few, if any, recover.

Q: What can the farmer do to prevent cholera losses?

A: Vaccination in advance is the only preventive. Pigs should be vaccinated around weaning time. Only healthy pigs should be vaccinated, so a general physical check-up by a veterinarian is always recommended before vaccination.

Q: Are there any other precautions?

A: Yes. Vaccinated pigs should be kept in clean quarters and ranges away from old yards. Pigs should be watched so that they do not pile up or overcrowd at night. Ample drinking water and shade should be provided in hot weather.

JUNE BUG REFLECTIONS

(Tampa Tribune)

We suffered a slight shock when we noticed in the Can You Tell Me column the other day that a Tribune reader wanted somebody to tell her what a June Bug is.

Somehow, it hadn't occurred to us that there are people in the South who never tied a length of Mom's sewing thread to the hind leg of a June Bug and watched the silly captive fly itself into exhaustion.

But if there are people who haven't done this, then there must be people who never fought desperate duels with chinaberry popguns around a corner of the barn;

Or bagged a careless rabbit with a sling-shot stone;

Or scrabbled for Indian arrowheads in a fresh-plowed field;

Or squirreled up a vine-hung sweet gum tree to pluck the tempting muscadine;

Or savored the warm sweetness of wild blackberries which lost their way twixt hand and pail;

Or ventured, with jackknife at the ready, to explore the musty dimness of a limestone cave;

Or thrilled at the ugly face of a first catfish yanked from the creek on the night's trot line;

Or perched on the tailgate of a plodding wagon and wriggled bare toes in the sand of a shady lane;

Or ached through the ritual of freezing the Sunday ice cream, sustained by the promise of scraping the richly-crusted paddle.

These things all go with June Bugs because June Bugs go with summer, just as ham gravy goes with grits.

But we started out to tell the lady what a June Bug is.

We have the definition right here:

"In the Northern U. S., any of several species of large brown melolonthine beetles (genus Phyllophaga and related genera) which begin to fly about the first of June. In the Southern U. S., the fig-eater."

That's all a June Bug means to Mr. Webster.

Poor Mr. Webster.

For a quick salad, place one-half peach on a crisp lettuce leaf. Fill with balls of pimiento and cheese filling, topped with mayonnaise.

New Playclothes Are Sturdy and Fashionable

BY EDNA MILES

← Pop-over shirt in express stripes has a V-shaped turtle-neck yoke. Shirt is worn with tapered pedal pushers for smart overall line.

THE playclothes in your summer wardrobe should be able to take it. They should, that is, be in a fabric sturdy enough to stand up to really hard wear, to go through countless launderings and come out looking trim as a top-sail.

They should also be in a fabric that's sanforized so that it won't shrink into something fit only for a midget.

Once these basic requirements are well in mind, look for playclothes that provide the most fashion for your money with the maximum in comfort and freedom-of-action. You'll find many such clothes this year; designers have gone all-out to do sun fashions that are different, that are flattering, that hide figure defects.

The skort, for instance, is a newcomer under the sun. Sure fire for girls who want to slim the hipline, it's really a part-skirt that buttons across each hip, revealing shorts front and back only. Further, the skort opens up flat for easy washing and ironing. In sanforized blusurf denim, worn with matching, tailored bra, this is a fashion that can take it all summer long.

The pop-over shirt, cut the length of a man's shirt, and given tapered sleeves, is another sun fashion that's sturdy when it's done in express stripes. Given a V-shaped turtle-neck yoke and worn with tapered pedal pushers, it has a smart silhouette.

This denim skort, a combination skirt-and-short, minimizes hiplines. Part-skirt buttons across each hip, revealing shorts front and back only. →

NOTICE

State of Alabama, Shelby County
In The Probate Court June 6, 1952.
In Re: Condemnation Proceedings
Town of Calera, A Body Corporate Vs
The Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of Calera, Shelby County, Alabama, Mary Campbell Martin, as Trustee of the Presbyterian Church of Calera, Shelby County, Alabama.
To: The Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of Calera, Shelby County, Alabama.

You will take notice that on the 6th day of June, 1952, a petition was filed in this Court by the Town of Calera, setting forth its desire to condemn for certain purposes therein stated, certain lands belonging to The Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of Calera, Shelby County, Alabama, et al, described as follows:

Part of lots ten and eleven in Block 268 according to J. H. Dunstan's survey and map of the Town of Calera, Alabama, more particularly described as beginning at the southwest corner of lot 11 in said block and running east 110 feet; thence north 100 feet; thence west 110 feet; thence south 100 feet to point of beginning. In the Town of Calera, Alabama.

by petition filed in this Court, and said plaintiff prays that this Court will make and enter an order appointing a day for the hearing of said petition and for such other and further orders and procedures as may be necessary.

You will take further notice that the Court has appointed the 2nd day of August, 1952, to hear said application or petition, at which time you may appear and contest the same if you so desire to do.

Witness my hand this the 6th day of June, 1952.

NEW LICENSE TAGS

State Revenue Commissioner J. Edwards says Alabama's 1953 car license tags will not have a letter preceding the number.

Edwards said the letter "A" to designate passenger cars has been dropped because sample tags were too crowded and made reading difficult.

For example, Montgomery county's tag, which now reads 3C-11-111, now will read simply 3-11-111. The system of key numbers will be retained. 1 for Jefferson, 2 for Mobile, 3 for Montgomery, 4 for Autauga, and on down the alphabet.

The color scheme of the tags will be opposite from last year's tags, i. e., blue numerals on a white background.

ADMINIISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT NOTICE

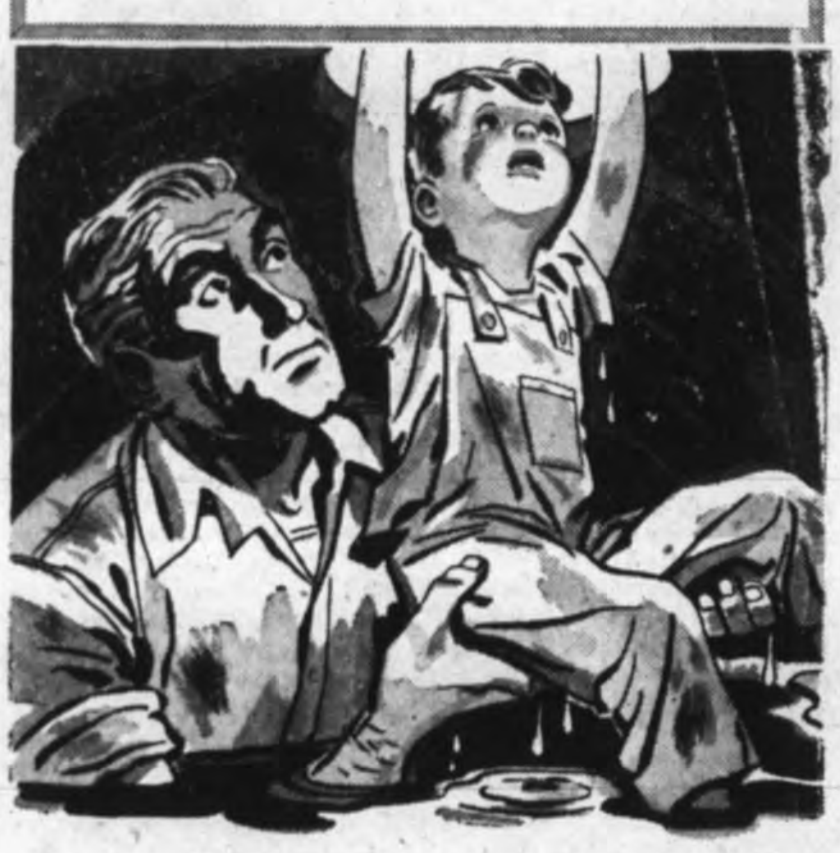
Beyond the Call of Duty



● Disregarding his personal safety, Telephone Man H. H. Kilpatrick crawled 150 feet through a storm sewer to save a child from drowning. For his "prompt, intelligent and courageous action", Mr. Kilpatrick was presented the Vail Award for outstanding service. He was one of 23 Southern Bell men and women who received recognition last year for service beyond the call of duty.

A LETTER TO PARENTS OF PRE-SCHOOL AGE CHILDREN IN COUNTY

Dear Parents:

It is the belief of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers that the home, which is responsible for the health of the pre-school child, can make no greater contribution to the school than to send a pupil physically ready to take advantage of the opportunities that education has to offer.

For the child entering school the health examination is of prime importance since the child's health has a definite influence on his work in school as well as his future career.

We ask you, therefore, to take your child to your family physician who is best qualified to judge his physical condition for this examination.

Every child entering school should have had protective immunizations against whooping cough, diphtheria and smallpox and have a test for tuberculosis, which may be obtained at the Health Department Office, Columbiana, any Saturday morning.

If the doctor makes recommendations such as dental care or tonsillectomy you will have the summer months before school begins to have any defects corrected when the child enters school in September.

PRE-SCHOOL

Suggested Average Requirements For Average Child Entering First Grade.

Often as school days approach, one wonders if she has done all the necessary things to get her child ready. We are sure you have done much to prepare your child physically, emotionally and socially for school, so you may like to check these questions.

1. Have a birth certificate on entrance date.
2. Have a vaccination certificate by entrance date.
3. Have physical check-up prior to entering school, especially eyes, ears, teeth and throat.
4. Teach him to know his name, address and age.
5. Teach him to know his father's name and where he works.
6. Prepare the child to leave home, mother, little brother and sister to go to school and not be afraid when away from you.
7. Teach the child the common Traffic Signs: green-red lights, stop-go, To cross streets only at corners.
8. Teach him to obey cheerfully, willingly and understandingly.
9. Teach him to put on and take off his clothes and wraps, tie his shoes, wash his face and hands. (In a sort of way).
10. Teach him to cover his face when coughing and sneezing.
11. How are his manners. Have you taught him such words as "Please" Thank You" and "Excuse me?" Does he know how to greet adults? Are you proud of his manners on the bus, street, or during visits?
12. Teach him to know his right hand, his left.
13. Does he know his own property? To leave the property of others alone?
13. Can he identify the colors, Red, yellow, blue, green?
15. Does he know to put away toys take care of pets, clean up after play, be helpful in things he can do about the home?
16. Does he get religious training at home to reverence God easily learns that greatest of all lessons; self-discipline and the objective of all teachings, self-improvement.
17. Place child's name on garments to be removed at school.
18. Place loop on inside coat so it will stay on book.
19. Have money for school supplies.

FEWER POLIO CASES IN ALABAMA

The State Health Department says that fewer than half as many polio cases had been reported this year through mid-May than were reported during the similar period last year.

The department gives the figures as 19 for the first 20 weeks of 1952, and 39 for the first 20 weeks of 1951.

Five of the first 20 weeks of this year failed to add any case to the polio records. One case was reported last week and one the week before last.

Whole Town Laughs At Kiwanis Club Paper

SPRINGFIELD, Ore.—The people of Springfield look forward every year to The Kiwanis Joker, a newspaper written, edited and distributed by the club. Printed on April Fools' Day, funds raised from the sale of papers and advertising is used to the town's needy kids. It is a project in which the entire town participates.

This weird journalistic creation hits the streets and the whole town takes time out to laugh. Kiwanis newsboys high-pressure everyone into buying the special edition for "whatever you think it's worth." Since the proceeds are used for underprivileged children, Springfield residents are happy to pay outrageous prices.

The paper is filled with zany stories and crazy ads. Advertisers pay Kiwanians to publish copy that would result in lawsuits in any normal newspaper.

This year the club made $1,000 for boys and girls work. Originally planned for a twelve-page paper, it came out a 14-page affair because so many merchants clamored to advertise.

Hudson Greets All Newcomers With Gifts

HUDSON, Iowa—Iowa towns are famous for their hospitality to newcomers, but fortunate indeed is the new resident of the small farming community of Hudson.

The Hudson chamber of commerce has compiled a loose-leaf folder explaining in detail nearly every service and enterprise in the community and entitling the recipent to 13 free gifts ranging from light bulbs to haircuts.

The volume is arranged in the form of letters from each of the enterprises listed. Utilities, schools, fire protection, churches and community services are included as well as letters from the town's outstanding business firms.

A map of the community and information about the town government and charity organizations complete the book.

A dozen cloves dropped in the vessel in which doughnuts are cooking adds a delightful spicy flavor.

Metal Hunting Puts New Life in Canadian Towns

VAL D'OR, Quebec—Metal hunting is putting new life into the upper wilderness of Canada's Quebec and new prosperity into a number of villages.

The hunting, which is aimed at copper, lead and zinc, is centered in the Rouyn-Val d'Or region and around Chibougamau Lake.

The growth of base-metals mining activity is reflected in the stores of Val d'Or, where shopkeepers report their sales have increased about 25 per cent in volume over last year—a contradiction of the trend over most of Canada.

Buying of electrical appliances, home furnishings and automobiles is heavy in this rugged country, where most mining men live in one-story wooden homes in the small towns and villages that dot the area.

This was lumbering country until the start of the 30's when construction of a railway to Rouyn brought the first cheap transportation to the area and enabled gold mining to get started in earnest. Since 1936 the Quebec government has built more than 1,300 miles of roads through the region and to the big cities of Montreal and Quebec, at a cost of 12 million dollars.

Youngsters Get Chance To Police Community

JOHNSON CITY, Ill.—The youngsters of this small town are going to get the chance for which they have begged.

Recently the mayor and council imposed a 9 p.m. curfew on the community's teen-agers. As a result, numerous letters were received by the mayor giving every reason in the world why the curfew shouldn't be enforced.

The final clincher was the teenagers' proposal that officials give them a chance to stop vandalism of fellow teen-agers.

"I'm proud of the youngsters for wanting to do that," the mayor said. "We'll give them a suitable time to see if they can correct the situation."

Community officials believe this may solve their problems. They expressed the belief that it might be worth trying in other small towns that have teen-age vandalism problems.

CAMP BRANCH CHURCH NEWS

The Senior and Junior groups of M. Y. F. sponsored an effective and inspirational Father's Day program following the church school hour Sunday morning under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Grubbs, newly elected Adult Counselors for the Senior group.

The Junior M. Y. F. is doing a fine piece of work with Mrs. Gordon Frost as counselor.

John Holstun, assistant Minister brought an inspiring message at the eleven o'clock hour.

The W. S. C. S. held it's regular program and business meeting at the church Thursday afternoon with Mrs. R. S. Dixon in charge of the program. Mrs. C. K. Roach, president, presided over the business meeting.

A group of the M. Y. F. attended the sub-district meeting at West Blocton Monday night.

City of Pines

Bank Gives Away Seedlings

DOTHAN, Ala —The southeastern Alabama city of Dothan is becoming known throughout the nation as a "City of Pines".

Behind the program is the First National Bank. It has distributed more than 30,000 pine seedlings to townspeople during the past five years.

Guiding genius behind the bank's seedling program has been Wallace D. Malone, chairman of the board. Mr. Malone says his seedling program has three purposes: (1) good will advertising for the bank, (2) beautification of the community and (3) education of the townspeople as to value of forest.

Always an ardent soil conservationist, he serves on the Houston County Keep Alabama Green committee.

Steel Mills Bring Prosperity to Two Western Communities

FONTANA, Calif. — Two small western communities have prosperity today as a result of the establishment of steel mills in their neighborhoods.

Utah county, Utah, was not in the best economic shape when the new steel mill started going up on the shore of Utah Lake in 1942. The average farmer in the county was harvesting an annual crop worth only $940, including produce eaten by himself and his family. Some 2,000 people in the area were on relief.

In Fontana in 1941, the town was a little better off. But in general the area was given over to small farms and citrus groves which were not too prosperous.

In both places, the picture changed rapidly after the mills went into operation. In the Geneva area by 1945, some 1300 farmers were working for themselves as well as the mill. That number has increased today. And harvest value rose from $2.8 million to $8.1 million.

Local retail sales went from $15 million to $58 million between 1941 and 1950.

Fontana boomed overnight when the steel mill started production. Spurred by what has become a 8000-man payroll worth $15 million, property values went through the roof. Bank deposits climbed from a million and a half to five million.

School systems in both Geneva and Fontana were enlarged and improved after the mills opened. They had to be, with so many new people coming into the towns.

Both communities have found that the coming of steel mills has meant new churches, better homes, better schools, increased income and all around prosperity. And they have found too that the new partnership of agriculture and industry has expanded the freedom of choice as to how their citizens will make a living.

REVIVAL ANNOUNCED AT COLUMBIANA BAPTIST CHURCH

REV. WM. CLYDE KIRK

REV. CURTIS M. BEAN

Rev. Curtis M. Bean, pastor of the Columbiana Baptist Church, announced this week that a revival meeting will be held beginning July 6 and will continue through July 13. Services will be held daily at 10:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The Rev. William Clyde Kirk, pastor of the Oakdale Baptist Church, Mobile, will be the visiting evangelist for the meeting.

Mr. Kirk was in Columbiana in a revival several years ago and will be remembered by many. He is an outstanding preacher and evangelist.

A series of cottage prayer mee-ings will be held during the week preceding the revival services. The schedule of these meetings will be announced by the pastor.

Bible Comment:

Job Finds Solution: Undying Faith in Our Divine Judge

SOME problems are "modern" in the sense that man has never encountered them before our time.

But some problems are as old as man himself, and one thing that is unchanged is the fact that man has to be the problem solver. Some ancient experience and wisdom may have much to offer, even in the presence of problems that are as new as the new-born day.

Deep and unchanged in human life is the problem of suffering, and especially the suffering of the apparently morally guiltless. Much human suffering offers no problem, though the fact may alter its acuteness. It is the direct and observable result of sheer disregard of moral or physical laws. But the suffering of the good is another thing.

It is this problem with which the Book of Job deals. The Book has been called "a sublime drama of God's providence and man's suffering." It's central character, Job, a man of moral rectitude and apparently blameless life, is stricken with dire calamity, in himself, his family and his affairs.

The situation is made intensely dramatic to show the full impact of the problem. Yet it is no more extreme than that which many men and women have experienced today, especially the thousands of innocent people who have suffered war's ruthlessness.

Three of Job's friends sought to comfort him with plausible or conventional notions. These centered around the ideas that suffering is a sure sign of sin and that Job must be guilty of some secret fault.

This easy view Job refuses to accept. His faith is tried, and he is tempted to "curse God and die." But while he finds no solution to the problem of suffering, he finds a solution to his personal problem in the conviction that the Judge of the earth will do right and in the determination to trust Him no matter what may happen.

UNEMPLOYMENT CLAIMS HIT NEW PEAK

State Industrial Relations Director Joe Coleman says Alabama unemployment compensation claims reached a two-year peak in May.

Coleman said coal miners idled by the steel strike were responsible for the hiked claims. He said 15,933 claims were filed last month. It was the greatest number since March, 1950.

Alabama's out-of-work compensation law prohibits payments to employes whose own plant is closed by srike. But those laid off as an indirect result of a stoppage can claim the money.

Actual jobless insurance payments however, increased less than three per cent over April and less than six per cent over the total for May of last year.

THE CHALLENGE OF DEMOCRACY RESTRICTED

The State Board of Education has agreed that disputed 12th grade textbook, "The Challenge of Democracy," may be used in Alabama Schools, if certain revisions are made.

Members of the board requested that a chapter be removed dealing with minority groups and segregation, and other changes be made. Representatives of McGraw-Hill Book Company, publishers, have referred the matter to the top officials.

Governor Gordon Persons had written to the state textbook committee suggesting that the textbook committee recommend that the textbook be taken off the approved list in Alabama unless that chapter be removed.

He said one of Alabama's better known educators reviewed the book for him and found it otherwise acceptable.

He said Chapter 28 "is devoted almost entirely to pointing out why segregation should be abolished and praising the Fair Employment Practices Commission.

"I know of no one who treasures southern tradition who will ever agree to the breakdown of our segregation laws and to the acceptance of the principles of FEPC," the governor wrote.

If President Truman ever gets around to seizing the newspapers, and he can do that as legally as he can seize the steel mills, we hope that he will also seize the mortgage. Sumpter County Journal.

MOONSHINE STILLS DESTROYED

Chief ABC Enforcement Officer Joseph T. Burton says his division destroyed 260 Alabama moonshine stills during May.

These stills, Burton said, had a capacity of 56,388 gallons of whiskey a month. At current prices this could have sold for $261,940.

The 260 stills destroyed in May compared with 380 destroyed in April. In addition to the stills destroyed, Burton said officers whiskey and destroyed 165,145 seized 3,294 gallons of moonshine gallons of mash. A total of 528 cases were made against 413 persons arrested.

Jefferson and Tuscaloosa counties had the most whiskey stills destroyed, 41 for Jefferson and 43 for Tuscaloosa.

ITS ENGINE ADDS MUSCLE TO EVERY DROP OF GAS!

To many owners, the mighty 180 H.P. V-8 engine that powers the Chrysler New Yorker is the most remarkable feature of this remarkable car. It is certainly the most discussed automobile engine in many, many years.

This is the engine with hemispherical combustion chambers . . . the engine that gets more power out of every drop of gas. And non-premium gas at that!

Actually, it puts you in control of more power than you'll probably ever need use. You'll sense this . . . together with its unequaled response . . . the very first yards you drive. It runs smoother, more quietly, and with less wear than any other engine ever built into an American automobile.

. . . and it makes driving (both cruising and the short runs) more fun than you have ever known it to be!

But that's not all. Along with this engine there are scores of other reasons, too, for driving a New Yorker before resolving on any new car. Like Full-time Power Steering that makes steering five times easier . . . and your control five times greater . . . than in ordinary cars. Like Power Brakes that cut needed pedal pressure by as much as two-thirds.

Like Oriflow shock absorbers that make even bad roads feel "newly paved" . . . restful chair-high seats . . . big, wide-opening doors . . . big windows that let you see more.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"There is so much good in the worst of us, and so much bad in the best of us that it is hard to tell which one of us ought to try to reform the rest of us."

JACK HORNER AND L. C. TAYLOR

Little Jack Horner when eating his Christmas Pie, according to nursery lore, stuck in his thumb and pulled out a plum, and said "What a smart boy am I." Well, this morning L. C. Taylor wanted a coke to get his eyes opened. He put his coin in the Coco-Cola box, turned the crank, and out came an English gold coin, made in 1852. Whoever tried to beat the Coke man with what he thought was a slug, may now be sorry, for I heard this morning that the coin which came back to L. C. Taylor is worth $10.00 on the coin market.

Needless to say, Mr. Taylor, with his new found "money," forgot all about the "pause that refreshes," and when we saw him he was on his way to see Mrs. Fannie Hines, who is a native of England and can tell him the truth about that Victorian gold coin of the realm.

COVERED DISH SUPPER

On the evening of June 9, at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Curtis Bean a Covered Dish Supper was held in honor of all the Sunday School officers and teachers and Vacation School workers.

Approximately 80 guests shared this fellowship meeting which was held on the spacious lawn at the Pastorium. Rev. Curtis Bean and Superintendent of S. S. Hugh Sims made brief talks, after which the Rev. W. T. Edwards of Wilsonville brought the message of the evening.

The next Supper will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Dexter on the evening of July 1st.

BIBLE SCHOOL CLOSES ANOTHER BEGINS

The Methodist Bible School closed Sunday morning June 8, and a most impressive program was given by the children who enjoyed these classes. There were 108 who received certificates and attended these daily classes which continued for two weeks.

Monday morning, June 16, the Baptist Bible School opened with an enrollment of 144.

Twenty-five workers are on hand to help the Rev. Curtis Bean, who is in charge of these activities.

DAD'S DAY

Dad really came into his own last Sunday morning judging from the number of new neck ties and sport shirts we spotted as tiny tots confidently clasped Dad's hand and proudly kept step with him during the day. It is good to see these miniature citizens and their Dad's together! A wonderful palship, based on complete understanding, of all their "moods and fancies".... Happy is the child who had this day with "Dad" to remember!

. . . Regret to report that Mrs. Pauline Bird, Register of Circuit Court, is ill in an hospital in Birmingham.

. . . Milton Bird has returned from a vacation spent in Florida.

. . . Henry Cardwell, owner of Cardwell Furniture Stores has extended us a cordial invitation to the 4th of July Barbecue he will give at his camp near Clanton. We are hoping to be present by the time that Barbecue Dinner Bell rings. Appreciate this thoughtful courtesy.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Baker from Columbia, S. C. spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stone.

TWO CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS HOLD REUNION IN VICKSBURG

One of the saddest pictures we have recently seen in the newspaper was that of the two "Johnny Rebs".... William Townsend of Olla, La., and William Rush of Fitzgerald, Georgia, who met for a Confederate re-union in Vicksburg, Mississippi last week. Both are 106 years of age and were in wheel chairs, but both hoped "the Lord being willing" they would be able to "meet again next year." They were numbered among those gallant ones who battled the Yanks at Vicksburg 89 years ago. One of them remarked as they viewed the scene of the former famed battle, "The grass is green now.... When we fought here, the hills were scorched and slick with blood."

TOMMY MILSTEAD HONORED ON 7TH BIRTHDAY

Tommy Milstead, handsome son of the Vic Milsteads was honored by his parents on June 6, when he celebrated the passing of his seventh birthday anniversary. 25 Of Tommy's friends shared the happy occasion and following the games and contests arranged for them, the Lilliputian Merrymakers enjoyed punch, ice cream and cake.

Tommy received many useful gifts to mark this occasion and he and his little comrades had a wonderful evening to remember after the party was over. We may be a bit late, but we wish for Tommy, "Many Happy eturns of the Day."

NEW AND RENEWAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

(Written for last week)

. . . R. E. Bowdon, Sr., treasured friend thru all the years that have been and are to be, sends along his renewal subscription and with it a splendid letter of encouragement. "Mr. Bob" never fails to make a fellow feel better, no matter how down and out he may be!

. . . Mrs. Virginia Adams Clayton is a former resident of Shelby county. She now lives in Los Angeles, California, but miles make no difference each week when the "Home Paper" arrives, for she writes, she feels very close to the place where she spent her childhood days. She formerly lived with the Hiram Moores on Rt. 1, and asks us to remember her to her friends in Shelby county. We are delighted to have a renewal subscription for this loyal home-towner.

. . . Mrs. R. C. Foster says she could think of nothing that Joe, her son, would enjoy more than a subscription to the "Home Paper". So, we had the pleasure of saying Happy Birthday on June 7th, to Joe Foster, now working in a Printing and Job Shop in the Magic City, and making good in his chosen field for service. Joe formerly worked in the Reporter-Democrat offices. It is always good to welcome him home on week ends and talk over the ups and downs in the printing industry.

. . . Mrs. H. W. Davis has asked us to pull up her comfortable chair in our weekly reading circle again for 1952, she doesn't remember how many years she has taken this paper, but states she "knows we never intend to be without it. We all read it from top to bottom each week, and always find interesting news items."... Now, thats good news for us!

. . . Amos Holman, alert representative of the Birmingham Post-Herald, came by our office to collect for the Post. He, in turn, being the good sport that he is, returns the favor by giving us $2.00 for a year's subscription to "our Home Paper," which is fair enough in anybody's lingo.

. . . H. C. Panter of Columbiana Rt., looking spic and span early Monday morning stopped us long enough to say, "Renew my paper, please".... and handed us the where-with-all to complete this pleasant transaction of business.

. . . On down the street, Mattie Ruth MacDonald handed us 2 crisp one dollar bills with the request that her place be reserved all thru this year and a part of 1953.

No one thing pleases me more than gathering dollars along the way, unless it be the kind words that usually accompany the 'intake'.

. . . Elvin Hill, popular Agriculture Teacher at S. C. H. S. is attending the summer school in Auburn.

. . . Margaret Ann Hatchett has accepted a position with the Park and Recreation Department of activities thru the summer months. The Park and Recreation Board is to be congratulated upon precuring Margaret Ann for this type work. She will be exceptionally good!

. . . Mrs. Dewey Lowery came by the office during a visit to Main Tuesday and renewed her subscription to the Home Paper. We are delighted to have the Lowerys line up with us under the new summer offer, 14 months for the price of 12 months, which I hear my "boss" is offering.

. . . Felton Goodwin resides in Dothan, but everybody knows that Felton Goodwin loves Columbiana and never forgets his friends in Shelby county. So, to prove it more conclusively and to keep strictly up to the last notch, as far as news is concerned in the old home town, he sends us in his two long greens and asks that we place his name "immediately" on our ever widening and lengthening list of weekly readers. This we happily do! Ponto!

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Baker have returned from a two weeks vacation spent with Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Baker at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina.

. . . Cecil Cates came by the office Tuesday, and laughlingly remarked.... "Put me down on that 14 month offer you are making for the price of one year's subscription to the best county paper in the state." He continued, "That's a bargain everybody living in this great big wonderful county of ours should take advantage of." (A-men, Brother! Keep a-talkin', says we, as we hastened to write him up for the required number of months requested.)

. . . Miss Margaret Ann Hatchett of Columbiana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hatchett, is one of the 62 students in three schools at Auburn, to be named to the Dean's List. Miss Hatchett is in the school of Science and Literature.

. . . Sue Fiquette entered Alabama College recently at the age of 16. Sue spent last week end in Panama City, Florida, the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Charles Wade.

. . . The following people visited Judge and Mrs. L. B. Riddle over the past week end for Father's Day: Mrs. H. T. Jackson and daughter, Miss Jean Jackson of Gadsden; Mrs. E. D. Fort and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lee and children of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Riddle Jr., and son Ray Neil of Birmingham; Mrs. Donnie E. Dudley of Tuskeegee; Mrs. W. E. Riddle of Wilsonville; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Hill of Bessemer, and Mrs. Floyd M. Spearman of Wilsonville. Rev. and Mrs. George William Riddle and children of Gadsden came down Monday to join in the celebration.

HEP HOSTESS

Yep, a hostess who's hep wears voguish black and white cotton for entertaining; the National Cotton Council says. Here is a cool number by Ciro in black and white sequin checked cotton by Hope Skillman. The dress gets air-cooled shoulder slots to give it a halter neck and covered up look, too!

DELINQUENT MAIL DELIVERY BRINGS MORE COMPLAINTS

Subscribers to the Reporter-Democrat who live in the Birmingham area continue to file their protests with us over the delinquent mail delivery of their "home paper." Now, we do not know who is to blame for the fact that practically a whole week is consumed in getting the paper delivered in Birmingham. The paper is mailed here on Wednesday afternoon, and subscribers should certainly get it, a distance of 30 miles, the next day, and never later than Friday, but, the facts show that the paper does not arrive in their homes until Tuesday of the next week. Now, it is somebody's fault in the Magic City, and we suggest that you, who are having this trouble in receiving your papers, please call the Terminal Postal Office Dispensary, and see if they can't remedy this situation. Heck. we might as well have a Pony Express, as this situation. Nobody wants to read news a week old and we can think of no valid excuse for it.

. . . Barbara Horn has returned from Ridgecrest, North Carolina, and has accepted a position with the Varsity for the summer.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Rux Carter, Judy, Kathy and Nina Carter spent the week end basking in the Florida sun.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, Gay Clark and Miss Jeanette Niven are enjoying a vacation along the Gulf Shore.

. . . Thanks to Mrs. J. B. Davis of Gulf Breeze, Florida, for a personal visit in our office this morning and an order for 52 issues of the Reporter-Democrat, which medium, Mrs. Davis states, will keep her in touch with her former friends in Shelby county.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. G. R. McNeil and "Kicker" McNeil of Birmingham were week end guests of the J. B. Turner's.

. . . Edwin Swalley in Columbiana Tuesday told us he has left the newspaper business and gone in the "sand" business, whatever that might mean.

. . . Still hearing wonderfully fine reports on Lewis Simpkins Band which played for the Vignette Dance last Friday night. Lewis is a magician when it comes to organizing and training an orchestra or a band. Fact is, we have never seen a better director of instrumental music than this hard working and popular Maestro.

. . . Roland Lester of Chelsea in town Tuesday, and as per usual, ready for an argument, and an emphatc one, the very minute a certain potent politician's name is mentioned, anytime, anywhere, with anybody!

. . . Lovable Judy Carter did not get enough Florida sun by the time her mother and dad (Mr. and Mrs. Rux Carter) started for home Monday, so this independent little lady remained with Gay Clark and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark for another week's vacation.

'UNDER THE DOME'

We have heard of "bats in the belfry," but never have we heard of Bees "Under the Dome". However, next time you pass the marble "Temple of Justice" look up in the right hand corner window, and you will see what I am talking about.

If the officials on the inside of that courthouse are as busy as those "bees" on the outside (and most of them are!) the citizens have no cause for complaint regarding delayed action. Personally, I think we have the best officials in the State, and most of their records bear out this factual statement.

. . . Jackson's Lake and Lakeview are holding the nocturnal attraction for picnickers and those who enjoy swimming. Both places have made marked improvement in the facilities they now offer their patrons.

. . . Congratulations are in order this week for Tom S. Tinney, who now resides in Wilmington, North Carolina. Tom left Childersburg some months ago where he was employed with Coosa Newsprint Company, having been transferred to Wilmington, North Carolina branch. Since this time, Tom has received signal recognition and has recently been promoted in the office of this Carolina Company. We feel sure Tom's former classmates and friends will be delighted to get this news from one of Columbiana's best liked young businessmen. Tom, Helen and the two boys, Tommy and Johnny, are expected to visit the C. R. Tinney's in July.

. . . The attractive little cherub you saw down town with Mrs. James Crawford Monday morning was Lee Pendleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Pendleton of Valdosta, Georgia. The Pendletons and Jimmy Bolen of Valdosta, Georgia, are guests of Dr. and Mrs. James Crawford this week.

. . . Lt. James Crawford spent the week end in Columbiana and has returned to Moody Field where he will complete Flying Jet training this month. From this point the young Lieutenant will go to Tyndale Field, Florida, for Radar training, and blind flying, then, in September James has been assigned to a Far East Command.

. . . Jim Robertson of Birmingham, former resident of Columbiana, now associated with the Goodwin Construction Company, and particularly interested in Columbiana's procuring the Gas Truck Line for this section of Shelby county, spent Saturday in Columbiana. The Goodwin Company has this contract, as the writer understands it, and the line and facilities of gas conveniences will be available to Columbiana people, provided, enough citizens express interest in putting it in their homes and business houses.

Jim tells us that he reads the "Home Paper" from top to bottom every week, even though it does not reach his home in Birmingham until Tuesday following publication on Wednesday (the fault of delivery in Birmingham postal service at Terminal Station. Please check it). Jim then sends the paper to his brother, Henry, and another brother, Beston. After they read it, it goes on to Johnson City to his sister, Etta, and, as Jim says, the old home paper is about worn thread bare by the time the Robertson's enjoy it, but its worth it, he says!

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wood and family are vacationing in Florida this week.

. . . Mrs. Frank Miller of Bessemer, spent the week end in Columbiana, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Miller.

. . . Little Sallie Sue Roberts made her initial venture "Up and Down Main" last Saturday morning, and naturally, was the spotlight of attraction. Hope you had the pleasure of seeing her. She is a typical "mighty-lak' a rose".... babette, and whatever other adjective you can think of that will describe about the daintiest little bundle of loveliness you ever saw.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Turner are enjoying a vacation in the Mountains of North Carolina with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson.

. . . Jane Parks, "Miss Maid of Cotton from Elmore County," and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Parks of Wetumpka and Columbiana, R. K. Parks, Jr., her brother, and cute little sub-deb Connie Parks spent Friday and Saturday with their father, R. K. Parks, Engineer for Shelby county. We appreciated a pop call from this attractive trio Saturday morning before they returned to their home in Elmore county.

. . . The Rev. and Mrs. Bill Riddle and family of Gadsden are guests of Mr. Riddle's parents, Judge and Mrs. L. B. Riddle.

. . . Mrs. Cunningham of the First National Bank, has returned from Gatlinburg and joins the rest of us in singing the praises of this famed mountain resort. No place like it, for scenic beauty, cool mountain breezes and just parking on the Main Stem to watch the cars and folks go by. You will see people from every State in the Union. Better take this tip however, and make reservations before "taking off" for the Smokies.

THE COURTHOUSE GETTING ITS FACE LIFTED

Next time you are in Columbiana notice the improvement on the Courthouse building. Look at the brightly gleaming "Domes", a new coat of paint is being applied and other long needed improvements are on the agenda for beautification of this marble edifice which should be kept up to the last notch in repairs. It is definitely one of the most massive and beautiful buildings in the State, and we are delighted to note tehse improvements. May we suggest just one more thing, which seems to us should be a privilege to be able to do. Place a flag on that flag-pole, and let the red, white and blue proudly unfurl its colorful folds over our "Temple of Justice."

. . . Mrs. George Starcher and children, Lillian and Alan are visiting Mrs. Starcher's father and sisters and brothers, at Glennville, Ludowice, and Savannah, Georgia. They expect to remain away until July 4 when George will go to spend a few days there and bring them home again. Meanwhile Mr. Starcher "Batches".

Under The Study Lamp

By William Crowe

"Who Is To Be The Judge?"

"Judge not, that ye be not judged." Matthew 7:1

In this word of warning Jesus touches upon an inherent weakness in human nature. Very emphatically does He declare that it is not our business to sit in judgment on our neighbors. Of course He means that judgment should be left in God's hands, for He alone knows the secrets of the heart.

It is right and proper that we should make appraisal of another person's character, provided it is done in the right spirit and for a just purpose. In our everyday dealings with people it is necessary to know whether this person or that is trustworthy. We are to keep in mind however that our estimate of others must be on the basis of direct information and not upon mere hearsay. Gossip is an evil and deadly thing.

Harsh, censorious judgement may contribute toward helping a fellow creature on the way to perdition. There is an old adage: "Give a dog a bad name - and hang him!"

It is easy to discover the sins of other people, and all the while be blind to our own. Horace, the Latin poet, said, "While you see your own faults with eyes bleared and unanointed, why is it that in the faults of your friends, your vision is as sharp as an eagle's?"

It is usually the case that in condemning the sin of another.... a particular sin of which I myself may not be guilty.... I am hiding behind other sins of my own. That is to say, criticism of others becomes an escape process for myself.

To be charitable in judgment is to practice the topmost Christian virtue. A charitable tongue reveals a charitable heart. Therefore the daily supplication of every Christian should be, "Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my redeemer." It is easy for such a petitioner to heed the warning; "Judge not, that ye be not judged."

A fine steel brush is a great help in scrapping new potatoes and carrots; it removes the skins easily.

To keep cheese from drying out, try wrapping it in a cloth that has been wrong out in vinegar, and keep in a cool, dry place.

A race track is a place where windows clean people.

ADMINIISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT NOTICE

The State of Alabama, Shelby County, Probate Court, June 2, 1952

This day came S. A. Lokey cum testamento annexo, administrator of the estate of Ama Lee Hill, deceased, and files his accounts, vouchers, evidence and statement for final settlement of his said Administration.

It is ordered that the 28th day of June, 1952, be, and the same hereby is, appointed as the day on which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest the said settlement if they think proper.

Witness my hand this 2nd day of June, 1952.

The Sin of Greed

Lesson for June 22, 1952

GREED is not modern. The only modern thing about it is its forms. The Tenth Commandment is easy to dodge if you go by the bare words, like a shyster lawyer. Suppose your neighbor is a bachelor, lives in a rented apartment, has neither manservant nor maidservant, and no cattle of any description. Nothing you can covet! But wait a minute . . . It says here, "Thou shalt not covet — any thing that is thy neighbor's." That covers everything he has. You can covet his reputation, his job, his girl; you can covet his insurance, his money in the bank, his watermelons. "Any thing" covers a great deal of territory. And any sort of coveting is still sin. Greed in the fourteenth century B.C. and the twentieth century A.D. are all the same thing at heart. And "at heart" is where greed begins.

Dr Foreman

Something for Nothing

THE ESSENCE of greed, of covetousness, is wanting something that does not belong to you, without wanting to give anything in return. If I have eggs for sale and you buy a couple of dozen, you are not covetous for wanting the eggs and I am not greedy for wanting the money. It's fair exchange.

Of course, if I charge you too much for the eggs, then I am covetous, to be sure. Or if you want to sneak the eggs out of my henhouse before day, then you are covetous. But buying and selling are neither one sinful. If you have worked for a week and want your pay, that is not greed. If you have rented a house and the landlord wants his rent, he isn't greedy unless he is charging you too much.

The profit motive is not wrong if the man who takes the profit has given fair value in return. The profit motive is dead wrong if all the profiteer thinks about is the profit, without ever a thought of service.

The gambler, the tax "fixer," the sports "fixer", are trying to get something for nothing, and that is the very essence of the sin of greed.

Selling What Ought Not To Be for Sale

SOMETIMES greed reaches the point where the greedy man will sell what ought never to be sold. There are things in this life that are priceless, literally; they can never be tagged with a price-mark. But the covetous spirit will eat out a man's sense of values till he begins to put price-marks on priceless things. There are always buyers, alas!

After the American Civil War, some business men came to Robert E. Lee, who had lost everything he had but his reputation, and offered him what was then a tremendous sum if he would just let them use his name as an officer of their company.

"You won't have to do any work," they said. "All we want is the use of your name." "It's not for sale," said Robert E. Lee.

Another thing that should never be put on sale is the simple doing of duty. True, honest work should be fairly paid. But that is not the point at the moment. Take this Skipper Carlsen of the Flying Enterprise. When he came into port after that famous voyage in which he stuck with his ship till the last hour before Davy Jones took it down, he was due a certain amount of salary, no doubt, and he had well earned it. If the company paid him a bonus besides, we should all be glad. But Captain Carlsen turned down offers totaling around $100,000, from radio and television people, just for letting them use him as advertising. No sirs, said Carlsen in effect, what I have done, I did in the line of duty. I'm not selling myself.

So it is with convictions, or with love. They should be priceless; when they are sold, they become worthless. Greed destroys their value.

Out of the Heart

THE TENTH Commandment shows plainly what is true of both evil and good alike. Right and wrong do not consist simply in right and wrong actions. Back of the action is the attitude. Back of the act is the mind, the motive, the desire.

Stealing begins in coveting; adultery begins in lust; murder begins in anger or in contempt. The laws of man can never reach beneath the surface. Even when motives are involved, they are exceedingly hard to prove. But God sees the heart. And he will finally judge us by what he sees there.

ON THE FARMS IN SHELBY COUNTY

B.F. HATCHETT & G.C. STARCHER JR

Seven thousand, six hundred and sixty pounds was the final DRY weight of Chapel Hill Rescue grass seed from the first crop on the F. F. A. boys four acre seed patch in Columbiana. All but 50 pound has been sold to farmers for use in winter grazing as called for in soil conservation farm plans. This 50 pounds is reserved for F. F. A. use.

The following wide awake farmers bought this seed:

A. R. Long 760 lbs; Jimmie Rowe 700; Dudley Glaze 200; Clyde Ross 200; H. S. Kennedy 200; Austin Mitchell 200; J. O. Brady 280; Dee Fleming 50; Mrs. E. E. Rogers 240; Rev. A. D. Wilson (for father) 100; Cecil Cates 200; G. H. Eastis 300; Lawrence Garrett 500; W. E. Martin 100; Rev. Edwards 300; Leon Baker 100; A. T. Blankenship 200; Prof. Rogers 100; J. M. Denson 100; J. J. Revis 60; E. M. Mullins 400; W. L. Lawler 100; W. J. Bailey 80; Frank Ellis 400; Dr. L. E. Sorrell 1000; C. D. Whitten 60; Bob Russell 80; Allen Oates 300; Soil Conservation Service loan repaid 100.

The second seed crop looks promising. The stubble was refertilized and one-tenth of one inch only of water was applied to dissolve the fertilizer, not to attempt to water the grass.

Montevallo F. F. A. has delivered these G. I. farmers (all district cooperators), seed from their patch and have several hundred pounds on hand at present.

J. B. Crawford 197; W. F. Briggs 50; Earnest Lucas 100; W. C. Potts, 24; J. W. Street 200; C. B. Sides 117; Mack Nix 30; Otis Chesser 100; A. L. Little 392.

Alex Etress produced considerable seed, as did Burdette Bates Roy Kent, and the Vincent F. F. A. club (800).

A ton of cleaned seed of this fine strain of Rescue grass will be delivered to our county by the North Central Soil Conservation District supervisors for distribution at 40 cents per pound. On the waiting list for this seed are Ned Bearden and Floyd Hawkins, who wants more than they were able to produce on their seed patches, 200 lbs each; Alabama College 400; Robert Waite 200; and J. W. Davidson 200.

Much attention has been received by the remarkable F. F. A. seed patch here, and in the event of a good seed crop the second combining, in July, the recognition will probably be national in scope.

Veterans' Column

State Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

E. J. SULLIVAN, VSO

The Korean GI Bill should become a law before JULY FIRST. Benefits under the Bill, when it becomes law, and according to the Bill which has been approved by the HOUSE Veterans Affairs Committee, will be available to those veterans who have been in service since June 27, 1950.

The Bill calls for education and training benefits similar to those enjoyed by War Two Veterans. It also provides for GI Home and Business loans, as well as Social Security credits and mustering-out pay. Under the Korean GI Bill, a veteran will be entitled to education and training at the rate of 1½ days for each day he was in the service. The fact that he may have served overseas will make no difference in the amount of time to which he may be entitled. For instance, If a veteran served 12 months since June 27, 1950, he will be entitled to 18 months of training or education benefits.

Under the present plan, if a veteran without dependents desires to attend school or college on a full time basis, he will be paid a flat $110 a month. Out of this amount, it will be up to him to pay the school for his tuition and other charges, as well as buy his own books and supplies, as well as pay for his room, board, clothes and other expenses. The $110 is figured this way: $31 a month for tuition, $4 a month for books and supplies and $75 for subsistence.

If a person without dependents desires to take on-job or on-farm training, they will be allowed subsistence in the amount of not-more $70 a month. A veteran with one or more dependents will get a flat sum of $150 if he is enrolled in a full time college or institution, and he also must meet all of his expenses, such as tuition, supplies, food, clothing and so forth, out of this amount. Now that $150 for a married person is figured as $31 for tuition, $4 for books and supplies and $115 dollars for subsistence.

A person with one or more dependents taking on-job-training, will receive subsistence allowance of not more than $95 a month.

Education or training under the new bill would have to be started within two years after discharge or two years after a date to be set later by the President.

If this bill passes in its present form, veterans had better pretty well make up their minds as to exactly what they want in the way of training or education. Veterans will be permitted to make only one change, if it is shown that such is necessary.

The Home and Business Loans are about the same as War Two, except in case where the veteran purchases a New Home, the contractor must give him a One-Year Warranty.

The mustering-out pay is also included in the Korean Bill. The amount will be, $100, $200, $300, depending on time served.

CHECK ALL LIGHTNING PROTECTION EQUIPMENT

Lightning protection equipment isn't something to be installed by anyone who is "handy around the house," finds Bill Cox, API Extension specialist in farm buildings.

It should be designed by experts and installed by someone who has done satisfactory jobs before. When it is finished, it should carry the Master Label from the Underwriter's Laboratories, which certifies approval of its materials and construction.

Cox warns that what was good protection last summer may not be so good now. Some systems are subject to corrosion, and any system that has been in service several years should be checked carefully.

"Lightning has a particular love for television antennaes," says the specialist. "To discourage any romance, be sure the antenna is well grounded and that an Underwriter's approved lightning arrester is installed on the lead-in to protect the television receiver."

It's time for those who plan to seed alfalfa in September to get seed and fertilizers or locate them so they will be easy to obtain when planting time comes.

AVOIDING FREEZER BURN SAVES MEAT

Freezer burn can be prevented, but it can't be cured.

Freezer burn is nothing more than drying surface spoilage resulting from meat coming in contact with air," explains Lavada Curtis, A. P. I. Extension Food Preservation Specialist. "Once freezer burn has occurred, nothing will bring back the original appearance, texture and flavor of the meat."

To avoid freezer burn the specialist advises that meats be wrapped properly. An airtight vapor-proof package depends on the wrapping method as well as on the paper. If a cellophane bag is used, carefully mold or press out the air and then heat-seal with an electric iron. Other wrappings should be fastened with a lock or drug store seal on the ends as well as on the top of the package.

"Finally," says Miss Curtis, "protect the vapor-proof package from punctures by using locker paper, stockinette, or a cardboard container. Freeze meats quickly, and store at 0° F. or colder."

GIVE REFRIGERATOR DOOR THE NEW LOOK

A decorative band can be worked out that will match kitchen decorations and at the same time cover a worn spot on the refrigerator door.

"First," states Stella Mitchell, A. P. I. Extension home management specialist, "mark a band, from three to four inches wide, across the top and down the 'handle' side of the door. Sandpaper this area with No. 00 sandpaper. Then with a brush about two inches in width, apply enamel which has been tinted with oil colors to the shade desired. Only one coat is needed."

When preparing oranges for a salad, pour boiling water over them and let stand five minutes. This makes the white lining come away from the skin easily!

In molding gelatine for individual desserts, a muffin pan proves quite convenient and is less likely to turn over in the refrigerator.

To give biscuits a different taste and a more crisp and crunchy crust, add one teaspoon sugar more or less, to each cup of flour.

HAVE GOOD COLOR SCHEME IN ANY ROOM SAYS 4-HER

Good color is the keynote of any room, thinks Rhonda Lacey of the Siluria Jr. I 4-H club. That's why in working on her Bedroom Improvement Project she chose to paper her room with a design of Rose, Gray, and Yellow wallpaper.

A gray rug, white curtains, a yellow and white chair cover, which her mother helped her to make were the added touches of color to make her room comfortable.

Painting the woodwork, good lighting, arrangement of furniture waxing and polishing floor are other ways she has improved her room.

Rhonda, 13, has been a 4-H member for 3 years during which time she has served as Song Leader and Neighboraide.

Her mother Mrs. J. G. Lacey is 4-H Adult Leader of the Siluria Community and an Active member of the Home Demonstration Club. Her Teacher Sponsor is Mrs. Mildred Sparks.

LIKES TO SEW!

"Its fun to learn to Sew," says Betty Hatchett, Columbiana Elementary 4-H Club.

Betty has done outstanding work on completing her first year Sewing Project. She has assembled a sewing box, made an apron, 4 dishtowels, and 4 potholders.

She is the 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hatchett, Columbiana. Her Teacher Sponsor is Mrs. Effie Sims.

SWINE

The average Alabama shote isn't getting enough drinking water.... the cheapest known hog feed. More market hogs suffer from lack of water than from lack of feed.

With hot wather here, livestock growers will want to give particular attention to thirsty hogs.

About one to one and a half gallons of clean water per 100 pounds of live weight are needed daily.

More water is required by pigs when they are on full feed than when on a limited ration. And just as humans who eat big helpings of meat in their vittles thirst easily, so do pigs on a protein-rich ration need more water than those on a low protein (corn alone) ration.

It pays to keep water before pigs and hogs at all times. They like to "self-feed" themselves at the watering trough. In one experiment station test, self-watered pigs drank 27 per cent more water than similar pigs hand watered.

Since hogs eating dry feed like to drink frequently, the self feeders and the watering devices should be placed near each other, at least for fattening hogs. Otherwise gains will be slowed down. If the water is not near the feeder, the hogs will either spend time and energy in travel or reduce their need for water by eating less feed.

When hogging-off corn, the water supply should be very close to the corn, the protein supplement, the mineral mixture, and the protecting shade. Pigs are not lazy; they just believe in convenience. And if feed and water are not convenient to each other, they play tired and dislike going to undue trouble to get either until they are really hungry or thirsty.

When running water is not available, and watering devices must be used, a homemade automatic waterer is far more satisfactory than old-fashioned trough. It's not only more sanitary, but it holds more water and has to be refilled less often. Only materials needed are a barrell, some boards, and a little elbow grease.

HOMEMAKING ACTIVITIES OUTLINED FOR SIX WEEKS THIS SUMMER

Beginning this week, through July 25th, Miss Sara Nell Lightsey will be on hand to give assistance to those desiring help along the homemaking lines. Her chief duties will be to supervise the community or county canning cente two days (Thursday and Friday) each week. The canning center will open officially July 1.

On Wednesday of each week she will be in the Homemaking Department all day. There will be a workshop for all girls interested in sewing from eight until twelve o'clock in the mornings. This workshop has been requested by the girls but if any adults wish to come they may. This does not mean that you have to have had sewing to be eligible to come. However, this will be a grand time to get assistance with home experiences.

The other days she will be glad to come to see you and help you with your homemaking problems at home or work with you in any way. So feel free to call on her at any time during the six weeks.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT BLACKLEG?

Q: Are all farm animals subject to blackleg, or just cattle?

A: Principally young cattle between six months and two years of age. Goats and sheep are also susceptible, but other animals are apparently immune.

Q: What causes it?

A: Blackleg is caused by a spore-forming germ which can live in the ground for years. It may enter an animal's body through small cuts and punctures in the skin, or through grazing.

Q: How does blackleg act?

A: First symptoms are dullness and lameness. Victims develop a fever, lose appetite, show depression. Swelling caused by the disease have a crinkling, tissue-paper feeling if they are touched.

Q: How serious is blackleg?

A: It is usually fatal, though some infected calves may be saved if treatment is started in time.

Q: How can the disease be prevented?

A: All calves in blackleg areas should be vaccinated when three or four months old. In some areas, where 'complicated' blackleg is a hazard, veterinarians may use a combined vaccine for best protection. Complicated blackleg is caused by two different germs.

Q: When is blackleg likely to occur?

A: The worst danger season is during the spring and summer months when cattle are on pasture. Farmers may wrongly blame blackleg losses on lightning or poisonous plants.

Q: What should be done with carcasses of animals which have died from blackleg?

A: They should be burned or buried deeply under lime to prevent the infection from spreading.

ACCIDENTS DUE TO ANIMALS

A Department of Public Safety annual report disclosed today that during the calendar year 1951, a total of 215 accidents involving animals were reported, resulted in fatalities to two persons, and property damage estimated at $76,625.

Forty-three persons were injured, several seriously. The economic loss, based upon the National Safety Council rate of $65,000 per death amounted to $130,000.

The county having the greatest number of accidents was Montgomery, with 24. Other counties having a high accident rate were Escambia 14, Jefferson 12, Bullock and Dallas, seven each, and Marengo with nine.

The record fatalities were in Marengo and Sumter Counties, both areas where cattle production is high. It is believed that the new law which became effective on May 31 in Alabama, outlawing free ranging cattle, will cut down on this accident rate.

The 1951 figure compared with 154 accidents reported the preceding year, one fatality, 25 injuries, and property damage estimated at $37,365.

It was held possible that due to more patrol personnel, and compliance with the Financial Responsibility law, that this year's figure was higher because more accidents were being reported than in the past.

It was pointed out that the list of accidents did not include those occuring in incorporated towns or cities.

DR. ROBERT S. HILL, SR., FAMED DOCTOR DIES AT MONTGOMERY

The Alabama doctor who, by the light of a smoking kerosene lamp, performed the world's first successful heart operation, is dead.

Dr. Robert S. Hill, Sr., 82, died Monday at his home in Montgomery.

The veteran doctor had been in ill health several years.

It was Dr. Hill who, 50 years ago, hovered over the form of a young negro boy who had been stabbed in the heart. With his brother, the late Dr. L. L. Hill, he made an incision, removing a large blood clot from the left ventricle.

When the youth's heart began ot fail, it was Dr. Hill who massaged the heart and kept it pumping blood until his brother closed the wound.

In later years, Dr. Hill and his brother operated a hospital in Montgomery. The two brothers won wide recognition for heart surgery.

They later donated the hospital to the city.

A former president of the Alabama Medical Assn., Dr. Hill practiced medicine more than a half-century. Poor health forced him to retire recently from a career which saw many of the surgeon's articles on medicine and surgery printed throughout the world.

Only one person remains alive today who saw the history-making operation on the Montgomery youth.

The one survivor is Dr. George A. O'Connell of Anniston. On September 15, 1902, Dr. O'Connell a young man at the time, stood at the head of a bench used for the operation in the negro's home.

O'Connell, now health officer for Calhoun county, held the kerosene lantern while the brothers worked.

Only last year Dr. O'Connell had sent Dr. Hill a copy of a vivid description of the operation he had written. Ironically, Dr. O'Connell reported, the boy who had recovered and moved to Chicago became involved in a barroom brawl. For the second time in his life the negro was stabbed in the heart— the second time fatally.

Dr. Hill was an uncle of U. S. Senator Lister Hill and the father-in-law of Justice John L. Goodwyn of the Alabama Supreme Court.

Rural Schools
Should Not Copy Cities

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A number of prominent educators are protesting that the 12,000,000 children attending rural schools throughout the nation do not have a school program to fit their needs, but have instead a carbon copy of curriculums developed in and for city schools.

They content that rural school programs based on rural life would be no less rich than those of city schools.

As an example, rural children have a high background for first-hand experiences with natural and physical sciences, in animals, birds, insects, rocks, soils plant fertilizers, etc. For that reason science should have an important place early in and throughout the curriculum.

'Test-Tube City' Idea Proves Popular With Kentucky Towns

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce's idea of a "Test-Tube City" is proving to be one of the most successful and popular ideas adopted in the state in many years.

The plan, which was inaugurated several years ago, was started as an experiment in community-development by which it was hoped to find ways of helping small towns and counties through the state to help themselves.

London, seat of Laurel county, was picked as the first test-tube city. A development association was formed, committees named, and objectives—improvement at which to aim—were listed.

The Chamber of Commerce provided professional help in getting the experiment under way. After that, the community was on its own. By actually trying things on the local scene, the association learned what could and what couldn't be done.

At the end of 12 months it was discovered that 115 major improvements had been made in the community. Since then scores of communities have joined the test-tube program.

As an example of accomplishments, Paintsville, a small eastern Kentucky community of about 5,000 population, reported after its first year:

Attracted one new industry . . . City-wide Courtesy Week observed . . . Survey made of downtown street lighting and improvements made . . . Three new buildings constructed in the area where eyesores formerly stood . . . Youth center organized and in operation . . . Highway association formed . . . New high school, gym and auditorium started . . . Country club remodeled and golf course enlarged to 18 holes . . . Clothing collected, cleaned, mended and distributed to needy children . . . Month-long "Home Beautification" drive held, during which sale of paint in the town went up 44 per cent in the first week and 51 per cent over the first week during the second week . . . Seven unfit buildings razed and removed . . . Twelve refuse dumps inside city cleaned up and earth covered.

50 NEW HIGHWAY PATROLMEN ADDED

Gov. Gordon Persons has announced that 50 new highway patrol will be added and "no holds barred" in a drive to cut down on the number of Alabama traffic fatalities.

Calling on the youth of the state, civic, religious, city and county government, and educational groups for aid, Persons declared, "We're going to stop this highway killing. I don't care who it is. I'm not going to run for office any more and I don't care if I lose every friend in Alabama."

Persons praised the Alabama press and radio for the part it already is playing in safety efforts, and asked them to renew and continue their campaigns.

Governor Persons also impowered the state's 120 liquor law enforcement agents to work with the patrol in nabbing speeders.

He criticzied the state patrol for laxity in making arrests in some areas, and again declared that the courts in many sections must share the responsibility for a large number of road fatalities.

Declaring that he will shine the "spotlight of publicity" on Alabama judge who let traffic violators off too lightly, he recalled that one judge has given out fines of one cent. He commented, "That kind of justice is a joke."

Persons had called a meeting of the state's top Public Safety Department men, the press and radio, in his office, after some 40 persons had died in state auto accidents during the preceding two weeks.

Governor Persons said there will be "no favorites" as far as he is concerned. He offered a personal reward to any patrolman who catches him speeding or violating another traffic law, and assured him that he would not be fired. He pointed out that his own son was arrested for speeding several weeks ago, and that's the way he wants the law enforced.

Gosh, it seems like it was only yesterday that we had potatoes to burn.

A GOOD MOTTO FROM A PAMPHLET

Once upon a time a man of business hung a motto on his office wall, which read: "No man is greater than his THOUGHTS."

To him it looked like good wisdom and sound reasoning. One day a friend dropped in and seeing the motto said: "Thats a good motto you have there, Bill, but I know a better one: 'No man is greater than his DECISIONS.'"

And so, the "Thoughts" motto was replaced with "Decisions" motto and Bill's thinking moved up a step.

Now, as my good friend Mildred Seydell, formerly of Atlanta, now residing in Belguim, says: "both mottoes are good, but I believe that if the last one was replaced by: 'No man is greater than his FAITH,' Bill's thinking would take another step upward. For after all, according to our faith so are our decisions. We cannot make great decisions without great faith."

I thought of this little idea this morning while talking with some members of the Finance Committee whose assignment is to contact members of the Baptist Church and find out what amount of money can be raised to construct a much needed Education Building. There are many things, apparently impossible things, that have been made possible thru faith, and dreams! Without these two essentials, we doubt that anything worth while would ever have been accomplished. So, if we have faith enough, work hard enough, and strive diligently enough toward this ambitious goal... I, for one, believe it will not be many months before the evidence of this faith and belief in these dreams will visibly materialize, and you will hear a harmonious chorus from the "pick and shovel" brigade that will drown out any vocal expression from the "can't be done'ers"... and pretty soon, a permanent foundation will be laid. The walls to the new building will begin to rise. The dream will begin to take shape, and become a reality which will stand as a lasting memorial to those who had the courage, not only to dream, but to get up and do something about it!

REVENUE & CONTROL MEMBERS RETURN FROM TEXAS

Members of the Board of Revenue and Control including Tom Nash, Helena; John Thompson, Vincent; Offie Stinson, Columbiana; Fred McClendon of Montevallo and Cecil Duke, Clerk, have returned from a trip to San Antonio where they attended the Road Commissioner's Convention.

TRAINING SCHOOL HOME ECONOMICS BUILDING DESTROYED BY FIRE

The Home Economics Department building of the Training School for negroes at Hillsdale was completely destroyed by fire caused by a bolt of lightening on Saturday, June 21. The building was only partially insured. All equipment was burned, and the loss is estimated at $25,000.

GROUND BREAKING CEREMONY FOR NEW BAPTIST CHURCH JUNE 29

The Rev. Curtis Bean announces that immediately following the eleven o'clock hour next Sunday morning in the Baptist Church, theere will be held a Ground Breaking Ceremony which will mark the beginning of the new education building for the Baptist Church. All members and friends are invited to share the occasion.

ALABAMA LOCAL BOARDS TO INDUCT 1066 IN AUGUST

Alabama's induction call for August will be 1066 men, according to Colonel J. T. Johnson, Jr., Acting State Director of Selective Service.

The number of men Shelby county will be called upon to furnish for the August call is 10.

CANNING PLANT TO OPEN TUESDAY OF NEXT WEEK

The Shelby County Canning Plant will open next Tuesday, July 1st. The plant will be open only one day the first week, but will open two days, Tuesday and Friday, the rest of the time.

Patrons will please notice the following rules and regulations for the plant:

1. Register at desk as you enter plant.
2. All produce must be in the plant by 1:30 o'clock and the plant will open at 7:30 o'clock.
3. Charges must be paid before leaving the plant. The only charge will be 6 cents for number 2 cans and 8 cents for number 3 cans. (The plant operates entirely on a non-profit basis).
4. No small children will be allowed in the plant, as the steam is dangerous for them to play around and this isn't any place to play.
5. Patrons will please furnish their own salt, sugar towels and aprons.
6. Only tin cans will be used since the plant is set up for canning in tin only.
7. Patrons will furnish all labor. In most cases it takes at least two members of the family to can and sometimes more. Smaller amounts may be canned by one person if he or she can work fast.
8. Patrons must share all the equipment in the plant.
9. Produce must be removed from the plant.
10. Patrons will clean all tables and equipment immediately after they use it. Garbage must be put outside the door in space provided for such, or you may provide for taking it back home if you like.

These are only a few simple rules but if everyone will follow them, canning in the Canning Center will be easy and fun too.

If anyone has any questions concerning the plant, Miss Lightsey may be contacted either in the Home Economics Department or at home at 3804.

Courthouse Receiving New Coat Of Paint

Mildred White Wallace

Renovating the Courthouse is under way and this morning we have been watching the painter in charge as he devised ways and means of dispossessing some Bees which have "taken their stand" under the right window ledge, near the top. For several weeks they have been busily engaged in manufacturing gallons of honey, which the painter procured, unmolested, and uncontested! Then, this fellow placed a ladder, which reached to the top of the window, took a hose pipe with him and gave those bees a good dose of water. After spraying them sufficiently, he calmly herded them into a receptacle of some kind, and walked merrily off with thousands of "honey-makers". Bees may be a good investment, but, as far as those winged creatures are concerned, we felt safe only as long as we were behind the office glass window, with the door closed, from which vantage point we watched until the brave man, with the Bee Brigade got out of town.

However, we wish him "happy honey-making" and hope he doesn't get stung!

TRAGEDY STRIKES THE NATH MOONEY FAMILY

Misfortune and tragedy was a four-time visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nath Mooney of the Kingdom community last week.

Saturday night their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Meadow Mooney died in Bessemer. Later the same night, Wales Mooney was on his way back to Columbiana after visiting his brother and suffered painful injuries when the Greyhound bus he was riding collided with an automobile at the Cahaba River Bridge on the Montgomery highway.

Sunday word was received that a granddaughter was killed in an auto accident in Georgia. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Risca Crumpton.

At the same time Mr. Nath Mooney is confined to his home seriously ill.

Crafts Director

DOT LEFKOVITS

Arts And Crafts Director Named

The Park and Recreation Board members, and director, Roy Mann, are to be congratulated on the progress they are making to expand the various departments of the Recreation Program now in full swing for the summer months.

This week it is our privilege to present talented and versatile Dot Lefkovits, who will, each Tuesday and Thursday morning, teach Arts and Crafts. The class on Tuesday will begin at 8 o'clock and last until 10 o'clock. It will be composed of boys and girls ranging from 6 years to 12 years. The Thursday morning classes will be devoted to the teen age group beginning at 13 and extending thru 18 years, same hours.

All students interested in joining either of these classes are requested to phone Mrs. Lefkovits at 2191 or go by her residence not later than Friday evening and register. This registration is necessary to find out how many pupils will avail themselves of this splendid opportunity and what amount of material will be needed.

When the season is over, the work done by these classes will be exhibited and the best work will be retained for exhibition in the County Fair which will be held the latter part of August and first part of September.

Be sure and contact Mrs. Lefkovits by Friday evening, June 27. Call 2191, or, as stated above, go by her residence and talk it over with her.

BIBLE EDUCATION WORK BY WATCHTOWER SOCIETY

The Watchtower Society carries on a world-wide campaign to encourage home Bible reading and study. Locally, under their direction, the Columbiana company of Jehovah's Witnesses are engaging in an evangelistic campaign in the rural areas this summer to assist in this Christian work.

They will be joined this week end by the Bessemer company of Jehovah's Witnesses in calling on the people of Shelby county in the Pea Ridge community, to be climaxed on Sunday, June 29th, 3 P. M., by a Bible lecture at the home of Chas. T. Wallace, Sr., Pea Ridge Community. The subject of the talk, "Why Is The Bible Practical For Our Day?" is of special interest to all people as it will give the Scriptural exposition as to the failure of a delinquent world and point out the practical way that leads to success.

The public is invited to attend. This Bible education work is furnished free and no collections will be taken.

ABC FUNDS DISTRIBUTED TO TOWNS

Alabama's ABC Board is in the process of distributing $1,202,855 to the incorporated municipalities of the state as their share of the board's profits for the first six months of the present fiscal year.

Board officials said the checks are being prepared and will be mailed to the cities within a few days.

None of this cash will have to be turned over to county welfare departments as a 1951 legislative act changed the law requiring that part of the money distributed to cities be diverted to welfare.

The money being distributed is on board profits from the period beginning October 1, 1951, and ending March 31, this year.

Leroy Morgan Home Burns On Valley Road

Friday night, June 13, Leroy Morgan's new brick ranch type home in New Hope Community was destroyed by fire of an undetermined origin.

Mr. Morgan, alone at the time, was discovered asleep by Gene Mussey, and awakened just in time to escape the fire.

The fire was discovered by Gene's Mother, Mrs. Bessie Mussey, who sounded the alarm.

The fire originated in the garage wing of the building, which was less than a year old, and one of the prettiest in the Valley.

Rebuilding will start at once.

C. M. AMERINE PRELIMINARY TRAIL HELD

A preliminary hearing presided over by Cecil Duke, Justice of the Peace, was held Friday, June 20, in the Courtroom for C. M. Amerine, charged with the murder of Ernest Anderson on May 30, at New Hope School house.

The defendant was represented by Roderick Beddow, of Birmingham, and the firm of Ellis & Fowler in Columbiana. The State was represented by County Solicitor Frank Head, and special counsel employed to assist in the prosecution included Wales W. Wallace Jr., and Karl C. Harrison, attorneys of Columbiana.

Only two witnesses were placed on the stand, James Alfred Wright of Helena Rt., and J. C. Greathouse, an employee of a Motor Company in Birmingham. Both sides rested the case, following their testimony and Justice Duke remanded the defentant to jail without bond to await the action of the Grand Jury which will convene in Columbiana July 7.

THE PROBLEM SOLVED

When cotton's low and oats are high,
It appears to me to diversify
Would be a sane and easy way
To bring about a better day.
If we'd give more to the dairy cow
And a better feed to the old brood sow,
We'd not worry about the price of meat
For we'd have plenty and more ourselves to eat.
With corn in the crib and chickens in the yard,
With meat in the smokehouse and tubs full of lard,
With cream in the pitcher and honey in the mug,
With butter on the table and 'lasses in the jug,
Things to you won't seem so high
For you'll be selling, you won't have to buy.
Now stop your grumbling, for the fault's your own,
You expect to reap where you haven't sewn,
If you stay at home and help your mate,
Others then you won't berate.
And you'll surely live in Paradise
This, to you, is my sane advice.

BUSINESS MEN AND FARMERS ENDORSE FARM BUREAU

W. L. Christian, cashier of Columbiana Savings Bank, has this to say regarding the Farm Bureau:

"We are in sympathy with the Farm Bureau and believe farmers will make a profit on their farm products if they will practice cooperative marketing and buying. Of course cooperative buying and selling will have the same result if it is done thru any other strong organization, but at present there is no farm organization except the farm bureau that is devoting the entire time of its officials to farm problems."

Others who commented at this public meeting held June 16, 1927, in Columbiana, included: J. W. Letson, W. W. Clark of Calera, J. T. Lovett, Columbiana and E. E. Wallis of Vincent and Probate Judge L. B. Riddle.

Hambone says: "Ah sho is got t' git busy and cut down these here tall weeds round dis place. Dem things creates snakes."

HIGHWAY PATROL PROGRAM RECEIVES SUPPORT

Civic and municipal organizations, service groups and individuals, have pledged their unrelenting support to the Highway Safety Campaign now being conducted by Governor Gordon Persons.

Among the groups which have pledged all-out support are the Cullman and Montgomery Chambers of Commerce, the State Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Alabama-West Florida District of Civitan, and many other organizations.

As governor Persons personally spent 18 hours in a Highway Patrol car riding over the state for a first hand view of the situation, it was disclosed that pedestrian deaths had accounted for nearly a fourth of the 256 traffic fatalities this year.

State Public Safety Director L. B. Sullivan said at least 62 pedestrians had been killed on state roads, most of them through disregard of safety rules.

In the same period in 1951, January 1-June 15, Sullivan said 79 pedestrians were killed. He stressed the importance of safe walking as well as safe driving, if the traffic accident toll that has aroused Alabama is to be lowered.

Persons who already has visited 14 counties, said he will visit all 67 Alabama counties to see that strict traffic enforcement rules are carried out. In other action he had previously disclosed that 50 men had been added to the 265-man safety patrol. In addition, he directed 125 liquor enforcement agencies and Public Service Commission inspectors to make highway arrests. He said if the road slaughter continued, some 120 game wardens and forester might be given the authority to make highway arrests.

He also split usual two-man Highway Patrol teams and ordered one man assigned to a car. Fifty troopers were ordered back to motorcycles.

Right of the governor to zone parts of the highways in the state into certain speed limits was upheld in a court test this week.

Blount County Judge Carl D. Nesmith upheld the chief executive's right to proclaim a spee limit of 60 miles an hour in the day, and 50 at night. Nesmith held that the speed limit is valid. He said the order was reasonable and not in conflict with any laws

The ruling came after Gordon Bishop, Birmingham, had challenged his arrest for driving at night between 65 and 70 miles an hour.

Meanwhile, another attempt to make the state's highways safer, a letter has gone out from the State Military to all Alabama National Guard units urging more care on the highways.

Week Of August 25 Set By Kiwanis Fair Committee

The third annual Shelby County Fair is to be held on the Elementary School campus during the week beginning August 25th. Amusements and entertainment will be furnished by the Lee Amusement Company of Montgomery. Members of the Columbiana Kiwanis Club, who compose the Shelby County Fair Association, will again sponsor commercial and educational exhibits as well as livestock and poultry exhibits.

A Fair Catalogue, to be mailed to all of the postal boxholders, will again be prepared. Elvin Hill, President of the Columbiana Kiwanis Club, is president of the Fair Association and Luther Curlee is Vice President.

Wilsonville Scouts Return From Camp

Sixteen Wilsonville boys and their Scoutmaster returned Saturday evening from Camp Horn, near Tuscaloosa where they enjoyed a week of boating, hiking, swimming, eating, and participating in many other Scout skills. These Scouts were: Jimmy Batson, George Ernest Beavers, Hoyt Blaylock, Lloyd Carlson, Walter Carlson, James Clinkscales, Jerry Cross, Kenneth Dennis, Wales Foster, Lee Fox, Tommy King, Johnny Rape, Alan Revis, Tom Smith, Chester Ray Weaver, and Don Whitten with T. O. Smith, Scoutmaster.

Many honors and ribbons were won by Troop 85. Jerry Cross and Walter Carlson, Life Scouts, Don Whitten, Star Scout, and T. O. Smith, Scoutmaster, were tapped for members of Order of the Arrow. The following Ribbons were won: Lloyd Carlson, 1st in Four-Man Rowing Team, 2nd in Four-Man Canoeing Team. James Clinkscales, 1st in In-and-Out Canoe Race, 1st in Four-Man Canoe Race, 2nd in Four-Man Rowing Race, 3rd in Diving of Swimmers. Tommy King, 1st in Four-Man Rowing Race, 2nd in Four-Man Canoe Race. Don Whitten, 1st in In-and-Out Canoe Race, 1st in Four-man Canoe Race, 1st in Sidestroke Swiming, 2nd in Backstroke Swimming, and 2nd in Four-Man Rowing Race.

A Court of Honor climaxed the Camp in which Troop 85 won more awards by far than any other troops participating. These Scouts advanced in Rank as follows: Hoyt Blalock, James Clinkscales, and Alan Revis advanced to Star Scout; Kenneth Dennis and Tommy King advanced to Second Class; Johnny Rape and Chester Ray Weaver passed their Tenderfoot requirements.

The following Merit Badges were awarded: Jimmy Batson, Farm Mechanics, Hoyt Blalock,

OVER $3,000,000 FOR ALA. GUARD CONSTRUCTION

Brig. Gen. Walter J. Hanna says the State Military Department has received, or has available, from the federal government this fiscal year $3,739,100 for Alabama National Guard construction.

Hanna, state adjutant general, said $3,500,000 of the total had been earmarked for the projected National Guard jet base at Dannelly Air Field, Montgomery. The other $239,000 is for projects throughout the state.

Other projects which have received federal funds this year include:

Paving at the Birmingham Armory, $6,000; Birmingham rifle range improvements, $1,800; water line to Birmingham rifle range $2,500; warehouse at Birmingham Air Base, $110,000; 175,000-gallon fuel storage facilities at Birmingham AB, $104,000; chain link fencing at Calera, Eufaula, Grove Hill and Lineville, $2,000 each, installation of steam boiler at Montgomery State Arsenal, $1,80 and addition to heating system at State Arsenal, $3,000.

OUTPOSTS OF VENGEANCE

A HISTORICAL NOVEL BY E. E. HALLERAN

CHAPTER I

The rhythmic snarl of the crosscut saw ended with a metallic grunt as the sawyer stood erect to wipe the sweat out of his eyes. It was hot there on the river bank, hot enough so that the young fellow had already discarded his ragged hunting shirt. His bare torso gleamed with perspiration, the smooth muscles rippling beneath the well-browned skin in an unconscious display of power. The lithe body had not yet acquired the bulk of maturity but there was a lean hardness about him which proclaimed his ability to do a man's full share of the work.

He brushed back the shock of straight black hair, laughing aloud as he looked down at the dark band of dampness at the belt of his faded blue breeches. This July sun was certainly bringing out the sap! Somehow the thought pleased him. A healthy sweat made a fellow feel good—and helped to make him forget his worries.

"You look hot," a sprightly voice announced from the screen of bushes behind him. "Where's Pa?"

The youth turned slowly, his smile changing to a frown of annoyance. "He went to the settlement," he said shortly.

"Let me take one end of the saw," the girl suggested. "I can spell you a bit."

"I'm doing all right," he said. Then as though in an afterthought he added, "Annie."

"Don't call me Annie!" she snapped.

Morgan Is Irritated By Girl's Attentions

He smiled again, displaying even white teeth which were the more startling against the background of the browned face. His best defense against this precocious brat of Jed Randall's was to call her Annie. It put her on the defensive instead of letting her keep him in that position. "Better let the saw alone," he went on condescendingly, following up his advantage. "You might catch one of those yellow pigtails in the saw teeth and your pappy would blame me for letting a kid get into trouble."

She jumped nimbly across the big log and seized the opposite handle of the crosscut. "Stop making me out a child!" she stormed. "I'm just seventeen, I'll have you to know—Mister Willie Morgan! Lots of girls are getting married when they're not as old as that!"

He grabbed the saw hastily and went to work. This girl could always make him uncomfortable with her bold talk and there never seemed to be anything he could do about it. She was a pretty little thing but she had ideas which left him uneasy. That remark about marriage, for example.

During the three weeks in which he had been helping Jed Randall build his ark there had been the daily problem of trying to keep her away—and it was getting pretty hard to ignore her advances. Perhaps it would be better to spank her properly and send her back to her mud pies.

There was comfort in the pungent odor of the green oak sawdust and he worked the saw almost viciously, determined to make her cry quits. She merely smiled and threw her weight into the task of matching his speed and energy.

Finally, when he had to stop in order to keep the saw from binding, she stepped back with a chuckle. "Child, eh?" she scoffed, blue eyes regarding his disconcertingly. "I suppose I didn't do my share of that job?"

He tried to pass it off jokingly. "You'll make a stout helper for some Ohio dirt farmer one of these days. I'll mention your good qualities to the first suitable youth I meet. Now go back to camp and change that wet frock. It's sticking to you until I can count every rib."

He did not think it wise to mention the other observable features made prominent by the sweat-soaked dress. However, a big fellow who had come through the brush from the river road seemed more appreciative. He eyed the girl even as she spoke to young Morgan.

"Hi there, Will. Looks like you've got yourself a right sturdy helper." He was as tall a man as Morgan but thirty pounds heavier. A militia uniform coat bearing the woolen epaulet of a sergeant gave him a certain smartness even though there was no other concession to regulations in his attire. He was bareheaded and wore the ordinary buckskin breeches, leggins and moccasins of the frontier.

Ann Randall's lips tightened a little as she pulled the calico dress away from her wet body. "Always somebody!" she said disgustedly. "How's things with the rag-tag and bob-tail militia?"

The sergeant grinned to disclose a couple of yellow teeth framing bare gums. "Don't poke fun at the militia," he warned her. "It's settlers like you and yore folks what'll want us to help ye when the scalpin' parties start to howl."

She flipped one of the golden braids back over her shoulder and turned to leave. "I'll bet you won't show up at the right time," she snapped. "You're too good at coming around at the wrong time."

The sergeant studied her retreating form and tipped a knowing wink toward young Morgan. "Romance, hey?" he chuckled. "Mebbe that's why I can't talk ye into j'inin' the militia."

"Nothing of the kind," Morgan retorted. "She's just a nuisance of a kid!"

The militiaman dropped his air of ribald amusement. "Better think it over," he said seriously. "There's goin' to be a heap o' trouble along the Ohio before long. A man's a dang sight safer when he's got friends to side him."

The youth shook his head. "I'll stick to packing. Old Sam is a good man to work for and I pick up a few extra jobs like this between trips. Besides I want to be in a position where I can quit when . . . when I need to."

The youth turned slowly, his smile changing to a frown of annoyance.

The big fellow seemed on the point of misinterpreting the hesitation and Morgan went on hastily, pointing southward along the rutted trail which followed the Monongahela. "Looks like more settlers comin'," he announced.

Sharp Eyes Can Spot Yankees on the Trail

"Sure enough. They keep right on a-comin'—Injuns or no Injuns. It ain't no wonder the dam' redskins git worried; the faster they kill off the poor fools the faster more fools move in!"

Morgan studied the newcomers silently for some moments. "Looks like southerners," he said idly.

Sergeant Gates squinted thoughtfully at the approaching cavalcade. Then after a moment's hesitation he proposed, "I'll lay a gallon o' Monongahela whiskey agin them purty moccasins o' yourn that they're from somewhere north o' the Potomac."

Will stared ruefully at his feet. "Why the moccasins? They're about the only thing I own that are fit to wear."

Gates displayed his toothlessness once more in a broad grin. "If I git yer moccasins ye'll have to jine the army to git yerself some boots. Ain't none to be had in Pittsburgh. How about it—is it a bet? North or south of the Potomac?"

"You're on. I'm picking south."

The sergeant eyed the boy's sturdy shoulders almost possessively. "Ye'll make a good sojer," he grinned—"but it's kind of a shame to take advantage of ye. Only folks from the north would be arrivin' here with wagons. Southerners would have stopped at Redstone to build an ark or flatboat. This crowd musta come over Forbes's trace."

Morgan merely smiled. They watched the advancing train, both searching for some sign that would hint at the origin of the travelers. When the lead rider was within a hundred feet of them they saw him turn and emit a prodigious spurt of tobacco juice.

"Hell's fire!" Gates exclaimed dolefully. "Ye might be right. No Yankee ever went anywhere spittin' like that."

Will chuckled. "No. And no Yankee ever hit the trail with his wagons needing paint as badly as those do. They look like Tidewater folks to me."

"How come ye know so danged much about it?"

"I came from up Boston way and I've seen a lot of settlers from all parts of the east since I came out here. Want to double up on the bet? My shirt and pants against another gallon?"

"Skun by a Yankee sharper!" Gates growled. "I ain't bettin' no more—and I wouldn't take yer shirt and pants fer a gift!"

He turned to hail the grizzled leader of the train. "Halloo, friend! Where ye from?"

The horseman tucked his quid into a gaunt cheek before drawling. "No'th C'lina—Orange County. How close is this to the forks of the Ohio?"

"Mighty close. Jest mosey on around that next bend and ye'll see the whole meetropylis. Headed for the Ohio lands?"

The gaunt man nodded and a second rider came up with a question. "Where's a good place to camp while we build ourselves a boat o' some kind?"

Gates jerked a thumb downstream. "Anywhere this side o' the militia camp will do. Ye'll find plenty o' folks doin' that same identical thing. Pick yer spot. . . . But how come ye didn't stop at Redstone to build yer craft? It would ha' saved ye a nasty bit o' wagon travel." He did not bother to add that it would also have saved him a gallon of recruiting whiskey.

"We was a-goin' to," the second stranger stated, "but the dam' thieves there wanted too fired much fer their scows. We heerd folks was buildin' their own boats down here at the forks so we come on."

Love Smites Will Morgan In Vision from Carolina

Gates smiled crookedly. "Reckon ye kin do it—but it's a powerful lot o' hard work. Ye'll have timber to fell and square, joints to fit, calkin' to do, planks to saw and fit—and then a back-breakin' job o' gettin' yer craft into the water. It ain't no pink tea buildin' the kind of a floatin' blockhouse that ye'll need to navigate the Ohio."

"I reckon we ain't afeared o' work," the man retorted. "Thanks to ye anyway." He urged his bony horse forward, the wagons following closely behind him.

During the conversation Will Morgan's glance had been fixed on the driver of one of the rickety old Conestogas. The huge vehicle was being handled faultlessly by a girl who sat astride the off wheel horse. Except for the faded blue sunbonnet her attire was strictly masculine but even the oversize pantaloons and gray cotton shirt could not conceal a well rounded, trim figure. Strongly built she was still able to present an air of lithe grace which arrested the eye—and the young man at the roadside was missing no part of the picture.

He saw that she was pretty but mostly he watched the easy play of her bare arms as she handled the team, finding a curious fascination in the smooth brownness of her skin. She quirked a half smile as though reading his thoughts but spoke offhandedly as her outfit came abreast of the watchers.

"Howdy, strangers. Mighty fine day, ain't it?"

There was an oddly vibrant quality in her slow drawl which was as intriguing as the dark curls which she brushed back from her oval face. For some reason Will found it impossible to get out a reply but the militiaman waved a stubby paw in airy greeting. "Top o' the day to ye, miss," he called. "The valley will be plumb glad to see ye."

He grinned insinuatingly at young Morgan as the wagon passed on. "Cat got yer tongue, Will? Fer all the lookin'-over ye give that gal ye shore didn't come out with any real pert remarks."

"I can look, can't I?"

"Ye sure can! If ever I see a young cub look right on through a wench ye done it then! What's the matter? Ain't one gal enough to suit ye?"

"Don't be a fool!" Morgan snapped irritably. "I don't have any time to waste on any of them."

"Then it's yerself that's the fool That gal on the hoss looked purty much all right to me. Fer that matter the little tow-headed kid could make a lad mighty happy."

Morgan did not reply. He swung abruptly and went back to his saw. Sergeant Gates grinned as though vastly pleased with himself and headed down the trail toward the militia camp.

It was well past noon when Will took his crosscut back to the Randall camp, leaving it with other tools by the side of the nearly finished flatboat. Then he hurried away, not wanting to meet Ann. Water sloshed in his moccasins where the sweat had run down his legs but he did not stop to empty them. More important matters were on his mind as he trotted along toward the spot where Old Sam Billings had located his freight camp.

LETTERS IN THE MAIL

Hal McKnight
Oak Ridge, Tennessee
Dear Hal:

Memories are like tall oak trees. They take your breath and hurt your eyes and turn your heart upside down. I guess that's why, along an old shady street, memories are thicker than flies on syrup. And isn't an old town just a roosting-place where oodles of old memories, dressed in queer-shaped gowns, flutter back to roost. They creep up from the lonely avenues, and out of the dark streets, in a fashion that is breathless and awesome. As if Time had turned no page at all, but had just lay down to rest for a few moments.

Rev. Jesse Hughes
Harrahan, La.
Dear Jesse:

I passed your mother's house and everything was the same. The flowers, the same birds, the same trace of friendliness in the air. But since I knew that we had tucked her to sleep over the hill, I didn't stop to fill my heart with her kindness. There was only the tiny specks of laughter and friendliness that drifted around me like fine flaky snow. I guess that is why I decided that Heaven was just over the hill.

F. T. O'Hara
Bnrbank, California
Dear Mr. O'Hara:

I remember Thanksgiving in 1943. An old fellow and his wife who had lived most of their lives in Alabama requested that some boy from Alabama come out for dinner. I walked down a beautiful street, and up a high hill, and turned into his yard just where the pavement seemed to meet the sky. We had turnip greens and cornbread without sugar in it, and corn dumplings and hambone. The guys back on the post had turkey with all the trimmings. And I still remember what a splendid Thanksgiving it was. Yes, I will pass along your kind invitation to the boys who are out that way helping their Uncle Sam. The telephone, fellows, is Charleston 8-2087. And this guy in Burbank is an old Alabama boy who would like nothing better than to have you look him up.

Mrs. Margaret McMillan Arnold
Birmingham, Alabama
Dear "Miss" Margaret:

Yes, I do remember the fourth grade. And the house on the hill, and the tall oak trees all the way down the street. Remember how they stood there, great ghoulsih things in billowy green gowns, until the wind came along and splashed them against the sky? And the big-eyed suntanned boy, merry as the summer he had left behind, dreaming his dreams in an almost fantastic fashion, beautifully, ecstatically, almost poignantly, since, without his knowing, Time would dress his dreams in overalls and lead his heart away to become ambitious. But a little better than all the rest, I think I remember my teacher.... who hurt my eyes because she was so lovely, and my heart because she was so sincere.

A/3C Ralph Robinson
Albuquerque, New Mexico
Dear Slick:

So you're doing more than all right in base ball out there. That is no surprise to the folks back here. When a guy's got the right spirit the other things he needs will come along. I could have told you that when you were in school, but I didn't. You don't have to tell guys like you. They're too busy helping themselves to listen anyway. But I'm glad to pass the news along to your friends back here that your name is in the paper so much out there that the good folks around Albuquerque wonder if you have become the editor maybe. But the same thing holds true in anything. Something about a guy that has, gittin'. As you grow older you will understand how important it is all around. As every guy does in his fashion. Some from the top, glancing down; and others from the bottom, staring up.

Members of the 4-H Club held their June meeting at the home of Mrs. W. A. Nolen, with the following adult leaders in charge: Mrs. Ferman Albright, Mrs. W. A. Jones and Mrs. W. A. Nolen.

After the demonstration ::Care and Use of Money," a social hour and games were enjoyed. Refreshments were served to Misses Jean Johnson, Patsy Johnson, Norlene Johnson, Hazel Edfelt, Peggy O'Neal, Ronda Albright, Sue Nolen, Jackie Nolen, Linda Holcombe and Linnie Green.

Piano pupils of Mrs. W. A. Jones held a recital at her home on the evening of June 14. Those taking part were: Jean Johnson, Betty Johnson, Sue Nolen, Helen Bailey, Linnie and Mason Green, Darlene Lovelady, Linda and Billy Jack Holcombe, Myra Sue Davis and Patsy Gray. A picture was taken of the group, after which a social hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

Mrs. Algie Gray is a patient at the Highland Baptist Hospital in Birmingham.

Mrs. Edward Pendergast of Guayaquil, Equador is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferman Albright.

Miss Ruby Albright sailed from Montreal, Canada on June 13, to spend six weeks touring Europe. She will visit England, France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Belgium and Holland.

Radio and TV have done one helpful thing: They have shortened the two and one-half hour political speeches to the haif-hour of program time available.

Outposts of Vengeance

By E. E. HALLERAN

Into the dangerous Indian lands beyond Pittsburgh went young Will Morgan, posing as a savage chieftain to gain vital information for the Army. Fate gave him many uneasy moments and caused the man he impersonated to be a personal enemy, and one on whom he had once vowed terrible vengeance. This is an exciting tale of hate, love and adventure on a great American frontier.

WHEN YOU TRY POWER STEERING...
HERE'S WHERE TO COME FIRST!

You've heard about it and read about it. Now, if you haven't felt what Power Steering does for you, we invite you to try it first in a Chrysler New Yorker . . . where you will find full-time (not partial) Power Steering!

What happens is this . . .

You handle the steering wheel in normal fashion. But 4/5 of all the work is done for you by hydraulic power, constantly at your command. Also, you turn the wheel 1/3 less distance now for every maneuver . . . the feeling you get of utter control is as wonderful as it is new.

Even at a standstill you can turn the wheel easily. Now, parking is shorn of its troubles (and fatigue!) . . . and you can negotiate traffic, awkward drives, and garage doors precisely and with ease.

You can double the longest day's drive you've ever known . . . end up free from arm and shoulder strain. Rough roads, soft shoulders, snow, mud? . . . the power that helps you steer now prevents the car's wheels from "steering back" at you. The course you set is held, at any speed, till you want it changed. Yet, with this 5-times greater control, "wheel feel" is always the same.

Why not come try it? Learn for yourself why growing thousands of motorists say they'll never be without Full-time Power Steering from now on. Drive a Chrysler . . . and Learn the Difference!

EXTENSION

Town, Rural Folks Honor Farm Service

FLEMINGTON, N.Y. — Rural Hunterdon county folk and their guests from town, more than 400, cut a birthday cake recently to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the extension service in the county. The occasion also served to spotlight the 40th anniversary of the establishment of extension in the state of New Jersey.

Extension, called the largest out-of-school educational agency and now existing in every state in the country, came to New Jersey in 1912. But it was an exciting and dramatic event in Flemington in 1927 because a good many Hunterdon farmers had resisted efforts of leaders among them to establish the "new" idea. The subject had been debated hotly for a half dozen years before.

Book Farming

During those debates—both formal and cracker barrel style— it was clear that the educational service symbolized a yielding of traditional ways to "book farming." Several feared they would be bossed around by an unshaven youth fresh from college.

The 15 years since have proved how wrong they were. Today impartial observers rate Hunterdon among the most progressive rural counties in the United States.

Opposition began to fade away as Edward A. Gauntt, first county agent, something of a diplomat as well as a good teacher, established the pipe lines through which latest scientific information was taken to farmers. The reservoir at the other end of the line was Rutgers University, headquarters of the extension service and site of the agricultural experiment station, established many years before.

At present there are 68 agricultural, home and club agents at work in 20 New Jersey counties. In a typical year these agents speak at 10,000 meetings with a total attendance of well over a half-million. In a typical year they answer 25,000 telephone calls, receive 50,-00 visitors, and distribute 270,000 bulletins. They make farm and home visits, write for newspapers, and make radio broadcasts.

Progress Is Theme

Dr. William H. Martin, dean of the College of Agriculture, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and of the Extension Service, was the main speaker at the Hunterdon anniversary dinner.

The theme of the evening was progress. And Flemington and Hunterdon county folk feel that they have more than made up in 25 years any time they may have lost in their seeming indifference to new ideas back in 1927.

And it is like that in many home towns across the nation today where extension service is comparatively young.

rain Elevator Fires hreat to Community

CHICAGO—The loss of a grain elevator by fire not only causes a financial loss but can disrupt the economic life of a rural area, says . C. Less, assistant manager of the ill Mutual Fire Prevention bureau.

He pointed out that the threat of fire from numerous causes is constant in elevator and mill operations. Once a fire is underway, it is virtually impossible to extinguish because of the nature of the contents.

"An average elevator easily is worth from $75,000 to $100,000 and even more," Lee points out. "That doesn't include the worth of store grains, which would more than double that figure. At today's inflated prices and because of material shortages it might be difficult if not impossible to replace it."

The financial loss, while great, would not begin to show the economic upheaval which loss of such an elevator might cause. Farmers who had been delivering their grain to that elevator might have to travel miles to locate another and it might not be able to take their crops because of previous commitments.

aine Community Has ew Memorial Building

HOULTON, Me.—The community of Houlton has a new memorial building. Almost 15 months from the day ground was broken on the Main Street site, the Gentle Memorial building was finished at a cost of $130,000.

The completed building climaxes a long campaign to erect a gymnasium-auditorium for "the enjoyment of the citizens", as indicated in the will of 'the late Edna B. Gentle who died in 1935. The memorial fund provided by the will amounted to $134,876. By last year the fund had accumulated to $190,-[illegible].

Among the activities for which the building will provide room will be social and charitable functions, athletics, fraternal, military, political and town meetings.

Within the finished building are a gymnasium - auditorium, complete with stage, which can seat 800 spectators, a social lounge, two offices, a dance lounge, an activities room, a boys' and girls' locker room, a boiler room and toilets.

ALA. INSTITUTIONS RECEIVE CANCER RESEARCH AID

Three Grants-in-aid to Alabama institutions, totalling $44,228.00, were announced today by Mrs. Lillian G. Meade, Executive Director of the American Cancer Society. The Grants-in-aid are part of approximately one million, eight hundred thousand dollars ($1,800,000.00), awarded for Research projects and fellowships recommended by the Committee on Growth, of the National Research Council, which advises the Society on this aspect of its program.

One Grant-in-aid, in the amount of $12,000 has been given for support of the Research program at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, under the direction of Dr. W. D. Salmon, Head, Department of Animal Husbandry and Nutrition, for a program entitled, "Relations of nutrition to cancer in experimental animals."

Experiments by Dr. Salmon, during the past two years, indicate that cancer may be induced in chickens, as a result of a simple dietary deficiency, and prevented by correction of this deficiency. Continuation of this work may open new potential fields for cancer therapy. Investigation into the role of vitamin B12 and choline are in progress.

Number two - Grant-in-aid in the amount of $3,500, made to Tuskegee Institute, in support of a Research program, under the direction of Dr. James H. M. Henderson, Research Associate, for the project entitled, "The complete nutritional growth requirement of normal sunflower callus tissue in vitro." This is a study of fundamental growth. It will add to the basic knowledge of plant physiology and biochemistry and may well shed light on the growth of cancerous tissue in animals.

The third Grant-in-aid was made to Southern Research Institute, in the amount of $28,728.00, in support of a Research program, under the direction of Dr. Howard Skipper, for the program entitled, "Studies of the mechanism of action of anti-cancer agents and the chemotherapy of leukemia."

By coordinating the facilities of an organic chemistry laboratory, equipped to make compounds containing radioactive isotopes, with biological laboratories having facilities for animal experiments and testing it has been possible to carry out many series of experiments on compounds which are considered to be of possible clinical importance in the treatment of leukemia. This group of researchers haev cooperated with other American Cancer Society grantees, particularly on production of anti-folic acid derivatives. The compound, guanazolo, used by Dr. Kidder at Amherst, has been synthesized with a radioactive atom for use in tracer studies.

These important grants have been made possible by the voluntary contributions to the American Cancer Society during its Cancer Crusade.

Bible Comment:

Hebrew Prophets Saw Law and Order In Creator's Work

IN reading the Book of Job it is important to remember that it is an ancient drama in which various characters are speaking and note in each instance just who the speaker is. Otherwise we may find ourselves taking as the "word of God" statements of Eliphaz, Bildad, or Zophar, all three of whom are specifically represented by God, later in the Book, as not having spoken the "thing that is right."

The late Professor Moulton, in his "Modern Readers' Bible," sought to guard such misrepresentations of Biblical truth by presenting and arranging the Scriptures in their proper literary form. This is particularly helpful in portions of the Bible like the Book of Job.

But in general the practice of taking texts at random, or even undiscriminating use of proof texts, is not conducive to enlightened study of the Bible, in which every passage ought to be read in relation to its setting and context.

But if one must read the Book of Job with care to realize who it is speaking in the various portions, it is only in considering the Book as a whole that its full significance and message appear. All leads up to certain conclusions regarding the fact of God and His world.

The Hebrew poets and prophets laid hold of the great, positive, incontrovertible facts of a world that could not be, or be upheld, without a Creator and Ruler. They found evidences of law and order and goodness. And they related the moral law and order to the law and physical universe.

They asserted, "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament sheweth His handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge."

So, here in the Book of Job, as elsewhere, they asserted the fact of God in His world. "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof—the world and they that dwell therein." It was the fool, they said, who had declared in his heart that there was no God. And their wisdom was justified. For without faith, and without God, what is there for man?

FIRE DESTROYS FOREST LANDS

State Conservation Department Director Earl M. McGowin said that more than two out of every 100 acres of Alabama's forest land were destroyed by fire last year.

In an article in the Alabama Conservation ,official publication McGowin did express some optimism, however, he said that the people of Alabama are "slowly" learning the high cost of forest fires.

Some 372,422 acres of timber burned last year, compared to 415,826 in 1950, he said.

EARL McGOWIN NOT AVAILABLE FOR PRESIDENT UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

State Conservation Department Director Earl M. McGowin says that he would "not be able to accept" the presidency of the University of Alabama, even "if offered to me."

McGowin, Chapman lumberman, Rhodes scholar and former Butler county legislator, has been often mentioned as a possible successor to President Dr. J. M. Gallalee, who retires next year as university head.

McGowin said, "several of my friends have suggested that my name might be given serious consideration for this position. But I have told them I would not be able to accept this honor if it was offered to me."

He did not elaborate further.

LaFayette's disembarkation site, 1200 Water Avenue, in Selma, is memorialized by a bronze marker on a pillar at the end of the Water Avenue Bridge, near the spot where the general came ashore on his visit to Selma on April 5, 1825.

NEW JET AIRCRAFT HDQ.

State Adjutant General Walter J. Hanna says that Montgomery contractor A. Berney Jones has submitted a low bid of $659,273 for the Alabama Air National Guards' new jet aircraft headquarters at Dannelly field in Montgomery.

Hanna said the construction includes five buildings.... a hangar, warehouse, motor service shop, crash truck station and a paint, oil and dope building.

General Hanna disclosed also that Petroleum Systems, Inc., of Detroit, had entered the low bid of $46,442 for a 100,000-gallon underground fuel storage system at the base.

PATRIOTIC MUSIC A FEATURE OF SUNDAY MORNING AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Next Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour, the Baptist Choir will render two patriotic numbers in honor of the coming July 4th Independence Day. They include Thank God For America, and a new arrangement of Battle Hymn Of The Republic.

Last Sunday, the Choristers received favorable comment on their rendition of "Glorious Banners", Edwin Rush sang "Somebody Told Me Of Jesus," with choral accompaniment. Mr. Rush's sympathetic interpretation of his songs will always make him a popular soloist and on this occasion he was at his best. Several requests are in this morning for a repetition of this number and he has consented to do so at an early date.

The Rev. Curtis Bean is continuing his Bible School this week and has an enrollment of 174.

The Finance Committee for the new church is meeting Wednesday evening at the Baptist Church for a check up on funds which will determine just how far the church can advance on its building program which will begin the first week in July. United effort on the part of every member is the solution to this much needed building program.

The Revival services will begin July 6, the Rev. Kirk as guest speaker. The public is cordially invited to be present at morning and evening services.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Carleton (Joyce Jackson) of Florida are spending a summer vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jackson.

. . . We were delighted to have Floyd Miles, of Montevallo, come in Friday and renew his subscription to the Reporter-Democrat, which Floyd states, is exactly what he wants to "keep up with what everybody is doing and current events that are taking place in our fast developing county." (That always rings the bell with us! We shall certainly try and deliver the news promptly in the Miles hospitable home in Montevallo.)

. . . James Garrett, one of Uncle Sam's handsomest soldier men has just returned home to join his family for a few months, before accepting another assignment. That little son of his, about nine months old, was keeping him and his grand-dad, Roland Lester stepping along at a lively clip when we encountered them on Main this morning. It was good seeing them all together again.

A POT POURRI OF THIS AND THAT ABOUT THESE AND THOSE WHOM YOU AND I KNOW

It is almost too hot to think. Too hot to work, in fact, but the world goes right on just the same and Old Man People continue going and coming, some seeking a vacation away from home and others taking it easy in the old rocking chairs or hammocks, under the friendly shade of their own "vine and fig trees"... but, let's get going and see what is really happening on the old Main Stem.

. . . The Ralph Hunts, Cecil Dukes and Patsy Brown are leaving for Center, Alabama, where the wedding of Jim Duke and Jamie Sue Daniels will take place Sunday. Patsy Brown especially interested, for the very next Sunday she and Warren Duke will be the leading "man and lady" in a wedding all their own which will be held in the Methodist Church in Columbiana. No written invitations have been issued, but their friends in Columbiana are cordially invited to the church at the 4:30 o'clock hour to witness this impressive ceremony, which will be in charge of the Rev. A. D. Wilson, pastor and the Rev. Curtis Bean of the Baptist Church.

. . . Paul O. Luck, Karl C. Harrison, Wales W. Wallace Jr., Sam Lokey and Frank Head busily engaged in making preparations to attend the Bar Association in Mobile and "hoping Court will not continue too long the week they leave, July 12."

. . . We are told by friends of Dot and Johnnie Barnes, that another little boy has come to bless their home and his name is Ben. The other two boys, Bill and Bob, are delighted to welcome Little Brother and so are we, even if we are late in finding out about this important "blessed event."

. . . Woodrow Elliott is completely renovating his home and it looks cool and inviting with its new coat of paint and that comfortable looking screened porch.

. . . Final inspection time is about due on the new Housing Project and these buildings are splendid assets to this community. Have you been down to see them yet? If not, come down and take a look-see!

. . . Jack Armstrong, making daily rounds with Dr. John Gates, veterinarian, tells us he hopes someday to complete his education and join this profession. Dr. Gates is very much interested in Jack, and certainly Jack is getting plenty of experience which should stand him in good stead, when he enters Auburn to train for this work.

. . . Truck loads of tomatoes on Main this morning and energetic housewives are snapping them up at $1.50 per basket. A badly cut finger caused by my trying to slice one yesterday, made me have an aversion to them this morning, but, Roy Mann took home a load and we saw Mrs. George Horn and Mrs. Edmondson do likewise. They were the largest tomatoes we have seen, evidently came from Chilton county. What we want is some peaches!

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Yates of Sylacauga were week end guests of Mrs. Yates parents, Judge and Mrs. W. W. Wallace.

. . . Met Eb Walton on the street this morning smoking his ever present pipe of tobacco. We remarked to him that we thought he was "at work." He replied.... "No, I am not satisfied with the labor situation. I am now required to work four days every three months. I want it changed to three days every four months, don't you think that is a better plan?" (We think it fine, if you can get it, but HOW is the big question?)

. . . Leon Meyers has returned from a delightful vacation in Miani attending the Shrine festivities et cetera.

. . . Pretty Lorene Falkner stopped us as we swung around the block and asked that her subscription to the "Home Paper" be continued for another year, which was "sweet music" to our ears this hectic morning.

. . . Gertie Jones is vacationing for a week from her official post in the Yellow Front Store and her friends down town are missing this accommodating lady who is never too busy to be courteous. A very necessary piece of equipment when engaged in "salesmanship" in anybody's language. Perhaps this very thing is the main reason for the success of the "Jones" in their managerial positions with this popular Company's Store in our town. Plain old courtesy, and consideration for the other fellow in any walk of life pays rich dividends.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Wilson and son, Mack Wilson of Anniston were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mann.

. . . Maynard Construction Company workmen in town this week putting the final black topping on the Shelby Road. Happy motoring everybody, but do slow down!

. . . Eunice Jones is bringing in truck loads of fine watermelons now, and selling them at a dollar per melon. Where on earth is that little black feller who, years ago, used to come by our house saying "Missie, here's your melon fresh frum de vine, and it don't cost nothin 'cept a little ole dime."

. . . Mrs. R. K. Parks of Wetumpka, will be the guest of her husband R. K. Parks this week end. Mr. Parks will officiate at the installation of officers of the Masonic Lodge in Chelsea, Friday evening.

. . . Speeding continues to endanger lives of all pedestrians who travel the highways in and around Columbiana. A determined crackdown on motorists is the only solution and strict enforcement of the laws regarding motor-cars and trucks. That blind corner entrance of alley-way running between the Water Works property and Mrs. Hines, is a danger spot that should be immediately eliminated. Two near crashes occurred there Sunday. Weeds and trees furnish a perfect blind for this corner where hundreds of cars pass every day.

. . . Glad to report that the Rev. R. R. Brasher who was rushed to a hospital last week in Birmingham, is improving and will soon be home again.

. . . Mrs. Agnes Armstrong, efficient Custodian of the county's books in Education Department, has returned from a three day stay in Tuscaloosa where the new uniform system of bookkeeping was explained.

. . . Frances Stinson looks a bit happier this week. Alvin is home from a navy assignment which took him crusing along the Great Lakes for the past two weeks. We missed our neighbor-friend, too, and are mighty glad to have him home again.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Bud Lansford have brought little Judy home after a seige at the hospital with painful shots every three hours in an attempt to avoid an even more tragic event, than the mad-dog bite from which she has been suffering. Friends join this family in hoping Judy will soon be passed the danger mark and ease the anxiety her illness has caused among her loved ones and her friends. The Lansfords express their sincere appreciation for the countless acts of kindness rendered them during this horrible experience.

. . . Soft ball is the popular form of diversion at the Recreation Field on Monday evenings and a big crowd witnessed the contests between two chosen teams last Monday night. We never did learn whether they were town teams, or the "Baptist playing the Methodists".... Folk in the grand stand did not seem to be quite sure of just who was battling for the horse hide pellet, but it was a good show, and Morris Jones, is one of the best all round players we have seen on anybody's diamond. Gee, that kiddo can run. Knocked two home runs, and no one could catch him after he got started around those bases. Jimmy McDow looked like a High School student with his cap pulled down over his eyes and cleats on his shoes; a mit in his hand, and yelling.... "Let's go". Did not look at all as he did this morning, when at his executive post as Chevrolet Dealer for Shelby county. But, there is one thing about Jimmy, he can sell cars and play ball, too. He mixes "work and play" in exactly the right degree. Therefore, no dull boy, Jimmy.

LACY LADY

Any woman can be "royal" in this lovely Ceil Chapman afternoon or date frock of heavy cotton lace, the National Cotton Council reveals. The fabric is pretty enough for a princess. The shape gets the nod for 1952, too — it's the princess silhouette.

SWINGIN' IN A HAMMOCK

Summertime invariably brings ideas of "out-of-doors" time. Some people call it, picnic time, fishing time, hiking time, swimming time. Some head for the mountains, some for the surf-kissed Gulf Shores, some for our own State Parks, but for this 'somebody', it's 'swingin' in a hammock time' after the hectic day's rush, 'neath a star sprinkled sky provided by a benevolent Creator, with iced cooled lemonade to top it off and congenial friends to sit and rock while you swing away the nocturnal hours. If you don't believe this is a good vacation, try it!

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Bean of Chilton county, parents of the Rev. Curtis Bean, spent Sunday in Columbiana with their son and his family.

CONGRATULATIONS J. ARTHUR STRICKLAND

J. Arthur Strickland is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Strickland, former residents of Columbiana. He has recently accepted the pastorate of Tallulah, Louisiana Presbyterian Church and began his ministerial work there in May, 1952.

From Austin Seminary Bulletin comes the following excerpt which we reprint with pride in another "Shelby county" boy's achievement. We quote:

"Strickland is the son of the late John T. Strickland of San Antonio. He is a member of the Files Valley Presbyterian Church at Itasca, Texas, where he attended High School. He was graduated from Schreiner Institute at Kerrville, and then received his Bachelor of Business Administration from University of Texas.

Before entering the University, Strickland served four years with the Marine Air Corps in the Pacific.

Arthur has used his knowledge of flying to good advantage for the Seminary, often serving as pilot for the "air lift" which flies students to week end assignments each Sunday.

He has served as student assistant in Camden, Arkansas, and Rustin, La., and has preached at various churches during the current year.

His brother, Eugene Strickland, is pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Plain Dealing, La."

(Mr. Strickland is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Strickland of Columbiana and Selma and we are indebted to Will Page, brother of Mrs. Strickland who brought us this interesting article. Wish we had Arthur's picture to run with the information as the cut in the bulletin is of a very handsome young minister.)

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Algie Davis and Frankie have been visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davis.

GOOD NEWS, A REAL HEADLINER

"Did you know that Miss Mary Peters was returning to teach English in Shelby High School next September?" This bit of news is the best "headliner" we know, both from an important news standpoint, and more particularly, for the benefit of every pupil who can take advantage of the excellent work "Miss Mary", (the most popular teacher ever to serve in the High School), always gives. I wish I could number the boys and girls who have left Columbiana, and are now in College or in the armed forces who have written me the following statement: We quote:

"Miss Mary is solely responsible for my being able to make the grade. It was she, who always made me feel that I was an important individual in her life, and her encouragement was inexhaustible, her faith implicit, and her life an inspiration. I would not take anything for my years spent in her classes in Shelby Hi."

Now, the writer knows all these facts to be true, hence, we hasten to join in the chorus of "Welcome Home Miss Mary".... and this chorus will be enlarged as former pupils hear of the good fortune that has again come to bless old Shelby County High in the return of Miss Peters to this important department.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS BY EASTERN STAR

There will be held next Friday evening in the Masonic Hall an installation of the recently elected Eastern Star officers. The public is invited.

PATSY BROWN HONORED WITH KITCHEN SHOWER

Miss June Harrison entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Harrison Saturday evening with a Kitchen Shower in honor of Patsy Brown, bride-elect. A number of classmates and friends of the honoree called and useful articles for the culinary department were received.

Following this delightful event, a "spend-the-night" party was given at the home of Mrs. Jerald Edwards .Included in this nocturnal "get-to-gether" were June Harrison, Peggy Johnston, Hilda Smith, Mary Ann Dorough, Ann Lee Shaw, Margaret Ann Hatchett and Baralbara Horn and Patsy Brown.

. . . It will be happy birthday-time to the following friends next Friday, June 27, Mary Nell Skelton, Kenneth Skelton and Bunnye Crawford.... Saturday, June 28, in the home of the N. A. Jones', Ralph Jones will be receiving the traditional birthday cake with the correct number of candles to top it off. June 29, Mary Gene Edmondson will celebrate the passing of her birthday anniversary, and Johnnie Wood will close out the month by a celebration all his own on June 30. "Many happy returns to each of you."

. . . Recent guests in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Eaves and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Weldon include: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Stamps of Sherman, Texas, (Mrs. Stamps is a sister of Mrs. Weldon's); Mr and Mrs. Jake oJnes and daughter Iloise Jones of Corpus Christi, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Scasta of Houston, Texas and Mrs. P. M. Henderson of Albertville, Alabama.

. . . Mrs. John Green Sr., will join her daughter, Mrs. C. P. Hall and Mr. Hall on a motor trip vacation which will include Louisville, Kentucky and the famed "Smokies".

. . . The Vignette Club is holding another picnic dinner and swimming party at Jackson's Lake Wednesday night. This is getting to be a popular place for congenial parties to meet ,dine, swim and dance. Many new improvements have been made by the management and guests are always assured of a cordial welcome.

. . . Elizabeth Hunt from Ruston, Louisiana where she holds a position as Librarian, is spending a vacation in Columbiana with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunt.

. . . Bunnye Crawford is enjoying a vacation in Savannah, Georgia.

. . . Mrs. Tom Taylor of Birmingham, spent several days in Columbiana this week, as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Wales W. Wallace Jr., and Mr. Wallace.

. . . Coach Roy Mann is at present "looking 'em over" with an eye for the best Football Team Shelby county has ever had. So, if you are interested in getting on this team, next time you are in Columbiana, look up Roy Mann. You will find him to be a fine fellow, affable, genial, fun-loving and hard working, with plenty of "know how" in Athletics.

Under The Study Lamp

By William Crowe

"He sendeth the rain on the just and on the unjust." Matthew 5:45.

If you will read the paragraph from which this sentence is taken (Matthew 5:43-48) you will see that Jesus was pronouncing a broad principle for his disciples to comply with in their contacts with others.

It is simply the principle of generous dealing with all humanity; the practice of patience and goodwill; the unprejudiced interpretation of the motives and actions of one's fellowmen, and yet of course without that compromise of one's character that would result from a careless indorsement of another's misconduct.

God is kind toward all people, the bad as well as the good. Therefore His kindness provides the pattern for Christians to adopt for their deportment toward all the human kind, thereby evidencing the fact that they are Christians indeed.

There is a question that arises in many minds, which is that if God is equally good to the unbelieving and the believing, what advantage is it to be a believer? All alike are the beneficiaries of His providences, are they not? That is most assuredly true.

Let it be clearly understood, however, that the eventual good is determined by the attitude of the recipient. The believing person interprets the everyday blessings that come to him as the evidences of his Father's care. He thanks God for them, and by the promptings of gratitude undertakes to live in accord with the will of the Almighty, the giver of every good and perfect gift.

The unbeliever does not, and thereby misses the real meaning of life. To him the coming of rain upon his crops is simply a matter of good luck. He is unwilling to look beyond a mere incident in the course of nature. Therefore nature is his only god. Not much can be done with that man, or for him.

Returning to the lesson that Jesus was driving home to his hearers, we learn that as God is good to all people, so should all His followers be. What if one's kindly service fails to obtain a gracious response from some people?

Be it remembered that not every seed dropped into the ground produces according to the gardener's liking. The planter still has the comfort of knowing that he has done his best. More than that, in some corner of his garden patch he may get surprising results. "Blessed are ye that sow beside all waters." (Isaiah 32:20).

DRAFT CALL EXPENSIVE

Pvt. John Hasso Miller spent $700 to answer his draft call.

Miller was a storekeeper in the Persian Gulf port of Kuwait when he received his "Greetings from the President of the United States. . . ."

He traveled half way around the world to be inducted at Ft. Meyer, Va. Today he's plotting the trajectories of guided missles at a Southern New Mexico base.

Home grown lettuce, shredded, mixed with hard boiled eggs and a little minced onion, the whole well seasoned with boiled salad dressing, and makes an unusually good salad relish.

New Commandment

Lesson for June 29, 1952

WHICH of all the commandments is the most important? They kept asking this question century after century, and no one ever quite answered it before Jesus. It can easily be a puzzling question so long as you think of the Laws of God as if they were a set of municipal regulations or by-laws of a club. They are not like that. They are all of a piece. When your tire is flat it doesn't make much difference where it is flat. If it is flat in one place it might as well be flat in a dozen places. The Ten Commandments are all linked together, indeed one can say much more than that. All the laws of God, everything God desires and orders man to do,—it is all linked in one.

Dr. Foreman

Thou Shalt Love—

JESUS' answer to the old, old question about the "great commandment" was not absolutely original. Shortly before his time, a smart-aleck young man, so the story goes, had come to a great Rabbi named Hillel, and said to him: "The law is much too long and complicated. Can you tell me the law while I stand on one foot?"

"Yes," said Hillel. "Lift one foot up. Now: Love the Lord thy God with all thy heart . . . Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself . . . Now, put your foot down. That is the law; all the rest is commentary."

So Jesus quoted the same two laws that Hillel did,—from Deuteronomy 6:5 and Leviticus 19:18.

The link of the law is love; this is what ties all the laws together.

Two Kinds of Love

THE WORD "love" in English has been dragged around till at times it is very hard to tell what it means, if anything. Girls love ice cream and boys love basketball and a movie actress claims she loves her fifth husband, and the preacher tells us we should love God. How can we use the same word for so many different things?

Now a famous Swedish Christian thinker named Nygren has written a book to straighten us out on this. He calls the book "Agape and Eros," this being the two different Greek words for "love." It's the same word in English for two different things; the Greeks knew better, and used two words that don't even look alike.

"Eros" means the kind of love girls have for ice cream or the movie actress has for her fifth husband. It is definitely not the word used in the New Testament where Jesus commands us to love God and our neighbor. "Eros" means possessive love, the love that wants to control and keep, the kind of love some parents have for their children when they do not want them to grow up or to make choices of their own.

"Agape" (Agahpay) is a quite different thing. It means self-giving, self-sacrificing concern for another person. You might have "eros" for an ice-cream cone, but not "agape."

Yet the great and distinctive point about Agape is that it does not insist on something or anything in return. It is not bargaining love, it is not careful, cautious love, it is free outpouring of life for life.

If you really want to know what "agape" love is, you must look at the Cross and consider that "while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Rom. 5:8).

Love Is the Answer

ST. PAUL, who could just as well be called the Apostle of Love as St. John could, understood these things very well. He says that "love is the fulfilling of the law" or as J. B. Phillips happily translates it, "Love is the answer to the Law's commands." (Rom. 13:10.)

We shall never even want to obey the will of our Father in heaven unless we first love him. And we shall never really desire to treat our neighbor as God wants us to treat him if we have no "agape" love for him in our hearts.

Love is not a substitute for law. Love is rather the atmosphere in which we begin to understand God and our neighbor. Eros-love will not do; the Bible never once commands it and never commends it. It is only the outgiving, self-forgetting devotion, that Jesus taught and demonstrated, that is like the love of the true God. Whatever we may do, if we have no love, we have still done nothing.

Veterans' Column

State Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

E. J. SULLIVAN, VSO

Korean GI Bill—Congress passed the Korean GI Bill by an overwhelming majority. In fact, there was only one vote cast against it. This does not mean that the bill is NOW LAW. It still must be approved by one or more, and then it will be sent to the Senate for a vote. After that, it must be signed by the President. All indications are that the bill will meet with Smooth Sailing from here on out, and that you Korean Veterans will have your own GI Bill within the near future.

President Truman has signed the bill granting increases in compensation and pension to cover three million veterans and dependents of deceased Veterans. The increase will take effect on July 1.

The President also signed another bill increasing the amount of INCOME a person may have and still be eligible for pension payments in non-service connected disability and death cases. Under the old income ceiling, a veteran or widow having an income of more than $1000 a year, without dependents, or $2500 a year with dependents could not qualify for pension. These limits have been raised to an income ceiling of $1400 for those without dependents and $2700 for those with dependents.

Statistics In World War One, World War Two and The Korean War

Statistics show that the United States has been engaged in Korean conflict longer than it was engaged in hostilities during W. W. I. In the first World War, we were engaged in arm conflict for 19 months, during which time we had a total of 364,800 casualties, including 126,000 killed and died in action. The United States has now completed its 23rd month of armed conflict in Korea, and we suffered more than 108,000 casualties, of whom more than 17,000 were killed in action. In W. W. II, the United States was in armed conflict for 3 years and 9 months and our casualties were 1,214,000.

During all the wars in which the United States has participated starting with the American Revolution, and up to the present time, we have a little more than 1,000,000 men to die in the defense of our country. In addition to those who gave their lives for our country, we have hundreds of thousands who have suffered broken bodies and health.

Let me tell you about another War in which the United tates is engaged today. I know this doesn't have to do with veterans, except that some of them may be involved. In this war I'm referring to NOW, MEN, WOMEN and CHILDREN are sacrificing their lives and their health for NO CAUSE WHATSOEVER.

Yes I am speaking of our war on TRAFFIC accidents. The number of deaths from Traffic accidents has exceeded the number of deaths resulting from all of our wars combined. Sad as it may seem, we appear to be making no headway at ALL against our enemy in this war. Here in Alabama, our Governor has had to take DRASTIC steps in an effort to reduce the number of deaths on our highways. For your sake and for the sake of others whom you may meet on the highways, PLEASE be careful. AFTER ALL, it may happen and can happen to you and yours.

WELFARE FIGURES

State Welfare Director Bill Dorrough said that about one person in 20 gets direct benefits from welfare checks in Alabama.

Department figures showed that 166,603 persons shared in the 103,276 payments sent out in April. That is 5.44 per cent of the population.

Dorrough said that with few exceptions, more people shared in payments in rural counties and fewer in industrial areas. The percentage ranged from nearly 11 per cent in Greene and Washington, to only 2.88 in Mobile.

ON THE FARMS IN SHELBY COUNTY

B.F. HATCHETT & G.C. STARCHER JR

Forty student-teachers and staff members from the Alabama College Resource Workshop met last week with S. C. S. personnel to study soil capabilities, conservation planning, crops and methods.

Miss Ethel Marshall and Mrs. Deane led the college group. Mr. O. C. Medlock, state conservationist, Mr. A. L. Harrell, District conservationist, soils scientist Kelly and Perry, and county workers Hatchett and Starcher joined in conducting classroom discussions and field trips. Field study was made on the Alabama College Farm and the Hereford farm of Mrs. Ethel E. Rogers, on the first two days.

On Thursday the group travelled to the Thorsby nursery of the Soil Conservation Service. Here a tour of the nursery was conducted by manager Young. This ended the soil conservation phase of the annual workshop.

MINUTES OF COLUMBIANA H. D. C. MEETING FOR MAY AND JUNE

The club held its meeting in May at Mrs. B. B. Lyons with Mrs. Annie King Co-hostess. 17 Members answered roll call. Mrs. L. H. King and Mrs. Jerrell Edwards were welcomed as new members.

The club voted to sponsor the improvement and cleaning of the cemetery. It also voted to furnish homemade cookies and punch for a ward party on ward 40-B at the Veterans Hospital. Mrs. J. H. Crawford is chairman for this work.

Mrs. Bob Bolton won the attendance prize. Demonstration .... "Secrets to Smart Sewing" was given by Mrs. A. Holman and Miss Cotney assisted her.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The June meeting met with Mrs. Gene Edmondson with Mrs. Bob Bolton co-hostess. Twelve members answered roll call. Mrs. V. G. Milstead, Mrs. A. C. Walton and Mrs. J. D. Little joined the club.

The club decided to continue sponsoring the improvement of the cemetery as one of their projects.

The members of the club wish to thank all citizens who helped out in this worthwhile project and special thanks to Mrs. Luther Curlee and Mr. William Clark for their faithful work.

The secretary reported Mrs. Virappreciation from the Recreation Director of the Veterans Hospital thanking the club members for sponsoring the ward party in ward 40-B. The refreshments provided for 90 patients. They thoroughly enjoyed having been remembered in such a splendid way.

The club voted to arrange an exhibit on figurine painting at the County Fair August 25-30, with Mrs. Barney Isbell as chairman of the club exhibit.

Mrs. Williams introduced Miss Collins, the new Assistant Home Agent.

After Mrs. Bolton gave the hymn story of the month, Miss Collins played the hymn "Fairest Lord Jesus," with group singing.

Demonstration "Cake Baking" was given by Mrs. Edmondson and Mrs. Bolton.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Cobb won the attendance prize. The meeting was adjourned to meet with Mrs. Hugh Sims July 15th at 2:30 o'clock.

OUTPOSTS OF VENGEANCE

BY

E. E. HALLERAN

The fantastic stories brought into Pittsburgh by the traders and trappers made Will Morgan a legendary figure. Swift as wind and quiet as a deep-running river, he was "Silent Death" to the Indians. Perhaps only one chieftain knew why Morgan had started a crusade apparently aimed at destroying the Indian population, one brave at a time.

MORGAN

Bull Kirby knew Morgan better than any man. It was he who taught Will the ways of the wilderness, then watched the pupil outstrip the teacher. Kirby felt a strong comradeship for the young man so filled with hate and bitterness.

KIRBY

Ann Randall could not understand the rude young Morgan, although she loved him. A strange flight to freedom brought understanding.

ANN

Mary Bolden considered Morgan just another man until he won her heart and she promised her hand. Yet she could not foresee the part she was to play in helping him become a frontier legend — nor the cruel fate in store for herself.

EBENEZER H. D. C. NEWS

The Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club held a "Spend the Day" meeting at the home of Mrs. Dewey McDonough on May 18. The meeting opened with the group singing "Sweet Hour of Prayer." Mrs. T. S. Hill gave the devotional and Mrs. Grady Wyatt called the roll and gave the secretary's report.

Chairmen reports were made by Mrs. Ferman Albright, Mrs. H. A. Pauly, Mrs. W. A. Nolen, Mrs. T. S. Hill, Mrs. Nathan Frost and Mrs. W. A. Jones.

Wednesday, June 26, was chosen as the day to meet at the home of Mrs. Hill to paint figurines. It was decided to display figurines at the County Fair, August 25-30.

The club voted to have a birthday party for members observing birthdays during the month at each meeting. Each member is to bring a hand made gift or small remembrance for two members celebrating birthdays during July.

Mrs. H. A. Pauly presented a wedding gift of sterling silver to Mrs. Edward Pendergast, the former Elizabeth Albright.

Mrs. Frank Frost, recreational leader, had charge of the program, after which the group adjourned for lunch. Each member had brought a covered dish and Mrs. McDonough served it buffet style. After lunch, Mrs. Penergast discussed life in South America.

Mrs. Ferman Albright gave the demonstration, Cake Baking, after which she served the cake to the members.

One guest, Mrs. Edward Pendergast, County Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Boysworth, and the following members were present: Mrs. Ferman Albright, Mrs. Amos Davis, Mrs. W. A. Jones, Mrs. H. A. Pauly, Mrs. W. A. Nolen, Mrs. T. S. Hill, Mrs. Dewey McDonough, Mrs. Gladys Allen, Mrs. Frank Green, Mrs. Grady Wyatt, Miss Minnie Harper, Mrs. Nathan Frost, Mrs. Frank Frost, Mrs. R. H. Davis, and Mrs. Jimmie Spain.

WILSONVILLE H. D. C. MEETS WITH MRS. PATE LOVETT

The Wilsonville Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Pate Lovett, Friday, June 20th. The devotional was given by Mrs. Lovett, after which Mrs. Bill Smith presided over the business session. Plans were discussed concerning an exhibit for the County Fair to be held in August.

Six members participated in the dress revue, namely, Mrs. Bill Smith, Mrs. Annie Smith, Mrs. A. A. Thornburg, Mrs. N. E. Revis, Mrs. O. P. Ray, Mrs. Pate Lovett.

In the dressy class, Mrs. A. A. Thornburg won first place, and Mrs. Bill Smith, second place. In the sport group, Mrs. N. E. Revis was given first place and Mrs. O. P. Ray second. All dresses were attractive.

A very helpful demonstration was given on "Cake Baking" by Mrs. O. F. Lokey. A delicious cake made by Mrs. O. F. Lokey the day before was served with refreshing lemonade to the following members: Mrs. Sam Stoudimire, Mrs. Bill Smith, Mrs. N. E. Revis, Mrs. Annie Smith, Mrs. Grady McEwen, Mrs. A. A. Thornburg, Mrs. Claude Edwards, Mrs. F. F. Miller, Mrs. O. P. Ray, Mrs. O. F. Lokey, Mrs. A. M. Lokey, the hostess and Miss Julia Boysworth, Assistant Agent.

GET COTTON CLASSING REQUEST IN ON TIME

Applications for free cotton classing service under the Smith-Doxey Acts must be submitted on or before July 31.

"Only farmers who are members of organized cotton improvement associations are eligible for free classing service," says O. N. Andrews, API Extension cotton improvement specialist. "Associatoin officers make application for Smith-Doxey classing and arrange with ginners or warehousemen to act as sampling agents. In turn, they cut a sample from each bale which is sent to the Birmingham or Montgomery classing office."

After a short time the farmers receive a card through the mail. It lists grade, staple, and gin preparation of the sample classed. This information enables the farmer to market his cotton wisely. And government lending agencies will accept the classing card as a basis for a government loan.

A COW MUST HAVE GENTLE TREATMENT

Old bossy may be a good milk producer, but whether she decides to let you have it or not often means the difference between profit and loss.

Pete Turnham, API Extension dairy specialist, says getting all the milk from her requires kind treatment on the part of the milker. In fact, milking cows completely dry by machines or hands depends upon just a few simple rules.

Tests show that proper massaging of the cow's udder for a minute prior to attaching the machine is important. It should be done with a cloth or paper towel that has been dipped in chlorine water as hot as the hands can bear. After the machine is attached leave it on the cow for three to five minutes. During this time the next cow can be prepared for milking.

Turnham adds that when the machine is removed; teat cups should be dipped in cold water and then chlorine water before attaching them to the next cow's udder.

HEN CAFETERIA

Farmers find that when they let hens balance their own ration, maximum use can be made of home-grown feeds. Three feed hoppers are kept filled and before the hens at all times. One hopper contains a high protein supplement, the second one has whole yellow corn in it, and the third one is filled with whole oats.

WHITE CLOVER

White clover is one of Alabama's most important grazing plants. It is an essential plant for any permanent pasture mixture, and the Louisianna Dutch is the most common kind grown.

4-Hers present were: Pat Arnold, June Hand, Eva Jean McQueen, Melba Moore, Gail Hand, Lora Roper, A. C. Hand, A. F. Bell, Kenneth Glover, Sidney Glover, Raymond Moore and Gwen and Jean Hand visiting from Florida.

Mrs. E. L. Hand, Mrs. W. C. McQueen, Mrs. Ora Bell, and Mrs. B. F. Roper were the adult leaders present.

TEACH EACH CHILD RULES OF SAFETY

The hazards of today make it imperative that the small child be taught good habits of safety before he is school age. Today's accidental death rate for children under five persents a challenge to everyone interested in child life.

"Uusually parents are very careful to teach the first child rules of safety," Elta Majors, A. P. I. Extension child care specialist, reminds mothers, "but younger children are often neglected, resulting in many accidents. Therefore, make it a practice to have each child safety conscious before he is school age."

OK TO COMBINE BOX FOR MAIL AND NEWSPAPER

It is now legal to have a receptacle for a newspaper on a rural mailbox, according to Postal Bulletin No. 19269. The statement regarding this reads:

"A receptacle may be placed by the patron above the rural mail box at sufficient height not to obstruct the view of the flag, below the rural mail box, or on the post or support of the rural mail box for the receipt of newspapers.

"The use of the receptacle must not be restricted to any particular newspapers and it should display no advertising."

According to R. J. Ozley, Columbiana Postmaster, it is a violation of postal laws for a paper carrier to place a newspaper in a rural mail box unless postage has been paid on the paper.

FREEZING A WHOLE READY-TO-COOK BIRD

Properly packaged poultry can be frozen either whole or cut up, according to Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist.

She points out that roasting birds are usually frozen whole. Younger chickens or turkeys take up less space and are more convenient to use if split in half for broiling or disjointed frying, and then compactly packaged.

"Most families prefer to freeze poultry in ready-to-cook form," finds the specialist. "In other words they want birds to be fully drawn, thoroughly cleaned inside and out, with pinfeathers and oil sax removed."

To package a whole ready-to-cook bird for freezing, Miss Curtis says to tie legs and wings close to the body, then place bird in a film bag or wrap in a sturdy sheet of moisture-vapor-resistant film or metal foil. Giblets should be packaged separately for freezing and held only a limited time, not longer than three months.

A good way to use up cold bacon is to grate it over the top of a vegetable salad or an au gratin dish such as potatoes or rice and cheese. It imparts a delicious flavor and adds food value.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT RABIES?

Q: How is rabies spread?

A: It is spread by the bite of an animal that has the disease. It can also be spread if saliva from a rabies victim comes in contact with open scratches or with surface of the eye. Rabid dogs are the most common sources of infection.

Q: Is this disease dangerous to both human beings and animals?

A: Yes. It can kill people, as well as any type of animal. Wolves, foxes, coyotes, squirrels and skunks are spreaders of the disease in some areas.

Q: Is rabies fatal?

A: Yes, it is one of the most dreaded of all diseases. However, it can generally be prevented by protective vaccination.

Q: How successful is vaccination?

A: Very dependable. Authorities now recommend this control program: All dogs in an area should be vaccinated. Stray dogs should be impounded. Any dogs being shipped from one area to another should be required to have a rabies vaccination certificate. This plan has brought rabies under effective control in many communities.

Q: How does one recognize rabies?

A: Suspect rabies when dogs or livestock behave abnormally. Gentle animals become nervous and irritable. Dogs may have dumb rabies, in which their jaws are paralyzed and their mouths hang open; or the furious type where they want to bite anything within reach.

Q: If rabies is suspected, what should one do?

A: Contact a veterinarian immediately. Confine any suspect dog or farm animal. Do not kill the animal. If a person is bitten, call a physician immediately.

NOTE—Due to space limitation, general questions cannot be handled by this column.

Veterans Hospital Representative

The appointment of Andrew J. Cooper of Tuskegee as Hospital Representative for the Alabama Department of Veterans' Affairs was announced here today by C. C. Horton, State Director.

Horton stated that this appointment fills a long-recognized need for a full time contact-man to supplement and personalize the services already available to the veterans in hospitals of this state, so that vital evidence may be obtained and preserved, and the veterans' claims against the VA may be fully processed.

In addition to the patients in Alabama's three VA Hospitals, Cooper will contact the veterans who are in the various TB and mental institutions of the State. This work will so round out the present program that the services of trained claimsmen of the Department of Veterans' Affairs will be easily available to every veteran throughout the State.

Cooper is a veteran of WW II, having fought through all Europe from Normandy to the Rhineland. He was awarded the European-African-Mediterranean Medal with four Bronze Stars, the Purple Heart with Oak-leaf Cluster and the Good Conduct Medal. His five years of training as Veterans Service Officer of Macon County well qualifies him for his new work.

COLISEUM BID TOO HIGH NEW BIDS ASKED

The Alabama Agriculture Center Corporation has rejected a low bid of 3.388 per cent net interest rate on $1,250,000 worth of bonds to be sold to finance completion of the state livestock coliseum in Montgomery.

Members of the corporation said the bid was too high. It will be readvertised and bids will be taken again on July 1. The low bid was made by an account headed by Sterne, Agee and Leach, Montgomery. Also in the syndicate were Thornton, Mohr, and Company, Montgomery; Hendrix and Mayes, Inc., Birmingham; Stubbs, Smith and Lombardo, Inc., Birmingham; Odess, Martin and Herzberg, Inc., Birmingham, and Watkins, Morrow and Co., Birmingham.

Members of the corporation are Governor Gordon Persons, State Finance Director D. W. Hodo, and Agriculture and Industries Commissioner Frank M. Stewart.

Some $1,500,000 already has been spent on the coliseum.

JIM FARLEY PREDICTS DEMOCRATIC DEADLOCK

Former Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley forecast today a possible national convention deadlock in the "wide-open race" for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Farley, one of America's shrewdest political observers, said Sens. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Richard B. Russell of Georgia "could easily deadlock the situation and then someone else would be named."

He said Vice President Alben W. Barkley or Speaker Sam Rayburn would be pssible Democratic nominees, and predicted Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio or Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the Republican presidential nominess.

Pleasant Hill was named originally for a slave dealer who built one o fthe first houses in the region. Some time later, it became the hangout of so many criminals and outcasts that it came to be called Fort Rascal. The worst of these tough characters eventually left town, and the little village resumed its original name.

WALTER J. L. RAY ELECTED KIWANIS INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT

Delegates attending the 37th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Seattle, Washington, elected a prominent Detroit banker to head the organization in the year ahead.

Officers of the Kiwanis Club of Columbiana were informed today that Walter J. L. Day, president of the Standard Federal Savings and Loan Association of Detroit, Michigan, would succeed Claude B. Hellman, Baltimore, Md., as president of Kiwanis International which is now comprised of 3,500 clubs throughout the U. S., Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, and the Yukon Territory.

President-elect Ray is the immediate past president of the U. S. Savings and Loan League, an organization of leading bankers from all sections of the United States. He is also a director and past president of the Detroit Mortgage Banker's Association.

A Kiwanian for 24 years, the new president will assume office August 1. During the past year he served as treasurer of Kiwanis International. He had previously been an International trustee and governor of the Michigan Kiwanis District.

Delegates to the Seattle convention, which drew an adult attendance exceeding 10,000 men and women from all sections of Canada and the United States, also elected two vice presidents, a teasurer, and six trustees.

Vice presidents are Kenneth P. Greenaway, secretary to the president of Zeller's, Ltd., Montreal, Que., and Albert V. Zimmermann, banker and lumberman of Alaxandria., La.

Donald T. Forsythe, Carthage, Ill., publisher of the Hancock County Journal, was elected treasurer of the organization.

Trustees elected for two years include H. Park Arnold, Glendale, Calif., H. W. Driver, Euclid, O., James G. Gass, Regina, Sask., R. Waren Graffam, Pittsburgh, Pa., C. I. Moyer, Topeka, Kans., and Jackson A. Raney, Indianapolis, Ind. The latter three men are re-elected trustees.

GIFT DEDUCTION BILL GETS OKEH OF SENATE

The Senate passed a bill today that would amend the federal income tax laws so that an individual would be allowed 5 per cent more in tax deductions for contributions to religious, charitable and educational organizations.

Under the law as it now exists, an individual may deduct not more than 15 per cent of his total income as contributions.

The Senate-passed measure would increase that amount to 20 per cent.

The bill now goes to the House, Passage there would send it to the President.

Sponsors of the 20 per cent provision said it would help private schools and like groups to get bigger gifts.

The measure also has a feature designed to help the Red Cross. This would permit a sports organization giving a Red Cross benefit to exclude the proceeds from its gross income in calculating its tax.

ALABAMA HIGHLIGHTS

Linden, the seat of Marengo county, was founded in 1823 by French settlers who came to Alabama after the fall of Napoleon. Its name was originally Hohenlinden, commemorating the French victory over the Austrians in 1800.

Forks of Cypress, a stately mansion near Florence, Alabama, was built in 1820. It is encircled by a peristyle of 20 large Ionic columns of brick covered with plaster made from sand and molasses. This unorthodox treatment was apparently effective, for the columns are well preserved. Andrew Jackson was entertained at some of the many social functions for which the house was famed.

The most famous ball ever held in Alabama was given in honor of a cow, "Lily Flag", at the Watkins House in Huntsville. The prize Jersey had just been judged at the 1893 Chicago World's Fair, as the world's champion butter producer. The ball cost thousands of dollars. Special dance floors were built. An orchestra was brought down from Nashville. Rare wine and champagne was imported from Spain and France. Fifty kinds of cake were served to hundreds of guests who came in response to the special engraved invitations.... they came from such distant places as New York, California and Illinois. And "Lily Flag," bedecked with a garland of red roses about her neck, was stationed at the head of the reception line where she mooed greetings to the guests as they arrived.

The Kirkbride Home at 104 Theatre Street in Mobile is Alabama's most historic home. The foundation of the old building was part of Fort Conde de la Mobile built in 1717 by the French explorer brothers, Bienville and Iberville who founded the city of Mobile. Thus, the foundation stones are [illegible] of what is, without a doubt, one of the oldest known masonry in Alabama done by the white man.

The Kirkbride House was not a residence at first. It was a building which served as Mobile's first courthouse and first jail. The heavily barred doors and windows are still part of the rear wing of the house, and masonry three-feet in thickness once covered part of the courtyard around the jail to prevent prisoners from tunneling out.

Boaz, Alabama, in Marshall county, was founded in 1878 by 42 Georgians, who migrated there in covered wagons. In 1886 a post office, given the Bibical name, "Boaz" was established, with postal service supplied by horseback riders. Snead Junior College is located here.

INDEPENDENCE DAY, JULY 4TH

Reviewing a few facts regarding the Declaration of Independence we find that this document was drawn up by Thomas Jefferson, John Adams and Benjamin Franklin made some amendments to it. It was presented to the Continental Congress on June 28, 1776, according to historic data, three weeks before this time Richard Henry Lee, who was born at "Stratford," had introduced a resolution declaring, "That these united Colonies are, and of right ought to be free and independent States, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connections between them and the State of Great Britian is, and ought to be, totally dissolved."

John Adams seconded that resolution on behalf of Massachuettes delegation and a few days later a committee was appointed with instructions to put the spirit and purpose of Richard Henry Lee's resolution into a straight-out Declaration of Independence. These great Americans served on the committee with Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Robert K. Livingston and Roger Sherman.

All these names are included on the Declaration of Independence, but not all signed at the same time. For instance, Charles Carroll of Carrolton, was not appointed a delegate by Maryland until July 4th. He signed the Declaration on August 2, 1776. The four delegates from New York were not authorized to approve the Declaration until July 9th. They signed it on August 2nd, 1776.

The hand that wrote the Declaration of Independence has long been stilled in death. His name was Charles Carroll, but, the Declaration is yet a living fact.

Only by looking back in our history books can we realize how very far we have travelled in our Crusade for Freedom since on a little hill, just out of Boston, on the 17th of June, 1775, this battle changed the front of the universe and set liberty so far in advance of tyranny that it will never be overtaken.

We believe more stress should be placed on the significance of July 4th, than just another holiday to enjoy. We like to recall the oration by Daniel Webster, inspired as he stood before the impressive monument marking the Battle of Bunker Hill. Mr. Webster had this to say about this memorable event:

"We wish that whoever in all coming time shall turn his eye hither, may behold that the place is not undistinguished where the first great battle of the Revolution was fought. We wish that this structure may proclaim the magnitude and importance of that event, to every class, in every age. We wish that infancy may learn the purpose of the erection of this great monument from maternal lips, and that weary and withered age may behold it, and be solaced by the recollections it suggets. We wish that labor may look up here, and be proud, in the midst of its toil. We wish that, in those days of disaster, which as they come on all nations, must be expected to come on us also, desponding patriotism may turn its eyes hitherward, and be assured that the foundations of our national power still stand strong. We wish that this monument rising toward Heaven among the pointed spires of so many temples dedicated to God, may contribute also to produce in all minds a pious feeling of dependence and gratitude. We wish, finally, that the last object on the sight of him who leaves his native shore, and the first to gladden his who revisits it, may be something which shall remind him of the liberty and the glory of his country. Let it rise until it meets the sun in its coming; let the earliest light of the morning glid it, and parting day linger and play on its summit."

Let us join others in celebrating this great occasion remembering The Freedom the Declaration of Independence offers is certainly EVERYBODY'S RIGHT, but, the integrity to keep it must be EVERYBODY'S JOB."

SAFETY GROUP MAKE SOUND SUGGESTIONS

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE

Some months ago, a Safety and Traffic Committee was appointed by Mayor Wales W Wallace, Jr., for the study of the conditions surrounding our town and its traffic problems. Yeager Horn, as Chairman, immediately called his co-workers together and after careful consideration to the needs of this community submitted several suggestions to the Mayor and Councilmen. Copies of these suggestions were submitted to the civic clubs and all were substantially agreed that these suggestions should not only be approved, but rigidly enforced.

Due to many phone calls regarding our daily problem of congested automobile and truck traffic, we have been asked to re-print these rules, which we gladly do, as we join other interested citizens in again requesting that they be legally enforced. No use in making laws, passing ordnances, and receiving civic suggestions from an aroused people regarding the dangers that constantly beset the highways, unless they are going to be enforced.

Now that the Governor of the State has personally "taken to the road" to find out why so many deaths are caused by motor travel, surely, those properly designated persons in our town may feel no hesitancy in "cracking down" on speeding trucks and cars which continue thru the main streets of this town.

Here are the suggestions submitted by the City Traffic Board composed of Yeager Horn, Frances Leonard, Mrs. Ben Skelton, and N. A. Jones.

"To Mayor and Council of Columbiana, Alabama:

1. Erect signs at city limits on each highway leading into town that will alert motorists to our speed zones and regulations. Erect the necessary speed limit signs in all areas of the city.

2. Set parking time limit of two hours in the following areas: One block North, South, East and West from present traffic light. No parking on Main street at North Corner in front of Lefkovits and Meyers Stores. No Parking on North side of Mildred Street from Corner of Sheriff's home West. Place signs identifying the Courthouse grounds as public parking space.

3. Give warning for first minor traffic violation and assess fine for second violation with no exceptions. Assess fine in first offense if violation warrants it.

4. Strict enforcement of traffic lights for vehicles and pedestrians.

5. Enforce law pertaining to driver's licenses, especially under driver age limit.

6. Have circular or letters printed showing all of the traffic regulations in the city and mail a copy to each car owner and family in the city. Request in the letter the cooperation of every individual.

The above recommendations submitted to and for your consideration and suggestions.

By City Traffic Board
Yeager Horn, Chairman."

The Fourth of July is just around the corner. There are warnings issued and suggestions recorded in every paper you pick up pleading with motorists to slow down for their own safety, yet, right on they go!

This situation, of course, is nothing we can personally do one thing about, except again reprint the suggestions made by the duly appointed Board, and request that each citizen fully cooperate with this plan for safe and sane management of motor trucks and vehicles, and urge teh proper authorities to see that the regulations approved by the City authorities be strictly enforced by the properly designated officials. Only by so doing can the daily danger to human lives be lessened here on Main Street.

CONRAD M. FOWLER

Conrad M. Fowler Commander Legion Post 131

Conrad M. (Bully) Fowler, local attorney has been elected to serve as Post Commander, Shirley-Holloway Post 131, The American Legion, for the Legion Year, 1953.

Vice-Commanders to help Commander Fowler put over this organizations program next year are A. C. Walton, 1st Vice-Commander, who is membership chairman and Harry B. Smith, 2nd Vice-Commander, who is also Americanism Chairman.

Other officers elected at a recent post meeting are: Ernest J. Sullivan, Adjutant, G. C. Moore, Jr., Chaplain, Hugh Sims, Historian, Wallace Glenn, Sergeant-at-Arms, E. J. Sullivan, Post Service Officer and Miss Dottie Walton, Child Welfare Committee Chairman.

Those present heard a very interesting and worthy report by Hugh Sims, Jr., concerning his recent trip to Alabama Boy's State.

The post voted to change the regular meeting night to be in the future on the SECOND TUESDAY night of each month at City Hall.

Officers are to be installed at the July meeting, or immediately after the Alabama Department Convention, which will be held in Montgomery, July 6-8th, says G. C. Moore, Jr., adjutant.

REV. J. PAUL GILBREATH

REV. GILBREATH NAMED RURAL MINISTER OF YEAR

The Rev. J. Paul Gilbreath, pastor of the Methodist Church, Mantone, has been named Rural Minister of the Year for 1952 for Alabama by The Progressive Farmer magazine.

He will receive in connection with the award a scholarship to the Town and Country School for Ministers from Candler School of Theology, Emory University, Atlanta, Ga. July 29-August 14.

The Rev. Gilbreath is a preacher and a farmer. He owns a 340-acre farm in the Big Wills Valley, and for some years has been a district supervisor in the Northeast Alabama Soil Conservation District. Civic organizations and clubs in all North Alabama seek him out for appearances.

Apart from these activities he is recognized as an outstanding preacher and leader of revival meetings. He led in the organization and construction of a beautiful brick rural church in Fyffe, where there and never been one. He is now working on a diversified farming movement in the Fyffe area.

The Rev. Mr. Gilbreath graduated from Birmingham-Southern College in 1920. He has been a Methodist minister for 30 years.

VIGNETTES CONTINUE RECREATION PROGRAM AT CITY SCHOOL

The Vignette Club of Columbiana has, since its organization, worked for better recreational facilities for the children at the Elementery School and while they will not supervise the afternoon play ground this year, the members have asked that we announce that all equipment has been repaired, the sand-pile moved and re-filled, the swings and other means of diversion for the little fellows, and they are welcome to this equipment which is there for them to use.

The club expresses thanks to John Farr for his welding job on the steel Jungle Jim and swings and to Henry Davis for his help in repair work and to the city for the sand they purchased for this project.

SEN. RUSSELL TO VISIT MONTGOMERY

The visit to Montgomery, July 7 of Georgia's Senator Richard B. Russell, Democratic Presidential aspirant, may be the occasion for his consultation with Alabama's Democratic National Convention delegates.

Senator Russell will come to Montgomery to address the state convention of the American Legion. The day of his appearance will also be opening day for the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

It is believed that Senator Russell and Tennessee's Senator Estes Kefauver, rival aspirant, have equally divided Alabama's delegate strength, but supports of both men claim majorities.

HEADING AND STAVE MILL PROMISED FOR COLUMBIANA

There is every prospect that a new industry, a stave and heading mill will be located in Columbiana at an early date by W. G. Nichols of Birmingham, who for twenty years has had a heading mill in operation at Calera and a stave mill at Pelham. The new industry at Columbiana, the largest of its kind ever located in the county, will take the place of both mills at Calera and Pelham.

(Today, Henry Nichols, son of W. G. Nichols, owns and operates this mill which was reported in July, 1927.)

THE PUDDLE DUCK

Said the puddle duck to the little white hen
"I've not sold an egg since I don't know when,
Yet I feel quite sure that the eggs
I lay
Are as good as the hen's egg any day."
Said the little white hen to the puddle duck
"You think perhaps you are out of luck—
Your eggs are as good, I'll freely admit
And larger, too, by quite a bit,
But my dear Mrs. Duck, I'll give you a tip,
The whole fault lies with your salesmanship.
You produce your eggs and without a quack,
To your swimming pool, you
waddle back,
I tell the world to let it know,
So I cackle around for an hour or so,
There's a good demand for the eggs I lay,
For I make my advertising pay."

Dr. Lund Now At Alabama College

DR. F. EDWARD LUND

Assumes Job As Seventh President Of Girls School

Dr. F. Edward Lund, historian, Phi Beta Kappa and son of an Episcopal minister, became this week the seventh president of Alabama College at Montevallo.

Dr. Lund begins his presidency in the tradition of other distinguished educational leaders who have headed Alabama College since its founding October 12, 1896.

He succeeds Dr. John Tyler Caldwell, who ended his five-year presidency of Alabama College when he left office Monday to become president of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville.

Alabama College receives its new leader from the deanship of Florence State Teachers College, a position Dr. Lund has held since 1946. He brings to the stately president's mansion at Montevallo his wife, a native of Elkmont, and their 13-year-old daughter, Sigrid.

Born in China while his father was in church work there, Dr. Lund found his first roots in this country in Virginia, where he attended Washington and Lee University. His Ph. D. degree is from the University of Wisconsin and he has held a Sterling Fellowship at Yale for a year's post-doctoral study.

His teaching experience includes three years on the Washington and Lee faculty and a former position at Wisconsin State College. At Florence, he headded the social science division before becoming dean.

In the Tennessee Valley, Dr. Lund was active both in church and civic affairs, serving as district governor of Exchange Clubs and vice-president of the Tennessee Valley Convocation of Episcopal Laymen. He is a member of the executive committee of the Episcopal Diocese of Alabama.

While he was dean at Florence, educational leaders of the state recognized his abilities by electing him president of the Association of Alabama Colleges.

Dr. Lund's predecessors include: Captain Henry Clay Reynolds, merchant, planter and Confederate officer; Dr. Frances Marion Peterson, whose field was ancient languages; Dr. Thomas Waverly Palmer, mathematician; Dr. O. C. Carmichael, nationally-known head of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching; Dr. Arthur Fort Harman, former state education superintendent, and Dr. Caldwell, political scientist and a leader in Southern education.

OPTOMETRIST WILL OPEN OFFICE HERE SOON

HELEN KELLER HONORED LAST WEEK

Tuscumbians loyal to the fabulous woman who put their town on the map honored their beloved Helen Keller last week by making a shrine of her birthplace.

It was a ceremony which attracted national attention, honoring an Alabamian who has achieved international fame.

Miss Keller, made deaf, dumb and blind at the age of 18 months because of illness, fought her way to "light" and knowledge despite the overwhelming odds. Her teacher was Ann Sullivan.

For weeks prior to dedication ceremonies Friday, workmen went about the home where Miss Keller was born, overlooking no details in restoring it just as it was 72 years ago.

MRS. A. E. NORWOOD

VICE-PRESIDENT SHERIFF'S AND PEACE OFFICERS AUXILIARY

At the convention of the Alabama Sheriffs and Peace Officers held in Birmingham June 8, 9, and 10, Mrs. A. E. Norwood, of Calera, was elected Vice President of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Mrs. Norwood is the wife of A. E. Norwood, Sheriff of Shelby county, and has long been active in the club life of Albaama. She is at present serving as Vice President of the Fifth District of Alabama American Legion Auxiliary; President of the Ware-Crim Unit in Calera, having been elected in this same capacity for six consecutive terms; President of the Unique Study Club and an enthusiastic member of the Garden Club in Calera.

Mrs. Norwood possesses a charming personality and in addition to her numerous club duties finds time to devote much time to her work in the Methodist Church and the Women's Society of Christian Service in her home town. Mrs. Norwood is receiving congratulations from a host of friends for this recent merited state-wide recognition of her executive ability.

Typhoid Clinic Schedule Announced

Dr. E. F. Sloan, County Health Officer

Members of the County Health Department will be at the following places at the time specified to give immunizations against Typhoid Fever, Diptheria, Whooping Cough, Tetanus and Small Pox.

One visit only will be made to each community and it is urged that all citizens of these communities attend the clinics, promptly at the time given, and protect themselves against these communicable diseases.

Under The Study Lamp

By William Crowe

"A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures (baskets) of silver." Proverbs 25:11

In ancient oriental countries baskets were network bags, which could be hung conveniently on the sides of camels and donkeys. Some of them were so beautiful of texture and color that they were almost like pictures. Therefore the English translators, in order to emphasize the value of prudent speech, used the figure of elegant receptacles in which wise words are carried.... apples of gold in a network of silver.

Most people talk too much. They say things before they think, and if they do any thinking it is usually too late. The Book of Ecclesiastes gives a bit of wholesome advice: "Be not rash with thy mouth." 5:2. In the Epistle of James we read: "Wherefore let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath." 1:19.

Talleyrand was on one occasion present with Napoleon at a cabinet council, and it was noticed at the end of the meeting that he had not spoken a word. When the Emperor asked him why they had not heard his voice, the distinguished diplomatist replied: "Sire, all has been said that could be said." If we should follow that example, what a saving of time there would be!

Hasty speech usually begets misunderstandings, hurt feelings that defy healing remedies, permanent estrangements. It is in most incidents prompted by passion and not by reason; by prejudice and not by patience. It provokes to anger; it stirs up a spirit of mutual malice between speaker and hearer, and is too often the precursor of tragedy. The Bible says that the tongue is an unruly member.... and experience compels us to admit the truth of the statement.

"If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue.... this man's religion is vain." (James 1:26) Rather plain talk, that. But over against it we have: "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in baskets of silver."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
International Uniform Sunday School Lesson
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Judges 1:1—3:6; 21:25
DEVOTIONAL READING: Deuteronomy 30:15-20.

Prodigal Nation

Lesson for July 6, 1952

"YOU'RE going a long way back for a sermon," said a neighbor who reads this column, once when the topic was Jeremiah. Well, this column isn't intended to be a sermon. It is intended to be an offering of some thoughts on the Bible passages which are used as the Sunday school lesson in more than eighty different denominations of the Christian church. The writer, whether the writer of this column or those who write the books such as Tarbell's and Peloubet's that contain lessons for a whole year, does not pick out the topics. They were selected by a large interdenominational committee some years before.

When They Did as They Pleased

HOWEVER, let's have no apologies for going anywhere in the Bible, back or front. The voice of God speaks to us through it, and we can learn something from all parts of it.

For the next three months the lessons are to be about the rise of the Kingdom, from just after Joshua's time to the reign of Solomon. This week we have before us the first and last parts of a book (Judges) that covers many generations. This book contains some inspiring stories, and some so harsh or revolting that they never are studied in Sunday school.

The inspired prophet who first put these stories together and commented on them makes a significant postscript at the end, as if to explain some of the more shocking tales: Those were the days when there was no king, and every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

There you have one of the keys for understanding this strange Book of Judges. It is the story of anarchy, of men doing as they pleased. Do laws annoy you? Do you sometimes feel that this would be a better world if we could do away with government entirely and let every man do as he likes? The Book of Judges shows what sort of world that would be—and you wouldn't like it.

BANKING experts talk about business cycles, and show diagrams to illustrate them. The stories in Judges also make a kind of pattern, a wavy line that climbs up and dips down, over and over again. The curve is freedom, the low dip is slavery.

The little nation of Israel, or rather the little gatheration of tribes not yet a nation, that went by that name, was struggling for a place in the sun. Sometimes they had no better than a place in the shade, in the shadows of national weakness, disgrace, defeat, slavery of one sort or another.

Other nations would "oppress" them in the various ways by which one nation can oppress another: by armed invasion, by military occupation, by making slave laborers, by exacting huge sums of money, by depriving them of trade or territory. And then after a long time of this, a hero would arise and lead the people back to freedom.

The Moral Cycle

IF that were all, the Book of Judges would not help us very much. But the question is: Why does a nation lose its freedom?

The answer given in this ancient book has been confirmed in history many a time since. A nation is free when it deserves to be free; it loses its freedom when it no longer deserves it.

The careful reader can see in the Book of Judges another line rising and falling, the curving line of the nation's faith and moral life. When they "went after other gods,"—that is, when they sank to the sins and crimes which went with the worship of these "other gods," they lost their morals and at the same time lost their morale and their character. And a nation that loses its character is one that easily loses its freedom.

It is the way mighty Rome fell, and Spain, and many another. It is the way our own nation can fall. But the way out is also shown in the Bible.

The Book of Judges has been called the Book of the Prodigal Nation. It is the story of man's sin, but also of God's mercy. It sometimes takes long to learn the lesson, and sometimes it is never learned; but God holds out hope for the repentant nation, as he holds out hope for the soul that turns from its wickedness. Is it ever too late to repent?

Good Morning

Milton Bird

Up past his house, up the dusty road and over the hill in the hot blistering sun, we made our way to a yellow plum tree, that stood up from a patch of scrub pines, facing north. Everything was the same as it had been last year.... the same blue birds nesting in a dead pine stump; the same blackberry bushes pimpled with berries; the same honeysuckle vines tossing a delicate, almost too amorous, perfume about. And over the gully, green and lovely, the yellow plum tree without fruit.

This was our first trip since March, when the blue birds were still busy in the naked oaks down in the hollow, and the blackberry bushes were bundles of pricky briars, and there was only a promise of perfume from the tiny bluettes along the rows of dead grass. But over it all was a scattering of misty white blossoms, like snow against the sky, blown from the arms of the yellow plum tree.

For years it had been the same, without change. I guess I was a little disappointed for I said: "I wonder if the old tree will ever have plums again."

He looked at me in his sly fashion. "Th' old tree ain't give up," he said.

I wondered about that. And about other things, too. About a world, nearer chaos than it had ever been perhaps, tipped on the very brink of it, apparently without trust and faith in the places where they could do good.

He went on, his words interrupting my thoughts: "Next year long about March th' old tree will dress up in her pretty white dress agin. Th' same as last year. It's been that way fer years an' it ain't gonna change. An' if the plums come later in their season, or if they don't, it won't make no matter...."

Suddenly I thought about the little folks, all over, who would know heartaches and tears, more than anyone else, if the world tumbled into chaos. The ones who would get hurt, and who would cry out, but who keep on somehow with nothing but their faith to hold on to.

"There are a lot of folks like the tree," I said.

He seemed to think about that for a moment. "Yep," he said finally, "more than we know. But you can't count 'em. They're the little folks in th' little places everywhere. They ain't known by nobody but themselves an' their folks, an' a few friends maybe. An' they ain't done nothing to be cackled about. But they're tucked up tight in things like hope an' faith, an' you can't kill 'em out no matter what."

We walked back down the dusty road, over the hill in the hot blistering sun, until we came to his house. He went in and I walked on alone. Next March I would stop by again and we would climb the hill together. And I knew, somehow, that there would be a scattering of white misty blossoms, like snow against the sky, blown from the arms of the yellow plum tree. The same as there would still be hope and faith in the world, tucked up tight about little folks in little places everywhere.

ON THE FARMS IN SHELBY COUNTY

B.F. HATCHETT & G.C. STARCHER JR

"Well done," the farmer used to say, when furrows he could follow arrow-straight across his fields disdaining hill and hollow.

"My corn land here and there my cotton," he'd label all his fields. Clearing new fields if, per chance dopped too low in yields.

And winter came, fields lay bare, exposed to snow and rain. "Ice mellows soil and kills the pests," was our experts sage refrain.

He burned his stalks, his woods, his fields, not counting up the cost in topsoil gone, young timber killed, organic matter lost.

But came a day of reckoning, with crop yields less than cost, our grieving farmer paused and thought of the wealth that he had lost.

"All is not lost," his neighbor said. If a lesson you have learned, Plow on contour, rotate crops, replant the trees you've burned.

"Study closely the soil we've left, new ways and crops observe, and slag and lime and fertilize, and learn to plow a curve."

"Your woods and fields can yield again, even better than of yore, if you use the modern way to farm with Soil Conservation as the core!"

PRODUCE 14 MILLION POUNDS MARGARINE

An increase of more than 35,000,000 pounds of margarine has been noted for February, 1952, production of margarine over the same period of 1951, according to the Bureau of the Census.

This February production of margarine was 114,051,000 pounds as compared to last year's 79,493,000 pounds.

Production of yellow margarine topped creamery butter output of 77,385,000 pounds, for the fourth successive month, by 29 per cent.

GOOD MARKET FOR CATTLE AND HOGS

Heavy summer marketing of cattle and hogs is almost here, according to A. W. Jones, API Extension marketing specialist.

And he says farmers have three good reasons to sell many animals during July, August, and early September.

For example, the supply of good market hogs and beef cattle is low at this time of year. The large sums of animals to market that were fed out from the previous year's crop are over.

Also, the short market supply of meat animals increases demand, resulting in higher prices. During the last four years a 200-pound hog sold in Alabama in July brought an average of $46.25, while the same size and weight hog sold in December brought only $34.10.

And last but not least, with abundant grazing and early corn, Alabama farmers can finish out beef cattle and hogs more economically at this time of year.

STATE JERSEY OWNERS SERVE NATIONAL CLUB

A recent report by the American Jersey Cattle Club shows that Alabama breeders rank high in programs sponsored by the club.

J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman, points out that Alabama breeders rank seventh in number of cattle on registry of merit test and seventh in classification. Alabama ranks sixth in number of new breeders and ninth in number of registrations. The state ranks fifth in junior membership, and there are 77 members of the American Jersey Cattle Club in Alabama.

START CHANGING NOW TO CONSERVATION FARMING

A change to conservation farming will maintain and improve the soil while it is being used.

"Conservation farming fits into and becomes a part of the regular farm program," states S. R. Doughty, API Extension soil conservationist. "However, changing to conservation farming should be done gradually. The important thing is to get started now and work toward putting every acre of the farm to its best use while conserving and improving the soil.

Many farmers already practicing conservation farming say that since lay-by season is approaching now is a good time to start planning for fall and winter farming. The plans might include a "cover of green" on every acre of row cropsland; overseeding sericea with reseeding crimson clover or Caley peas, and preparing land, fertilizing and seeding lowland area to fescue and white clover.

The specialist adds that saving soil and increasing its productivity to a high level is good business. And the time to start is right now.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT AND WINTER GRAZING

Soil improvement is one of the most important jobs on our farms. Growing winter legumes in the cropping system is definitely established by the Experiment Station and by more than 30 years experience of Alabama farmers as one of the best ways of improving the soil.

Planting winter legumes this fall is more improtant than ever before because of defense nesds, scarcitny of labor, and other problems. We must produce more per acre and per man. Winter legumes will help do this. For example, a good crop of winter legumes will increase the yield of corn 40 bushels per acre if good production prcatices are followed.

July is the time to arange for winter legume seed, fertilizer, and inoculation so you can have them when it comes time to plant.

Good soil preparation is a must if you expect to get and hold stands of crops like crimson clover, alfalfa, and permanent pastures seeded in the summer or early fall. If the land has not already been turned, this job should be done at once. Let the land remain in the rough until rains come; then start disking and harrowing until planting time to destroy weeds and grass, and to get a firm seed bed.

A THOROUGH RINSE AVOIDS SOAP STAIN

Soap that is not rinsed out of clothes during the laundering may show up in a brownish stain resembling iron rust when the clothes are ironed, according to Levice Ellis, API Extension clothing specialist. Therefore, give clothing a thorough rinse.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

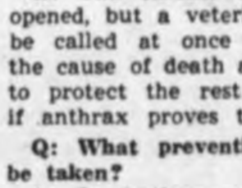
WHAT ABOUT ANTHRAX?

Q: Is anthrax more dangerous to some farm animals than to others?

A: Anthrax is a serious hazard to all livestock. However, cattle are its most frequent victims.

Q: How does this disease act?

A: It strikes quickly, kills quickly. In fact, farmers frequently think animals have been struck by lightning, when actually anthrax caused the deaths. Before death it may cause staggering, spasms, and stupor.



Q: How do livestock get this disease?

A: It is caused by a germ which lives in the soil. Sometimes it remains alive in the ground for years in the spore stage.

Q: How is it spread?

A: Cattle often pick it up on overflow pastures, or where plowing has brought spores to the surface.

Q: Can human beings get this disease, too?

A: Yes, anthrax can kill human beings as readily as animals. That is why extreme care should be taken in disposing of carcasses of animals that are anthrax victims.

Q: What should an owner do when anthrax is suspected?

A: The carcass should not be opened, but a veterinarian should be called at once to determine the cause of death and take steps to protect the rest of the herd if anthrax proves to be present.

Q: What preventive steps can be taken?

A: In anthrax areas, animals should be vaccinated regularly against the disease. Several types of vaccines give sound immunity if administered properly.

NEW HOPE MATRONS STUDY CAKE MAKING

The home-makers of New Hope Community learned to get a lot of good eating with no extra effort at their meeting Wednesday. The members of the Home Demonstration Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Howard Bailey on Cahaba Valley Road.

The matrons studied the new easy one bowl method of making a cake, with Miss Cotney giving the demonstration. She emphasized the importance of accurate measurements and the necessity of creaming the sugar and shortening thoroughly.

The group noted the finer even grain, softer texture, delicate flavor and luscious eating quality of the finished product. This method really transforms the art of cake making, and as a result, home made cakes will be on the family menus regularly now.

Following the demonstration, a social hour was enjoyed and delicious refreshments served to sixteen who enjoyed the courtesy. This club has recently acquired 5 new members.

Flavor Your Hamburgers With a Little Surprise

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

EVERYONE likes hamburgers. Everyone likes a pleasant surprise, too. So put the two together and you'll have an extra treat for the crowd.

Always allow one pound hamburger for four good-sized servings. The more times meat is ground, the more compact the fibers become. Ready-to-use hamburger, sold under current government regulations, will by ruling be ground twice. The patties made by this ready-ground meat will be firm. If you prefer a juicier product, buy the beef by the piece and have it ground only once. Choose boneless chuck, round, neck or flank for this. If meat is particularly lean, add 2 ounces of suet for each pound of lean meat.

Hamburger Surprises (4 servings)—One pound hamburger, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup finely chopped onion, 1 slice bread, cut in 4 squares, ½ cup chili sauce.

Mix hamburger and seasoning. Divide hamburger into 8 equal portions. Shape each portion into a round patty about 3 inches in diameter. Melt butter or margarine in a large skillet. Add onions and bread squares. Stir and cook until onions are tender and bread is browned and crisp. Push onions and bread squares to one side of the skillet. Place one-fourth of the cooked onion and a toast square in the center of each patty. Place remaining 4 patties on top of bread squares. Seal edges of each 2 hamburger patties by gently pressing them together with the back of a spoon. When bottom patty is cooked through, turn it over and cook top patty. Turn carefully in order not to break the seal. Cook about 7½ minutes on each side. Place cooked surprise on slices of tomato and then place on lightly toasted bun. Heat chili sauce in skillet until very hot and serve over the surprises.

Deviled Hamburger Patties (4 servings)—One pound hamburger, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup crushed cornflakes, 1 tablespoon fat, 10 pimiento olives, sliced, 1 can condensed cream of tomato soup.

Season hamburger with salt and pepper. Add cornflakes. Form into patties 1 inch thick. Brown in hot fat in heavy skillet. Add olives and tomato soup (or seasoned and thickened tomato juice). Simmer 10 minutes. Serve on toasted English muffins or split and toasted rolls.

Wilsonville

The Methodist Church members held a picnic at Jackson Lake last week. Wilsonville Boy Scouts and their sponsors were guests.

We were indeed glad to have some of our boys in the armed services home for visits. Here were Ralph Robinson, Leonard Roberson, James Wallace, and Durwood Ingram.

Miss Mary Williams is at home for the summer after an absence of 18 months in Mexico City, Texas and Southern California. She spent eight months as a free lance news correspondent in Mexico City, then after a stopover in Texas, went to Southern California, where she participated in a script writing workshop at the Pasadena Playhouse.

Miss Mamie Hill had as recent dinner guests Mrs. Alvin Bird, Mrs. Pinkie Jordan, both of Columbiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Daniels, of Gadsden, recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Amos Daniels. Friends here were happy to see Mr. Daniels looking well after a recent severe illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Sammie McEwen, Mrs. Grady McEwen, Mrs. Knox Wooley, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cunningham, and Edward Cunningham report they enjoyed fine vacations in Gatlinburg, Tenn.

The Baptist vacation Bible school is in full swing with an attendance of about 100 each day.

Mayor Jack Story and Mrs. Story recently entertained with an informal dinner party honoring Miss Yvonne Adams, of Montevallo. Miss Adams will wed Charles Williams, Jr., July 24 at the Montevallo Methodist church. The Rev. Minor Triplett, former Wilsonville pastor, will perform the ceremony.

Charles Williams, Jr., left recently for a month's training at Camp Barksdale near Shreveport, La. The training is part of the Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps project, in which Charles participates at the University of Alabama.

We are surely proud of our Boy Scout troop, who attended the state camp at Tuscaloosa and won more honors than any other troop.

The good news has reached us that the John Vardamans are to move back to our town.

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gould and family, of Chattanooga, were week end guests of his father, the Rev. A. B. Gould.

We welcome Mrs. P. T. Ray and Mrs. Fred Miller, former Wilsonville residents, here for a visit.

Friends are happy that Mr. C. E. Boyles has recovered from his recent illness in a Tuscaloosa hospital and is now at home again.

Miss Dot Roberson, formerly of Wilsonville, suffered a minor back injury in a recent automobile accident in Atlanta.

37 NEW MEMBERS IN H. D. CLUBS

Thirty-seven new members have recently enrolled in 9 Shelby County Home Demonstration clubs.

The new members are: Mrs. J. D. Little, Mrs. A. C. Walton, Mrs. V. G. Milstead, Columbiana; Mrs. Herbert Christian, Mrs. Cecil Boothe, Mrs. William Boothe, Mrs. John Penhole, Mrs. Rual Stark, Mrs. C. C. Nelson, Mrs. R. W. Stanley, Mrs. Ed Stobert, Mrs. A. K. Harris, Mrs. H. W. Dearing, Jr., Mrs. Cecil Richard, Helena; Mrs. Lula Smith, Mrs. Morris Gallups, Mrs. Nelle J. Wallace, Klein; Mrs. J. T. Barnes, Mrs. Otis Bryant, Mrs. Robert Waiter, Mrs. E. J. Jones, New Hope; Mrs. Leo Barton, Mrs. I. V. Brantley, Mrs. Floyd Hawkins, Mrs. Ollis Smith, Mrs. Paul Posey, Mrs. Lonzo Hartsfield, Mrs. Eva Henderwon, Mrs. Kathern Kelley, Mrs. George McConatha, Mrs. Ray Thornton, Siluria; Mrs. J. T. Underwood, Mrs. J. H. Underwood, Miss Dot Underwood, South Calera; Mrs. W. L. Lawler, Sr., West Calera; Mrs. Lessie Elliott, Westover; Mrs. M. O. Jeffers, Spring Creek-Valley Grove.

H. D. C. COUNCIL MEETING

Home Demonstration Club Presidents, Youth Leaders and Farm Bureau Leaders will attend a Council Meeting Tuesday, July 8.

Mrs. Douglas Kent will preside. Mrs. H. A. Pauly will present a program on 4-H Activities. A. C. Adams will review the Activities of The Farm Bureau.

Hostess Clubs will be Westover Yellow Leaf, Pelham-Keystone, New Hope, Little Cahaba, Bethel and Saginaw.

The meeting will be in the Old Courthouse Auditorium, Columbiana. Luncheon will be served at 11:00 o'clock.

WASHING RICE IS NOT RECOMMENDED

One old, familiar kitchen practice, outdated by recent research is washing or rinsing rice before and after cooking.

Years ago when rice was sold in bulk, washing before cooking was necessary to be sure the rice was clean. But packaged rice today is a clean product. After cooking, rice was rinsed to separate the grains but newer cooking methods have made this unnecessary. Washing rice wastes not only time but also nutritive value.

Mary Hulsey, API Extension nutritionist, reveals that vitamin value may be washed off brown and partially polished rice. Tests show that brown rice loses about 10 per cent of its original vitamin B1 when washed through five changes of water, even though the washing is rapid. As for partially polished rice, tests show that it loses about 20 per cent of its thiamine through washing and cooking. Washing off the powdery rice polish which clings to the grains probably accounts for much of this loss.

"White rice, which has little or no vitamin B1, is eaten by many people," adds Miss Hulsey. "It is much better to serve brown unpolished rice or, at least, the partially polished rice which contains about 70 per cent as much vitamin B1 as the brown rice."

Shredded cocoanut, mixed with grated raw carrots and mayonnaise, makes a good sandwich filling.

A tiny pinch of salt added to coffee or hot chocolate when it is in the making greatly increases the flavor.

If sandwich bread is too fresh to slice easily, place in refrigerator get thoroughly cold. This firms it.

VIGNETTE CLUB ADOPTS RESOLUTION REGARDING TRAFFIC SITUATION

"Whereas the members of the Vignette Club have observed that during recent months truck and automobile traffic travel at excessive speed upon the streets of Columbiana, especially upon North Main Street and upon Alabama Highway No. 25, and

Whereas such traffic constitutes a hazzard to the citizens of Columbiana, particularly the children; and

Whereas the general problem of traffic safety in Columbiana is being studied by a Safety Committee of which N. Y. Horn is Chairman; and

Whereas it is considered by the members of this club that the aforementioned traffic condition can only be remedied by a strict enforcement of the speed regulations now in effect in Columbiana.

Now therefore be it resolved by the members of the Vignette Club in assembly sitting that this Club go on record as favoring a strict enforcement of the aforementioned speed regulations; that the members of this club cooperate individually and as a group with the aforementioned Safety Committee to the fullest possible extent; that a copy of this resolution be delivered to Mayor W. W. Wallace, Jr., and another to N. Y. Horn, and that a copy be spread upon the club minutes by the Secretary."

SHELBY COUNTY STUDENTS ATTEND ALA. COLLEGE

Sixty-six students from Shelby county are spending studious class hours and pleasant leisure time on the campus of Alabama College at Montevallo this summer session.

The Shelby county students are part of the busy atmosphere of a campus which will be host during the summer months to around a dozen conferences, ranging from Children of the Confederacy to Vocational Home Economics Teachers Assembly.

Summer school students have available to them, after class hours, the beautiful, new college swimming pool and 23-acre lake, practice golf course and tennis courts.

Among noted speakers on the campus this summer have been Dr. Daniel A. Prescott, nationally known authority on child problems, who conducted a workshop, and Dr. Archibald Rutledge, famed writer and poet, who addressed the Alabama Writers' Conclave and the student body.

Students from Shelby county now attending summer school are:

ARTICLE I

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II

A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated. And no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a pre-sentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law, nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

ARTICLE VII

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved ,and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX

The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE X

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT PLANS FOR ALABAMA

Alabama now has $46,000,000 worth of federal aid primary road projects and $10,000,000 in state secondary roads under contract or planned, and $12,168,000 in federal aid money for primary roads.

These figures were released last week by Highway Director Guerry Pruitt. He said about $3,000,000 in U. S. funds is available for state secondary (farm-to-market) roads in the upcoming 18 months.

Other figures cited by Pruitt:

The state has $8,600,000 worth of county secondary roads under contract or planned. Within 18 months, Alabama will have $7,050,000 in federal funds available for this purpose.

Urban contracts to the tune of $3,000,000 are planned or under contract, and $13,000,000 more will be available within the next 18 months.

Pruitt said Alabama has been able to use all available federal funds so far.

CHAMELEON

The brilliant yellow stripes and solid bodice of this simple daytime dress weren't selected for their protective coloring, but they happen to match the sparkling tropical scenery at the Royal Victoria in Nassau. The National Cotton Council also points out the versatility of this Beaumart frock in Dan River Winki-Shed.

The first church in Alabama was built by Father Davion and Father Douay in 1702 at Twenty-seven Mile Bluff. Within a few years, the two priests had converted several hundred Indians who inhabited the region around what is now Mobile.

Social and Personal Mention

Mildred White Wallace, Editor

THANK GOD FOR AMERICA

When we want a poetic effusion on any subject, all we have to do is ring Clarice White Luck, and flowing from her fluent pen-point, comes the very poem we desire for the occasion.

Some months ago, a patriotic song was needed for a certain event and we asked Mrs. Luck to write a patriotic version to Shelby High's Alma Mater. She graciously consented, and if you are in the singing mood on the Fourth, you may use your vocal talents on the following poem tuned to "Alma Mater", which I am sure every student of Shelby High already knows: Not only for its melodic content do we print it, but for the serious thought provoking truth this poem contains we print it, and thank her for the privilege of sharing it with you.

THANK GOD FOR AMERICA

Tune: Alma Mater

(Clarice White Luck)

For America we thank Thee,
O, Father of us all;
For the faith of those who followed
To obey Thy loving call;
For Thy liberty enduring,
For our heritage in Thee;
Through the Darkness, or the sunshine
We would ever faithful be:
(As a Prayer).
For we feel Thy guiding Spirit
Though the hours their sorrows bring,
And we know that Thou will keep us
'Neath the "shadow of Thy wing"
So, we thank Thee for our Homeland
And we pray that all may see
The eternal Light of Freedom
God of Peace that comes from Thee.

BROWN-DUKE WEDDING JULY 6TH

The marriage of Miss Patsy Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Brown, and Mr. Warren Duke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Duke, of Columbiana, Alabama, will be impressively solemnized on July 6, 1952 at four-thirty o'clock.

The Rev. A. D. Wilson and the Rev. Curtis Bean, officiating.

Friends are cordially invited to be present.

ELIZABETH WELDON TO WRITE FROM WILSONVILLE

Pretty and talented Elizabeth Weldon has graciously consented to send in some news items from Wilsonville each week. This will be especially good news for our friend Mrs. Blossom Rothberg, in California, who has written us many times asking that we procure some news from her former home town. Now, we think we have really some one who will take an interest in sending us these news items each week, and we have been congratulating ourselves all week on finally gaining Miss Weldon's consent to do this for us.

. . . Larry Ray in town today sensibly dressed in shorts with a new crew haircut modeled to lessen the heat. However, this little fellow, about a year old, was still worried about these hectic nights, so, he and his grand-dad and grand-ma-ma, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Goodwin were out looking for an electric fan for Larry. Fact is, all Larry has to do to procure what he wants, is waye his chubby fist and point one finger toward the object of his choice, and a half dozen folk are there to get it for him, but, Larry is worth every bit of it.... and in this atomic age, little boys especially, have such a short time at home before donning heavy boots and knap sacks and marching off to war. Let them be happy while they can be, no matter what it takes. Responsibilities will come soon enough that will (if something is not done), fall on little Larry's shoulders, and thousands more just like him.

. . . Regret to learn that Mr. W. B. White has returned to Veterans Hospital in Montgomery for treatment.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kaplan are vacationing for a few weeks in Ontario, Canada where Mr. Kaplan is undergoing treament.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Cull Curry, Nan, Sam and Rosemary Curry of Mobile, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Miller.

. . . Pvt. Charles Spearman of Camp Gordon, Georgia, is in Columbiana on leave from military duties for a brief time. It is good to know that Charles decided he could no longer stay "in camp without the home paper".... and this week finds us on our way to greet him and Sue in their apartment in Augusta.

. . . Elvin Hill is pursuing his studies in Auburn this summer, but was home for the week end and the very nicest thing he did for us was to come in and renew his subscription to the "Home Paper." Elvin is President of the Kiwanis Club and at present is enthusiastically stirring up interest in the approaching event known as the County Fair, which he states, will be bigger and better than ever this year.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ewing Jr., and two children of Savannah, Georgia, were week end guests of Mr. Ewing's mother, Mrs. Edmund Ewing in Columbiana.

. . . Nancy Horn spent the week end in Birmingham as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Riddle, Jr.

. . . James T. Patrick, USN, RS Skaggs Island, Sonoma, California, formerly of Alabaster, will be a happier Blue Jacket from now on, due to the fact that his request for the "Home Paper" has been granted and we are now on our way to greet him this very week.

. . . R. F. Pair of Sterrett was in Columbiana Saturday and took "time out" from his busy schedule to add his name to our ever widening list of weekly readers, for which courtesy we are duly grateful.

. . . Friends of Mrs. T. C. Rush, Jr., will be delighted to learn she is at home following a surgical operation in Birmingham last week. Mrs. Rush has resigned her position with the Welfare Department. Mrs. Bill White has accepted this position and began work July 1st.

. . . Suave, sophisticated, genial and generous Howard Hall, monarch of all he surveys down Shelby Springs way, was in Columbiana Saturday cruising around in an air conditioned Cadillac. The last time we saw him, he and "Judge" were heading for a spin toward Wilsonville. That Cadillac is a "Dream Boat" if there ever was one.

. . . Charles McGhee has returned from an extended vacation in Corpus Christi, Texas. If Charles follows the trail he blazed last summer, and you wan to contact him, I suspect, you will find him high-diving at Lakeview.

. . . Recreation activities are pepping up now under the direction of Roy Mann, and the program planned includes many diversions for all citizens, negroes and white in Columbiana, which is as it should be. Watch this paper soon for a pictorial pick-up, with pen-point sketches of these events.

. . . Corporal Gray Davis Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gray Goodwin of Columbiana, has wired his parents that he had landed in England. Friends and former classmates will be delighted to get this news from one of their most popular members.

MR. AND MRS. FOWLER ENTERTAIN AL FRESCO

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Fowler entertained Saturday afternoon with a picnic dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ewing Jr., and two sons of Savannah, Georgia, who were week end guests of Mr. Ewing's mother, Mrs. Edmund Ewing. The out of doors styled dinner was interrupted by an electric and rain storm, so the merry party moved in to make a Buffet Dinner Party a joyous event to remember. Then, modern electric lighting, advocated by Mr. Alabama Power Company blanked out, and for a few minutes further confusion of finding candles was experienced. This search for a "little light on the subject" was further complicated by the presence of the alert "grand-children" who were running around in the dark making merry over the entire situation.

However, soon J. Pluvius and his raindrop regiment disappeared; John Thompson managed to get the "lights on" and those who came to share the "get-together" and the delectable menu, enjoyed every minute of it.

Sharing this courtesy were: Mrs. Edmund Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ewing, Jr., and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad M. Fowler, Randy and Conrad Fowler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Rux Carter, Kathy, Nina and Judy Carter and the genial hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Fowler.

. . . O. M. Cleveland of Washington D. C., is the guest of his mother, Mrs. Walker Frances Cleveland in Wilton. Mr. Cleveland spent Monday in Columbiana as the guest of his uncle Frank Head.

. . . L. V. Saxon sends us his check for a renewal subscription to his old home paper. Mr. Saxon formerly resided in Columbiana. He now holds an official position with the L. & N. R. R. Company in Birmingham.

. . . Guests in the hospitable home of the Homer J. Walton's during the past week end included Gilbert Fitzgerald of Troy and John H. King of Birmingham, a brother of Mrs. Walton's.

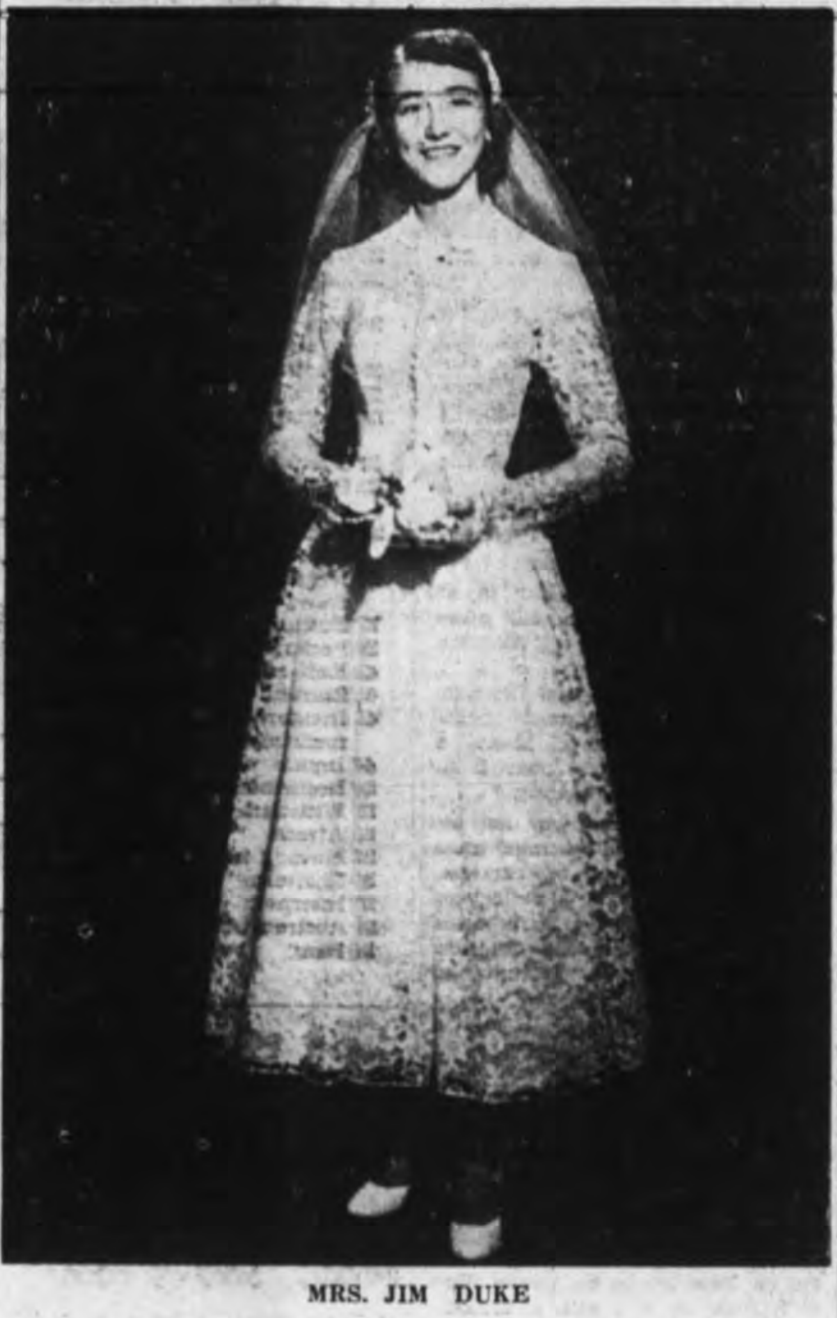
. . . Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pauly of Montevallo Rt. were in town Monday, and we enjoyed a brief confab with these friends of ours whom we do not often have the pleasure of seeing. During their stay on Main, they delighted us by a very generous statement regarding the "Home Paper".... and substatiated the statement by renewing their subscription for 1952-53.

. . . Miss Elizabeth Collins of Anniston is now associated as Assistant Home Demonstration Agent in Marian Cotney's office. Miss Collins is not only a creditable addition to this department, but in addition to her vocation, Miss Collins will be a valuable asset in the artistic world. She possesses a beautiful lyric soprano voice and is now graciously sharing her talent with other muscians comprising membership in the Methodist Choir.

. . . Alabama Draft Boards will call 1,066 men for military service during August. Shelby county's share will be 20.

. . . Mrs. George L. Scott, Jr., and her handsome soldier-son, Donald Latham, who has recently returned from over-seas duty were the guests of Judge and Mrs. L. C. Walker, Tuesday. We regret to learn that Tress Nickerson and her brother Brant Nickerson are patients in the Sylacauga Hospital. When we saw Mrs. Scott and Donald, they were on their way to visit them in the "Marble City." For good company separately, and severally, the Nickerson sisters, who include: Mrs. L. C. Walker, Tress Nickerson, Mrs. George L. Scott, Jr., Mera Shinn and Jeff Nickerson, have few equals. They are indeed a joy to all who know them and claim their priceless friendship. Now, as far as Donald Latham is concerned, when Uncle Sam dismisses him from his army, all he has to do is head for Hollywood and if contracts can be obtained on "good looks" and "magnetic personalities".... Donald will be leading man to any starlet he may choose!

JUNE BRIDE



MRS. JIM DUKE

DANIEL-DUKE WEDDING SOLEMNIZED AT CENTRE

The First Baptist Church of Centre, Alabama, was the scene of the marriage of Miss Jamie Sue Daniel and James F. Duke at 5:00 o'clock P. M., Sunday, June 29. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. A. Daniel and the late Mr. Daniel of Centre. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Duke of Columbiana.

The Rev. W. K. Stephenson performed the impressive double-ring ceremony before a setting of tall baskets filled with white gladioli and daisies against a background of huckleberry and ferns illuminated by burning white tapers in wrought iron branched candelabra. Candles were lighted by Ralph Hunt, III and Leon Jordan.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Evelyn Chestnut Smith, organist, Mrs. R. W. L. Ross, violinist and Mrs. Earl Farrar, vocalist.

Miss Charlcie Grimes, niece of the bride was her only attendant. Her ballerina length gown was of pale pink embroidered organdy over taffeta with which she wore matching mitts and half-bonnet. Her bouquet was a garland arrangement of pink feathered carnations on a background of blue satin.

The bride entered with her brother, Curtis E. Daniel, by whom she was given in marriage. Of Chantilly lace over satin and nylon net her wedding gown was designed with a full gathered ballerina length skirt, fitted bodice and tailored jacket featuring a Peter Pan collar and long sleeves pointed over the hand. Her elbow length veil of nylon net fell from a close fitting embroidered coronet. The bridal bouquet was a white orchid upon a white Bible showered with white satin streamers.

The bride's only ornament was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. For "something old" the bride carried a handmade lace handkerchief belonging to Mrs. E. K. Hanby, Jr., and first used by Mrs. Hanby's mother, Mrs. W. G. Goree ,at her wedding in 1914.

Warren Duke served his brother as best man. Ushers were Dr. Ralph S. Hunt, Jr., of Columbiana, Wally Barthel of Anniston, Leon Jordan of Gadsden and Ralph S. Hunt, III, of Columbiana.

Mrs. Daniel, mother of the bride, wore lilac crepe with navy accessories. Mrs. Duke, mother of the groom, chose a black dress with black accessories. Both had orchid corsages.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a navy faille suit with white and navy accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fulton, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Hunt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis, Gadsden; Mrs. Eleanor Lester, Birmingham; Mrs. Juanita Bates, Birmingham; Miss Hilda Smith, Columbiana; Miss Patsy Brown, Columbiana.

. . . Mrs. Nona Little's home was struck by lightning Tuesday afternoon, but the expert and well equipped fire brigade soon had it under control. This Fire Truck and the proper equipment for the volunteer firemen, is the best investment the town has ever made.

. . . Dr. and Mrs. James Crawford entertained the Young Matron's Class of the Methodist Church, taught by Paul O. Luck, with a Fish Fry in their out door court last Tuesday evening.

. . . Mrs. Elsa Estisito of Cincinnati, is the attractive guest of Miss Myrtle Miles and Mrs. Fay Miles Benton.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Purser Miles are leaving next Wednesday for an extended auto trip which will take them thru Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

UNION SERVICE AT METHODIST CHURCH

For the first time in years, keen visioned ministers of both Baptist and Methodist churches were responsible for one of the most inspiring services held in Columbiana last Sunday evening, when the Baptist membership joined the Methodist members in the Methodist church for a union service. The Rev. Curtis Bean brought the evening message having been presented by the Rev. A. D. Wilson, pastor of the Methodist church. The music was in charge of Jane Fowler Carter, which assured the success of this part of the worship hour.

We have heard numbers of persons from both denominations speak of the joy they found in attending this joint service which allowed friends, with a slight difference in creed, to come together, sing together and work together, toward the same cherished goal of accomplishment. It was indeed a "happy day" when this wise decision on the part of these ministers was taken, and unanimously adopted by both churches.

On the next fifth Sunday, which will be in August, another joint meeting will be held and this time, at the Baptist Church, with the Methodist minister, the Rev. A. D. Wilson bringing the message.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARIES

Ushering in the month of July celebrations for birthday anniversaries were Mrs. Fay Miles Benton and Dick Chappell. Thursday, July 3, Tony Bentley, James L. Ray, Jr., Randy Fowler, Bob Mullins, Dennis Davis, and Betty Rose Wood had birthday cakes all their own, and in the home of the Barney Isbells, Elizabeth and Barney celebrated the passing of a wedding anniversary.

Saturday, July 5, will be Peggy Stokes and Evelyn Rogers days in their respective homes. Donnie Wade will be the most popular member of her household next Sunday when it will be Happy Birthday To You-Time for Donnie!

RECREATION DEPARTMENT COOPERATES WITH CHURCH PROGRAM

Due to a series of services which are scheduled to begin next Sunday at the Baptist Church, no recreation activities will be planned for any night during this week. The recreation Field will be open each afternoon from 3 to 5 P. M. No night program will be presented.

Roy Mann is doing a splendid job in the promotion of this Recreation Program, and he is also drawing more friends to this movement by his spirit of full cooperation and the proper evaluation of the importance of all phases of our community life. Mr. Mann is also not overlooking the negroes of the town. New uniforms were issued them last week and their enthusiasm and appreciation for this attenton is marked by a different attitude entirely toward this program. Walker Mallory is custodian of the play ground equipment, and the Girls Soft Ball Team and the Men's Baseball teams both played last week against the Montevallo ball players. The Girls Team lost to Montevallo, but the Baseball team won from the Montevallo nine.

The Recreation Field will be closed all day July 4th.

37,000 PENNIES IS A LOT OF COPPERS

Mr. Hartsfield, who resides near Chelsea but works in Birmingham, for several years has made a hobby of "saving pennies". He had accumulated approximately 37,000 of these little brown men, and had them stored in boxes around the house. Now, it is reported that some one has taken these pennies which amounts to about $370.00, and naturally, Mr. Hartsfield would like to know "Who?"

. . . J. L. Lansford asks that we renew his subscription to the "Home Paper" which he has been taking for years and years. We are delighted to have this pleasure.

. . . Carolyn Evans has returned from a delightful vacation spent in Mississippi.

. . . Glad to report to a host of friends of Betty Rush that she is home again after having undergone surgery in a hospital in Birmingham.

JULY 4TH MAY BE FINAL DAY FOR SOME FOLK

It is not a pretty picture we paint as we bring this page to a close this week. That is, if we convey to our readers the tragic predictions now being made of the deaths that will occur next Friday and during the week end holiday. So, please drive carefully, considerately and courteously. If you observe these three little words, you may survive the dire prophetic utterances now heard from those who have carefully checked past records.

Dying normally is bad enough, but dying in an automobile wreck is such a messy exit. Please stop, look, and listen, and slow down, if you don't want to take a trip to that Land of No Return, or maybe, if you are real wise, you will stay home and content yourselves by "Rocking the hours away." After all, we have never heard of anyone exceeding the speed limit in the old Rocking Chair, or, as far as that goes, you might gently sway and swing in your hammock, and you won't bump into anybody. These are just safe and sane suggestions, minus any exciting moments. BUT, you will, if you observe them, likely remain for a cherry Hello, How Are You, on July 5! Here's hoping.

OUTPOSTS OF VENGEANCE

A HISTORICAL NOVEL BY E. E. HALLERAN

THE STORY SO FAR:

Will Morgan, a handsome young frontiersman, is indifferent to Ann Randall's attentions. He regards her as a mere child. He also thinks poorly of the militia, as do most of the settlers and rivermen around Pittsburgh. The ragged army is regarded as poor protection against the uprising Indians. A bet as to the origin of a passing calvacade earns Morgan a jug of whiskey, but he loses his heart to a girl riding in one of the wagons. He resolves to see her again as he leaves the flat boat on which he has been working and goes to check in with his boss, Sam, the packer. Passing the Randall camp, he quickens pace, hoping to avoid Ann.

CHAPTER II

Old Sam was a packer of army supplies and for the past three weeks had been Will Morgan's employer. Actually the two had been together for something over three months but Will had not formally signed on as a regular employee until he had been down the river with Old Sam. The packer had not asked questions about this curious reluctance to settle down but had taken on his new employee at the younger man's terms, happy to find a helper with a little education and a strong back as well.

Old Sam hailed him as he came into camp. "Didn't I see Ben Gates workin' on ye a spell ago?" he demanded, squinting until his narrow little face became a mass of wrinkles.

Will Morgan nodded, peeling off his soaking clothes. "He was giving me his song and dance about joining up with the militia."

"Don't ye do it!" Old Sam warned, his voice shrill. "Militia ain't wuth two whoops and a holler down a rain barrel! If ye've got the itch to carry a musket ye'd better 'list in the reglars."

Whiskey Good Material For Pittsburgh Trading

It was late afternoon when Will left the packer's camp and headed toward the forks. In spite of his height and erect carriage he made an almost comic appearance as he strode briskly along the Monongahela trail. Every garment on his lean body was a hand-me-down of some sort, as Sergeant Gates had so scornfully suggested. The hunting shirt was the usual leather garment of the frontier, complete with fringed skirt and sleeves, but it was much too large around the waist. The buckskin leggins were in somewhat better condition and the beaded moccasins were quite new but the faded blue breeches were completely disreputable.

Only the determined look in the gray eyes set him apart from other nondescript vagrants of the river. It was the eyes which had made Old Sam wonder at his employee's past and the packer had learned to read the younger man's moods in their changing depths.

Treading lightly in unconscious imitation of the hunters and trappers he had been meeting along the river he moved rapidly down the road until he reached a clearing where crude brush huts had been erected in something like orderly rows. They were sorry looking structures but were considered good enough for the temporary quarters of men who might be ordered down the river at any time. Morgan left the road there and made his way along the outer line of shacks until he reached the larger one which he knew to be the abode of Sergeant Gates.

The big militiaman looked up as his visitor approached. "Hiyah, Will," he greeted. "Decide to 'list?"

Morgan shook his head. "Nope. I just thought I'd come along and collect my bet before some of your loyal recruits drink it all up."

Gates was almost comic in his attempt to seem surprised. "Ye mean ye're sure enough goin' to take that whiskey? A young feller like yerself ain't figurin' to git away with a whole gallon, are ye?"

"Who's the Yankee sharper now?" Will demanded with a smile. "If it'll ease your mind any I'm not figuring to drink any part of it. Whiskey's good trade material in Pittsburgh. I'm expecting to make some swaps."

"Fair enough," Gates shrugged. "Ye won it." He strode into the hut and lifted a tarpaulin which covered several vessels of spirit calculated to encourage enlistments. "Here she is," he announced jovially, handing it over.

Morgan grinned thinly as he took the jug and swung it to the bend of his elbow. "Don't let it keep you awake," he said shortly. Then he was back in the company street, parrying the gibes of the lounging militiamen as he headed on toward the town.

Money was scarce in the little trading village of Pittsburgh and it took Will an hour to locate a trader who was willing to give cash for the whiskey.

His pace was no longer jaunty as he entered the area where the settlers' wagons formed a rude camp. Fighting for composure he tried to put on his best appearance of casualness as he looked for the Carolina outfit.

Hailed occasionally by some cheery emigrant he strolled through the jungle of tents, shacks, wagons and odd merchandise until he saw the big paintless wagon he recalled so well. Walking up nonchalantly he accosted a youth whom he had seen leading a string of pack horses.

"Hiyah, bud. I see you're pretty well settled."

The boy grinned amiably. "Yep. Yo're the feller we-uns passed this mornin', ain't yo'?"

Morgan nodded easy assent. "What do you think of the place?"

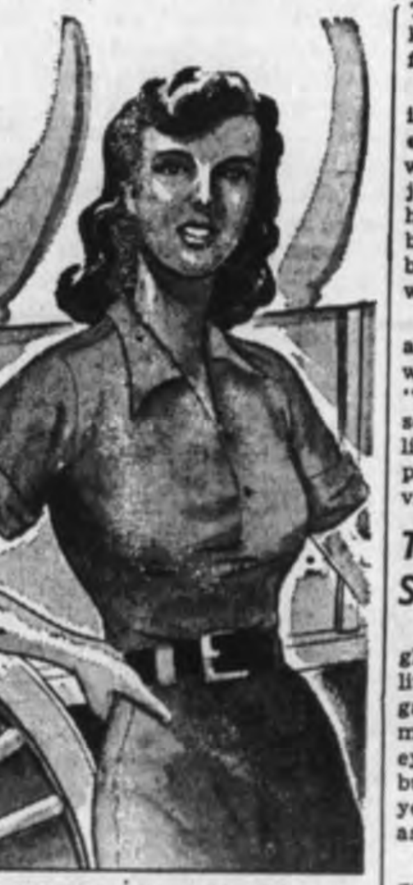
"Cain't tell—yet. It shore don't look like a hull heap to me. You'all been around here long?"

"Not so long. I came out from Massachusetts at the end of the winter."

"Uh-huh. Yankee, hey?"

"Sure. Name's Will Morgan. What's yours?"

"Daniel Bolden. We-all hail from No'th C'lina. My pappy and my uncle got sot on comin' out to the Ohio country and here we are! I ain't so plaguey sure it was sech a dad-blamed good idea. From all I hear there's plenty o' trouble here."



"Wonder if we're goin' to run afoul o' trouble? She ruminated. "It oughta be plumb excitin'."

"Looks like it. I just came up the river from Marietta and there's talk of Indian raids on both sides of the river. It looks like the tribes are all up to keep the whites from taking up the Ohio lands."

Dan Bolden nodded seriously. He could not have been more than fifteen but his lean face seemed to be lined with the care of many more years than that. Ready to play a man's part he was also ready to adopt a mature view of the situation. "The boys down home was plumb jealous when they heered I was a-comin' out here where there'd be Injuns to fight. As fer me I ain't so sure it'll be sech fun."

As he spoke the dark-haired girl came around the back of the big Conestoga. She hesitated as she saw Morgan, then came on quickly with a smile of recognition.

'Chance' Meeting Again Moves the Stout Heart

"Howdy," she greeted casually. "You-all air the feller we seen jest before we got here, ain't yo'?"

Morgan nodded. His voice seemed to have lost itself again as he felt her appraising glance. Young Bolden took it upon himself to do the honors. "Mistah Morgan, Mary," he explained briefly. "Will, this is my cousin Mary."

He managed to repeat what he had told the boy. She leaned an elbow on the top of a wagon wheel and cocked one foot up on a spoke. "Pappy says there's a heap o' Injun trouble nowadays," she remarked idly, not apparently much concerned. "Been hearin' anything about it?"

"Some. Those soldiers just beyond the camp are waiting to be sent downriver to make a raid on the Wabash villages. The government thinks it's time the varmints had a lesson. They been raiding too many settlements and flatboats."

"Wonder if we're goin' to run afoul o' trouble?" she ruminated. "It oughta be plumb excitin'."

"Too exciting," Will corrected. "There's nothing funny about an Indian raid!" The sudden harshness in his voice made both the girl and her cousin look up sharply.

There was an awkward silence, the newcomers waiting for Will to continue while he stood embarrassed, realizing that the words had frozen again. He wanted to talk to this girl but somehow he could not think of a thing to say.

Suddenly she moved her foot and elbow from the wheel, her glance faintly amused as she drawled, "Well, Mistah Morgan, I reckon I'd better git along. Got some chores to do. Mebbe we'll be seein' yo' some more."

Will could not make up his mind whether this was an invitation or not. While he pondered it the girl disappeared, leaving him to rail silently at himself for his failure to push matters. Why should he—a man with money in his pocket—feel so abashed in the presence of this backwoods wench? It didn't make sense—any more than the impression he was carrying away with him. He tried to make himself recall the girl's tomboy stance at the wagon wheel—but he could only recall the curve of a well-turned thigh. He remembered her masculine control of her team but his mind swung back to the pleasant sweep of a bare arm and shapely shoulder.

Almost angrily he headed back toward Pittsburgh village. If this was the way he was going to stammer around with the girls he might as well turn that cash back into whiskey!

He was still inwardly seething when he entered a lane at the edge of the settlement and came face to face with a stout man in buckskins. Will had seen him only a couple of hours earlier in the militia camp and suspected that this meeting was not entirely accidental. Tobe Ansley had a remarkable knack for meeting people who were flush with spending money.

He displayed buck teeth in an ingratiating smile. "Ye look peaked, Morgan," he greeted. "Ain't the world treatin' ye right or is it jest the mis'ble grub that Old Sam hands out? I reckon a man oughta break loose and have hisself a bang-up feed every so often if he wants to stay right healthy."

Will grinned. Tobe was not exactly subtle but the younger man was in the mood to be careless. "Maybe you're right," he agreed solemnly. "I suppose a fancy eater like you could point out the best place to set up a real lot of victuals?"

The Voice that Cries Seems Familiar One

Ansley nodded vigorously, a gleam of successful craft in his little pig eyes. "That I could, Morgan. There's shops in this settlement what'll cheat ye outa yer eyeteeth if'n ye don't watch out but old Tobe knows the places. Was ye figgerin' to do a mite o' drinkin' as well as eatin'?"

The meal was a bountiful one. A generous cut of beef flanked by corn bread and butter made up the main course but there were other dishes in an almost endless stream, some of which Will had never seen before. He ate a portion of every item which came along and then the whole belt-testing conglomeration was topped off by a sort of pudding made from pompion and maple sugar.

When everything had been consumed Tobe rose promptly and headed toward the front of the room where several men had come in to lounge at the bar. Obviously he was ready to run his luck as far as it would stretch. Will understood and motioned to the innkeeper. "I want to pay for the dinners—and for one drink for Tobe. How much?"

The bushy eyebrows contracted once more, this time in what passed for a wink. "One for Tobe, it is," he agreed. "But I'll lay you odds he finds another easy mark before the night's over."

Morgan shrugged. He was no longer interested in the fat scout. He paid his bill and settled down in a corner to hear the stories spun by trappers, soldiers, land agents, gamblers, settlers and the like. Usually these were tales of Indian raids, tales which lost nothing in the telling but which never seemed to discourage the optimistic.

Twice he fell asleep in his corner, the heat of the room combining with the fullness of his stomach to make him drowsy. After the second nap he awoke to see that Tobe had gone and that many of the others were beginning to drift away to their camps. Knowledge that the evening was about over seemed to bring back some of his restlessness and he slipped out of the door without saying a word to anyone. He did not even want to admit to himself that he was going back to the settlers' camp.

It was dark along the river, only the embers of cooking fires glowing red in the night to mark the various camp circles. There was no night life for these folks. They worked hard from dawn to dusk; they had to leave the tavern gossiping to other groups.

All was quiet around the Bolden wagons and Will moved on past the spot where he had worked during the morning. A warm breeze stirring up from the south fanned his cheek.

Suddenly from the water's edge just ahead of him Will heard a woman's voice raised in quick anger. Then a man's laugh sounded, some muffled words not distinguishable to the listener. Will halted abruptly, unwilling to blunder into any such situation as seemed indicated. He listened for a moment, however, trying to decide whether the woman was really in trouble or whether this was just one of those meaningless wrangles which it behooved an outsider to ignore.

He was about to turn back, satisfied that the woman was merely angry and not in distress, when he caught a familiar note. It was the voice of the girl from Carolina.

Bible Comment:

Attitude of Mind, Not Momentary Mood, Shows Faith

AT the outset of Job's sufferings his wife appears. Many wives have been a support to their husbands in times of need, but such was not the case with Job's wife.

Apparently without any vital faith herself she virtually taunted Job with his own faith, saying to him, in effect, "Now, where's your God? What's the use of your faith, when you're covered from head to foot with boils? You'd better curse God and die."

What a woman! A man covered with boils could be pardoned for being irritable, but Job surely was doubly justified in losing some of his patience, and telling her that she was speaking like a fool: "Thou speaketh as one of the foolish women speaketh."

But in the rest of his reply wisdom conquered impatience. In memorable words he said: "What? Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?" The record truly says that "in all this did not Job sin with his lips."

There were times when Job's faith and patient endurance were not so strong, when his suffering seemed greater than he could bear, and when he felt as Jesus was to feel on the Cross, as if God had forsaken him. One might call such a mood a not unnatural reaction to intense suffering. The outcry of Jesus was more an agonizing prayer than an expression of lack of faith. Did He not say to the penitent thief, "Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise?"

It is not the mood of the moment, but the attitude of mind and heart—and will—that is the essence of faith, and of trust of God.

The Bible teaches consistently that the good and upright are secure in God's keeping, no matter what may befall them, but it does not teach that they are immune from trouble. The prophets held their faith and were true to their mission through deep persecution and suffering.

But when Paul had listed all the troubles that could befall man, and all the forces that could war against him, his conclusion was that nothing could separate him from the love of God. That is the New Testament version of the Book of Job.

FARM SAFETY WEEK, JULY 20-26

The National Safety Council stated that approximately 15,00 farm residents die and 1,300,000 are injured each year in farm accidents in calling upon every farm person to observe National Farm Safety Week, July 20-26.

The afety Council statistics indicate that unless more care and precaution are exercised an average of 41 farm residents will die from farm accidents every day this year. Some farm residen will receive a disabling injury every 24 seconds.

The Council's 10-point program has been set up to remind farm families to think safety and act safety in the home, at work, in traffic and at play.

SPOTTY FUTURE—If your wife breaks out in spots this summer don't call a doctor. Chances are she's just experimenting with a new shampoo that lightens the hair without ammonia and can be used for spot-dying. The model, above, demonstrates the polka-dot version in New York. Other variations include semi - circular stripes and light chignons with dark hair.

FRESH-FROZEN SUBMICROSCOPY—Using a new freeze-drying technique he developed, Dr Robley Williams, professor of biophysics in the University of California at Berkeley, made these pictures of the submicroscopic world with an electron microscope. At left is an organism freeze-dried and at right is a similar one air-dried, by the conventional method. Note the freeze-dried specimen retains its live shape and casts long shadows, whereas the other is squashed almost flat by the removal of water. The organism is 1/2000 of an inch long.

Outposts of Vengeance
By E. E. HALLERAN
Into the dangerous Indian lands beyond Pittsburgh went young Will Morgan, posing as a savage chieftain to gain vital information for the Army. Fate gave him many uneasy moments and caused the man he impersonated to be a personal enemy, and one on whom he had once vowed terrible vengeance. This is an exciting tale of hate, love and adventure on a great American frontier.

Traffice Death Exceed All War Casualties

The nation's military deaths in all wars since 1775 had reached a total of about 1,005,600 at the end of two years of war in Korea, where approximately 19,350 American combat deaths have occurred since the invasion of South Korea on June 25, 1950, the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies estimated today.

The Association's continuing comparative study of war and traffic deaths showed, however, that the total of highway fatalities since the first automobile accident victim was killed in New York City 52 years and nine months ago is now far ahead of the all-time war total. Since February, when the total of lives lost in highway accidents equalled military fatalities for the first time, the historic toll of 1,005,600 traffic deatns has surged 13,000 above the nation's war fatality toll of 1,005,600.

In the four months since the automobile outpaced war as a killer, highway deaths have climbed 6,500. This is more than 100 times greater than the increase of 600 in the number of American lives lost in Korean fighting while the truce talks were being held at Panmunjom during the same period.

With the automobile now far outpacing war as a mass killer of Americans, the Association said, there is little likelihood that military casualties will ever overtake highway fatalities in the grim race between the two killers, unless military forces were to be destroyed wholesale in any future fighting .

Already the traffic accident toll's lead equals the total of nearly 13,000 combat deaths in the first year of the Korean war, when the average was 33 soldiers killed every day against 99 automobile deaths daily on U. S. highways. Owing to the comparative lull in the fighting in Korea while truce negotiations continued throughout most of the second year of the war, the daily average of combat deaths since last June 25 has dropped from 33 to 19. On American highways, however, the average number of deaths has risen from 99 to 102 a day, during the war's second year, according to the study made by the Association's accident prevention department.

When the Korean war started, the military death toll since 1775 totaled about 986,250, while automobile accidents had claimed approximately 944,000 lives up to June 25, 1950. "GI-X" the 1,000,000th American soldier to die in the nation's wars, fell on a Korean battlefield last September 3 or 4, according to the Association. Three and a half months later "Victim X," America's 1,000,000th traffic fatality was killed on December 22, three days before Christmas. The identities of the millionth victims of war and traffic accidents remain unknown.

Since the war started two years ago, the automobile death toll has rapidly outstripped the losses of service men on Korean battlefields. A total of 74,500 persons have been killed in U. S. highway accidents during the two year period, while 19,350 combat deaths have occurred among American forces in the Korean fighting.

OUTPOSTS OF VENGEANCE
BY
E. E. HALLERAN

The fantastic stories brought into Pittsburgh by the traders and trappers made Will Morgan a legendary figure. Swift as wind and quiet as a deep-running river, he was "Silent Death" to the Indians. Perhaps only one chieftain knew why Morgan had started a crusade apparently aimed at destroying the Indian population, one brave at a time.

MORGAN

Bull Kirby knew Morgan better than any man. It was he who taught Will the ways of the wilderness, then watched the pupil outstrip the teacher. Kirby felt a strong comradeship for the young man so filled with hate and bitterness.

KIRBY

Ann Randall could not understand the rude young Morgan, although she loved him. A strange flight to freedom brought understanding.

ANN

Mary Bolden considered Morgan just another man until he won her heart and she promised her hand. Yet she could not foresee the part she was to play in helping him become a frontier legend — nor the cruel fate in store for herself.

COULD HARVEST MORE COTTON MECHANICALLY

Approximately 5,000,000 bales of cotton could be harvested mechanically with equipment expected to be available this year, according to the production and marketing division of the National Cotton Council.

From 17 to 20 per cent of last year's crop of approximately 15,000,000 bales was harvested mechanically, the Council estimated.

According to current estimates, about 12,000 spindle-type cotton pickers are expected to be available by the end of 1952. This compares with a stock of 7,300 last year and about 4,000 in 1950, the Council reported.

Production of spindle-type cotton pickers amounted to 3,300 last year. This is expected to be increased to 4,700 in 1952, according to the Council.

It predicts approximately 21,000 cotton strippers will be available this year, as compared with approximately 13,500 in 1951. At the beginning of 1951 the supply of strippers totaled approximately 7,500. An additional 6,000 machines were manufactured last year and some 7,500 are scheduled to come off the assembly lines in 1952.

DANGER!
Relating to Television Antennae

The main purpose of this advertisement is to try to save a life—perhaps yours—by calling attention to possible hazards incidental to the erection of TV antennae.

If your antenna is to be mounted on a roof, have someone erect it who is accustomed to working on roofs or higher. Do not install the antenna too close to electric wires, even if they are only service wires to the house. You may come in contact with them during erection, or your antenna may be blown into them during a storm. This could be dangerous.

If your antenna is on a tall pipe or tube mounting, you should give careful attention to the guy wires, as well as the supporting fastenings. Be sure they are strong enough and securely fastened. There should be at least four of them. They should be of rust-resisting material, and you should check their condition every two or three years. It is especially necessary that you keep such antenna mountings well in the clear of electric wiring because they are limber, top-heavy, hard to handle, and because they fall easy prey to strong winds.

If you have to go "really up in the air" for your TV signals, then your antenna may be mounted on a pole or mast. If you use a pole, be sure it is a substantial, treated wood pole set sufficiently deep so that it will not fall. You may have to guy a pole, and you will always have to guy a metal mast. Be sure the guys and fastenings are adequate and that they are of rust-resisting metal. In some cases you will need more than one set of guys. Don't take chances with adjacent electric wires during erection.

People have been killed in Alabama due to antennae falling across live electric wires. Other persons have been killed trying to get the first victims away from the live wires.

If you are about to erect an antenna or have one erected—please require these three things:

Adequate initial strength
Safe clearance from electric wires
Amply strong, rust-resisting guys and fastenings

DON'T TOUCH

One more very important caution: If perchance an antenna gets into any live electric wires during erection or later—or if you have to deal with live electric wires which have fallen or burned down—do not attempt to touch or move such live wires or anything in contact with them. Keep people away from them and notify the nearest Power Company office, or the Police or the Fire Department.

Observing these simple precautions may save a life—perhaps your own.

Home Towns Finance Factory Construction

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Armed with a new weapon—the authority to issue revenue bonds to finance construction or acquisition of factory buildings to be leased to manufacturers—small towns in Tennessee are stalking new industry.

One small town, for instance, Elizabethton, has already bagged big game—a $7.8 million textile plant—which employs about 1,000 workers. And other communities are following the example set by Elizabethton.

The Tennessee law, which was enacted last year, permits towns, through revenue bond financing, to provide factory buildings for lease to new industry. Interest on the bonds, payment of principal, and provisions for maintenance and depreciation are to be provided by rental income from the buildings.

The law specifically provides that the bonds may not be redeemed by tax levies and do not constitute an indebtedness on the community. However, approval for issuance of the bonds must be given by three-fourths of the voters at a public referendum.

Elizabethton sold $4 million in revenue bonds as the initial financing for its textile industry. Rentals from the factory will pay the principal and interest and make up the rest of the $7.8 million. Under terms of the agreement worked out with the textile firm, the city's plant is to be rented for five years at $1,560,000 annually—enough to amorize it. After that the company has nine options of five years each at rental of $35,000 a year on the building and site.

and site. The move of industry to Tennessee and other southern states has increased rapidly in recent years.

Mobile Bay was known as the Bay of Ichuse by the Spaniards who came to explore Aalbama ir 1559 under Don Tristan de Luna.

On this 176th birthday of the Declaration of Independence the people of the world look with still-burning hope to the statesman who shouted man's "Unalienable rights" to "Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." As we celebrate the glorious Fourth we might well reflect how appropriate it is that Thomas Jefferson, who spelled out our abhorence of tyranny, was our country's first Secretary of State. So it is fitting that the oppressed and dispossessed of the world should look to Jefferson on this anniversary of his truly enduring blueprint for the house liberty. And well we might recall, in these times of international tension, that the bell which rang so jubilantly in Philadelphia that July afternoon the Declaration was ratified has inscribed upon it: "Proclaim Liberty to All the World and the People Thereof."

TOURIST TOWN

Revived Nahma Is Preparing For Tourists

NAHMA, Mich.—Saved from a ghost town fate through its timely purchase by a playground equipment company, this former lumbering town is busy as a beehive as it prepares for the summer tourist season.

Lumberjacks, fliers and other employes of the Bay de Noquet company, which operated a sawmill here 70 years until the timber supply ran out last year, are now wielding hammers, paint brushes and saws. They are repairing the 102 dwellings, hotel, community center building, general store, beach cottages and other properties.

Soon, they will clear riding and hiking trails and a field archery range in the 4,300 acre forest tract.

Entire Town Purchased

Nahma (pronounced Nay-ma, the Indian word for sturgeon) is located midway between Escanaba and Manistique. The entire town and the adjoining tract of forest land was purchased by the playground equipment company for a unique industrial-recreational development.

Plans call for the construction of a modern motel, improvement of the nine-hole golf course on the shores of Big Bay de Noc, and the transformation of three sawmill ponds into lagoons for boating and other sports.

The community's historic past will be preserved in a big red barn which will serve as a museum.

Whether or not the community will continue to exist will depend, in part, upon the success of this season. Present owners hope to develop it into a vacation spot and fishing resort. The area has numerous lakes and streams that should provide excellent fishing, and the forest is filled with deer, birds and other wildlife.

Acquired Railroad

With the purchase of the community, the company also acquired a logging railroad.

Nahma's first big plung into the tourist trade was taken in April when it held the first annual Nahma Fishing Festival. Nahma citizens staged a fish dinner, dance and other events in the community center building for visiting fishermen.

The next big event on the schedule is a bang-up-old-fashioned American Independence Day celebration on July 4.

The community is basing its hopes for further existence almost on tourist trade.

The first town marshall of Dothan quit his job after his first night in office. His excuse for resigning was that his $85 a month salary was "Nothing but a few dollars toward burying me."

The now infamous swastika of Nazi days in Germany was caused by the Indian tribes that lives around Moundville, centuries before the birth of Adolph Hitler. It was painted on their dwellings and implements as ornamental symbol.

The first cotton cloth mill incorporated in Alabama was established in 1832 on the Flint River near Huntsville.

In the days before the coming of the white man to the regions now comprising this state, great herds of buffalo and elk grazed the flat lands of Alabama's Black Belt and Wiregrass sections.

Rural Area Has Jitters Until Python Is Found

MULBERRY, Ark.—This small town had a good case of jitters for two days. A missing carnival python was the cause.

The 22-foot-long snake—said to be dangerous only to birds and animals—slithered from its cage. Pet owners locked up their pets and the search began.

For two days the hunt continued. Then, Buddy Kuykendall found the reptile coiled in a corner of his barn when he went in to the building on his chores.

A few minutes later, the carnival owner and five assistants tossed a blanket over the coiled python's head and prodded it into a wooden box. It was taken back to the carnival cage, less than three blocks away.

Mulberry citizens heaved a sigh and settled down to routine again.

The last Union occupation troops in Alabama left the state in 1876.

At the time of Alabama's admittance into the Union in 1819, Madison was the most thickly populated county in the state.

Thirty-seven years were required to build Selma's Albert Hotel. Work was delayed during the 1860's by the Civil War and the Reconstruction days that followed. Begun in 1854, the Albert was finally completed in 1891.

UNDER THE COURTHOUSE DOME

Much activity marked the opening of Circuit Court Monday. Guest atorneys, witnesses, jurors and grand-jurymen were mingling thru the corridors as we entered the building. As predicted, by the painter in charge of renovating the Courthouse building, one out of every two people who passed the "wet paint" sign, refused to believe it, and dipped a finger tip in, to verify it!

Folks not engaged in Court were hanging over Television sets to find out which way the "Elephant" was going. As he carries a trunk at both ends, it is hard to tell even when you are looking right at him.

The convention activities now in progress in Chicago certainly leave no "dull moments" to the imagination as Ike and Taft battle for the honor of running for the position of President of these United States. If we were a Republican, we would unqualifiedly voice our approval of Ike Eisenhower. He is a great American, and certainly deserves the honor he now seeks at the hands of the Party with which he is affiliated.

COURTHOUSE RENOVATION IN PROGRESS

Favorable comment heard on all sides regarding the long needed improvement of the interior and exterior of the Courthouse which is going forward at the present time... a brand new paint job is covering up the toll the years have taken. No one more pleased over this improvement than J. C. Walton, caretaker, who, according to everybody's verdict, is the best one Shelby county has ever had. J. C. Takes a personal pride in keeping this "Temple of Justice" clean and shining bright, and the Courtroom Monday morning was a good example of his handi-work, and visitors and those required to come to Court, were voluble in their comments concerning the appearance of the auditorium.

O. M. CLEVELAND VISITS COLUMBIANA

O. M. Cleveland, Chief Law Clerk in the office of Justice Hugo Black, in Washington, D. C., is spending his vacation with his mother, Mrs. W. Frances Cleveland in Wilton. It was indeed a pleasure to welcome this friend of ours in our office Tuesday, during his brief visit to Columbiana. However, we found it hard to realize that this brilliant young attorney, well poised and immaculately groomed gentleman was the same little "Buddy" we had known thru many years, whose interests and ambitions had been shared with us. Now, that these "dreams" are fast coming true, the best part about it all, is the realization that every step of the way has been carefully taken; every opportunity that has presented itself, has been taken advantage of; every honor showered upon him has been graciously accepted, and to make it more impressive, has been richly merited!

The latest signal distinction to crown Mr. Cleveland's spectacular career, is his new assignment designated by none other than Alabama's Justice Hugo Black, who has chosen Mr. Cleveland as Chief Law Clerk in his official quarters in Washington. I understand Judge Black feels very close to Shelby county, due to the fact that this county gave him flattering majorities in the ballot box during his political career.

We do not know Justice Black personally, but, if all his 'decisions' are as wisely rendered as the historic "Steel" decision, and this latest selection of his Law Clerk, his keen-vision and sound judgment will never be questioned as far as we are concerned.

Therefore, we congratulate Justice Black upon procuring the services of Mr. Cleveland, feeling perfectly sure that he will, at all times, fully warrant the confidence Justice Black placed in him when appointing him to this highly responsible position.

WHO TOOK ROGER VINCENT'S BICYCLE LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON?

Roger Vincent is a friend of ours, and a mighty fine little fellow. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Vincent, Florists, and a hard working young man. Sunday afternoon, Roger decided to ride down to the creek on his bicycle, for a bit of recreation. But, we will let him tell you in his own words, what he wrote us regarding his misfortune in having someone take his only method of transportation.

"Dear Mildred White Wallace:

I want you to help me find my bicycle! Here's what happened.

I went down on the creek Sunday afternoon and left my bicycle by the side of the road between the creek and the railroad at Mr. Cecil Cates' place.

A boy was seen to get out of an old dark colored car and ride off on my wheel. Maybe he thought he 'just found it'... surely he would not just steal it from one who wants it as bad as your friend Roger Vincent wants it.

Any information will be appreciated. Call 2294 in Columbiana."

Now, thats the plea from Roger for his own property, and if anyone knows anything about a boy suddenly coming into possession of a wheel that does not belong to him, please report it either to Roger Vincent, or his parents in Columbiana so that arrangements may be made for its recovery without further legal investigation.

Comes To Calera

EDDIE G. DOWNS

Eddie Downs Now With Calera Bank

The Reporter-Democrat takes pride in presenting to Shelby Countians this week Eddie G. Downs, brother of widely known Roy Downs, president of Central State Bank of Calera. Mr. Downs formerly resided in West Palm Beach, Florida. He has recently accepted a position with the Central State Bank and he, his wife, Rebecca Downs, and one daughter Eleanor Downs, have moved to Calera where they will make their future home.

Mr. Downs, during his residence in Florida, was District Manager of the state's Livestock Sanitary Board. He is a graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Mrs. Downs, formerly from Franklin county, is a graduate of University of Alabama. Their daughter, Eleanor is three years old and both admit she is the most important member of their household.

The Town of Calera is most fortunate in acquiring the citizenship of Mr. and Mrs. Downs and we congratulate the Central State Bank upon obtaining the services of another member of the distinguished Downs family of Alabama as a member of the excellent staff of employees in this firmly established financial institution in our county.

OUTPOSTS OF VENGEANCE

A HISTORICAL NOVEL BY E. E. HALLERAN

THE STORY SO FAR: Ann Randall had always seemed like a child to Will Morgan, and he treated her as such. Mary Bolden, on the other hand, was different. From the first time he saw her aboard the Carolina wagon train, Will knew that he wanted her for his wife. He visits the Bolden camp for a very awkward meeting. Then, chiding himself for being so taken with her, he returns to town and allows a moocher, Tobe Ansley, to bilk him for a meal and some drinks.

Leaving Ansley, he heads back for the camp. Suddenly he hears a voice calling out for help and he recognizes the voice of the girl from Carolina. For a moment he is undecided.

CHAPTER III

His intentions changed abruptly and with some show of caution he advanced toward the sound of conflict. The voices grew more distinct immediately as he passed through a clump of thick bushes and the moonlight showed him a girl struggling in the arms of two men.

Throwing caution to the wind he broke into a run and launched himself at the attackers. The glint of buttons in the moonlight told him that he had two militiamen to handle but that was not important to him.

There was a quick cry of alarm from the girl as she saw another assailant closing in but she was not long in learning that this one was an ally. Morgan's fist went home under the ear of the shorter man and in the confusion of the attack Mary tore herself away from the other fellow. Will's victim went down like a log but the bigger man charged in with a bellow of drunken rage.

Jarred by a heavy blow in the face Will's senses reeled for an instant but he was still able to realize that his opponent was coming in with a vicious rush. He met the attack in the only way which his fogged thoughts told him was wise—flinging himself bodily at the attacker's knees.

Will Discovers Mary Is Independent Person

The impact sent both of them sprawling and Will quickly knew that this was no way for him to tangle with the heavier man. The fellow knew something of rough and tumble fighting and he was not too drunk to take care of himself. Morgan exerted himself desperately as powerful fingers worked toward his throat.

The militiaman used his weight skillfully and Will felt himself being driven to the ground with the other man on top, then suddenly the fellow's grip relaxed and his weight became just so many pounds of limp flesh.

Will rolled to his feet promptly to find the girl standing over the unconscious soldier with a stout piece of timber in her hands. The other militiaman was just scrambling to his knees and at sight of two victorious opponents he jumped up and bolted into the bushes.

Will felt his ribs experimentally. "Nice job . . . Mary," he commended her. "That fellow was too big for me."

She seemed unimpressed by her part in the fight, content to take it all as a matter of course. "I oughta kill the miserable polecat!" she snapped. "I was out walkin' when them two fellers stopped me. I smacked one a purty good crack, then t'other one made a pass at me. I fetched him a clout too but when they both went fer me it was a bit more'n I could handle. I'm right obliged that yo' happened along when yo' did."

"I guess the favors are even," Will told her, smiling ruefully in the darkness.

Will saw that she was holding the shoulder of her garment but as the moon was at her back he could not determine the extent of the damage. "I wonder what we'd better do about this fellow you patted on the head?"

"Let him lay. I guess he ain't daid, is he?"

Kneeling at the man's side Will made a quick examination. "He's alive all right," he reported. "Although I imagine he'll have a rotten headache when he wakes up."

She laughed carelessly. "Serve him right good and proper—and anyway he'd have had one tomorrow regardless, judgin' by the smell o' licker on him. Let's git outa here before he wakes up and starts another fracas."

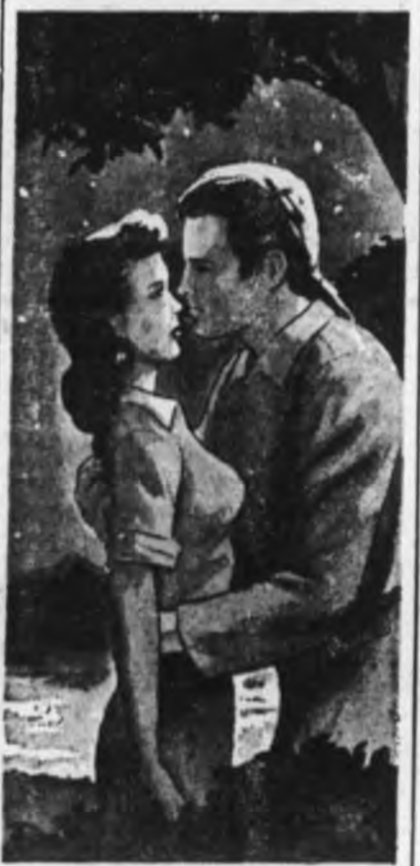
They walked along in silence for some distance. The girl was evidently pondering the implications of her own remark for presently she added, as though no time had elapsed since her last words, "But sometimes I feel like I don't want to keep it up no longer. I wanta ease up and have nice things. Then I remember Ma and I get tougher'n ever. Nights like tonight when the moon is so purty and the frogs and night birds are soundin' off it seems like there oughta be somethin' in the world fer me except fightin' all the time."

She halted, looking out over the pale shimmer that was the river. As Will halted beside her he saw for the first time the full extent of damage to her dress. It had been torn from neck to waist, exposing a strip of white flesh which sent the hot blood coursing through his veins. Almost unconsciously he edged closer, following up her last remark as she seemed lost in thought. "It doesn't seem to me that a pretty girl like you should spend her life that way. I'm . . ."

"Yo' git a ways back there!" she snapped. "Yo're likely jest the same as all the others. I even have to keep an eye out fer Cousin Dan: he keeps messin' around all the time."

Her father had been with Greene's army during the Revolution and her home had been burned by the raiders of Cornwallis. She told it all with an air of defiance, only showing her doubts when she concluded, "I ain't so sure we'll improve matters by comin' out here. The closer we git to the new country the surer it seems that we're due fer nothin' but more trouble."

Will wanted to encourage her but he knew only too well that her fears were well founded. "Where are you going?"



He stepped forward a pace when she seemed to hesitate. When she made no move to repel him he reached out quickly, taking her in a capable embrace.

"Some place up the Big Miami River. Know where it is?"

"In a general way, yes."

"That's more'n we do," she laughed shortly. "A slicker of a land agent jest about cleaned out my pappy and my uncle sellin' 'em the land so now they figure they can't afford to do nothin' but push on and take it. There's supposed to be quite a batch of other folks goin' to the same place so mebbe it won't be so risky."

Morgan Offers Story And Heart in Vain

When he did not speak she laughed shortly. "Well, that's my yarn, mister. What's your'n?"

He pulled himself up with a start. "Not much different in some ways," he said slowly. "I remember the Revolution about like you do. I was just six years old when my father was killed at Concord bridge. Mother lived only six months longer and I was taken in by a family moving out to northern Pennsylvania. I lived with them in the Wyoming Valley until the Tories and Iroquois came down on us. I was one of the lucky ones who survived and I watched the rest of the war from a Quaker farmhouse near Philadelphia. A year ago I left and came out here. Maybe it's not the most comfortable place in the country but I figured it was about time I was striking out on my own."

"Everybody goin' to get rich in the Ohio country," she said.

He glanced toward her for the first time since they had seated themselves and in an instant his story was lost in the quick turmoil of emotion which swept over him. The moonlight revealed the whiteness of her shoulder as her ravaged dress was forgotten. She snatched the garment hastily together as he moved toward her, a quick word of warning halting his advance.

"Keep back now! Yo' promised to behave."

"I'm sorry," he said quickly. "I wasn't trying to take advantage. I want you to know that I have never felt about any girl as I feel about you."

"I'll bet yo've told that to a heap o' girls. Do many of 'em believe yo'?"

She scrambled to her feet as she spoke and he rose with her. "Honest, Mary, I mean it. I never . . ."

He stepped forward a pace as she seemed to hesitate. When she made no move to repel him he reached out quickly, taking her in a capable embrace. At least it seemed capable for a moment; after that she fought him as she had fought the militiamen, seemingly almost in a panic at her own show of weakness. He tried to pin her arms but she twisted in his grasp, freeing herself and sending him backward.

A root projecting above the surface of the river bank caught his heel and he went sprawling, rolling down the bank into the muddy shallows of the Monongahela.

He sat up sputtering in time to see her dark figure retreating toward the wagon camp. It did not occur to him to be angry at the treatment he had received; all he cared about was that she should realize his earnestness.

"Mary!" he called. "Come back."

The receding footsteps crunched on gravel, then there was silence as she faded through the bushes. He called again without result, then hauled himself out of the water and began to scrape the mud from his breeches and leggins. It was while he was engaged in this unromantic occupation that a voice startled him from a point quite close at hand.

"What the merry hell's goin' on here?" the unknown asked. "Ye been in the river?"

"What does it look like?" Morgan snapped.

A man emerged from the shadows and once more Will could see the glitter of buttons. The militiaman came close to inspect the mud scraping operation. He was staggering a little but he seemed more sober in thought than his legs. "I'll betcha," he said solemnly, "that ye've been fighting with that female wildcat what's loose on this river bank. Mebbe we better stick together 'til we git clear o' here. She's ornery!"

Ann Randall Makes Visit to Say 'Goodbye'

Will did not argue. He went along silently, letting the other do the talking as they skirted the wagon camp and headed toward the militia huts. Before they had gone fifty feet, however, a bulky shadow materialized silently at Will's side and the nasal voice of Tobe Ansley suggested, "I reckon the drinks are on ye, Will. Ed here would be a bad man to fight when he's sober."

When Will opened his eyes next morning he could hear Old Sam talking jovially to someone. There was a tempting odor of bacon and eggs in the air and it seemed evident that the packer had found a guest for breakfast. Will went directly to the river for a hasty wash and then returned to the fire to discover Ann Randall seated on a packing box. She eyed him silently over her tin plate of breakfast but Old Sam did enough talking for both of them.

"Hell's fire!" he growled. "Ye might think I was jest the cook fer this here outfit. I hire ye to help me and all the help I git I could stick in my eye! Ye sleep like I don't know what and leave me to do the cookin' fer ye—and fer the neighbor's brats what ain't got sense enough to stay home in the mornin's."

Ann grinned delightedly at the abuse. "I came over to say goodbye," she explained calmly. "My father says the ark is done enough for us to start. He'll do the top building as we float down the river." Her face sobered as she studied Will's battered face. "I guess it's just as well that we're going," she added.

Old Sam seemed to understand her glance and remark. He swallowed a mouthful of bacon and started on Will again. "I seen ye come sneakin' in last night, ye young whelp. Soakin' wet, ye was—and look at ye this mornin'! A knob on yer face the size of a hen's egg, bush scratches all over ye and yer clo'es full o' mud. Was ye drunk?"

Will shook his head. "Never soberer in my life."

"Who licked ye?"

Morgan shot a hasty glance at the yellow-haired girl and tried to make his reply sound casual. "Would you believe me if I told you that a girl pushed me into the river?"

Old Sam shook his tousled head promptly and vigorously. "Nope. I'd believe a gal had somethin' to do with it but I'd figger it was somebody else what done the shovin'. Why in hell don't ye find out fust whether they're married or not?"

Will colored and his employer went on as though trying to make amends for his severity. "Ye better stick around camp today and rest yer face and hands. It looks like we're goin' to take on an extra chore and it might mean leavin' the forks this evenin'."

Morgan's face must have indicated his surprise. He knew that no pack train had arrived from the east. Hence there was no load for Old Sam to take down river. Talk of an early start did not make sense.

Old Sam explained. "The militia company is ready to go. I'm dickerin' with Van Cleve for an extra flatboat and if I get it I'll send ye along with a crew of alligator-horses to handle her. No use expectin' militiamen to be any good as boat handlers. If they was wuth their salt at anything under the sun they wouldn't be in the militia."

COUNTY AND STATE ACCIDENT DEATHS

The 174 motor vehicle accident deaths reported from the entire state in January, February and March included 2 reported from Shelby county. The announcement was made recently by the State Department of Health.

The Department revealed that 20 of the 67 counties failed to report any deaths attributed to that cause during that three-month period. With the exception of the 27 reported from Jefferson, 21 from Mobile and 14 from Montgomery, no county reported more than six deaths of this kind.

New Tape Makes 'Handyman' of Housewife

BY EDNA MILES

ONE of the newest trouble shooters for the many repair jobs that pop up around the house during the summer is a new plastic tape.

Waterproof and impervious to oils, this tape is thin, black and pliable. It sticks on contact, is not affected by prolonged sunlight or intense cold.

Every housewife comes up against a pair of rubbers, now and again, that are torn but must see service in some weather emergency. This new tape provides the right solution. And it's equally good for mending a leaky ice-bag, or for insulating electric wiring.

Because it has a rubber-like ability to stretch over twice its length, this tape is fine for wrapping the handles of golf clubs, baseball bats and tennis racquets. It's just as effective for fishing rods, tool handles or a leaky hose. And it turns in a top performance in splicing lamp cords, repairing rubber mats, replacing putty around windows or for stopping up leaky water pipes.

It's uses could make a lengthy list. With it, any housewife can turn into an efficient Mrs. Fix-It, thereby making her husband happy.

Plastic tape mends a cracked thermos top and leaves it ready for use. Tape is waterproof.

New plastic tape is waterproof and impervious to oils, acids, prolonged sunlight or cold. It's ideal for patching an ice-bag.

HOSPITAL REPRESENTATIVE

The Alabama Department of Veterans' Affairs now have a full time Hospital Representative to take care of the needs of our veterans in various Hospitals throughout the State. Mr. C. C. Horton, Director of the Department, has announced that Mr. Andrew J. Cooper, formerly Veterans' Service Officer for Macon and Bullock counties has assumed the duties of Hospital Representative.

Mr. Cooper will visit certain Hospitals over the State, including Public and Private Tuberculosis sanitoriums, all institutions for the feeble minded and insane, as well as the Veterans' Hospitals. The new position of Hospital Representative was created by the Department of Veterans' Affairs, because it is believed that there are many Veterans in our Hospitals who are entitled to benefits, but who have not been able to claim them on account of not having had such opportunity. The Hospital Representative will undertake to find such veterans, and to assist them in securing their rightful entitlement.

FREE GI INSURANCE

Money to pay insurance claims to dependents of servicemen who died since the beginning of the Korean War has been exhausted since the latter part of April, at which time over 7,000 claims had been approved for the $92.90 a month payments. The bill signed by the President provides the money to pay these claims, as well as future claims under the so called Free GI Insurance Law. Those of you who have not received these insurance payments will be glad to know that the Veterans' Administration will soon mail your check bringing the payments up to date.

GI HOME LOANS

Effective June 11th, veterans purchasing homes through Veterans' Administration guarantee mortgages need no down payment on homes costing $7,000 or less and the down payments required, by the Government on homes costing from $7,000 to $12,000 are relatively small. For instance, a home costing $8,000 will now require a down payment of $350, while a $10,000 home will require a down payment of $580.

Employees Compensation Act. Widows, children and parents of persons who died in service, or died as the result of illness or injuries due to service, and he was a member of the Reserves, are entitled to certain compensation benefits. As a general rule, the amount of compensation payable is much greater than that paid by the Veterans' Administration. I suggest that those of you whose husbands were members of the Reserves and lost their lives due to service get in touch with your County Service Officer.

SEWING IS HOBBY FOR GIRLS AND HOMEMAKERS

On Wednesday of each week the Home Economics Sewing Laboratory at Shelby County High School is filled with people who are learning to sew. Most of these people have never sewed any before, but they are finding sewing for themselves a real hobby and they are becoming aware that they can save by making their own clothes. Many of them sew from 8 A. M. until 5 P. M. and are much enthused over the fact that they can almost finish a garment in a days time. Those who were sewing last Wednesday were as follows:

Jane Mooney, Betty Ruth Watts, nny Crawford, Peggy Stokes, nnette Thompson, Merle Meyers, Mrs. Victor Milstead and Mrs. hn Farr.

There will only be three more times to take advantage of this workshop but if you would like to sew come on over to the school.

CANNING CENTER OPENS ONE DAY A WEEK

Due to the fact that the dry weather has prevented the vegetables from producing as early as was expected this summer, the Canning Center will open only one day a week. The center will open on Friday of each week until further notified. Those who plan to can are requested to contact Miss Lightsey at 3804 or Mrs. Handy Ellis at 4331 by Thursday night of each week and let them know what time you expect to be in the canning center.

Those families whose gardens were ruined by the drought or hail are urged to plant a fall garden. Now is the time to begin breaking the land and getting the soil ready to plant. Choose a moist place for the garden if at all possible. Let's plan to can all we can.

And speaking of politics, who was it who said "Old soldiers never die, they just trade away?" Well, anyway, one side can always brag that while the other fellow was out lining up delegates, their man was out lining up allies.

FOR JULY 13

Bible Comment:

Ruin Awaits Those Who Would Depart From Wisdom's Path

IT is one thing to praise wisdom, but quite another thing to practice it. And the most unwise thing that can happen is to abandon wisdom once you have found it.

This is forcefully illustrated in the history of King Solomon, reputedly the author of the Book of Proverbs, and reputedly "the wisest man who ever lived."

At least two great and noble incidents are recorded of Solomon, and if all his life and action had been in accordance with these he surely would have deserved the fullest of his reputation for wisdom.

The one incident was the dream recorded in I Kings 3:5-12, in which, asked to choose whatever he desired from the Lord, he spoke in deep humility and asked, above all things, for an understanding heart to exercise good judgment and rule his people well.

The other outstanding incident was his prayer at the dedication of the Temple. Perhaps, like some addresses of other kings and rulers, it was written for him by some religious leader of saintly spirit and prophetic insight. But by delivering it Solomon made it his own, and if he had continued in the letter and spirit of that prayer he might have gone down in history as famous for his goodness and wisdom as he is for the outward splendor of his reign.

Instead Solomon took to himself many wives. Not content with the building of the Temple, he built for himself. In a great palace he surrounded himself with riches and luxury for which the people paid in oppressive taxes. Bearing it all while Solomon lived, they rebelled when his son Rehoboam succeeded him.

Solomon in the early part of his reign stands as a fine example and an exhortation to wisdom. But in the latter part he stands as a solemn warning of what happens to a man, even a great one, when he departs from wisdom.

R.O.T.C. UNITS TAKING SUMMER TRAINING

Again this year, thousands of young college men, members of Reserve Officer Training Corps units throughout the country, left their homes and classrooms to participate in six weeks of intensive military training.

The youths will train in summer camps conducted by the various branches of the United States Army, working to qualify for coveted commissions as second lieutenants in the Army Reserve. The Signal Corps, which is charged with the responsibility of installing, operating and maintaining all the Army's vital communications, is this year schooling almost 1,000 fledging officers at Camp Gordon, Georgia.

From tiny "handie-talkie" radios each little larger than a carton of cigarettes, but invaluable to unit commanders in the field, to newly-developed and highly complex mobile field photographic laboratories, the students have the opportunity to see and learn precisely how the Signal Corps operates.

In addition to basic military subjects, essential to the training of every prospective junior officer, the Signal Corps ROTC camp provides five particular fields of training: Field Radio Communications; Field Wire Construction; Message and Communications Center Operation; Radio Relay and Carrier Telephony; and Telephone and Teletypewriter Communication.

REDS EYED—Troops of the Philippine Battalion in Korea keep a sharp watch on "Shanghai Hill," a Communist position only a few thousand yards from their United Nations' outpost. The heaviest fighting of the year has taken place in this area.

POLITICAL BULLRING — Located near Chicago's sprawling stockyards, the International Amphitheater is the site of the Republican and Democratic National Conventions. This aerial view shows the political battleground's proximity to the cattle pens, seen in the upper portion of the photograph. Delegates meet under the main roof, center. The south wing, left, is where press rooms for 1500 newsmen are located.

CAMERA CATCHES CATCHER'S FLIGHT—Seeming to hover over home plate, catcher Paul Navarro of the Mexico City team descends too late to tag Rene Gonzales of the Veracruz Aguilas who steals home safely. The zooming catcher made up for the late tag when he singled home the winning run later in the game, giving his team a 5-4 win of the contest played in Mexico City.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY HAS NO DISABLING ACCIDENTS

Alabama Power Company has received word that the 850 employees of its Engineering and Construction Department have achieved the record of having worked one million manhours without a disabling injury accident. The announcement was made by the Safety Merit Award Committee of Edison Electric Institute. This is the first time in the 10-year history of the Institute's merit awards that an engineering and construction group has achieved this record as a unit although engineering and construction personnel have contributed to the winning of safety merit awards of companies as a whole.

Alabama Power Company employees have made it possible for the Company to have been awarded seven Company-wide safety certificates and twenty plant or divisional certificates.

Alabama Power Company's Engineering and Construction Department is under the direction of vice president F. C. Weiss, Birmingham, D. F. Elliott, construction manager, and E. R. Coulbourn, engineering manager. Mr. Weiss observed that the record of Engineering and Construction employees is all the more exceptional when it is considered that, during the period covered by the million manhours, major construction projects were at the stage when accidents could have been numerous had safety precautions not been observed. Included in these projects were the enlargement of Gorgas Steam Plant No. 2 in Walker county, initial work on the multi-million dollar Barry Steam Plant near Mobile and the installation of another generating unit at Martin Dam on the T[illegible]poosa River. During the 7-month period covered by the Department's safety record, nearly 100 transmission and distribution substations were built, enlarged or improved, over 300 miles of high voltage line, including a major transmission line in southeast Alabama, and over 600 miles of distribution line were completed.

Alabama Power Company's construction expenditures for the period 1952-1954 are expected to reach 102 million dollars.

To restore moist freshness to dried out cake, wrap in a damp cloth and set in a moderately warm oven until the cloth is dry.

FROM THE MAIL BAG TO A FRIEND

"I love you not only for what you are, but what I am when I am with you."

"I love you not only for what you have made of yourself, but for what you are making of me."

"I love you for the part of me that you bring out."

"I love you for ignoring the possibilities of the fool and weakling in me and for laying hold on the possibilities of the good in me."

"I love you for closing your ears to the discords in me, and for adding to the music in me by worshipful listening."

"I love you because you are helping me to make of the timber of my life not a tavern, but a temple and the words of my every day not a reproach but a song."

"You have done it without a touch, a word, without a sign. You have done it by being yourself. Perhaps that is what being a friends means after all."

No artist can paint a picture to compare with the handiwork of God." If you have not been to this famed spot, you probably will not understand the truth contained in this statement. This Gateway to the Smokies is by far the most peaceful, restful, beautiful place we have ever seen. If I had my way, and the money to go with it.... here, in this mountain retreat.... I would build a summer home.... I could look at those mountains all day and listen to Little Pigeon River all night.

. . . Did you know that the Kiwanis Club had received a letter from 25 couples from Columbiana, Ohio, who want to spend their vacations in Columbiana, Alabama? Wish Flowerland Court was big enough to house the entire 50 people! With this lovely place for headquarters, they could motor out to many interesting points nearby, and get a birds eye view of Old Alabama. Ten to one they would all want to remain with us "for keeps". We hope the Kiwanians wrote them a good old "southern welcome" letter and told them all about the many atractive spots they could visit while enjoying the friendliness of the people on Main Street.

. . . Did you know that Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, who formerly resided at Tuck's Lake, had opened a Barbecue and Sandwich Shop in the home where Ed Sykes used to have his place of business? Top of German Hill. They have delicious hickory smoked home barbecued sandwiches on tap at all hours. We enjoyed a Barbecue Plate luncheon there Thursday, and advise you, to drive by and try these Barbecue sandwiches. You will, like others have done, be going by frequently these hectic nights when you do not want to bother with cooking at home. If all goes well, I hear Mr. Tucker will screen in an out door place and use picnic tables for those who enjoy a snack in the open. Think that would be a fine idea, and something new, too.

. . . We enjoyed a thoughtful call in our office Saturday from Mr. and Mrs. Hallett MacKnight of Oak Ridge, Tennessee. Mr. and Mrs. MacKnight were holiday guests of Mrs. Lillie Mae MacKnight in Columbiana.

. . . Fred McClendon of Maylene Route, alert and energetic Member of our Board of Revenue and Control, has recently taken some trips into other counties of Alabama, and upon returning states, "It made me mighty proud of the progress we are daily making in our road construction work in Shelby county. We are working toward eliminating all wooden bridges, supplanting them with concrete structures, which spells "permanent development". Mr. McClendon believes in order to draw people to this section of Alabama and Shelby county, that our basic consideration should be "Good Roads, Good Schools, Good Churches!" We do not believe this statement would provoke any argument for good citizens insist on these three essentials. Shelby county is definitely on the march and more people are writing for information about our resources and are personally coming down to look things over than ever before in the history of this county. This fact is further proved by the many pieces of property that have recently been sold as residential sites for future homes. To make a long story short, no matter how attractive Old Vulcan may be in our Magic City, for workmen who are employed there for a livelihood, we have yet to find one, who would not like to own a home in Shelby county, where the din and bustle of busy Birmingham, could be forgotten at the close of the long day's grind, and this peaceful rural setting be the inviting place they would like to call HOME SWEET HOME.

We appreciate Fred's continued loyalty to our journalistic enterprise, and his renewal subscription to the Home Paper which he left with us.

. . . We are hearing many fine things about Eddie G. Downs who recently came to make his home in Calera. All we can say is, if "Eddie Downs" is one half as fine as his brother, Roy Downs, then, we all have something to be happy about.

. . . Friends were seen Sunday greeting popular Helen and Tom Tinney and their two sons, Johnnie and Tommy who are visiting Mr. Tinney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tinney. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tinney now reside in North Carolina where Mr. Tinney holds a responsible position with the Newsprint Company affiliated with the Coosa Newsprint Plant.

. . . Mrs. Effie Mae Williams of Oxford spent the week end as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Cecil Duke and Mr. Duke.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS HONORING PATSY BROWN

LUNCHEON

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith and their daughter, Hilda, gave a luncheon at their lovely country home Saturday at noon honoring Miss Patsy Brown, bride-elect, and her fiance, Warren Duke.

The white linen covered table was placed on their spacious screened porch overlooking the lake and centered with a bowl of mixed summer flowers. A gardenia corsage was presented the bride-elect. Dr. Ralph S. Hunt, Jr., gave the toast to the bridal couple.

Swimming was enjoyed later in the afternoon.

Those present for this happy event were the honorees and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith and boys, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunt, Jr., Mr. Ralph Hunt, III, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Duke, Mrs. Raymond Huey, Hueytown; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cowart, Jr., Mobile; Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Vincent and boys of Minneapolis.

AFTER-REHEARSAL PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Duke entertained Saturday night with an after rehearsal party honoring their son, Warren and his fiancee, Miss Patsy Brown.

Pastel shades of asters and roses were used throughout the receiving parlors. The lace covered party table was centered with a miniature bride and groom behind which Mrs. Robert Turner poured punch from a cut-glass punch bowl encircled with talisman rosebuds, lily of the valley and pimosa fern. Mrs. Jim Duke served the embossed individual cakes, bridal mints and nuts.

A candle-lighted arrangement of roses and asters adorned the buffet.

Attending this occasion were the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Brown and Brenda, Mildred White Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Rux Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner, Rev. and Mrs. A. D. Wilson, Mrs. W. F. Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunt, Jr., Miss Hilda Smith, Ralph S. Hunt, III, Mr. and Mrs. William Clark, Mr. and Mrs. JiJm Duke, Mrs. Luther Curlee, Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Vincent, Mrs. Frank Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fulton.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Vincent, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cowart, Jr., Mobile; Mrs. M. J. Williams, Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis, Gadsden, and Mrs. Jack Dorough, Birmingham.

. . . Mrs. Charles Allen and Deborah Allen were holiday guests of Mrs. Allen's father, Lloyd Cole.

Mrs. Arnold Fewell and Milton Gardner of Phenix City spent the week end in Columbiana with their sister Mrs. Luther McGiboney and other relatives.

. . . Miss Leila Stone and Mrs. Rosa McDanal have returned from a delightful vacation spent with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spearman in Augusta, Georgia. Mrs. McDanal told us of the beautiful ante-bellum homes in Augusta and many interesting things the natives of Augusta did to celebrate the Fourth. Among the festivities was a feature, as she says, called "The Fantastics".... which, according to her description, must be something that would correspond with the Mardi Gras spirit of New Orleans. At any rate, the young Spearmans saw that these two Alabama visitors did not lack for entertainment. Mrs. McDanal said she would have to "rest a week from her vacation".... but that it was an "unforgettable occasion."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin of Gadsden were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Walton the Fourth. On Sunday they had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Scales and children of Venice, Florida.

Bob Gardner is spending a furlough at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gardner of Lesters Chapel community.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Baker of Columbia, S. C. spent the week end here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stone.

Luther McGiboney, Jr. spent the first of the week visiting in Phenix City.

BROWN-DUKE WEDDING SOLEMNIZED

In a candlelight ceremony at four-thirty o'clock, July 6, in the Methodist Church in Columbiana, the wedding of Miss Patsy Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Brown and Warren Duke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Duke, of Columbiana, was impressively solemnized.

The Rev. A. D. Wilson, pastor of the Methodist Church and the Rev. Curtis Bean, pastor of the Baptist Church, officiating at the double ring ceremony. The nuptial music was presented by Jane Fowler Carter, vocalist, and Mildred White Wallace, organist, and the following numbers were used: "Venetian Love Song" by Nevin; "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life", Victor Herbert; "One Alone" by Romberg and "O Promise Me." Mrs. Carter sang "Because" by D' Harlot and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. The ceremony theme featured "If God Left Only You." The traditional marches were played and O Perfect Love used as a Recessional.

The setting for this wedding featured five candlelighted archways, banked with smilax and on either side of the altar arrangement were baskets of white chrysanthemus and Shasta Daises. The candles were lighted by Ralph S. Hunt III, and James F. Duke.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an exquisite ballerina length gown of white chantilly lace over duchess satin. The fitted jacket featured a Peter Pan collar. The long sleeves ended in calla lilly points over the wrists. Her finger tip veil of illusion was caught to a crown of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book marked with an orchid and showered with satin streamers and stephanotis. The bride's only ornament was a string of pearls, presented by the groom which was a family heirloom formerly worn by the groom's mother.

Mrs. Robert L. Turner, the bride's only attendant was gowned in a pink embroidered net dress, ballerina length, with which she wore a half bonnet matching her dress. She carried a garland of pastel carnations on a background of pink satin.

Mr. Duke served his son as best man.

Following the ceremony the young couple left for an automobile trip thru Tennessee and North Carolina. For travelling, the bride wore a pink tailored suit with navy accessories.

Mrs. Brown, for her daughter's wedding wore a black faille model with large picture hat and white accessories.

Mrs. Duke, mother of the groom wore black chiffron with white accessories. Both wore carnation corsages.

Out of town guests included: Mrs. Eleanor Lester, Mrs. Juanita Bates, Mss. Betty Jo Willis, and Mrs. Jack Dorough of Birmingham; Mrs. M. J. Williams of Oxford, Alabama; Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Vincent, David Vincent, Steven Vincent, Minneapolis, Minnesota; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cowart of Mobile, Alabama; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis of Gadsden, Alabama; Mrs. J. A. Daniel; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Daniel, Miss Charlcie Grimes of Centre, Alabama.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Spriggs (Bertie Shaw) and their children will leave soon for a three year sojourn in Alaska where Mr. Spriggs is assigned on military duty. At present Mrs. Spriggs and children are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Shaw.

. . . Little Larry Dorough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dorough of Birmingham, is spending the summer with his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bolin Cooper in Columbiana.

. . . Friends of Johnny Hill, formerly of Wilsonville, will regret to learn that he pased away at his home in Torrence, California, recently. Mr. Hill is survived by his widow and one daughter; two sisters, Miss Mamie Hill of Wilsonville and Mrs. Noland Barnett of Columbiana and one brother, Howard Hill of Hollywood.

AUSTERITY SMASHER—The British may have an austerity program but they also have pretty 18-year-old Joan Collins to grace their cinema screens. Joan, shown above in a London studio, has her first big role in the film, "I Believe in You."

FERMAN T. O'HARO WRITES FROM BURBANK, CALIFORNIA

"Dear Mildred White Wallace:

Enclosed my check for one year's subscription to the Reporter-Democrat. Next to my annual contribution to the Shriners Cripple Children's Hospital fund, I consider this my best investment. Speaking of Shriners, I note in this week's issue of the paper that Noble Leon Meyers attended the Shriners Convention in Miami. I recall dropping by his store during our brief visit to Main in September, 1947. Thru the friendly columns of our "Home Paper" we have been able to contact numerous old friends, including the John Weldons, Kimbroughs, Dr. Charles Acker, Judge Riddle, Mrs. Flora Spearman, who now owns the old O'Haro homestead in Wilsonville, built way back in the gay nineties, where as a barefoot boy I learned the meaning of the 'three R's' in a three room school on the hill near the Methodist church. When I turned into my teens I moved to the county seat. My parents wanted to give all nine of us the advantages of High School. Columbiana, at that time had the only High School in the county.

Now, back for a minute to those old friends and relatives we have heard from. Several years ago while reading the Home Paper I saw where Woodrow Elliott and the Rev. S. E. Paulk were attending the National Kiwanis Convention in Los Angeles, and hurried down to the Clark Hotel where the Alabama delegation was stopping and had a nice visit with the two gentlemen. I have also enjoyed news from my cousin E. B. Teague and Mrs. Louella Teague Nelson and Mrs. Rosa Teague of 'The Pines" and the sincere jurist Judge Leslie Longshore of Anniston whom we remember as the most studious pupil in 'Miss Mary's' room. So glad to learn that this grand Lady is returning to Shelby High. Some more grand people, just next door to us are the E. W. Williamsons, formerly of Wilsonville, who, like so many others, retired to Southern California.

Last summer we had an Alabama reunion at the Williamsons home near Glendale and among those present were: Mrs. Purnie Pope Phillips, Morristown, Tenn.; Mrs. Olive Densler Satterfield, Mrs. Blossom Black Rothberg, of Hollywood; Malcolm Williams and others. What a thrill!

Speaking of thrills, the greatest thrill we have had out here was when we viewed that wonderful production of Howard Hill's, 'Tembo'! Howard, as you know is one of the outstanding personalities of Hollywood, and from Wilsonville. His beautiful and talented wife Elizabeth Hodges Hill did the research work on 'Tembo'.... One of my fellow-club members, a big wheel in Hollywood had some connection with the production of the Birth of a Nation. I have a luncheon date with this person and shall try and learn more about the circumstances of this 'celebrity from Shelby county' which, by mere accident, I happened to hear about.

Please accept a 'hello' from me, and go by and say 'thank you' for me to Milton Bird.

I remain, sincerely yours,

Ferman T. O'Haro"
July 1, 1952
Burbank, California

(It is a pleasure to share this splendid letter with the many friends of Mr. O'Haro's who still remain in Shelby county. If any Shelby county boys are stationed near Burbank, contact this genial loyal fellow, who states it will be a privilege and a pleasure to meet you and entertain and extend to you a bit of well known Shelby county hospitality. M. W. W.)

BAND MOTHERS TO SELL BAKERY PRODUCTS

Home baked cakes and pies may now be ordered thru the Band Mother's Club. Cakes and Pies are made to order. The money derived from these sales will be donated to the High School Band requirements.

If interested in placing your order for the week end or special occasions, phone Mrs. Gene Edmondson or Mrs. James Crawford.

The members of this organization will also have a Band Booth at the County Fair, and will sell hand made articles for this purpose.

. . . The Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Franks and Annette Franks of Montgomery were guests in Columbiana Tuesday.

. . . Guests in the hospitable home of the W. E. Garrett's during the past week end included: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garrett of Pell City, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Garrett and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrett and their families. Charles Garrett, having lived a number of years in Columbiana wants news from home each week, and his mother requests that we comply with his wishes. So, here we come this week for a visit with the Garretts in their home in Pell City, thru the columns of the Reporter-Democrat.

. . . Miss Hilda Smith, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith, has been selected by Mayor Wales W. Wallace Jr., to represent Columbiana in the Sylacauga Chamber of Commerce search for "Miss Television" on July 12. The contestants for this honor will come from Sylacauga, Sycamore, Alex City, Columbiana, Childersburg, and other towns surrounding the Marble City. They will be entertained with a luncheon by members of the Sylacauga Chamber of Commerce, Jack Nealeans, president.

. . . News from the bedside of Mr. W. B. White who is in the Veterans Hospital in Montgomery suffering from an attack of bronical pneumonia is good. Mr. White is convalescing satisfactorily and his friends and loved ones are hoping for a quick return to his home in Columbiana.

CITIZENS OF TWO COMMONWEALTHS

"For our conversion (citizenship) is in heaven." - Phillipians 3:20

The Bible that we English speaking people mostly use today was translated from the original tongues more than 300 years ago.

The meaning of a good many English words has changed somewhat.

For instance, if the Scripture quotation at the head of this article were translated today, it would doubtless be made to read, "For our citizenship is in heaven" for the reason that the word "conversation" is used in a narrower sense today than at the time the King James version of the Bible was made.

Citizenship carries with it the manner of one's life, religiously, socially, politically. It is a big and meaningful word.

Every Christian carries a double citizenship, each with its privileges and responsibilities. He is a citizen of Alabama or some other state or country. As such he can claim protection for his life and property, and in return for which he pays his taxes, serves on the jury, goes to war if necessary.

He is also a citzen of a kingdom that the non-Christian knows little about and in the benefits of which he has no share.

Does this mean that a Christian is trying to ride two horses at the same time, as it were? Is he guilty of a divided loyalty, claiming to serve two masters, the one at variance with the other? How can a person belong to two commonwealths ,and cultivate genuine fidelity to both?

In a country where Christianity is a positive influence among its citizens, there is no clash between the Kingdom of Heaven and the earthly commonwealth. In fact, there is a wholesome and constructive interaction between the two.

The Church, the one promotive agency of righteousness on earth, gives to the country its good citizens. Because of that invaluable contribution, the government protects the Church, guarantees its liberty of action, releases its property from taxation, thereby tacitly declaring that the Church is its ally and not its antagonist. Each operates in its own field, and neither tramps upon the toes of the other.

A free Church in a free country is the ideal that should be uppermost in the minds of all intelligent citizens, for a good Christian is without exception a good citizen. Therefore the very life-blood of an enduring government flows through the veins of its Christian citizenship.

If you wish to use less eggs in a cake, add one-half teaspoon of baking powder for each egg white omitted.

Wilted vegetabels soaked in cold water to which vinegar has been added soon regain their former crispness.

By 1832 the State Bank of Decatur was completed. The structure was built entirely by slaves who, as a reward for their labors, were freed immedately upon the banks dedication.

There are 1,189 miles of navigable inland waterways in Alabama today.

She Led Men

Lesson for July 13, 1952

WOMEN complain that this is a man's world. Well, it's half a man's world anyhow, because about half the grown people in it are men. But that's not the point. Women complain because men are the bosses, men get the big salaries, men run the government. Women are teachers but men run the schoolboard, and so forth. As a matter of fact, it can be doubted whether women actually would like it the other way. Women like men who are leaders, men with minds of their own, who can take hold of troublesome situations and straighten them out.

Dr. Foreman

Wife, Mother, Judge

ANYHOW, Deborah was a woman like that. Her name means "Bee" and she was the sort of women who would somehow sting lazy or timid people into doing their duty. She is the only one of the "Judges" of Israel who was a woman.

Now some female heroines are a bit odd, to say the least of it. Take Joan of Arc, who was a kind of bee herself, and who took over when the rightful leader hung back. Joan was the kind of girl who could hear voices no one else heard. She was not exactly the kind of girl any man would feel quite comfortable with. And naturally she never married.

But this Deborah was a wife and a mother. She made some man happy, she was a home-maker, children cuddled up in her lap.

When later she became a "judge" she had all the wisdom of common-sense and of normal experience as the basis of her other wisdom. She knew how mothers and home-makers feel.

When it says that she "judged Israel" it does not mean that she ran for office like modern judges, or that any king had appointed her, for there was no king to do it. It means simply that everybody respected her judgment so much that when there were problems more tangled and twisted than common, they would go ask Deborah what she thought.

She Didn't Like a Sissy

ON one famous occasion Deborah did not wait for the man to come; she sent for him. He lived far from her home, and his name was Barak. She put an idea into his head, only it was not her idea, she claimed for it the authority of God.

Barak was to be a general, he was to recruit an army. She told him, there under the palm tree, where he was to get his army, where he was to take it and what to do with it when he got there.

Space does not permit the details that would show that Deborah's ideas were absolutely sound from a military point of view. She was a whole General Staff by herself.

But Barak backed off from his great opportunity. He would go, he said, provided she would go along. Now Deborah didn't like that. She liked a man who would go out on his own without having to have a lady at hand to tell him what to do. So she went; but she told him the journey would not be for his honor.

That, however, is another story. The point is that this Deborah was a woman so wise that the ablest man in the country at the time was not willing to do anything important without her advice.

Deborah's Daughters

DEBORAH was not the last woman whose wisdom and whose decisions have led men to success.

There are today in the United States women in congress, both in the senate and in the house; a woman is in charge of manpower; at least one woman is a U.S. circuit judge, the next highest in rank below the Supreme Court. There was a woman governor of Wyoming as far back as 1924.

But for every woman who makes the headlines and Who's Who, for every woman who has some official position, there are hundreds of others, un-nominated and unsung, who are known in their homes and in their home towns for their unfailing good advice.

"Ask Mrs. ———" is the first thing the neighbors think when something comes up. And sometimes a wise woman's reputation doesn't even get around to the neighbors. Sometimes it is only her family that know how wise she is.

But it is a safe guess that if you took out of our modern life all that women contribute, all the good acts and far-sighted policies that they have thought of first, ours would be a much worse world than it is.

Good Morning

Milton Bird

A guy never knows when his trail will wind through a lilac patch. Or where a sycamore tree ends and the sky starts three minutes before dark on a summer day. Not a guy I ever knew knows. But any guy knows a lilac patch will wash the dirt out of a humdrum day. Now lunch had got to be a sort of habit at Evelyn's Place. The food was good and the talk was pleasant, but somehow it had got to be the same old thing day after day. Until today when the sun slipped through the skylight and danced on my table and she invited me to sit at her table in the corner. And so Emily Mitchell and I had dinner together. Emily is about seventeen, with a summer sunset blended into her pretty tanned face, and little rippling gusts of laughter fluttering in her talk. She sipped her milkshake and nibbled at my frenchfried potatoes, and we talked about huckleberries on the mountain back of her house and what a pretty girl would do when she met a raccon on the way to the mail box. Until it was time for a guy to get back to work and for a pretty girl to get outside and gather more sunshine from a summer day. And although things were about the same at the office all afternoon, there was something strangely refreshing about the place. As if, maybe, a lilac patch had washed the dirt out of a hum-drum day.

I used to run up behind him and blow and just sit there and blow some more, as he went through his acrobatic antics of motioning me by. But we always ended up on the same side of the road, he in his wagon and I in my ford. It was a lot of fun and we always had a fine laugh before we got things straightened out. Then I would meet him in town and shake his hand and call him cousin and tell him funny stories and watch him laugh. Sometimes I would slip a piece of rubber hose in his pocket and yell snake and watch him dance and beat the air violently. But he would laugh about that too. And we would have ice cream together, and talk about the sisters and the job of a good deacon, and the old church at Wilsonville behind the tall trees by the side of the dusty road. One day I sent him after a package, that turned up with a toy snake inside of it, and he had a running fit, but came back laughing to tell me about it. Yep, we were great friends. I would have been hurt if he had passed me without noticing, and I guess he would have been too had I passed him by. He was a tremendous hunk of sunshine and laughter in a world that has all too little of it. And all along the old street, and on the highways out of town, I'll sho miss Uncle Charlie Mallory. He was a swell guy.

It had been there for days, until it looked more like a stick than a flower, and still I hadn't thrown it out. But there is a reason for everything. Nothing just happens. The laughter and friendliness you take for granted, maybe, is there because somebody else wanted it enough to strive to have it.

And everytime the prize is worth the effort. As with my flower, that had come to look more like a stick than a rose. For, you see, pretty vivacious Cathrine Kyle had brought me a rose one day, and in all my life I don't think I ever saw dimples and sunlight and laughter mixed up in such a pretty fashion. So I figured that if I kept the old dry stem she would bring me another flower maybe, and I would see the dimples and sunlight and laughter again. That was what I was after. And she did too. Every few days she does. And I buy her ice cream in return. But she throws in the dimples and sunlight and laughter for free.... the same as the blue bird tosses his song about and the sunset its color. Maybe because, back there somewhere, somebody wanted them so much that they just had to come true.

ON THE FARMS IN SHELBY COUNTY

B. F. Hatchett and G. C. Starcher

A famous slogan of one of the finer automobiles was "Ask the man who owns one!"

Paraphrased into "Ask the man who USES it!" the slogan applies to conservation farm plans and equally well to S. C. S. methods and recommended crops.

Notice we substitute USE rather than HAS. The distinction is very important.

Not every farmer who has a conservation farm plan uses it. When you want to know the value of being a cooperator of your soil conservation district ask the man who actively carries out his agreement and his farm plan.

If you want to know about water disposal systems, crop rotations, fertilizer programs or crops suggested as a part of the districts planning service, ask those farmers successfully using them.

About sericea: ask the man who knows, grazes, fertilizes, and makes hay from his sericea, NOT the man who merely HAS it, overgrown, stemmy and bitter, under-fertilized and neglected.

Likewise, Fescue: The man who has it is not necessarily the man who maintains fertility and controls grazing. Some farmers might better have other pasture grasses less productive but requiring less management.

Those who use their conservation farm plans usually make getting one their first move if they move or get another farm. If you have one you are not satisfied with, it may not be in use because either you have not realized its value, or it does not fit your present intentions. If the first, let us show you farmers finding it valuable to them. If the second reason is true, we are glad to help you fit a plan to your changed situation.

NEW TRICOTS PROVE POPULAR WITH WOMEN

Tricot is the modern, quality construction of the knit fabric world, according to Levice Ellis, API Extension clothing specialist.

She explains that it is not just a fancy name for jersey. "Even though both jersey and tricot are knit fabrics," says the specialist, "the difference in quality and performance is comparable to the difference between an ancient Model T and the latest sport model."

Tricot comes off the knitting machine as a flat fabric, just as woven cloth comes off the loom. Therefore, tricot knits lend themselves to many more purposes than were formerly possible in knit fabrics.

Miss Ellis says that slips, tailored dresses, men's sport shirts and pajamas, and children's overalls and romper suits are now available in tricot, and all of them hold their shape beautifully.

Before adding nuts, raisins, or other fruit to cake batter, roll in flour and coat over well to prevent falling to bottom of cake.

FARM NEWS

PLAN FOR A SAFER FARM THIS MONTH

National Farm Safety Week will be observed throughout the nation July 23-29.

Extension Director P. O. Davis says the purpose of setting this week aside is to reduce the tragic accident toll. And it can be done if every farm family adopts safe practices of living, working and playing.

Mr. Davis states that one-fourth of all on-the-job deaths occur in agriculture. Also, one-fourth of all home accidental deaths occur in farm homes.

"In addition to deaths," concludes Mr. Davis, "1,300,000 farm people are injured in rural accidents each year."

PLANT GRAIN SORGHUM NOW FOR MORE GRAZING

Farmers who want more grain to harvest or graze this fall can have it by planting grain sorghum within the next few days.

"When planted after June 1, grain sorghum usually makes more grain per acre than corn planted on the same date," says D. R. Harbor, API Extension agronomist. "Grain sorghum can be used to follow winter legumes harvested for seed, winter grazing crops, and early harvested truck crops."

While it may be a little late to plant grain sorghum in North Alabama, it should be planted in the remainder of the state by July 15. And grain sorghum success practices include planting on adapted land, doing a good job of soil preparation and planting an adapted variety.

Harbor further advises farmers to use plenty of treated seed, to do a good job of fertilizing, and to cultivate enough to control grass and weeds.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT PIG EDEMA?

Q: Is pig edema a hazard to all hogs?

A: Yes, but it chiefly attacks young pigs and growing shoats 6 to 20 weeks of age.

Q: Is this disease very deadly?

A: Yes . . . It may have a high death rate. In one herd, 32 of 34 stricken shoats died.

Q: Do losses come on quickly?

A: Very much so. Victims usually die within 36 hours.

Q: How does the disease act?

A: Symptoms may include loss of appetite and lack of body coordination. The swelling may appear on the eyelids, then spread to the snout and lips. The pig's grunt may become hoarse, and it may stumble or drag its hind legs. Paralysis and convulsions may set in before death. Other cases show no visible symptoms, as the lesions are inside the body.

Q: When should farmers watch out for pig edema?

A: It can strike any time. But, most often it attacks brought-in pigs from 3 to 14 days after their arrival on a farm, and native pigs 8 to 10 weeks old.

Q: What causes it?

A: The cause is believed to be a toxin.

Q: Is there any treatment?

A: Yes, emergency medication will save some sick pigs, help stop losses. Farmers should report all suspicious cases immediately. This may help to avoid serious losses, and will also aid the veterinarian in controlling this new swine hazard in the area.

Southern Agriculture Makes Remarkable 10-Year Record

LATEST FIGURES PUBLISHED BY THE PROGRESSIVE FARMER

Latest census figures and data furnished by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture combine to give an encouraging picture of the rural South of today. A folder recently released by The Progressive Farmer, Birmingham, gives state totals on number, size and ownership of farms, cash farm income and expenditures, number and value of livestock, and data on livestock, automotive and other mechanical equipment.

Some striking facts are brought forth clearly. For instance, during the 10-year period, 1940-1950, the South's farms decreased in number by 11.8 per cent, in acreage harvested by 6.5 per cent and in farm workers by 18 per cent. Yet, in the same period, the South's farms increased in total acreage (including pastures and woodlots) by 6.2 per cent, in tractors by 241.5 per cent, in expenditures for livestock and poultry feeds by 358 per cent. These figures indicate fewer but larger farms, less acreage devoted to row crops and more to pastures and livestock, less hired help and more machinery.

Much has been said about the growth of the South's livestock industry, and animal census figures and valuation for several classes are given by states. As a whole, the South owned, as of January 1, 1952, 27,881,000 cattle, 31.7 per cent of the nations total.

The South still owns 92.4 per cent of the nation's mules.... it is hard to believe that there are still 1,777,000 of these faithful workers in the South. But there are also 926,000 tractors and 822,137 trucks at work on Southern fields, and that totals almost exactly one tractor or truck for every mule. It is interesting to note also that over 40 per cent of the tractor-owning farms get along entirely without horse or mule power.

The farmer is a big spender, too, as shown by these figures. During 1949 he spent over $848 million for hired labor, $551 million for livestock and poultry, $701 million for feeds, $294 million for gas and oil, and $185 million for tractor and machinery repairs.

To show that the average Southern farmer's economic position has been bettered, 1,747,074 of the South's farms are operated by the owner (or manager) and only 905,321 by tenants. This is an increase of 12.1 per cent among owners, and a decrease of 37.5 per cent among tenants. The South's cash farm income in 1940 was $2.54 Billion, and in 1950 it had grown to $8.42 BILLION.... an increase of 230 per cent. Besides using a large part of the increased earnings to pay off mortgages, and buy new equipment and stock, the rural South has banked a huge sum. In 1940, deposits in country banks (towns of less than 15,000 population), totaled $1.18 BILLION; in 1950 the total was $5.02 Billion.

The average Southern farm today consists of 150 acres, of which 36½ acres are devoted to croplands; it raises 10½ cattle, valued at $1,510 and other livestock and poultry valued at $327. More than 65 per cent of Southern farms are worked by the owner, and the average farmer had a cash income in 1951 of $3,540 and a worthwhile bank account.

Cold statistics prove that "it's true what they say about Dixie!"

THE 'BIG STINK'

Things have been rough, and smelly, at Gulf Shores recently. But the situation was cleared up, including all the dead fish.

It was dead fish, thousands of them tossed overboard by shrimp boats, that caused the "big stink" in the first place, according to Conservation Director Earl McGowin.

The fish floated into shore all along Alabama's beach vacationland from Alabama Point to Gulf Shores. The hot sun took over there, and the fish and sun combined to chase would-be swimmers away fast.

FACTS ON PLANNING FAMILY FOOD BUDGET

No sum or share of income can be set to insure a satisfactory diet for every family at all times.

Mary Hulsey, API Extension nutritionist, says that to lay out a definite sum and then try to fit food purchases to it is like putting the cart before the horse. First consideration should go to the family's food needs for good nutrition.

Plans to help homemakers select foods that meet these needs can be obtained by writing the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics of the USDA, Washington, D. C. Ask for family food plans for both lowcost and moderate-cost diet.

POLIO INCREASES

Although still far behind last year, polio in Alabama is slightly on the increase, the State Department of Health has reported.

Total number of cases early this week stood at 34, compared with a total of 75 for the corresponding period last year.

This year's 34 cases includes eight reported last week, compared to seven the week before.

Outposts of Vengeance

By E. E. HALLERAN

Into the dangerous Indian lands beyond Pittsburgh went young Will Morgan, posing as a savage chieftain to gain vital information for the Army. Fate gave him many uneasy moments and caused the man he impersonated to be a personal enemy, and one on whom he had once vowed terrible vengeance. IN MEMORY

In loving memory of our precious darling mother and grand mother, Mrs. Nancy C. Payne, better known as Aunt Nannie, who passed away June 21st, 1952. She was 82 years and 4 months old. She had been shut in for several years and sick most of the time, but she never complained.

She was taken with double pnuemonia, Thursday, June 19, and died Saturday, 21st at 25 minutes till eleven o'clock. She was a member of the Mt. Era Methodist Church. She was one of the sweetest mothers in the world.

She had been a widow for 20 years and had made her home with her oldest daughter, Mrs. Minnie Davis for almost 16 years. She loved everybody and had lots of friends.

She left behind two brothers, Mr. C. M. Aldridge, Saginaw, Mr. A. J. Aldridge, Birmingham; four daughters, Mrs. Minnie Davis of Siluria; Mrs. Florence Epperson, of Saginaw; Mrs. Rona Moore of Pelham and Mrs. Jewell Connell of Alabaster; five step-daughters, one step-son, several grand children and great grand children.

Funeral was conducted in the Mt. Era Church and her body was laid to rest in the joining cemetery, The Rev. Newton Malony pastor, Rev. J. S. Thomas, Rev M. S. Butler and Rev. Lloyd Riley officiating.

Believe me, these conventions are going to be the best-covered political meetings ever held. Bob Hope has been hired by NBC as a "radio-TV commentator" to delievr a daily summary of the proceedings. The United Press has signed the Quiz Kids, ranging in age from four to 15 to write a daily column on the conventions.

It was Winston Churchill who once remarked that the way to produce a best-selling novel is to put a girl on the cover and no cover on the girl.

THE NEW 'MR. REPUBLICAN'

This week there is a new "Mr. Republican" rapidly rising on the scene of potential candidates for President of the United States! He is an internationally known figure, the widely beloved and highly respected, General Dwight D. Eisenhower! We have heard many Republicans (and some Democrats), say this week that "the man and the hour have met" in this nomination, and that "General Ike" will be our next President!

We cannot foretell what the future holds for General Eisenhower in a political way, all we can offer at this time is purely a 'personal comment' regarding this great American, and state, if he is the choice of the American people as the Chief Executive of this nation, there will be few regrets expressed even by the most orthodox partisan.

General Eisenhower comes before the American people as a proven executive; a matchless leader, possessing world wide knowledge gained from actual experience. He is respected by all. His honesty and integrity has never been questioned. In peace and in war he has demonstrated his outstanding ability. The American people have acclaimed his courageous achievements. They owe him a debt of gratitude for his valuable services rendered that cannot be measured in monetary terms.

Whether his rejection of further military assignments is a wise move on his part is yet to be determined. We can only say, at this time, that there are few Americans, if any, who hold the place in the hearts of all patriotic citizens that Ike Eisenhower holds.

Personally, I, a life long Democrat, wish, with all my heart, as precedent breaking and fantastic as the idea may be, that the lumbering old Elephant and the sometimes, stubborn old Donkey, had gotten their noggins together and as a generous gesture, from the American people to a great General-statesman, who has so richly deserved the honor, tendered him a joint nomination for the presidency of the United States. Then, each major party could have chosen a candidate for the Vice-Presidency, and Ike Eisenhower would have harmoniously continued his work for the best interests of this great country of ours by the side of whomever was chosen by the people. This prodecure, to this "mere little dreamer of dreams, and limited penpoint sketch-er" would have been an ideal solution to the choatic condition now confronting a bewildered and confused nation. But, enough 'day-dreaming' about the impossible!

The Democrats will, as you know take over next week in Chicago, and, thanks to Television, all may have a ring side seat and nothing will be hidden from the eyes of the people who look hopefully for a more dignified procedure than was presented during the week of July 7.

However, no matter how the Republicans finally arrived at their decision and unanimously nominated General Eisenhower as their standard bearer, it definitely remains the wisest move they have ever made, and the faithful "Old Donkey" will have to put on his thinking cap right now and work 'over time' if he "out-smarts" this tactical maneuver.

Fact is, he will do well to look the field over for candidates and try his dead level best to come up with a candidate as well equipped as the one chosen last week, whom the Democrats can conscientiously endorse. If he makes a step in the wrong direction this time, there may be some lifted eye-brows when long time Democrat Party affiliates jump over the traces and lustily join in the "I Like Ike" chorus, I say.... "maybe"!

For the present, this little Alabama Democrat is sitting on the side lines impatiently waiting for Daddy Time to turn the clock around toward the fatal hour of decision which will take place next week in Chicago.... watching, waiting, and hoping, that.... well, let's leave it right there.... just ....HOPING!

DECISION IN CHICAGO

Eisenhower and Nixon Work to Win Party Accord As Heated Republican Convention Selects Ticket

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Ike Named On First And Only Ballot

Last week the nation and the world stood agog at the furious storms and stresses that swept the national convention of the Republican party whose 1,206 delegates and their alternates assembled in Chicago to fight it out for the presidential nomination and control of the party.

This week, with the resumption of sanity in the land, the nominees, General Dwight D. Eisenhower and Senator Richard M. Nixon, already had begun to dig into the task of restoring order and unity to GOP ranks as the first prerequisite to a Republican victory in the November elections.

Despite the intense emotional surges and deep-seated factional strife that characterized most of the convention, the gargantuan conclave ended on at least a surface note of harmony.

General Eisenhower and Senator Robert Taft, stocially courageous in his defeat, shook hands and smiled at each other. Taft pledged his support to the Eisenhower campaign, and the reconciliation that the party knows it must effect was under way.

But it had been a different story during the rowdy, noisily active days that preceded the convention's close.

Even at the very moment of Eisenhower's spectacular nomination victory on the first ballot, strong overtones of bitterness on the part of the Taft partisans was a real and disturbing element in the overflowing International Amphitheatre on Chicago's South Side.

Tempers High

Not even the costly air conditioning system in the hall (which, the Democratic delegates will be happy to hear, worked quite effectively) could cool the flaring tempers or calm the rising blood pressures.

When the roll call of the states was begun Frdiay afternoon for the first ballot to nominate a presidential candidate, the Eisenhower group manifestly was riding the crest of an apparently irresistable wave. Taft had lost a lot of ground since Monday, and he knew it.

Through the stentorian medium of the loud speaker system the convention secretary read the roll of the states—a thrilling and somehow awesome procedure.

The historic first-and-last ballot went fairly smoothly. The states voted true to form. No one was surprised at California's 70 votes for her Governor Warren, nor at Ohio's solid 56 votes for Taft. Governor Dewey had his New York delegation in line with 92 votes for Eisenhower, 4 for Taft. Minnesota voted 19 for Harold Stassen, 9 for Eisenhower.

Ike In Lead

The ballot closed with Eisenhower leading Taft by 595 to 462. Warren had 81 votes. MacArthur, who never really had a chance, was low man with 11.

It was at precisely at that point that history set in. The spokesman for the Minnesota delegation, in a tense and edged voice, requested the attention of the chairman and announced that Minnesota had decided to change its 19 Stassen votes to Eisenhower, giving him a total of 614 votes, 10 over the required majority of 604.

That was the ball game. The packed galleries, filled mostly with Taft adherents, gasped in complete stupefaction. The delegates on the floor were taken aback to the point that they were able to produce only a minor demonstration.

Then, slugged by the incredible climax of the most dramatic Republican convention in recent American history, most of the state delegations on the floor also climbed aboard the Eisenhower bandwagon, changing their votes in favor of the general in wholesale lots.

Not all, however. The stunned Ohioans refused to budge from their unified stand in favor of Senator Taft. Illinois, led by Sen. Everett Dirksen who had lashed out savagely at the Dewey wing of the Eisenhower contingent, grimly held its ground.

Not until the plea for a concerted will and a move to make the ballot unanimous by Senator John Bricker of Ohio did the tension slack off.

Nixon Chosen

The remaining business of selecting a vice-presidential candidate was more or less routine. Senator Richard Nixon of California, who made his name as a member of the house un-American activities committee investigating the Alger

RICHARD M. NIXON

Hiss case, was nominated by acclamation. His was the only name presented to the convention.

Spelled out in terms of futre GOP effectiveness, the Eisenhower-Nixon combination promises to be a workable ticket. Nixon brings to the deal youth, political wisdom, and a solid friendship with both the Taft and Eisenhower elements of the party. His west coast locale will tend to offset in the minds of party regulars the big part that the Dewey-dominated nomination of Eisenhower.

Eisenhower's drive, brilliantlly executed by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and master-minded to a certain extent by Governor Dewey and Herbert Brownell, seemed to be fated for success from the beginning of the convention on Monday.

It is probable, too, that the apparent strategic blunders of the Taft camp had their decisive effects on the outcome.

The picture began to clear Monday when the ocnvention adopted by a 607 to 531 vote the so-called "Fair Play" amendment sponsored by Governor Langlie of Washington which required that any contested delegation be seated in the convention immediately after it was approoved and be allowed the right to vote on the qualifications of other

REV. CURTIS BEAN

Bethel Baptist Church To Hold Revival

We are to have a series of revival services to begin at our church Sunday, July 20th, and continuing through Sunday, July 27.

We are pleased to announce that our people and friends will have the pleasure of hearing the pastor of the Columbiana Baptist Church, Brother Curtis Bean, each morning and evening. The morning services are to begin at 10:00 o'clock and the evening worship will begin at 8:00 P. M.

Brother Bean is not a stranger in these parts, having pastored Calera before entering the Southern Seminary. On his graduation from that fine seminary the good people of Columbiana called him and he is making his leadership felt in a marvelous way. We think that the Baptists of Columbiana are very fortunate indeed in having such a splendid leader. We also feel that the Bethel church was fortunate in securing him to do the preaching for us, and are looking forward to the hour when our revival services begin.

The greatest thing that any one can do; anyone can do; and that is PRAY. There will be no revival without much prayer. If we pray much about anything, we will do something about it.

Our church is known as a friendly church, and we certainly shall try to make you know of a reality that you are welcome to worship with us during these few days of revival services.

Mrs. William Clark has moved to the new official quarters where business matters will be attended to in the future.

B. B. Mooney Opens John Deere Agency In Wilsonville

Internationally known John Deere products need no introduction to the farmers and tractor owners in Shelby County. But, the announcement of Shelby County's Agency in Wilsonville by B. B. Mooney, prominent planter and business man is news to a host of friends and owners of this machinery.

Important announcement regarding this Opening is contained in the current issue of the Reporter-Democrat. There will be two-new heavy duty John Deere 2 and 3-plow tractors, successors to Models "A" and "B" which you will learn about Saturday.

According to B. B. Mooney, Manager, these new tractors feature a host of engineering advancement and major improvements which makes them the greatest values ever offered by John Deere. Mr. Mooney states one of the new models will be on display in Wilsonville, Saturday, July 19, and he extends a cordial invitation to everyone to stop by and see the new tractor.

At noon, Saturday, July 19, barbecue will be served; each guest will be registered and a door prize will be given away during the day. The Town of Wilsonville joins other business firms in extending a welcome to the Mooney Tractor Company. Other firms who join in this celebration for this opening day include:

O. D. Blankenship, Barber; Bolton Farm Equipment Co., Continental Insurance Co., Mrs. Vernon Helms, Agent; Eagle's Store, Wilsonville; The Economy Store, Jack's Hardware Company, Lindsey Grocery, Mary Wesley Shop, McEwen Service Station, Roper Nursery, McEwen Mercantile Co., Vanzant Grocery and Wilsonville Civitan Club.

CRIMINAL DIVISION OF COURT CALLED

The Criminal Division of the Circuit Court was called by Judge W. W. Wallace at ten o'clock Monday morning. Judge Wallace presented the Rev. Curtis Bean of the Baptist Church, who offered an impressive invocation.

Juries for the week were drawn and the usual procedure of the trial of cases docketed got under way.

DR. JIM H. DAY OPENS OPTOMETRIST OFFICE IN COLUMBIANA

Columbiana is proud to announce a new health service has been extended to the community by Dr. Jim H. Day, optometrist, of Birmingham. Dr. Day is prepared to handle all phases of the care and improvement of vision including making complete eye examinations, fitting glasses, supervising visual training and fitting contact lenses. His offices, which are across the street from the Gulf Service Station upstairs next to the Selective Service Board, will be open 9-5 Thursdays and 1-5 Saturdays.

Dr. Day graduated as Doctor of Optometry from Northern Illinois College of Optometry in 1950, where he was a member of Phi Theta Upsilon and of Tomb and Key honorary fraternity. He received the postgraduate certificate in contact lenses from the American Optometric Center. His earlier education was in the Birmingham schools. Dr. Day was born in Griffin, Georgia, but lived in Birmingham most of his life except for his college days and a tour of duty with the Air Corps that included overseas service in Greenland.

Dr. Day is the third optometrist in the Day family. His father, the late Dr. E. J. Day practiced in Huntsville, Guntersville, and Birmingham. His brother, Dr. E. J. Day, Jr., is practicing optometry in Birmingham now.

Dr. Day's wife will act as his receptionist during July and August. Mrs. Day, the former Mildred Ann Leake, is a graduate of Northwestern University where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi and Phi Beta Kappa. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Leake, of Birmingham. Mrs. Leake was social worker in Columbiana for the W. P. A. during 1939 and 1940.

DR. JIM H. DAY

Dr. Day is a member of The Toastmaster's Club and the Birmingham Jaycees where he is on the Board of Directors and is chairman of the Religious Activities and of the Youth Welfare committees. The Days are members of Sixth Avenue Presbyterian Church where they sing in the choir.

Kiwanians To Hear Distinguished Speaker

ARMISTEAD I. SELDEN, JR.

Congressman-Elect Armistead Selden To Address Group

Friends and constituents of the dynamic young Congressman, Armistead I. Selden, Jr., will be delighted to learn he will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Kiwanians in Columbiana, Thursday evening; and on Monday evening, July 21, he will be the guest of honor at a meeting of the Civitan Club in Calera. The Calera Club has designated this night as "Ladies Night" in their town in honor of this distinguished guest.

Last May, Mr. Selden made the most spectacular race ever recorded in the history of the 6th Congressional District, and those who sponsored his candidacy for the position of Congressman from the 6th District naturally, know him best, and state his record in previous assignments dating from his college days, where he was president of the Law Class clearly foretold a brilliant future for the youthful barrister.

Following his college career, Mr Selden began the practice of his chosen profession in Greensboro In 1950, he was elected to the State Legislature as a member o the House of Representatives, an assigned to several importan committees, one being the powerful Judiciary Committee.

He surprised everyone when h announced his candidacy for Congressman against incumbent E deGraffenried, and after a whirlwind campaign, he gave the electorate another surprise by winning the honor of representin this great district.

The members of the Kiwani Club of Columbiana and the Civitans of Calera are to be congratulated upon procuring thi outstanding young Alabamian t address them on the dates mentioned above and full attendanc of every member is cordiall urged.

OUTPOSTS OF VENGEANCE

A HISTORICAL NOVEL BY E. E. HALLERAN

THE STORY SO FAR:

Finding himself in love with Mary Bolden, Will Morgan is happy at the opportunity to save her from the attentions of drunk soldiers. He is surprised that she is not too thankful and, in fact, thinks he is as bad as other men.

His efforts to convince her of his love are fruitless. He knows that soon she will be leaving for the Miami lands and he must act fast to win her love.

Meanwhile, Ann Randall, who makes no secret of her love for him, comes to say "goodbye". Sam then offers news that Will may also go down the river. Ignoring Ann, the two men make plans for the trip down the river.

CHAPTER IV

Ann stood up suddenly as though tired of being left out of the conversation. "Here's the money Pa owes you," she said almost shyly. "I reckon it's good-bye."

He pocketed the silver and grinned down at her. "Tell the folks good luck. Maybe we'll see each other again some day. By that time you ought to be out of the brat stage and I got a notion you'll be worth a second look."

It amazed him that he could torment her like this and get no response. He wondered whether she was subdued because she was going away or whether his exploits of the previous evening had impressed her with her own immaturity. Either way it made him feel quite superior.

Suddenly she turned and went toward the trail, her head bent just a little. He had a suspicion that she was on the verge of tears and it cut sharply into his ego. It would be too bad to send the child out into the wilderness with any greater load of unhappiness than the nature of the country provided. Still there was nothing he could do about it.

Departure Down River Delayed By Militia

There was silence in the freight camp for some minutes after her departure. Then Old Sam spoke abruptly. "I'm goin' to the village. Ye better get the chores done while I'm gone. We might shove off any time."

He trudged briskly away without further comment, leaving Will to wonder at his own feeling of dissatisfaction.

He spent the morning at the sundry odd chores which accumulate around a camp, trying to reason away his strange impression of uneasiness. Shortly before noon he heard the shouts of men on the river and looked up to see a forty-foot flatboat being poled up against the current by eight stalwart rivermen in the traditional red shirts and blue breeches. Old Sam's scrawny form on one of the bulwarks attested to the fact that he had made his deal with Van Cleve. Here was the flatboat which was to be used as a transport.

Will was just on the point of going over to the settlers' camp in hopes of having a word with Mary Bolden when Old Sam came stamping back, anger plain on his furrowed features. "Dam' all militia outfits!" he growled. "Men ain't wuth a hoot and the officers is jest as bad. They won't be ready to leave 'til dusk."

The big riverman, called Kirby or Bullhead by his mates, spat disgustedly. "Ain't that like milishy?" he sympathized. "Didn't nobody ever tell 'em it ain't safe to leave the forks at dusk?"

"Nobody ever told 'em nothin'!" Old Sam snapped. "Let yer boys have the rest o' the afternoon fer a fling, Kirby. It's moonlight tonight and we'll leave at ten o'clock. By that time the tin sojers oughta be good and ready. Scat now, ye sons o' catfish! Back here at a quarter to ten sober enough to handle the boat or I'll knock seven kinds o' hell outa ye!"

The little man was unperturbed by the shout of laughter which went up at the threat. He continued to stamp around in anger as the rivermen drifted away from the camp, then he turned more quietly to Morgan. "That'll give ye the easy part o' the river in darkness," he explained. "Ye'll hit the bad riffle jest after it breaks day. Kirby and the boys know all o' that part. Ye'll jest keep track o' where the stuff is to be unloaded. Tell Kirby and he'll do the rest. I'll fix up a list fer ye to go by. Now git outa here and see if ye can't fix things up with that wench what walloped ye so hefty."

Will grinned in some embarrassment but left camp promptly. It was uncanny the way Old Sam seemed to read his mind.

Mary was busy with the evening meal. A thin, dejected looking woman working at her side was apparently her mother while two small boys scurrying around the campfire seemed to round out the younger part of the family. The girl looked up quizzically as Will approached. There was a certain humor in her glance but the youth could not be certain of other qualities which he could see but not recognize.

"Hello," he greeted, somewhat uncertainly.

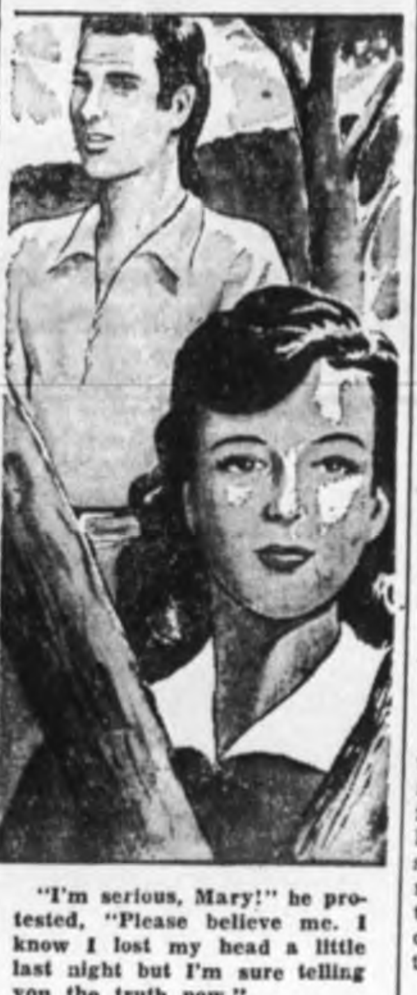
She smiled more frankly. Brushing back a stray wisp of the wavy black hair she replied, "Hello there. I see you're able to git around on two laigs."

Turning to the older woman she explained, "Ma, this is the young feller what helped me last evenin'."

Mrs. Bolden made a determined effort at smiling. "Good day to yo', young man. I'm right glad yo' happened along when yo' did. Mary kin take purty good care of herself most of the time but . . . well, I'm jest glad yo' was there."

Will went on quickly, trying to take advantage of the moment. "We're ready to drop down river tonight. I thought I'd come around and say a word of good-bye. Maybe I'll see you again sometime, particularly if they build forts in the country where you're going to settle. If I don't . . . well, good luck."

"Thanks to yo'," Mrs. Bolden said dryly. "I reckon we'll need all the luck yo' kin wish us."



"I'm serious, Mary!" he protested, "Please believe me. I know I lost my head a little last night but I'm sure telling you the truth now."

Morgan shifted uneasily. He did not want to talk about frontier troubles but he was still not willing to leave. There was an awkward silence during which he had a feeling that Mary understood his thoughts and was quietly enjoying his embarrassment. The thought gave him courage to ask, "Would you take a walk with me this evening, Mary? Better see the town while you're here; there won't be any up the Miami."

Mary Bolden Refuses To Recognize Lover

She stared at him unwinkingly for a moment. "Do you reckon it's safe?" she asked soberly. "I don't want to let yo' in fer no more trouble."

"I'll take the chance," he told her.

"Go along with him," Mrs. Bolden advised. "Lord only knows when yo'll see anything beside trees and red Injuns again! Have the young man stay to supper; then the pair o' yo' kin go out fer a spell."

Supper with the Boldens proved interesting. Charles Bolden, Mary's father, turned out to be the cadaverous man who had led the wagon train. He had already picked up enough of the frontier gossip to be more than a little worried about the situation into which he was taking his family and he fired questions at Will almost as soon as they were settled around the fire. Will replied honestly, not attempting to minimize the danger but still not dwelling on the atrocity stories.

Finally Bolden worked around to the inevitable talk of military aid, the straw at which so many discouraged pioneers grasped. "What's the truth about this expedition that's fittin' out against the Injuns?" he wanted to know.

Will shook his head. "Nobody seems to know. Maybe it'll be the same old story—a diversion that will simply send the raiders into other parts of the territory. A few soldiers can't do much against the combined tribes of the territory."

"It's a nasty proposition," Bolden agreed slowly. "I hate to lose the money I paid on the land but I ain't hankerin' to take my folks out where they'll git skelped by a pack o' heathen savages. I jest wish I knew how much help the army would be."

"I can tell you this much," Will replied. "We're taking supplies to Colonel Harmar at Fort Washington. That's where the militia company is headed too. The next move seems to be some kind of a strike up the Miami River."

"That's us!" Bolden said.

At length the meal was over, forks and knives were carefully scoured in the sand and the young folks were free to pursue their announced plan of doing the town. Mary made no effort to improve her appearance, contenting herself with the same linsey-woolsey dress now repaired where it had been torn, and with her hair still in the dark braid around her head.

They strolled along into town in silence, neither of them caring to open the conversation until they were in the midst of the hawkers, gamblers and traders who thronged the narrow streets. Then Will ventured a comment.

"Quite a town, eh? I don't imagine you'd find another one like it anywhere in the United States."

The girl nodded silently, watching the mute haggling that was going on between a storekeeper and a tall Indian with a stack of pelts. Will went on quickly, somehow dreading any lag in the conversation. "You'd see some of these kinds of folks in lots of other towns but I don't know where else you'd see all of them in one place."

Presently Will stopped with a half chuckle. "No use goin' any further"—he said—"unless you're figuring on swimming down the Ohio. Now that you've seen all of Pittsburgh shall we take a walk—along the river maybe?"

She gave him a sidelong look but once more contented herself with that little nod of assent. There was complete silence between them as they skirted the town to walk beside the river. Finally Will broke in with an abrupt volley of words, almost as though his thoughts had finally spilled over and were running away. "Mary, I want you to believe me when I tell you that I meant what I said last night. You thought I was just being like other men but I swear I wasn't! I . . . I love you, Mary, and I want you to marry me."

Morgan Stalks Away To Nurse Wounded Pride

When it was said he was more than a little surprised at himself, surprised and a bit abashed. To his further surprise—and chagrin—she laughed aloud. "Yo' Yanks!" she scoffed. "I always heard yo' was a real smooth-tongued passel o' critters but I didn't know yo' worked quite so fast. Go on and stop tryin' to fool a girl!"

"I'm serious, Mary!" he protested. "Please believe me. I know I lost my head a little last night but I'm sure telling you the truth now."

Again she laughed scoffingly, a certain silver quality contrasting strangely with the throaty tones of her speaking voice. "Stop talkin' so silly!" she bantered. "I wasn't born yesterday. Fancy words is cheap and you young fellers use plenty of 'em. Don't expect me to put much stock in that kind o' talk."

There was no reason to say more. Will had turned and left her standing there.

The freight camp was darkly silent when Will returned, only the glow of Old Sam's pipe indicating that anyone was on guard. The big flatboat loomed black against the lighter glow of the river, its heavy bulwarks rising like some sort of fortification out of the stream itself. Old Sam muttered a word of greeting, then went on smoking in silence.

Will threw himself down dejectedly on top of the scanty cargo, thoroughly disgusted with the developments of the night. What did a man have to do to make a girl believe him anyway? Maybe this would be a lesson to him not to let himself get serious over a back-country wench who could not recognize an honest intention when one was shoved under her nose!

He tried vainly to convince himself that he was well rid of her, succeeding only in making himself completely miserable. Finally his gloomy reflections were interrupted as the militia detachment straggled down to the freight camp.

"Ain't they the limit?" a heavy voice rumbled in his ear. "If it takes all this time to load twenty-five of 'em what would it be like to move an army?"

Will saw that it was Bullhead Kirby. The big riverman and his crew had drifted in silently, abandoning their usual noise in order to keep aloof from the confusion of the militia movement. "Who'd try to handle an army of militia?" he countered. "They'd be more trouble than good."

Old Sam stamped across toward them, his carefully low tones eloquent of the way he was keeping his anger under control. "Shove off," he ordered shortly. "Git the hell away from here before them dumbheads decide to climb out and go home."

Kirby and the alligator-horses seemed to understand. Without waiting for more explicit orders they swarmed aboard the flatboat, leaving Will to get his papers and final instructions from Old Sam. Then, while the militiamen set up a vast chatter, the boatmen pushed off, working briskly to get the boat into the current where they could sit back and let the river do the work.

COLISEUM BID REJECTED

The state has for the second time rejected low bids on a $1,250,000 bond issue for further construction on the Alabama Livestock Coliseum in Montgomery.

The low bid of 3.269 was unanimously rejected by the three-man corporation board as "entirely too high". Members of the board are Governor Gordon Persons, State Finance Director D. W. Hodo, and Agriculture Director, Frank Sewart.

Hodo said the board made no decision for further action on issuing the bonds.

Eisenhower And Nixon Work For Party Accord

delegations as they came up for approval.

This, of course, was an Eisenhower-inspired move to break up the Taft control of the hotly contested Texas, Georgia, Louisiana, and Florida delegations, and others.

Big Question

The question that will be asked for the next four years is why the Taft forces were willing for the "Fair Play" decision to be brought to a ballot. The assumption is that they knew, within one or two votes, what the outcome would be. Whether they were seeking a reverse-english psychological victory or whether they were just overconfident, the ultimate results were disastrous.

Second major defeat for Taft, and the one that set the pattern of the convention in an unalterable mold, was the delegates' decision, by a vote of 607 to 531, to seat the pro-Eisenhower delegation from Georgia—a reversal of the ruling made by the credentials committee in an exhausting 15-hour session Tuesday.

Taft forces were so shattered by this setback that they conceded without a fight the seating of the pro-Eisenhower Texas delegation.

Even the well-prepared "spontaneous" demonstrations were decided, in terms of length, at least, in favor of Eisenhower. The yelling, bell-ringing, singing, and banner-waving following Senator Dirksen's speech nominating Taft lasted only 32 minutes. The Eisenhower demonstration continued its brass-voiced clamor for 58 minutes.

It was a tribute not only to General MacArthur but to his durable partisans that the demonstration on his behalf, coming at a bleak and weary 2:30 a.m., lasted a clamorous 20 minutes.

MacArthur's Keynote

MacArthur himself had returned to New York following his keynote speech Monday night in which he blasted the Democratic administration's foreign and domestic policies.

Former President Herbert Hoover, addressing the convention Tuesday night, was accorded the ovation his years, experience, and personal integrity deserved, when he called for the "freedom of men" in the sense that "includes our relations to the rest of the world."

"I am not ashamed to say that our first duty is to defend the United States," he said in his soft voice, and the walls of the International Amphitheatre trembled with the roar of approval that went up from delegates and spectators alike.

Hoover and MacArthur appeared as the old soldiers of the Old Guard, and they seemed to be unable to shake the impression that the era during which their thinking and political concepts dominated the Republican party was coming to an end.

With most of the speeches out of the way, the convention briefly took up the matter of its platform, approving it so swiftly as to seem almost casual in its attitude.

No Floor Fight

Actually, the maneuvering to avoid a fight on the foreign policy and civil rights planks that had taken place during the preceding four or five days virtually eliminated any possibility of a policy struggle on the convention floor.

The compromise civil rights plank, as adopted, deplored racial bigotry and religious prejudice, but did not go so far as to put teeth into the denunciation by openly advocating a fair employment practices law.

Both Taft and Eisenhower joined in approving the foreign policy section of the platform which consisted to a great extent of an excoriation of the policies practiced by the present Democratic administration.

The Republicans pledged an end to the waste, spending, and corruption with which they have repeatedly charged the Democrats.

"By the Administration's appeasement of Communism at home and abroad it has permitted Communists and their fellow travelers to serve in many key agencies and to infiltrate our American life," the platform stated.

Then, showing the reverse side of the "coin of patriotic Americanism," the platform claimed that "There are no Communists in the Republican party," and that a Republican president will appoint only "persons of unquestioned loyalty," will overhaul federal loyalty and security programs in cooperation with congress, and will coordinate all intelligence services.

STATE EMPLOYEES NUMBER 8,395

State personnel Director C. W. Terry says the state had 8,395 employes at hand at the end of the fiscal year, September 30.

According to Terry's annual report, this was 53 fewer than worked for the state government at the end of the previous fiscal year. However, the report showed that there was a drop of 275 in the number of persons in the classified service (merit system).

Last year the state had 6,365 employes covered by the merit system compared to 6,640 the previous year. Broken down the figures included:

Exempt, not subject to provisions of the merit system, 135.

Unclassified confidential (assistents), subject to the provisions of the merit system law except those relating to appointment and dismissal 39.

Classified, subject to all provisions of the merit system is 3,365.

Unskilled or semi-skilled laborers, domestic attendants or custodial workers, 1939, the year it was put into effect, to 8,924 in 1950.

ILLICIT MOONSHINE STILLS DESTROYED

Alabama ABC Enforcement Chief Joseph T. Burton says 286 illicit moonshine stills were destroyed last month in the state.

He said the destroyed stills were capable of producing 54,936 gallons of moonshine whiskey a month. Burton estimated the value of the destroyed stills, and other seized items, as $51,811.

In addition, the enforcement officials made 424 cases, arrested 292 persons, destroyed 139,200 gallons of mash, seized 2,270 gallons of whisky, 4,909 bottles of beer, and 257 gallons of home brew.

Taken were 28 vehicles, and Jefferson county led with 50 destroyed stills. Tuscaloosa was in second place with 35. Other counties in which 10 or more stills were broken up included: Walker, 14, Shelby, 10; Monroe, 11; Mobile, 15.

PATROLMEN ADDED TO SAFETY DEPARTMENT

State Public Safety Director L. B. Sullivan has disclosed the addition of 47 patrolmen and one sergeant to the Public Safety Department.

The expansion is in keeping with plans by Governor Gordon Persons to keep the state's road safety program going.

Most of the new men are already enrolled in the patrol's two-week recruit training program.

Hero, Artist, Saint

Lesson for July 20, 1952

THE GREAT TRAGEDY of life is that man has three incompatible ideals. So says a famous thinker of our time. These three are the hero, the artist, the saint. The hero's virtue is strength; the artist's is beauty, and the Saint's is holiness. A hero, in the course of his heroic acts, does things which would stain the honor of a saint and which are too ugly for a sensitive artist even to think about. Saints on the other hand are often most unheroic; they "wax valiant" in submission, not in fight; and they often care very little for beauty. Artists likewise may be personal cowards and live anything but saintly lives. Yet society needs all three, though the values one cherishes may be just the opposite of what the other prizes. Very rarely, the same man may show traces of artist, saint and hero.

Dr Foreman

Hero Gideon

THE WORD "judge" in the Book of Judges usually means what we would call a hero, a military man with a successful record. Then, as now, if a man made good in the army he was after thought of as an army man. His title and his rank stuck to him his life long.

We think of General Grant as an army man, and of Lee as another; though one was President of the United States and the other one a distinguished college president.

So Gideon comes down in history as one of the "Judges" who delivered Israel from a powerful enemy. This time the enemy was the Midianites, a roaring nuisance if ever there was one. Midianites were nomads, they lived where they pleased, and they lived off the peaceful farmers wherever they were.

There were so many that their army looked like a swarm of locusts. They were seen only once a year, but that was enough. They would wait out in the wilderness until the crops were ready for harvest; then they would dash into the country, raid every farm from border to border, and skip out again, leaving the Israelites on the edge of starvation for another year.

How Gideon, a small farmer and a timid soul by nature, became the hero who nearly exterminated the Midianites and set his people free, is one of the most fascinating tales in the Old Testament. The people loved him and remembered him for that one thing above all: he could fight!

Gideon the Artist

THERE ARE MORE WAYS than one to be artistic. General Gideon painted no pictures, carved no statues, wrote no poems. But he was an artist all the same. There is something artistic about any good workmanship ,and it is as true of military campaigns as of everything else.

Incidentally, generals have a temptation to overlook this. At the Battle of Fredericksburg in the American Civil War, when the northern army was marching into the grinding trap which Lee and his generals had prepared, Lee remarked that it's a good thing war is so terrible, otherwise we should become too fond of it. He was speaking from the general's viewpoint, of course. The private is seldom in danger of being too fond of war.

At all events Gideon's campaigns were just as "beautiful" in all details as anything Napoleon, Lee, Hitler or Hannibal ever invented.

Can a hero be an artist? In his way, yes; like any other craftsman, he can do a necessary, rough and dirty piece of work in a way that calls out the exclamation: Beautiful!

Saint Gideon

CAN A SOLDIER be a saint? If you mean by "saint" the ideal of what a Christian should be, most would say No. General Lee said at the end of his life that if he had it to live over again he would not be a soldier.

And still, the writer of the letter to the Hebrews in the New Testament does not hesitate to list Gideon, and even that half-hero Barak, right along with the rest in his list of high saints, the men and women of Faith.

For fundamentally it is faith that makes the saint. And Gideon was a man of sturdy faith. To paraphrase Tennyson, his strength was as the strength of ten, because his faith was pure. So there have been countless men whose profession is arms who have also been men of faith.

WINS THREE NATIONAL AWARDS

At a regular weekly meeting of the Civitan Club held in Calera Monday, July 14, with President Julius Pilgreen, weilding the gavel, a report was heard from Karl Hokanson, who was the delegate to the national convention of Civitans, recently held in Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. Hokanson reported that this Shelby County Club of alert Civitans, walked off with three national awards, which he proudly displayed as he gave a report of this most interesting event. The awards were given for a membership drive in which the Calera Club topped all other clubs and received the trophies. They will be formerly presented to the club by Lt. Governor T. O. Smith of the West Florida District, who resides in Wilsonville.

The evening of July 21, will be an outstanding one for the Civitans and their wives who will share the event. Congressman-elect Armistead I. Selden, Jr., of Greensboro, will be guest speaker on this occasion, and will be presented by President Julius Pilgreen to the Club members and their guests.

The meeting will take place in the Town Hall and a well arranged program will be offered.

WATCHTOWER EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN CONTINUES

The Columbiana Company of Jehovah's Witnesses are continuing their Bible education work under the direction of the Watchtower Society to encourage more home Bible reading and study.

In working the rural areas this summer, they will be joined this week end by the Bessemer Company of Jehovah's Witnesses in calling back and revisiting the people of Shelby county in the Pea Ridge community and vicinity to acquaint others with the khowledge of God's name, purpose and Kingdom.

This evangelistic work will be featured by a Bible lecture Sunday, July 20th, at 3 P. M., at the home of Charles T. Wallace, Sr., in the Pea Ridge Community. The subject of the talk, "Training Children for Life" should be of vital interest to all people at this time and especially parents who are concerned over the welfare of their loved ones. The cause of juvenile and parental delinquency will be dealt with, along with the remedy therfor and how both parents and children may even now experience many blessings of worship and service.

An invitation is extended to the public to attend, seats are free and no collections will be taken.

LOCAL STUDENTS RECEIVE DEGREES FROM ALABAMA COLLEGE

Wilma Baker Elliott and Kathleen Allan Turner will receive their B. S. degrees at commencement exercises Thursday, July 17 in Palmer Auditorium at Alabama College at Montevallo.

Dr. M. L. Orr, director of Summer school, will present candidates for degrees and diplomas will be awarded by Dr. F. Edward Lund, new Alabama College president.

An informal reception honoring graduates, their parents and friends will follow the exercises.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mr. Baty Rape take this opportunity to thank each and everyone of the people in Columbiana and other communities for the countless acts of kindness rendered them since his sudden tragic death. Especially are we grateful to the ministers and the church members for their helpful guidance in this dark hour. For the floral offerings, and for the numerous words of sympathy and understanding we shall ever remain grateful.

STATE INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT NUMBER 6,897

State Industrial Relations Director Joe L. Coleman says industrial accidents injured 6,897 Alabama workers last year, 171 more than in 1950.

Coleman said the slight increase was due to the larger number of firms reporting. The frequency in injuries was actually lower for 1951, he said.

Lumbering showed the greatest frequency of accidents last year among the major industrial classifications. Iron founderies were second.

METHODIST CHURCH RECEIVES COMMENDATION FROM REV. KIRK

> "You go to your church,
> I go to mine...
> But, let's go along > together"—

is rapidly becoming a reality in this town, and the Rev. William Clyde Kirk, popular Baptist Minister from Mobile, who has spent the last week in Columbiana holding a series of thought-provoking services, featuring impressive and inspiring messages, has this to say of this cooperation in Columbiana between the Methodists and Baptists churches.

We quote in substance from his message Friday evening: "I have never been in a town in all my life and had such loyal and faithful cooperation from the Methodist minister and his people. I want to express my gratitude to the Rev. A. D. Wilson, pastor of the Methodist Church, for his unswerving, faithful attendance, and for his helpfulness. Each member from his church, who so graciously attended these services has been an inspiration to my heart. Columbiana is most fortunate in having this beautiful spirit exist between the two demoninations which has been so visibly portrayed during this week I have been privileged to be among you."

The writer has heard many such comments from friends in both churches. And it is indeed heart warming, and as it should be! Surely, the two churches should lead the way toward unity of effort and understanding. Otherwise, how can we expect ever to bring about peace and understanding among people who do not even know our language?. This one factor so constantly practiced and enjoyed last week will be numbered among the many happy memories of this historic week in this church, and long after the earnest, consecrated, conscientious brilliant Bible student, the Rev. Kirk, has returned to Mobile, the memory of this Christian gentleman-visitor, will llinger in the hearts of those who were privileged to hear him.

'IT CAN BE DONE'

There were a few skeptical ones who said recently, regarding a goal of 341 for attendance in the Baptist Church School. "It cannot be done".... There were others, who said.... "It can be done if we all work for it".... and with a determination seldom seen and a coordinated effort never before accomplished in this town, the energetic and optimistic ones went to work.

Sunday morning, there were 342 people who crowded into the Church School. One class of tiny tots was so large, the room was not big enough to allow them to be seated, and they had to be dismissed. Is not this one thing enough to make all of us realize that a much larger building is needed? If you were present, this paragraph is not news. All saw and marveled at the heart warming spectacle. No one happier over the whole thing than the Superintendent, Hugh Sims, and the pastor, Rev. Curtis Bean.

Sunday, July 20, will be another historic day in this age-old church for on this day, tithes and offerings will be brought and the amount will determine just how far we shall be able to go with this building program so badly needed in this town. The building, as it now stands, and has stood thru the years, is argument enough that a new church should be built presenting a more worthy looking structure to stand as a representative of this denomination than the present one. The spirit of its splendid membership and their loyalty to the church of their own choosing will, this writer believes, inspire everyone to do whatever is necessary to complete the plans for the new building and will no longer linger and quibble on the subject.

RECREATION PROGRAM FOR COLUMBIANA ANNOUNCED BY DIRECTOR MANN

Roy Mann, alert Recreation Director, is a fellow who is "on his job".... and is fast expanding the Recreation Program to take in all ages. Give this man a bit of time on this project and by next summer, we predict you will see many improvements in the facilities for both old and young for the "after work" hours.

Here is the weekly schedule which is now holding much interest for participants: No activities are planned for any Wednesday night, but beginning Monday evening, each week, those of you who like Soft Ball games may be thrilled with the men's teams in a contest for the little round ball, and the home run!

Thursday evenings from seven to eight o'clock, you may watch the Women's teams. After eight o'clock, the Boys and Men will again take over the spotlight. This Thursday evening, Montevallo will play Columbiana. Don't miss this thriller-diller!

Tuesday and Friday nights on the Concrete area at High School, games and contests will be in full swing. For your pleasure there is now offered, Volley Ball, Bad Minton, Shuffle Board, Horse shoes, Clock Golf, Croquet, Ping Pong, and if you are a little tot and want to play in the sand, there is a nice Sand Pile in which little toes may cool and ten fingers may find some bucket and spade work to do.

At any rate, go to the Recreation Field and meet your friends. It is a nice way to pas away the hectic hours, and for social chats with friends whom you do not have a chance to visit with often. Try it. Bet anything you will come back next week for more! MWW

. . . If any club or organization is in need of a speaker brim-ful of personality and interesting presentation of Book Reviews and Religious Topics, we would wholeheartedlly recommend Rose Wood (Mrs. Arthur Wood), of Columbiana. Mrs. Wood teaches a class in the Baptist Church School and is one of the most fluent speakers this writer has heard in "many moons".

. . . Baker Elliott has left Main Street for his army routine with Unk which will probably be where you will find him for the next two years. Oliver Head will go to Ft. Benning, Georgia for his military assignment next week. Both splendid young fellows are Second Lieutenants from the University of Alabama.

. . . Mrs. Blossom Rothberg writes to Mrs. Jack Story in Wilsonville and expresses appreciation for Elizabeth Weldon's column featuring news items of interest in her former home town.

. . . Mrs. E. A. Baker, Mrs. Vernon Richardson, Lutie Ann Richardson and Suzanne Roy of Sylacauga, Mary Baker of Harpersville, and Joe Foster of Birmingham, were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Foster. Lutie Ann Richardson celebrated the passing of her birthday anniversary Thursday during her visit in Columbiana.

. . . Truck loads of peaches are now procurable on Main from the Chilton County Peach farms. Clanton celebrates its annual Peach Festival Wednesday.

. . . Dr. Sam Shafferman of Birmingham, received a friendly welcome during his short visit in Columbiana, Thursday.

. . . We are delighted to place the name of Mrs. Lapsley Holcombe on our ever widening list of weekly readers. This courtesy was extended her by her daughter, Myra Holcombe who is an efficient secretary in the Valley Mills organization.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mahan of Montevallo spent Wednesday in Columbiana. It was a pleasure to welcome these friends in our office for a brief "check up" since last we had met.

. . . I hear the Mountain View Apartments will swing wide their attractive doors this week. Mrs. William Clark has taken possession of the executive offices in the new official quarters.

. . . Rosemary Curry, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cull Curry of Mobile is the guest of her aunt Mrs. T. B. Miller and Mr. Miller.

. . . Lt. and Mrs. Joe Young and babette have arrived in Columbiana from Nashville and will be the guest of Mr. Young's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Young.

. . . Mrs. Frank Wyatt of Vincent Route and Mrs. Rosa Teague of The Pines were guests in Columbiana, Tuesday.

. . . It is reported that 50 families have applied for residence in the Housing Project known as Mountain View Apartments.

. . . A wonderfully fine letter just received from Rose and Bob Kaplan who are now in Canada. They are hoping that Mr. Kaplan's health will soon permit their joint return to Columbiana. Their host of friends join in this hope for Old Main Street misses Bob and Rose Kaplan as few people have been missed.

. . . Barney Isbell and Betty Rush had birthday celebrations last week and received good wishes for "Many happy returns" from their loved ones and friends. Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Jones marked the passing of a wedding anniversary on July 9, and Bruce Alverson, John T. Goodwin, Tommy Harrison, Larry Farr and Frank Johnston had the pleasure of blowing out their birthday candles on July 9; Hank Spires Jr., is the honoree in his home on July 10. Ronnie Farr celebrated the occasion July 11, and when July came around popular little Harry Donavan Hunt had folks jumping to "Happy birthday to you" melody. Monday Wendell Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Evans received the good wishes from his playmates, friends and family.

. . . Mrs. R. L. Ivie of Sterrett attended the Home Demonstration Luncheon Tuesday. During her visit in Columbiana, Mrs. Ivie took the opportunity to renew her subscription to the "Home Paper", and "time out" for a little chat with us in our office, which courtesy we deeply appreciate.

. . . We are delighted to travel to Europe this week to greet our good friend with the Home Paper, whom you all know as A/2c Gray D. Goodwin. Gray is now in England and enjoying the new setting for his military career. Mrs. Goodwin is hoping she will be permitted to fly over for a visit with him during his sojourn there.

. . . Mrs. Jay Falkner entertained the Tuesday Evening Young Matrons Bridge Club July 14, and following the delectable Dessert served, Bridge was enjoyed. Mrs. Wales W. Wallace, Jr. won top score which was an exquisite ballerina figurine. Sixteen congenial friends and members enjoyed this delightful occasion.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Luther Curlee will leave Columbiana Friday by automobile for Spokane, Washington, and from there they will go on to Hollywood, California, which will complete their tour of the entire United States. The motor trip last summer included Canada. The Curlees will be gone about three weeks.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sims, Wayne and Hugh Jr., are vacationing in Florida.

. . . Juanita Richards Helms writes her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Houston Richards, from her home in Hawaii that each week when the Reporter-Democrat enters the Helms apartment, she and her husband feel they have just had a visit back home with old friends. She deeply appreciates this weekly messenger and keeps right up to the last minute with all happenings. She especially enjoys Elizabeth Weldon's column about Wilsonville people and things.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Baker of Gadsden and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Shaw of Birmingham were recent guests in the home of the Houston Richards.

HILDA SMITH ONE OF FINALS IN MISS TELEVISION CONTEST

Miss Hilda Smith, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith, represented Columbiana last Saturday in a contest for "Miss Television", staged by the Chamber of Commerce of Sylacauga and featuring contestants from surrounding towns and cities in this area. Top honors were given Helen Tate, talented vocalist of Sylacauga, but our own Hilda Smith made the finals, and the Town of Columbiana is very proud of its representative, who is a graduate from the Misses Howard School For Girls in Birmingham, and a former student of Shelby County High. Miss Smith will enter the University of Alabama next September where friends predict a brilliant career for her in whatever field of endeavor she may elect to enter. (Confidentially, I hear Hilda has been offered a place as Vocalist with the Bama Cavaliers next season.)

Miss Smith was presented to the Sylacauga officials by Luther Curlee, who represented Mayor W. W. Wallace, Jr., on this occasion. Master of Ceremonies, Jack Nealeans, took over her formal presentation at the Martin Theatre, and this televised program will be telecast over WAPI next Monday evening, Channel 13. Watch the paper for the hour of broadcast and be sure and tune it in.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mahan of Montevallo were cordially greeted visitors from Montevallo, Wednesday. The Board of Registrars of which Mr. Mahan is a member, is now in session in the Courthouse.

. . . Did you know that Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, who formerly resided at Tuck's Lake had opened a Barbecue and Sandwich Shop in the home where Ed Sykes used to have his place of business? Top of German Hill. They have delicious hickory smoked home barbecued sandwiches on tap at all hours. We enjoyed a Barbecue Plate luncheon there Thursday, and advise you, to drive by and try these Barbecue sandwiches. You will, like others have done, be going by frequently these hectic nights when you do not want to bother with cooking at home. If all goes well, I hear Mr. Tucker will screen in an outdoor place for those who enjoy a snack in the open. Think that would be a fine idea, and something new, too.

. . . Friends of popular Jack Armstrong will regret to learn he had the misfortune to break his leg during a game of Soft Ball at High School Monday night. He is at home, slightly slowed down by his crutches, but still very much alive with no noticeable slow down in his high spirits. A splendid fellow whom we are watching with keen interest.

. . . Lewis Averytt of Columbia, South Carolina surprised a number of his boyhood friends Tuesday when he put in a personal appearance on the Main Stem, the first in 26 years, but, this length of time had nothing to do with the warm welcome accorded him, and years have not brought many changes, as far as looks are concerned for everyone we saw rushed straight toward the handsome fellow with hand outstretched and a "Hello Lewis" greeting! So glad to have had the opportunity of joining in the chorus of "glad-to-see-you."

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Creel and Mrs. Purser Miles are vacationing in Texas, Mexico and Arizona this week, making the trip cross country by automobile.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Barger have some attractive guests this week who include: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Barger Jr., Tina and Ricky Barger of Harriman, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sweat of Oak Ridge, Tenn; and Mrs. Powell Ealy of Mascot, Tenn. The C. E. Bargers and Pauline Barger took a motor trip last week end to Pensacola, and Panama City, Fla.

. . . Sue Davis spent the past week end visiting friends in Birmingham.

. . . Mrs. Bill Chandler and daughter Evelyn were week end guests of Mrs. Myra Chandler.

LEADER STAGES GIGANTIC BARGAINS FOR ANNUAL CLEARANCE SALE

ALVIN LEFKOVITS

NORMAN LEFKOVITS

The Columbiana Leader offers to customers and friends throughout Shelby county this week drastic reductions in all departments on all merchandise as a feature of its annual Clearance Sale.

Alvin and Norman Lefkovits, co-managers of this well known store located on "The Busy Corner" in Columbiana, have gone "all out" in an endeavor to allow customers to profit from this unusual offering of piece goods, ready-to-wear in men, women and childrens departments and especially good values in the Shoe Department, dress and sport models.

The Lefkovits Brothers are making ready for an early arrival of Fall merchandise. School will soon be opening and in this annual offering you will find many wearable garments suited for early Fall wear and late summer needs.

Make your arrangements now to come to Columbiana and procure whatever items you and your family will need. You will find them on sale now, attractively and conveniently displayed at the Leader, at unbeatable prices.

LOCAL STUDENTS ENJOYING SUMMER SESSION IN MONTEVALLO

Columbiana students are enjoying their work in Montevallo this summer and are actively participating in the many advantages offered. The following attractive girls will be found among the students: Billie Sue Averytt, Sara Nelle Braxton, Margaret Dorough, Mary Fancher, Gwendolyn Farr, Kyle Lyon, Hilda JoJnes, Robbie Lynn Kendrick, Dorothy Joiner, Pattie Joiner, Ann Shaw, and Nancy Horn.

The boys include: Erskine Bentley, Phillip Hartsfield and Leonard Wood.

Two of the girls from this group have been signally honored, and are now serving as members of the Student Council. They include, Mary Fancher, who was elected president, and Nancy Horn Vice-President. Mary Fancher presided at the assembly on July 4th at which time newly elected Dr. Lund addressed the student body.

The class studying Democracy held a round table discussion regarding the recent Republican Convention and did some research work looking toward the procedure of the Democratic Convention. Participating in this interesting venture were Gwendolyn Farr, Billie Sue Averytt, Ann Shaw and Erskine Bentley.

July 16, the Senior English Class will give a Talent Revue at assembly time and those taking part in this offering will include: Hilda Jones, Kyle Lyon, Gwendolyn Farr, Ann Shaw, and Nancy Horn.

Bulldog Beach will furnish the setting for the Picnic which will be given to the student body on July 17th. Every member of the student body is cordially invited to attend.

NEWLY WEDS HONOR GUESTS AT BARBECUE DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Duke, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Duke were the guests of honor at a barbecue given by Mrs. W. F. Davis and Mr. Frank Fulton in Mrs. Davis' lovely flower gardens last Friday night.

The barbecue table was appropriately covered with red-checked cloth using floral fruit bowl as the center piece.

Delectable baked beans, stuffed eggs, potato salad, rice, sliced tomatoes, pickles, cake and tea supplemented the delicious barbecued ribs served from the charcoal grill by Dr. Ralph Hunt, Jr.

Other guests for this festivity were Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Brown and Brenda, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Duke, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunt, Jr., Miss Hilda Smith, Mr. Ralph Hunt III, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tillery, Shelley and Pamela Tillery, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Bolin Cooper.

JUNALUSKA BOUND

That merry motor party you saw leaving town this week composed of the Rev. A. D. Wilson, Bunny Crawford, Margaret Ann Hatchett, Emily Mitchell and Marcia Buck were Junaluska bound where they will attend the Methodist Conference of Workers now in session. During their visit in this picturesque spot, they will be guests of the Hotel Lambuth, where atractive Jeff Nickerson is hostess.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN GEORGIA

A note from Mrs. Myles G. Patterson of Lakemont, Georgia, to friends in Columbiana tells of the death of Mr. Patterson on July 6th, in Habersham Memorial hospital at Demorest, Georgia.

Mrs. Patterson before her marriage was Miss Margaret Stowell who for eight years was head of the Home Economics department in the Shelby County High School.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Kirby and their daughter of Opelika were among those who attended Mr. Patersons funeral in Columbus.

. . . Mrs. Kathreen Barrow, Recreation Director from the Chattahootchie Valley area, has been the attractive house guest of Mrs. Charlie Niven and Miss Jeanette Niven.

PREPARE LAND RIGHT FOR FALL PLANTING

It's about time to prepare land for fall crops, according to J. T. Gaillard, API Extension specialist in farm mechanization.

He reminds farmers that poor land preparation has caused many poor stands in the past. "Land should be turned with a turn plow followed by a disk harrow to remove air pockets," says Gaillard. "The disk harrow should be followed by a section harrow to remove air pockets near the surface and to do a smootihng job."

FARM NEWS

WEED KILLERS DON'T SPARE COTTON EITHER

Each summer during recent years a few cotton growers over the state have become alarmed over what they think is a new cotton disease. On further investigation, however, they find that their cotton has been damaged by 2, 4-D or similar weed killers.

O. N. Andrews, API Extension cotton specialist, explains that when cotton plants are affected by 2, 4-D, the leaves and squares may become narrow, long, thick, and frazzled on the edges. Yields may be greatly reduced, especially if injury occurs in the fruitting stage.

"Therefore," warns the specialist, "farmers and others using 2, 4-D or other weed killers should take every precaution to prevent spray from drifting to nearby cotton fields. Sometimes the material may drift and injure cotton several hundred yards away. If the ester or sensitive to these chemicals."

LIVESTOCK AND SOIL IMPROVEMENT

Livestock offers farmers an opportunity to increase their incomes and conserve and increase the productivity of their soils at the same time.

BETTER COTTON GRADES BRING HIGHER PRICES

At present spot market cotton quotations show that one inch white low middling cotton is selling for $30 to $40 a bale less than one inch white middling cotton.

"Therefore," says O. N. Andrews, API cotton specialist, "growers should make every effort to produce good grades of cotton this fall."

He suggests that grass, weeds, and insects be controlled. Boll weevils and aphids often cause spots and stains. If cotton becomes rank, défoliate to reduce loss from boll rot. This practice will also reduce damage from insects. Start picking cotton clean and free of trash when bolls are open wide, and get it out of the field before too much weather damage occurs.

The specialist adds that if cotton is picked damp, spread it out to dry. Dew-damp cotton may reduce the quality of a truck or trailer load, representing several bales. Also, take cotton to the gin dry, and do not mix clean picked white cotton with rough picked dirty cotton. Finally, take cotton to a good gin equipped to do a good job.

WHAT TO DO BEFORE PAINT IS APPLIED

Any surface should be made clean, dry, and smooth before paint is applied.

Alice Peavy, API Extension home management specialist, says that htis means free from dampness, grease, gummy or sticky substances, loose paint, and dust.

She points out that oil paint and varnish will not dry on a damp surface nor over a partially dry coat of varnish. They either remain sticky or crack and peel. Each coat should dry thoroughly before the next coat is applied.

"If a new, unpainted wood or metal surface is in good condition, clean it with steel wool or fine sandpaper and dust it thoroughly before painting," adds Miss Peavy. "When this step is taken, a lasting coat of paint will result."

Raisins are plumper and more juicy if heated in the oven for three minutes before using. In grinding raisins for a cake, rinse first in boiling water, then in cold, and they will not stick to the chopper.

KEEPING QUALITY OF FROZEN MEAT

All frozen meats may be thawed before they are cooked or during cooking.

"However," says Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist, "meat that is thawed at ordinary room temperature should be cooked promptly because the warm, wet outer surface is an ideal place for spoilage to start."

She explains that if meat is thawed more slowly in the refrigerator, the surface remains cold and the thawed piece can often be held a day or longer without developing off odors.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

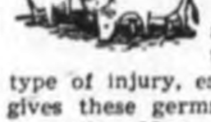
WHAT ABOUT FOUL FOOT?

Q: Which farm animals are affected by foul foot disease?

A: Cattle, sheep and sometimes hogs are the usual victims of this painful foot infection.

Q: How can the owner detect foul foot?

A: He'll probably notice that the animal is limping and that the foot is getting red and is swelling. When such symptoms develop, prompt treatment and good nursing is needed, or the bones of the foot may become involved, causing permanent damage and lameness.



Q: What causes this condition?

A: Germs commonly found in the soil. Any type of injury, especially bruising, gives these germs an opportunity to strike. Most severe outbreaks follow a prolonged rainy period.

Q: What precautions should be taken when foul foot is suspected?

A: Separate the sick animal from the rest of the herd and put it on dry ground, or in a dry stall. See if some foreign object has lodged in the foot. If it's a nail or a stone, remove it, also trim off any excess hoof growth. If there's redness, swelling or sign of infection, call a veterinarian, because medical treatment will be needed.

Q: Is there any cure?

A: Local therapy and general treatment help to correct the condition.

Q: What about preventive measures?

A: The best preventive measures are to remove sharp stones or other sharp-edged material from lots, drain mudholes, and swampy spots, move animals to clean, high ground until danger areas have a chance to dry.

STATESMAN OR POLITICIAN?

"A politician thinks of the next election; a statesman, of the next generation."

The eyes of a confused and bewildered people are now wistfully turned toward proceedings now in progress in the Democratic National Convention in Chicago. Certainly, this colorful historic event is no news item to any of our readers who have listened over the radio, or viewed the events a la television. Hence, anything we might record at this time, would simply be a repitition of things you already know. However, I assure you no one is more constantly in attendance on one of these modern "news-casters" than I. The future of our country largely depends on the final action taken by this assemblage and we, like you, await the outcome, hoping the "powers that be" will wisely nominate a "statesman".... instead of a "politician".

TELEPHONE RATES MAY BE RAISED AGAIN

It is entirely possible that the Southern Bell Telephone Company will, within a short time, "raise the rates" again in this area!

It may be due to my mis-information, or ignorance of 'what I see in the papers' but, I cannot, for the life of me understand or explain 'why' the service program, advocated by this money making corporation, should be charged to the individual subscribers. That is, a continuous practice of this "charging-it-up-to-the-folk program." Already subscribers to this modern convenience are paying three times what the basic figure formerly totalled, and essential as a telephone is, they often find it difficult to meet the bill when presented, even though they have done their best to limit their conversation to a minimum.

Ordinarily, when a corporation or a commercial firm 'expands', it is an indication that it is a profit making enterprise, and the owners are willing to put more money in its capital stock and further 'expand' its facilities as the demand justifies. However, for the past few months high and higher telephone rates have been brought about, regardless of howls of protests from subscribers to Herr Bell's trick invention. Now, the papers state, another raise is coming up. Just how much more can a fellow stand? The telephone is a valuable asset in anybody's business, but, at the rate it is now going up, it will take a lot of the profit from any venture to pay the telephone bill.

A reasonable amount for services rendered is definitely right, but, raising the rates above this amount is definitely something else, and we are not alone in reaching this conclusion.

(P. S. Since writing the above article, our good and personable friend Steve Stutts, Manager of Southern Bell Telephone offces in Bessemer, came by to see me. Steve and I had some argument over this proposed raise in telephone rates, and he presented some facts and figures to bear his arguments out. He further told me that the basic rate of resident phones would not be raise. The business phones, as we understand it, will be "elevated slightly." All we can say is, Steve Stutts is a swell fellow. He wants to see that the right thing is done, and if all the employees of Mr. Southern Bell are as loyal to this Company as Steve is, this Company has an asset more valuable than the dollars and cents they are taking in.

We shall wait and see what happens regarding this telephone situation, then, we shall talk more, or less.... about it. M. W. W.)

FIVE MONTEVALLO DISTRICT EMPLOYEES GET SERVICE AWARDS AT SAFETY MEETING RECENTLY

Service Awards were presented to five Montevallo District employees of the Alabama Power Company at the last safety meeting, July 14, 1952, by Mr. H. Maulshagen, Division Vice President. These awards are presented to employees for each five years of service or a multiple of five years of service in recognition of continuous service with the Company.

J. F. Thompson, local manager at Columbiana, who received a 30 year award was originally employed in construction work with the Company and transferred to the operating department at the time the Alabama Power Company's service was extended to Columbiana in 1925.

The Montevallo District includes most of Shelby, all of Bibb and a portion of Chilton and Tuscaloosa county. At the present time, there are approximately 10,700 retail customers in the District and approximately 1100 miles of rural line.

Southern Bell Asks For Rate Increase

The Southern Bell Telephone Company today filed an application with the Alabama Public Service Commission asking increased rates to offset the effects of a general wage increase just approved by the Wage Stabilization Board retroactive to June 8.

The amount of additional annual gross revue sought is approximately $917,000. Alabama Manager, Harry B. Lackey, pointed out that it will not be necessary to increase basic business and residence rates. The amount requested is only the specific cost incurred as a result of the increased wages negotiated through collective bargaining.

The proposed increases will change the pay station local call from 5 to 10 cents and some of the long-distance calls within the state, as well as certain other miscellaneous charges.

Filing of the petition had been expected in view of the WSB approval and of an earlier Company statement that increased costs would require increased telephone rates.

"Alabama telephone rates set for Southern Bell back in January were short of the amount requested and badly needed," Mr. Lackey said. "The new wage level just approved will force our earnings down to an even lower level unless relief is obtained.

"By seeking only the costs incurred in the recent wage negotiations, we are asking the Commission to do nothing more than restore our earnings to the minimum level set by them last January.

AMERICAN LEGION GOES ALL-OUT FOR TRAFFIC SAFETY

The American Legion went on record today as favoring an all-out drive by individual Alabamians to curb the mass murder that is being carried out on our highways. Director of Americanism David M. Vess announced the Legion's plans to distribute pledge cards in a "Crusade for Safety". These pledge cards may be signed by every driver, on a purely voluntary basis, who is interested in making Alabama a safer state in which to live and drive. This is a direct approach to the people themselves, actually the only ones who can create safety on the highways. All safety-minded drivers are urged to sign a card and place it in his or her car, in fullview of everyone.

James M. Prestwood, Andalusia attorney and member of Andalusia Post No. 80 of The American Legion, is the originator of the "Crusade for Safety." Post No. 80 reports that the drive in Covington county is making remarkable strides and that great results are to be expected from placing safety responsibility upon the integrity of each driver.

The American Legion, Department of Alabama, is proud to endorse and promote the "Crusade for Safety". The American Legion will welcome the participation of other organizations. All are free to sponsor, endorse and promote the program, since its sole purpose is to provide safer highways and streets in Alabama.

WILSONVILLE CIVITANS WIN INTERNATIONAL TROPHY

Citizens of Wilsonville are indeed proud of their Civitan Club, who won an international award for the largest percentage of attendance for clubs of under fifty members. This beautiful loving cup, which can be kept through the years, was presented to Mr. I. M. Watson, local president, at the Civitan picnic Thursday evening. It was presented by Mr. T. O. Smith, who is district Governor General which is another honor for the club.

FARM SAFETY WEEK JULY 20-26

State Agriculture Commissioner Frank M. Stewart has urged Alabama farmers to give strong support to National Farm Safety Week, July 20-26.

Stewart listed balky tractors, explosives, and kicking mules as some of the agriculture hazards which have cost this nation 15,000 accidental farm deaths annually.

"The seriousness of the situation is further emphasized by the fact that less than one-fourth of our total population lives on farms," he said. Farm accidents cost the U. S. millions of dollars each year, he said. Fire alone destroys 100 million dollars worth of farm property annually, he said.

BORDEN BROTHERS TO APPEAR HERE JULY 25

The American Legion Post of Columbiana is sponsoring a musical comedy show to be held in the courthouse in Columbiana on the night of Friday, July 25th. The Borden Brothers and the Dixie Land Boys are to appear. This show may be heard over Radio Station WVOK at 7:15 and 11:30 each morning.

CALERA CAFE CELEBRATES 6TH ANNIVERSARY

The Calera Cafe, owned and operated by Pearl Adams is one of the most popular meeting places for friends and those who seek delectable menus during these summer days in Calera.

This week Mrs. Adams celebrates the 6th anniversary of this business venture which has been a successful achievement.

We refer you to the attractive advertisement in the current issue of the Reporter-Democrat and ask you to read her courteous expression of appreciation to the patrons of this Cafe for their patronage, which has made her success, posible.

Calera is fortunate in having an up to date Cafe. It is certainly a necessary adjunct in the commercial life of any town.

Mrs. Adams offers round the clock service. Go by and let the Calera Cafe solve your culinary problems with lesstrouble and more satisfactorily, perhaps, than you could possibly do.

National Guard Unit To Attend Camp

Summer camp for the 657th Transportation Truck Company, Alabama National Guard, will be held this year at Ft. McClellan, near Anniston, Alabama, beginning on August 17th.

Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson said that members of his company would be paid at Regular Army rates for the summer training period. Guardsmen are also paid one days pay for each weekly drill performed.

Vacancies for both officers and enlisted men now exist in this unit for men who can qualify. "Young men who wish to take advantage of the many opportunities open to them in the National Guard should get down to the office in the Calera High School today," said Lt. Nickerson.

Men who enlist in the National Guard become part of America's oldest military organization with a fighting record dating back to early colonial days. The National Guard is part of the Nation's first line defense team with a vital M-Day mission. Guardsmen train with the latest available equipment under supervision of combat-tested leaders. They get training that pays off in both military and civilian life.

"Men who enlist immediately will be prepared to attend camp this year," Lt. Nickerson stated. The unit will have five more drills here before they leave for the two week camp. Col. Bob E. Morrow, commanding the 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group at Selma will be the Camp Commander.

BETHEL REVIVAL DRAWING LARGE CROWDS

The Rev. Cutris Bean is the guest speaker at the Rev. Ramsour's church at Bethel this week, and a large number of Columbiana people and people from surrounding communities are sharing these services. The Baptist Choristers visited with the Bethel Church people Tuesday evening, and the Youth Choir from the Baptist Church will go with Bob Holliman out to this church Thursday evening. Barbara Horn has been assisting with the music for the little folk, and, as always has done a splendid job.

The meeting will close this week.

CLINIC SCHEDULE

Members of the County Health Department will be at the following places at the time specified to give immunizations against Typhoid Fever, Diphtheria, Tetanus, Whooping Cough and Smallpox.

One visit only be made to each community and it is urged that all citizens of these communities attend the clinics promptly at the time given, and protect themselves against these communicable diseases.

BAPTIST TRAINING UNION TO MEET AT CALERA JULY 28TH

Rev. George G. Holmes, pastor, Liberty Baptist Church at Chelsea, announces an Associational Training Union meeting at Calera Baptist Church next Monday night July 28th, beginning at 8:00 p. m.

Rev. Holmes, who is Training Union Director for the Shelby Association, urges all churches with Training Unions to especially be well represented. All other churches in the association are urged to send members to attend, please.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Rev. James Lyles, pastor, Five Points Baptist Church, Sylacauga, Alabama.

How about coming out and winning the Associational BTU Attendance Banner for your church and helping us put on a well rounded program of Training in Shelby Association?

KEY BANKER OF COUNTY GIVES REPORT

ROY DOWNS

State Farmers Have More, Borrow Less, In 1951

Alabama agriculture is in such excellent financial condition that the state's farmers found it necessary to borrow less money from banks during 1951, and savings and income of farm families reached record levels, according to Roy Downs, Central State Bank, of Calera, who represents the Alabama Bankers Association as Shelby County Key Banker.

"In recent years, the state's cooperated closely with their farm customers in modernizing the plant and equipment of Alabama farms," he said. "This program has been so successful that the state's farms are now in the best condition in our history, and farmers have found it possible to maintain high production of vitally needed farm products and still reduce their borrowing.

"This healthy situation has been particularly valuable in the past few months when farmers have been faced with rising costs of the things they buy and lower prices of the things they sell. Under those conditions, production is the key to keeping agriculture profitable."

Quoting from the eleventh national survey of agricultural lending by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, Mr. Downs noted that "the vast majority of farm loans made by banks are for production and operating requirements. In 1951, the last full year of operation, Alabama banks serving agricultural communities loaned $60,990,000 to 48,418 farmers to meet all types of financial needs. Of this amount, $46,088,000 was borrowed by 41,471 farmers to finance production and operating needs. This compares with 67,837 production loans, totaling $56,038,000 during 1950. These production loans were quickly repaid, too, and only $31,545,000 were outstandinf at the end of 1951.

"During 1951, Alabama banks made 6,947 farm real estate loans in an aggregate of $14,902,000. Yet, so much of the mortgage debt was paid off during the year that, on December 31, 1951, the total amount o tfhis debt outstanding had risen only $542,000 ot $15,379,000.

"The fact that the state's banks are serving particularly the operators of small and moderate-sized farms is shown by the size of the average loan made by banks during the year. The average production loan was $1,111 during 1951, and the average farm real estate loan was $2,145.

"The total of bank-held agricultural debt outstanding in Alabama on January 1 of this year was $46,924,000, excluding C. C. C. loans," Mr. Downs said.

COLUMBIANA OFFICIALS MAKE FINAL PREPARATIONS TO FURNISH GAS

Mayor Wales W. Wallace Jr. left Columbiana Wednesday for Atlanta where he will confer with Authorities working toward final arrangements for letting the contract on September 1, 1952, for domestic and commercial natural gas facilities.

Following this contract completion, the contractors will have 180 days in which to complete it.

This will be good news to those who have been wating to hear developments from this contemplated project for Columbiana. We hope for more details next week after the Atlanta conference.

ALABAMA SEEKS TOURISTS THRU NATIONAL ADVERTISING

Magazines carrying the first of two national advertisements authorized by the 1951 legislature when it set aside $50,000 for tourist advertising, are now being distributed.

The ads are in Holiday Magazine and Field and Stream.

The two-column ad in Holiday stresses the theme, "There's a Treasure of Pleasure in Sunny Alabama."

It calls attention to Alabama's mountains, beaches, lakes, golf courses, TVA, Birmingham, "The Steel Capital of the South," the states' graceful antebellum homes, Cullman's Ave Maria Grotto and other points of interest to tourists.

Field and Stream carries details on the 20th Annual Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo, August 15-17. The advertisement carries a picture of Miss Jean Deer, queen of the 1952 Rodeo.

The advertisement also calls attention to motorboat racing, swimming meets, casting tournaments, liar's contests, fish frys and other Southern events.

At present, an advertisement is being prepared for a future edition of Field and Stream, giving information on the Baldwin County Speckled Trout Rodeo.

A HISTORICAL NOVEL BY E. E. HALLERAN

THE STORY SO FAR:

Will Morgan had rejected the attentions of Ann Randall and watched her leave Pittsburgh for the frontier. He would have preferred the love of Mary Belden, but she jokingly refused his love and laughed at him when he stalked off in a rage.

As he prepares to help Sam take the militia downstream in the flatboats, he wonders how he may be able to convince Mary of his love. He fears he may never have another chance. The militia is on board and the signal is given to depart. When he returns, Mary Belden will be gone from Pittsburgh into the wilderness of the Miami region—heart of the Indian territory.

CHAPTER V

Morgan watched the performance with interest. He was still new enough on the river to be completely intrigued with the alligator-horses and it amused him to watch the way they went about their work with calm disregard of the passengers. Almost a separate race, these brawny rivermen were distinct from either pioneer or trapper. Proud of their ability to handle the big flatboats and to drive the heavy keelboats upstream against all kinds of currents they were easily the most picturesque group along the river frontier. Exaggeration was their stock in trade just as the red flannel shirt and blue pants was their unofficial uniform. They fought Indians when the occasion demanded — and fought each other when the mood seized them. They lied outrageously about everything for the sheer love of lying and fought at the drop of the hat if anyone expressed a doubt regarding their fantastic inventions. They were the alligator-horses—the Boatmen of the Ohio—and they wanted everyone to know it.

Tobe's Treachery Fails To Pay any Dividends

Now it was night, however, and the boatmen sprawled out to sleep beside the drowsy militiamen, leaving only two men at the sweeps. Will found it impossible to settle down like the others, his mind too full of anger at the events of the evening. It had not been pleasant to be laughed at and he found it difficult to forget it.

Finally, however, he dropped off to sleep, awakening to find boatmen and militiamen cooking breakfast at the sand pits with which the craft was provided. Among the militia Will noted two familiar figures. One was the big man he had fought on the river bank. The other was Tobe Ansley. Tobe was evidently striving to convey some message with his significant glances but before Will could decipher it there came an interruption. All hands turned out to work through one of the more dangerous riffles and by the time they were in clear water below, Ansley was forgotten.

Will wandered forward to where Kirby, the boss riverman, was handling one of the sweeps. "Looks quiet enough around here, Bullhead," he greeted. "Do you reckon there are any redskins in this part of the territory?"

Kirby spat over the gunwale before replying. He was a veteran of river and trap lines, a man who knew the frontier in all its bloody danger. "You sound jest like a settler, Morgan," he growled. "All they ever see is trees—'til it's too late. Then they find out there's Injuns behind 'em and they holler for help."

Will grinned in some embarrassment. "And it looks like they'll get help. Harmar's expedition ought to quiet things."

"Not by a dam' sight! The Injuns know they've got to stop the settlers now or never. They didn't mind us trappers but it's families now—and that ruins the huntin' ground."

"It'll be just like it was farther east," Will said easily, trying to draw the man out. "The Indians will put up a fuss and then move away."

"They will like hell! This scrap is fer keeps—and the varmints have got leaders what know it. Blue Jacket, Tark the Crane, Little Turtle—even Joseph Brant, the half breed son of old Johnson. He's a Mohawk but he's supposed to be out here cookin' up a devil's brew with a new Miami chief who's supposed to be half white too. It'll be a mess!"

"Hell's fire! They're all on the warpath now! The Wabash tribes are raisin' hell down in the lower bottoms and the Miamis and Wyandots are scalpin' along the upper river."

He jerked a scornful thumb at the lounging militiamen behind him. "Them simple sons are goin' to find out plenty before long. It'll take more'n militia to handle this here scrap."

He broke off to hail the boatmen who were still whooping it up in complete disregard of the militiamen. "Man yer poles, ye sons o' alligators! There's Wheelin' just ahead. Shove her across."

Will stepped back to let a brawny riverman take the sweep. "Right on schedule," he commented. "Old Sam said we'd be about twelve hours from the forks to Wheeling."

Kirby nodded casually. "Got much to unload?"

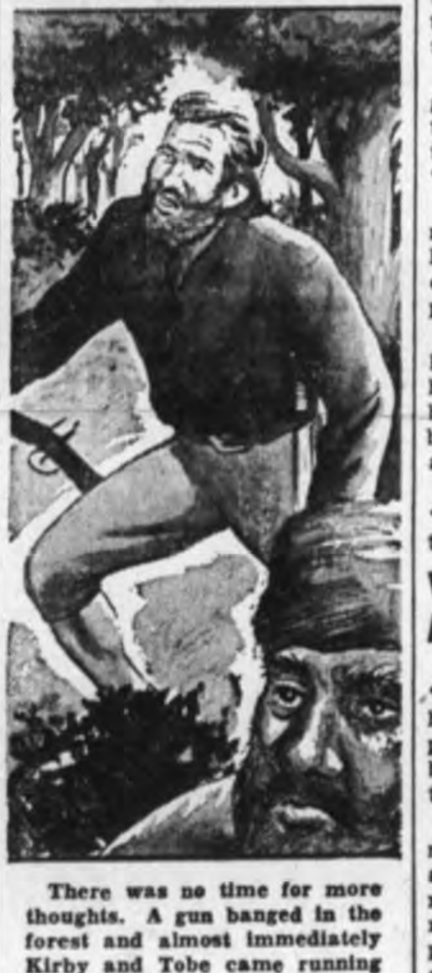
"Only a couple of barrels. The military stuff didn't come through from the east yet."

A new voice cut into the conversation and Will turned to see Tobe Ansley leering at him with what the rotund scout apparently hoped was a smile. "Goin' to have time ashore fer a man to git a drink, Will?" he asked. "I'm right dry."

"Can't tell," Morgan replied. "It may take a little time to find the storekeeper. We'll move on as soon as I get a receipt."

"I need a drink," Tobe said dolefully. "It ain't right not to stop long enough fer these sojers to have a chance to stretch their legs—and if'n I told Ed Bareford who it was hit him the other night I bet he'd buy me a drink."

So that was it! Tobe usually had some kind of game like this up his sleeve. Morgan smiled with one corner of his mouth, his eyes still following the landing operations. "Is Bareford the big fellow with the crooked nose?" he asked quietly.



There was no time for more thoughts. A gun banged in the forest and almost immediately Kirby and Tobe came running out to spring in the flatboat.

Ansley nodded. "That's him. He's mighty sot on findin' out who messed up his game t'other night. He wants to git square."

Morgan's voice was low as he swung to stare directly into the fat scout's shifty eyes. "Then tell him! If you can cadge a drink that way you'd better do it. I'm not going to coddle you to make you keep your mouth shut!"

Tobe met the glance only long enough to hear the first few words. Then he slipped away, his expression something between anger and craft. "I was just figgerin'."

Savage Rifle Fire And Signs of Massacre

After that first night the flatboat traveled only by day, tying up each night to avoid the added hazard of darkness on the river. The morning after they left lower Shawneetown most of the militiamen were sleeping in the bottom of the boat, dozing off the effects of a night's carouse. Kirby stood by one of the sweeps, answering the questions which Will was asking him in halting Miami dialect. Suddenly there was a humming sound overhead, followed quickly by the distant crack of a rifle. Kirby flung himself into the bottom of the boat, calling for Will to do likewise.

"One o' them raids I told you about," Kirby said grimly. "I wonder if any o' them cornfield sojers back there is goin' to give 'em a reply?"

The militiamen were keeping carefully below the bulwarks and after a moment Kirby crawled along between the piles of freight and picked up a gun. Even at the distance Will saw that it was not a militia musket and the seizure brought a quick maudlin protest from Tobe Ansley.

Kirby ignored him except to ask, "Is she loaded?"

Tobe nodded an affirmative. Kirby picked up the scout's powder horn and reprimed the weapon before raising himself for a look. Then he waited until another storm of lead came from the bushes. His careful shot brought a whoop from shore but McGrew laughed aloud. "Listen to the varmint whoop at ye, Kirby. Jest like he was thumbin' his nose at ye. I'll bet ye never even come close."

"Didn't figger to," Kirby retorted. "All I had to shoot at was a patch o' smoke. I jest wanted to let the varmints know we could shoot back even if we are loaded down with helpless militiamen."

"Usin' my good French powder to scare Injuns!" Ansley whined. "I oughta git paid fer that."

Kirby snorted. "French powder hell! By the way that rifle o' yours acted it musta been loaded with the kind o' powder they trade to the Injuns. If ye bought that stuff fer French powder ye musta been dealin' with a Yankee! . . . And don't try none o' yer cadgin' tricks on me!"

Another scattering fire from the trees did no damage and then the boat drifted around a bend in the river. Both passengers and crew were content to let it drift for some little distance. Then Kirby raised his hat on a stick and when no shot was fired at it he sat up for a look. His startled examination brought the others up quickly.

"Damn the luck!" he snapped. "The red devils couldn't do much with us but they sure played hob with some poor settlers. There's a burned flatboat in there among the trees."

Morgan's glance sent little shivers down his spine. All flatboats looked pretty much alike but when a fellow had helped to build one it was bound to seem particularly familiar. That smoking ruin in there among the bushes was the craft on which the Randalls had embarked from the forks.

Heads had appeared above the gunwales now but no one seemed to feel the necessity of doing anything. Will looked bleakly at Kirby. "Take her in," he suggested.

Kirby nodded and shouted a command to his crew. The alligator-horses took their poles willingly enough but the militia sergeant protested.

"We can't go in there mister," he told Kirby. "There must be hundreds o' Injuns along them banks. They ambushed that other boat and now they're waitin' around to draw us into a trap."

Kirby didn't even turn his head. "Yer men have got guns. Tell 'em to get ready."

Will Fears Ann Randall Is Captive of Indians

Tobe Ansley threw in his protest. "It's a trap all right, Kirby. They'd have had us certain only some impatient young buck fired at you back there. Keep a ways back from that bank!"

Kirby ignored them all. The militiamen disposed themselves along the bulwarks, handling their muskets nervously, while the boatmen continued to work in their exposed positions as though no danger threatened. It was only a matter of minutes until the flatboat was warped ashore. Then Kirby snatched a musket from a nervous looking farmer boy and jerked his head in Tobe's direction. "Come along, fatty," he ordered. "You and me will beat the brush a bit while the rest o' these fellers look the ruins over."

Ansley went along, complaining but showing signs of the stealth which made him a good scout in spite of his personal drawbacks. Will saw that the militiamen were keeping to their guard posts in the flatboat and he went across into the smoking ruin of the Randall craft, more nervous about the guns at his back than over the possible danger from the woods.

His first look brought something like nausea. Indian depredations had been mere stories to him until now, hunters' yarns to be passed on as gossip or invention. Now he was face to face with the horror of it all. Two charred corpses lay among the embers of what had been the flatboat's cabin while the scalped body of Jed Randall hung across a bulwark. In the brush which lined the river bank there were three other bodies, all horribly mutilated. Will forced himself to look at each one, searching for any sign of life, but it quickly became apparent that the raiders had been thorough. None of the Randall party remained alive except those who might have been captured. He wondered briefly as to the fate of Ann.

There was no time for more thoughts. A gun banged in the forest and almost immediately Kirby and Tobe came running out to spring aboard the flatboat.

"Shove her off," Kirby commanded. "You militia boys keep your sights on the woods. There's varmints in there."

A little more valiant in retreat than they had been in advance, the militiamen kept up a noisy but aimless fire as the boatmen worked the flatboat back into the current. It served to keep the Indians at bay, only a few scattering shots coming from the forest, none of which did any damage. Then the flatboat was out of range.

Will frowned silently out across the river, trying to keep back the thought of a fair-haired captive being dragged along by savages. It would be almost better to think of Ann Randall as dead.

Kirby spoke thoughtfully when the younger man kept his silence. "Ye know, Morgan, ye remind me o' somebody. When I was with the Miamis there was a young white feller in the village. He musta been an American but he hated white folks so bad he wouldn't even let on he understood the language. Fer some time I been wonderin' if maybe he turned out to be this ornery white chief I been hearin' about—and jest now it struck me that ye look a tarnation lot like him. It wasn't 'til I seen that look in yer eyes as we headed fer the bank that I realized it."

Mrs. Minnie Tood and Mrs. Jo Shirley have returned from a tour of the East Coast and Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Sorrell came down from Birmingham to spend the week end visiting relatives here.

Mrs. C. E. Bishop and children have returned to their home in Meridianville after having been guests of relatives here for several weeks.

Despite the hot weather, church activities are in the spot light in the community. A delightful picnic and spend-the-day was enjoyed by the Young Adult Class of the Presbyterian Church, Sunday following the Sunday School. Mrs. Dudley McGuire, teacher of the group, entertained these youngsters at her home. On Thursday, the Pioneers will enjoy a picnic and swimming party following Choir practice.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to acknowledge with grateful appreciation the countless acts of kindness shown us during the sudden death of our dear husband and father, Benpamin F. Creamer.

Especially do we want to thank the kind minister, Dr. W. E. Stinson and the Walton-Bolton Funeral Home. For the floral offerings and for the numerous words of sympathy, we shall ever remain grateful.

MISS KATHLEEN DONKLE

MISS KATHLEEN DONKLE HONORED

Miss Kathleen Donkle, well-known Birmingham business woman, was honored recently at a reception and dinner party for 40 years of loyal and distinguished service to Southern Bell Telephone Company.

Miss Donkle, the telephone company's Alabama cashier, will retire on July 31. She has held her present post for 19 years.

At the afternoon reception given by fellow workers, more than 1000 friends and company employees paid Miss Donkle their respects. On display were scores of gifts presented the honoree by her associates.

Present on the occasion, among others, were the Alabama top executives of Southern Bell: Harry B. Lackey, Alabama Manager; H. D. Cragon, Alabama auditor; J. W. Travis, Alabama chief engineer, E. H. Thompson, Alabama plant superintendent; and J. F. Carreker, Alabama traffic superintendent.

Kathleen (Kay) Donkle, who was born at Rome, Georgia, came to Southern Bell in 1913 after her schooling was completed and was destined to spend her entire career in Birmingham. She entered the business as a clerk and, through her energy and ability, she steadily advanced to jobs of more and more importance. By 1929, she had risen to the position of Assistant Cashier for Alabama.

When the position of Cashier became vacant in 1933, the ability that she had demonstrated in rising through the ranks in true telephone tradition caused her to be promoted to the top job in the financial department in Alabama. She has served with outstanding ability in this position for 19 years, including the recent period of the company's greatest growth.

Miss Donkle has taken an active interest in Birmingham in the Pilot Club, of which she is a past president, the Y. W. C. A., the Episcopal Church, the Telephone Women's Club, and the Telephone Pioneers of America.

O THE TOP OF THE OUNTAIN - A MORAL TEST

"And seeing the multitudes, he ent up into mountain; and when e was set, his disciples came nto him; and he taught them." latthew 5: 1-2

Jesus never rated his ministry y the size of the crowds that ollowed him. That explains his oing up into the mountain. The rongs in the narrow streets of at Galilean town did not appeal him. They hindered rather than romoted his mission. Mainly curiosity seekers they were. They ad come to town from all the rrounding country because they ad heard that sensational things ere happening, and they wanted share in the excitement. The ws had spread like wildfire, and re they came, farmers and fishmen, villagers and city folk, ountaineers and lowlanders, Genes and Jews, irrespective of age sex.

As we said, Jesus had no amtion to be merely the central gure in a throng. He employed publicity agents, but on the ntrary it was his practice to vise those who witnessed and perienced his beneficent power say nothing about it.

His going to the mountain top as in order to sift the crowd. He ew that the people of open nd, unvarnished candor, sympathetic heart, would follow him en up the rough paths to the fficult heights. And they did! is disciples came unto him." Let e shallowminded, the indifferent, e unappreciative of things of during worth, the easygoing, y down on the dead level! A sciple is a diligent pupil. Such re the people who followed him; ople of divinely directed amtion, of aspiration that reached yond the stars.

"And he taught them." The rnest Galilean peasants who re willing to scramble to the p of the mountain that morning re repaid a thousand-fold. They ard amazing things from the s of him who taught them as e having authority, and not as e scribes. For that hour they re pupils in the Academy of ve. So powerful was the disurse, and so indelible the imession on their minds that they ade record of it from memory, d it lives to this day as the ightiest sermon ever preached. ginning with a gracious benetion, it swept through the ene gamut of human need, and sed with a warning to those o would treat its contents with difference. Their testimony could added to that spoken a few nths later by a company of ldiers, "Never man spake like is man."

The Teacher still lives, and eaks to us through the agency this Book. The invitation, with e implied admonition, holds od: "He that hath ears to hear, him hear."

UMBER OF AUTOS CREASE IN STATE

State Revenue Commissioner M. Edwards says Alabama tor vehicle registrations this cal year already are 22,341 ove the figure of the entire 50-51 fiscal year.

Edwards said that with three nths yet to go, 712,852 vehicles re registered from October 1, 51, through June 30, this year. r the previous fiscal year, end- September 30, the total regiation was 690,511.

Another 25,000 vehicles will obably be registered before the d of this fiscal year, H. S. ifer, chief of the motor vehicle license division of the revenue artment estimated.

ON THE FARMS IN SHELBY COUNTY

B. F. Hatchett and G. C. Starcher

Jimmie Rowe, Vincent, prepared for this extremely dry summer nearly FIVE YEARS AGO!

No, he didn't buy an irrigation outfit. He planted 70 acres of sericea lespedeza in accord with his soil conservation farm plan.

For four years this fine soil builder filled the red upland soil with deeply penetrating roots and built up a surface mulch of leaves and twigs, while furnishing summer grazing hay for the Rowe dairy herd.

In January and February of this year Jimmie turned the sericea stubble preparatory to planting corn. A soils test showed a fair supply of nitrogen and potash, but a shortage of phosphate. So his first move was the application of a broadcast 500 pounds per acre of 20 per cent super phosphate to balance the books, so to speak.

Partly on April 12, and partly on April 22 he planted Pfister's 631 white hybrid corn in forty inch rows, spaced eleven inches in the rows. He used 500 pounds of 6-8-8 fertilizer per acre, and topdressed at about six weeks with 275 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre. Some of the corn was cultivated twice, much of it grew so fast that one cultivation only was possible. A small section planted to North Carolina 27 Yellow Hybrid is not so good.

In the neighborhood there were very few showers, no general rain, and one hail storm during the corn growing season. Other crops seen nearby are total failures or will produce below normal yields, ranging up to 20 bushels per acre. The hail did some damage at Rowe's and near there.

Yet, conservative estimates by numerous farmers and several agricultural workers estimate an average yield of 80 bushels per acre, with some areas of the fine field, dark green on July 20th, promising as much as 100 bushels per acre. While undoubtedly the drought has reduced even this fields production somewhat, there are more than enough large ears to average one ear per stalk, and the dark green foliage is a striking contrast to the yellow, fired appearance of the corn not following sericea. Both Jimmie and his father freely expressed the opinion that full credit should go to the sericea for conditioning the soil and increasing the water holding capacity of the soil by "subsoiling" the clay and providing great masses of organic material to hold the water.

The Rowe's would not destroy this huge field without replacing it. They planted 100 acres of new sericea this spring.

"I intend to return this seventy acres to sericea again in the spring of 1954," Mr. Rowe said as we discussed the matter in the shade of his tractor shed. "In the meantime, I will plant forty acres of it in oats this fall for grazing and grain, and will plant 30 acres of it in a Chapel Hill Rescue Grass seed patch. I am going to see just how much rescue seed can possibly be made, for I want to grow enough from the 1600 pounds you helped us get to plant on all our sericea and grazing land. Hegira will follow the oats and rescue next summer, and the next winter grazing crop will be turned early to get the sericea in that spring."

This is a working, and PAYING, example of the long term rotations being recommended to its cooperating farmers by the North Central Soil Conservation District.

CHOPPED GRASS YIELDS MORE SPUDS? — Not satisfied with a three-year rotation of grain, alfalfa and potatoes because the preceding crop was hard to plow under, F. H. Krause of Germansville, Pa., decided that a shredder was what he needed. He went to a manufacturer in New Holland, Pa., and bought the machine, above, which was intended for mowing and chopping grass for silage. Rather than blow the chopped grass into a wagon Krause puts it back on the field as "green manure." He says it will increase potato production.

TWO ALABAMA YOUTHS NAMED TO BOYS NATION

John Bobo of Florence, the 1952 Governor of the Alabama Boys State, and Wyatt Nelson Sieber of Gadsden, the 1952 Lt. Governor, have been named to represent Alabama at Boys Nation, Director of Americanism David M. Vess, The American Legion Department of Alabama, announced today.

The seventh annual Boys Nation, sponsored by The American Legion, will be held in Washington, D. C., July 25 through 31, 1952. Approximately 90 high school students averaging 17 years of age.... two from virtually every state, will attend.

The purpose of Boys Nation is to explain the organization, functions and problems of the federal government. It is one of many youth activities conducted by The American Legion through which youngsters "learn-by-doing" the responsibilities of citizenship.

During one busy week in Washington, the delegates will set up and operate a "junior" United States Senate, organize their own Cabinet, hold simulated national political conventions, and elect a Boy President. They will call on President Truman at the White House on July 30. They will be greeted also by Vice President Barkley, Defense Secretary Lovett, F. B. I. Director J. Edgar Hoover, members of the Supreme Court, and other government officials. The Alabama delegates will not only meet their Congressman but those of other states as well.

Boys Nation brings together young men who have made outstanding records in their schools and communities. Delegates are selected from among the 25,000 youngsters attending Boys State sessions conducted this summer by The American Legion departments (state organizations). Boys State teaches government at state and local levels. Each Boys State sends its outstanding "citizens" to Boys Nation.

Boys Nation Headquarters will be on the Campus of American University. R. Worth Shumaker, Assistant Director of the National Americanism Commission of The American Legion will be in charge of the program.

NEW SPEED LIMIT ORDERED ON AUBURN-OPELIKA ROAD

Governor Gordon Persons has ordered a speed limit of 40 miles an hour between the city limits of Auburn and Opelika, in Lee county.

The 40 miles limit begins on Alabama Highway 15, (US 29) at the east city limits of Auburn, for a distance of slightly over three miles, to the west city limits of Opelika.

Safety-minded citizens and organizations of Lee county requested that the new speed regulation be set up. Governor Persons invoked the executive order at the recommendation of State Public Safety Director L. B. Sullivan and State Highway Director Guerry Pruett.

Highway Department speed limit signs are being placed along the stretch of road.

AROUND THE OFFICE DESK

Questions of the day, nationally known politicos, their records of achievements, their claims to fame, their deeds, both good and bad, their lives and the influence they exert, here and hereafter, are often brought up for discussion around the office desk. Many other important subjects are also brought up for final disposition around this unassuming piece of furniture on which erectly stands a "Democratic Donkey" some one brought us and a "Elephant" some one sent us. The symbols of controversy now being waged in the United States between the Democrat and the Republican parties.

All of the above preamble brought on a discussion recently, of two other nationally known figures some years ago, the late Will Rogers, and the late Huey Long, whch in turn brought forth the question, which man of prominence will live the longest in the minds and hearts of Mr. and Mrs. John Public?

Shakespeare once wisely stated "The evil that men do lives after them, the good is oft interred with their bones".... This statement is sometimes proven untrue for, in some instances, after a man has passed on, a divine quality of forgiveness hovers near and many of the evil deeds are forgotten after the soul has taken its flight... while the good that has been done the many kind and thoughtful courtesies extended, live on and on in the hearts of those who have cause to remember them. It was predicted when Huey Long died, that the evil he did would be, in time wiped out, and the world would forget him as they have other clowns who copped the show, while the goodness of Will Rogers would live forever "because his heart was pure". These statements have proved true in the last instance, but in the case of Huey Long of Louisana, it has not been true.

His remains lie within the shadow of a $5,000,000 State Capitol which he built, but it is a monument only to a tyrannical one man rule with a cudgel for a gavel to enforce it. The State he ruled for many years is now emerging from the disgraceful reign of this demigogue. The "evil" Huey Long allowed, condoned, and participated in, will never be forgotten.

Will Rogers, lovable, philosophical, inimitable entertainer, left no monument of bronze and stone, but deeply enshrined in the hearts of men, his name is indelibly engraven and he is tenderly remembered. Which legacy do you prefer recording for future reference?

A MODERN WEDDING AS OUR MAN REPORTER SEES IT

Here is an acount of a "modest and modern wedding", free from frills and furbelows and written by a —MAN REPORTER:

"It was a wonderful wedding! The girl was as sweet as any girl who ever lived; but MODERN. As she walked up the aisle on her father's arm, her lips lightly tilted at the corners with a happy smile, she was a picture of modest beauty. Her flimy wedding gown and gossamer veil floated around her fair blonde head like a halo. She was as nearly an angel as girls get to be in this world. At the altar as she passed from her father, the man she always loved, to the other man to whom she would devote the rest of her life, her dainty slipper touched a potted lily resting on the floor and she turned to the dear old pastor waiting at the chancel and said, 'That was a hell of a place to put a lily.'"

. . . Lt. Frank Baker Elliott, "Bake" to those of us who know him best, is now stationed in Brookley Field, Mobile, awaiting further orders from Uncle Sam.

. . . Mrs. Warren Duke who has been spending a few weeks with Mr. Duke in Indianapolis, Indiana, has returned home.

. . . Mrs. R. T. McGraw, talented musical director of Vincent spent Friday morning in Columbiana, visiting friends while her son, Fred McGraw, a Page in the U. S. Senate for Senator John Sparkman, completed taking his driver's test. Mrs. McGraw has another son, Lt. James McGraw, who is stationed in Ft. Knox, and Lady McGraw could pass for the sister of either, quicker than she would be taken for their "Mom". It was nice being with these old friends during their sojourn on Main.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Conrad M. Fowler, Randy and Conrad Fowler, Jr., left Columbiana Friday night for a two weeks sojourn away from the home base. Mr. Fowler will be stationed with the Marines at Virginia Beach for a two weeks training course. Mrs. Fowler and the children will visit Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tinney in Wilmington, North Carolina during this time.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wallace, Jr. were dinner guests of Jack Nealeans and the Chamber of Commerce of Sylacauga, at the Continental Room at Tutwiler, Sunday evening, after which the Mayors and their wives went to the TV station to view the result of a recent tlelevision and talent contest held in the Marble City, and sponsored by the city's Chamber of Commerce.

. . . Mrs. Lessie Niven and Miss Jeanette Niven are taking a cross country trip which includes Washington, D. C., Pennsylvania, and other points East.

. . . Pretty Mrs. Felix Chapman, III, who is a secertary in a prominent law firm in Birmingham, spent the week end in Columbiana, the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bentley. During her brief stay on Main, Mrs. Chapman came by and had her name entered on the subscription list and, from now on, we shall enjoy entering the hospitable apartment of these friends of ours each week in the Magic City.

. . . A host of friends of Mrs. H. H. Bearden's will be delighted to learn that she is convalescing satisfactorily following a trip to a hospital in Birmingham.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Yates of Sylacauga spent the week end with Mrs. Yates' parents, Judge and Mrs. W. W. Wallace and left for New Orleans, Wednesday.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Paul O. Luck, left Columbiana Thursday for a vacation with the H. M. Gordon's in Wilmington, Delaware, and along the Coast of Delaware.

. . . Lt. Oliver Head will leave in a few days for Ft. Benning and will begin his two year hitch in the Army.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Spearman and Mrs. H. I. Crawford and two children of Atmore are visiting the Charles Spearmans in Augusta, Georgia.

. . . Mrs. W. T. Taylor is spending this week with her daughter, Mrs. Wales W. Wallace Jr., and Mr. Wallace.

. . . Harriett Ann West of Rome, Georgia, is the guest of her grandparents this week while Mr. and Mrs. Pierson West, her parents, are vacationing in Daytona Beach. Mr. West is attending the Tri-States F. F. A. Convention. He is the Vocational Agriculture teacher at Berry School. Mr. West is also a member of a quartette which is in competition with Quartetts from Alabama, Georgia and Florida for the Tri-State championship.

. . . Mrs. Joe Davidson of Helena, and her brother, Nathan Pitts of Birmingham, were seen on Main last Monday. Both are former residents of Columbiana, and have many friends who were delighted to see them again and have the opportunity of welcoming them "back home".

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker of Washington, D. C., were guests of the Misses Bishops, Sunday. Mr. Baker is a nephew of Mrs. Dixie Shealey's of Montgomery, who joined them here and returned with them to the Capitol City. Mr. Baker is a brilliant and potent executive in the office of John Steelman in the Nation's Capitol.

. . . A host of friends of Rose and Bob Kaplan's will be eagerly awaiting their return to Columbiana this week end. For the past four weeks, Mr. Kaplan has been a patient in a London, Ontario, hospital.

MRS. GOODWIN AND MRS. McGHEE ENTERTAIN WITH GAME PARTY

Mrs. Gray Goodwin and Mrs. Clayton McGhee were joint hostesses last Friday evening when they entertained with a Game Party on the spacious grounds of the Goodwin home. Fourteen tables of Bridge and Rook were enjoyed by the sixty friends sharing this mid-summer courtesy.

Bridge prizes were awarded Mrs. William Clark and Mrs. H. J .Walton; Mrs. Roy Mann and Mrs. Effie Sims won the Rook prizes. The Bingo prize was won by Mrs. Leonard Rogers. Floating prize by Mrs. George McCord.

Iced punch, cake, mints and nuts were served from a beautifully appointed table decorated with cut flowers and candle lighted.

Out of town guests included: Mrs. Dixie Shealey of Montgomery, Mrs. Homer Jackson of Birmingham and Mrs. Evelyn Mullins of Dothan.

HUGH SIMS JR., A PAGE AT CHICAGO

Hugh Sims Jr., will have some colorful tales to tell when he returns to Columbiana from Chicago, where he is acting as a page at the historic convention now in session. This experience will perhaps be the most memorable one in his life, for history is truly being made, and some of the chapters, at this time, do not reflect any credit on those now making it, judging by the heated conferences now being aired by radio as we attempt to tap out paragraphs, with one ear alerted to what is really happening in our own party in the Windy City.

Almost unbelievable. And, when chatter reaches the incredible stage, we, in order to verify what we hear, step next door and take a look at Ross Bob Mullins Television. That is, when we can edge our way into the huge crowd standing around this particular G. E.

. . . Summer school students and friends of Kyle Lyon were honored with a Lawn Party Saturday night when she entertained at the home of her uncle, Mr. Barney Isbell and Mrs. Isbell on the spacious grounds of the Isbell home. Iced punch, cake and ice cream were served throughout the evening.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Roberts, Harry, and Sam Roberts and Jimmy Harrison spent Sunday in Childersburg with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pickett and Mrs. Edna Roberts. A picnic lunch was served at noon and swimming enjoyed during the afternoon.

. . . Leanne Crabtree of Goodlettsville, Tennessee, has been the life of her grand-parents (Mr. and Mrs. Neal Stinson's) household for the past five weeks. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Crabtree arrived this week and will take Leanne home with them. We have never seen a birghter child than Leanne. She can entertain "grown-ups" just as graciously as she can play with children her own age, 7 years! She is as pretty as a picture, and teeming with personality, which is the most valuable asset anyone can have. It is that "certain something" that makes a fellow "click" with everybody, and Leanne has it!

. . . Mrs. Allie Nelson Pace of Montgomery, is a former resident of Columbiana, and enjoys the "home paper" in the Capitol City. This week she sends in her renewal subscription for 1952-53, for which courtesy we are indeed grateful.

. . . Miss Emma Browne, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Browne, former residents of Columbiana is visiting friends in Columbiana.

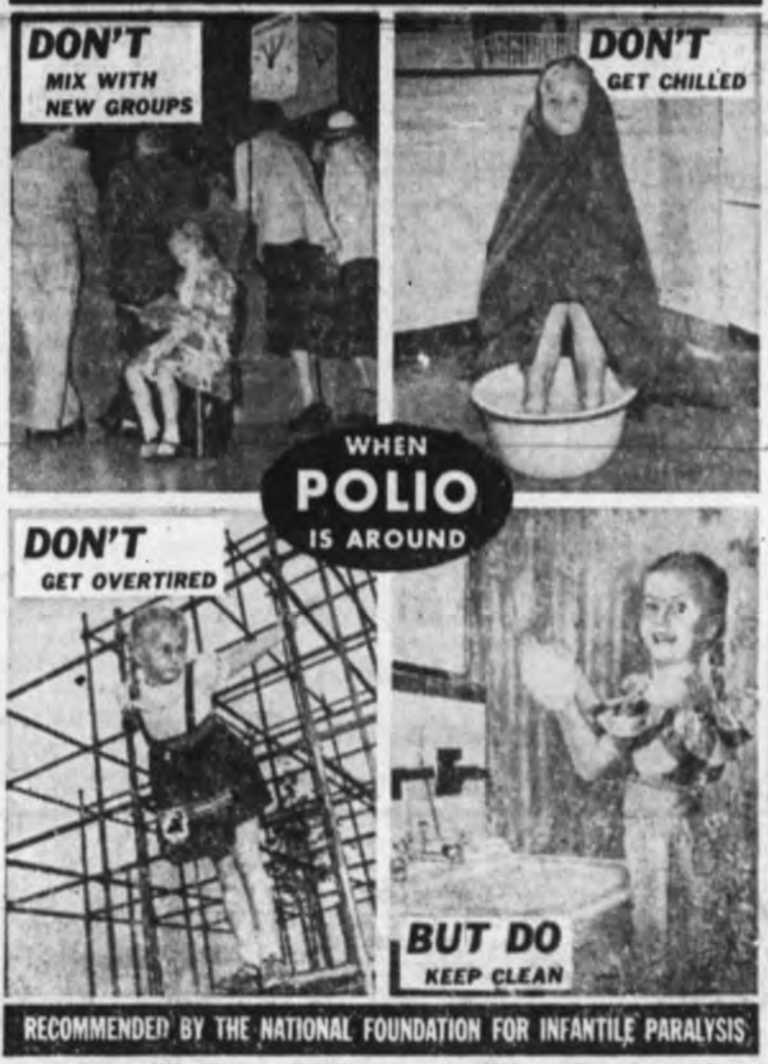
POLIO CASES IN ALABAMA

State Health Department says that 13 polio cases listed last week has boosted Alabama's 1952 total to 72 cases.

This is a little more than half of last year's comparative figure, the Health Department said. By this time last year, 135 cases had been reported. Polio has been found in 18 of the state's 67 counties. Two counties had more than 10 cases.

Tuscaloosa had 13 cases; Jefferson 12; Etowah 9; Calhoun 8; and Montgomery 6.

1952 POLIO PRECAUTIONS



RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Seven-year-old Karen Blecha enacts 1952 polio precautions recommended by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. When polio is around, the National Foundation cautions parents to watch for these signs: headache, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, tenderness and stiffness of neck and back. A person showing such symptoms should be put to bed at once, away from others. Then, call your doctor and follow his advice. If polio is diagnosed, call your local chapter of the March of Dimes for advice and assistance, including needed financial help.

. . . Mrs. Horace Smith of Tulsa, Oklahoma, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Edmund Ewing and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Fowler.

. . . Johnny Fox is a page at the Chicago Convention, and we hope he and Hugh Sims, Jr., get together in the Windy City. A wonderfully fine opportunity for these young Americans viewing this drama of democracy in action. We shall expect to hear directly from them when they return home.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Clark of Dothan spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. William Clark in Columbiana.

. . . Visitors in the L. B. Riddle home over the week end were: Mrs. E. D. Fort and Eddie Lee, Birmingham; L. B. Riddle Jr., and Ray Neil Riddle; Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Riddle of Alabama City. Little Emily Riddle returned to her home after a weeks visit with her grand parents.

. . . Mrs. L. B. Riddle and little Emily Riddle visited in Montgomery and Tuskegee last week.

. . . Mrs. J. E. Franks and Miss Annette Franks visited friends in Columbiana last week.

. . . We acknowledge with gratitude a lovely collection of Lillies grown in the floral gardens of our good friend, Mrs. L. C. Walker who brought them to us Tuesday, and remained for a few minutes in our office for a social chat, which proved a delightful pepper-upper this sultry morning. (Thanks again, Lady, for the flowers and for your thoughtfulness which has so often blessed my pathway.)

. . . The A. B. Hollands re-join the weekly readers of the Reporter-Democrat this week for which loyalty we express our appreciation. The Hollands have recently moved into the Mountain View Apartments.

. . . Emma Harris, faithful servant in the Page and Taylor families for 50 years died on July 12. Will page tells me this morning that Emma died on the same date, July 12, that Mrs. Taylor died several years ago, in whose home she worked for so many years.

. . . Friends will regret to learn that Will Hester, who numbers his years as 86, continues seriously ill at his home in Columbiana.

. . . It was good to have a talk with our friend J. M. Lowe, Tuesday. Mr. Lowe resides near Vincent, and, like everybody else, is "wishing for rain," so badly needed in this section.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARIES COMING UP

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jones celebrated the passing of a wedding anniversary July 23. On July 24, Mary Warren and Anita Joyce Sloan were the recipients of birthday greetings from their friends and loved ones. Saturday, Mike Dorough was the center of attraction in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dorough as they celebrated the passing of his birthday anniversary. Next Tuesday, Joan Nichols, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nichols, and a popular member of the High School contingent will be the honoree, as friends, classmates, and home folk tell Joan how very much they think of her on this happy occasion. July 30, will be remembered as a "happy birthday to you occasion".... by W. L. Warren and June Joiner, and closing out this hectic month, Quilla B. Wood, will be candle puffing on July 31, in her home in Columbiana. Friends and especially those little children in the Primary Department will certainly be wishing for Quilla, Mrs. Johnnie Woods, the happiest birthday she has ever known.

CONGRESSMAN-ELECT VISITS COLUMBIANA

Congressman-elect Armistead I. Selden of Greensboro, was the distinguished guest speaker at Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday evening Mr. Selden came to Columbiana early in the afternoon and in his genial, cordial manner, visited the townspeople and participated in the Merchants Appreciation Sale held in the Courthouse on this afternoon, where he made a short talk to the hundreds of people on the courthouse grounds. Later, Mr. Selden charmed the Kiwanis Club members with his talk expressing his views frankly and freely on many issues which hold the interest of every citizen in this county.

All were impressed with his sincerity and consicientious desire to adequately represent the 6th Congressional District. Mr. Selden is friendly in his contacts, and lends a listening ear to his constituents. Everyone who met him, liked him, and predict a brilliant career for him in congressional halls.

LINDA AND TERRY JONES HONOREES AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

July 19, will be remembered as a Red Letter Day in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jones in Columbiana as they gave a joint birthday party for their two attractive children, Linda and Terry Jones.

Thirty guests shared this joyous occasion. Linda Jones had just passed her 5th birthday anniversary. Her "special cake" was white emobssed in pink, and Terry's fourth birthday anniversary is just around the corner, and his cake featured a white one with the blue designs to top it off. Games interspersed the delectable refreshments served and the number of lovely gifts attest the popularity of Linda and Terry Jones among their playmates.

Five months old Danny Ray, the youngest member of the family has edged his way around the number of toys received and found a few he can clutch in his baby fist and rattle along with the other merry makers in the Jones home.

We hope all their birthdays will be as happy as this past one. If so, life indeed will be a happy adventure.

CARS OUTRUN HUMAN BRAIN

In discussing the traffic fatalities which continue to increase over the country, a writer in Fortune magazine declares that traffic today is a combination of 80 miles an hour cars, in the hands of 2 0miles an hour drivers on 30 miles an hour roads, and while this probably is an exaggeration it at least serves to emphasize some of the factors entering into the increasing toll.

The speed of modern automobiles is greater than the speed of the mind of the average automobile driver annd nwhnen critical situations confront those mov at a tremendous rate, the mach is in the danger zone before mind has grasped the situat and plotted a plan of action.

That this is true has been sho over and over again, many driv who, traveling at high speed, cover some obstruction upon road, or some other car enter from an unseen highway, adm ting after the crash—if they s vive—that they "didn't have ti to think."

The moral of course is not travel at a pace that is faster th the peace of the mind—and t relates to a vast number of p sons. Many individuals who ha problems to solve take hours days to make up their mind, when an accident is involved th have only seconds, or fractions seconds and it is no wonder th many "don't have time to think

KOREAN GI BILL

The Korean GI Bill was passed by Congress and has been signed by the President. The bill will provide education and training, loan Guaranties by the Veterans' Administration, mustering out pay and other benefits. No education or training under the new bill may be started August 1st. At the present time there are about 800,000 discharged Korean War Veterans who will be eligible for benefits under the new law. Of course, it is going to take a little time for your County Veterans Service Officer to get all of the detailed information from the Veterans' Administration on the exact procedure for securing benefits under the bill, but you can be sure that we are making every effort to get our information just as soon as possible.

1948 Dividend — The VA says that there are about 600,000 eligible veterans who have never applied for the first National Service Life Insurance Dividend. That was the one which was paid for the period ending in 1948. These dividends amount to about $175 each. There is not time limit for applying for the dividend, but the Administrator of Veterans Affairs can order this $100,000,000 transferred to a future dividend pool any time he wants to.

Congress has sent to the President a bill calling for compensation increases to more than 120,000 seriously disabled veterans of wars ranging from 1898 to the present time. This is an entirely different measure from the one recently passed in which all veterans with service-connected disabilities were granted increase in pay. Those affected by the new bill are veterans of the Spanish-American War, World War One and World War Two and the Korean War who have disabilities ranging from loss of a hand to Blindness.

The War Claims Commission says that it is just about ready to start mailing out application forms to some 132,000 American ex-prisoners of war entitled to $1.50 a day compensation for time spent in former enemy prison camps under forced labor or inhuman treatment. The Commission has set a tentative August 1st. Target date for getting the forms out, depending on when the Government Printing Office gets around to printing them. A spokesman for the Commission said that the forms would be mailed to all Ex-Pows who cellected a previous $1 a day Sub-Standard Diet allowance. Other ex-Pows or their survivors will be able to get the forms at a number of places. Here in Alabama, the State Department Of Veterans' Affairs will be the official Distributing agency, and forms will be available in all our county offices.

God Prepared Him

Lesson for July 27, 1952

WHEN A CHRISTIAN looks back, he can see God's hand better than he can see it looking forward. A Christian, even a worrying Christian (though there should be no such people as Christians who worry), can feel very thankful for God's blessings, care and guidance in the past, even while worrying over tomorrow's uncertainties. How foolish this is! God is even now making ready for the future. He is not to be taken by surprise. He knows what he wants and he knows how to get it. While we waste time in worry, God is at work. The story of Samuel is a case in point.

Dr. Foreman

God's Home

EVERY ONE KNOWS that the strongest single influence in a person's life is his home. We sometimes take that for granted.

On the contrary, a home may wreck a man before he starts. It has been said that many alcoholics get their start, —not their start in drinking but their start in the nervous, unsettled disposition which easily slips down into alcoholism and other drug habits, before they are six years old. The wrong kind of parents, lack of harmony between father and mother, ill-treatment or simple neglect, can make a child already abnormal before he is old enough to go to school.

On the other hand, the foundation of a strong man can always be found in the home where he first lived. So it was with the remarkable man, the prophet Samuel.

In later life he became lawgiver, king-maker, preacher and general of the army; no ordinary man! The nation needed him; and when the time came, God produced him. But God produced his mother first.

God's Church

AFTER LEAVING HOME, Samuel literally lived in the tabernacle, which served as a church in those far off days. The little boy found there a second home. Old Eli the priest no doubt came to mean much more to him than his own father did, his father whom he so seldom saw.

So it still is, where the church is doing what it should for the children of its people. A child should not be afraid of the minister; he should not feel anything but love for the church. True, a church building is different from other buildings in that it is set apart for a sacred use. A church is the symbol of God's presence among men, and the sanctuary of a church ought to make all who come into it feel that this place is holy ground.

But that does not mean that a child should be afraid of the place, as some children are. If they have been coming there every Sunday since they can remember, sitting with the rest of the family in the family pew (sounds old-fashioned but there are still thousands of them), coming so regularly that no question is ever asked on Sunday morning, "Well, shall we go to church or not?" —then they will feel more at home on the inside of the church, when the Lord's Day comes, than they ever will on the outside.

Now this is not all always true. If children and young people are not attracted by the church, as too often they are not, whose fault is it?

Whoever may be to blame, it is certain that a church which loses its young people is headed for its end.

• • •

The Voice of God

IT IS MOST INTERESTING to know that when young Samuel heard the voice of God, it sounded just like the voice of Eli the priest. (If you heard the voice of God, whose human voice would it sound like?)

At any rate, God prepared this great prophet Samuel not only by the influence of home and church, but by a personal religious experience. Now there is no real conflict or contradiction between religious education and conversion, between the church and the home, and the work of the Holy Spirit.

God was in Samuel's home, God was in that tabernacle, God was in his religious education. But God also came to him directly and not only through home and church. If we wonder sometimes where the Christian leaders for the next generation are coming from, we may be sure God is preparing them even now, in simple if obscure ways, as he did with Samuel of old.

BOB KAPLAN

MILTON BIRD WRITES LETTER TO BOB KAPLAN

Robert Kaplan
Victoria Hospital
London, Ontario
Dear Bob:

This letter to pass along the news of the Old Street. The weather has been about the giddiest gal along Main this summer. She has put on all her doodads and tiptoed up the avenue with every pocket filled with the left-overs from the weather Rome was having while Nero fiddled. Every guy and gal in town was singed a dark brown before the middle of June, and July came along to heap more coals on the fire. One afternoon I slipped away to an old well, with a dipper hanging on the shedpost, and watched the wasps come in to drink. It was cool under the dense oaks and they piddled around for long minutes before taking off, after they had drunk from an old watering trough. And since Dot Walton was gonna pump me full of typhoid shots next week anyhow, I joined in on the treat until the water ran out my ears.

Went up to see the girls play soft ball Thursday night. Somebody said the boys played afterward, but I wouldn't know. After watching twenty-five pretty girls for an hour, a guy wasn't in the mood to gander at guys. And you use a lot of energy seeing anyhow. So much in my case that I had to get Gray Goodwin to drive me home. That is we started, and I don't know what would have happened to us if Ham McMikel hadn't come along to take over from Gray. Ham dumped us out at home, like two wet rags, and we made out in a fashion. Yep, a guy shô uses up a lot of that stuff called energy seeing.

Lloyd Harris, from Montevallo, has opened up a jewelry store next door to the P. O.. He filled his front window with some sort of spun glass, made into toy animals, and it looked like a cinch to capture the fancy of every guy along Main. And I guess it would have too, except that Martha Bentley, prettier than any spun glass you'll ever see, got busy at another counter farther back and lassoed every glance in that end of town.

Charlie Tinney and I went to the ball game last Wednesday night. We wanted to get another look at Piersall, but he was so full of curious ways they had him out and on his way home before we got settled in our seats. He's still a swell ball player, but as nutty as a scaleybark tree in October. But we had a great time anyhow.

We're bedded down with old grandaddy drouth here now. It got so tough Charlie Thornburg took it on himself to indulge in a sort of seance with the powers that be. He talked with his friend Jessie Higgenbotham about it and drove on down the road where the corn was parched a little browner and the dust a few inches thicker. But at the end of two hours he managed a pretty fair yearling electrical storm, enough wind to scare the daylights out of everybody between Kingdom and the steel bridge and thirty-one drops of bright glistening rain. Jessie called him up as soon as the weather would permit. "Listen, man," he pleaded, "call off your hounds. One more seance and you'll get us all killed."

Doc Abbott has been in a frying-sized tizzy all day. An old buddy from yesteryear came in and got too familiar with Doc's sunrises. And Doc, figuring it was none of his business how many times the sun had set on his treck up the hollow, mentioned something about being a round hundred years young. The guy scratched his head in that deep meditative fashion. "Golly," he managed finally, "you're a good bit older than I am." And that did it. He went on his way and Doc has been in a tizzy all day.

Everybody along Main is waiting for your return, Bob. Several of the guys have had theirs cars washed during this hot dusty spell, and are ready to trade. I guess you sold them on the idea that a car is never any good after it's washed. We miss your wit and your merry chatter along The Old Street. It's good, and it's wholesome, and we like it. So hurry on back from that Yankee country. Back down here where there's laughter and sunshine and lots of room for a swell guy.

TIMOTHY F. LENNING ARRIVES IN PHILLIPINES

Airman Third Class Timothy F. Lenning, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lenning, Route 1, Siluria, recently arrived in the Phillipines to serve a tour of duty with the U. S. Air Force.

He is now assigned to the 24th Ammunition Supply Squadron, 6208th Depot Wing on Clark Air Force Base, located 60 miles north of Manila.

A/3c Lenning joined the U. S. Air Force in April 1950 and was stationed at Sewart AFB, Tenn., before he left for the Phillipines.

"Better Get the Vet on the Phone"

Pure-bred cattle—sign of the South's new, balanced agriculture—mean more money for stockmen, better standards of living on the farm, a growing demand for telephones.

Farm telephone expansion has been one of Southern Bell's biggest and most important jobs for years—and today is more important than ever. It is a job, that takes a lot of money, materials, experience, know-how—and time.

In just the past 6 years we have tripled our rural telephones. We're building more and more rural lines as fast as scarce materials and defense needs permit.

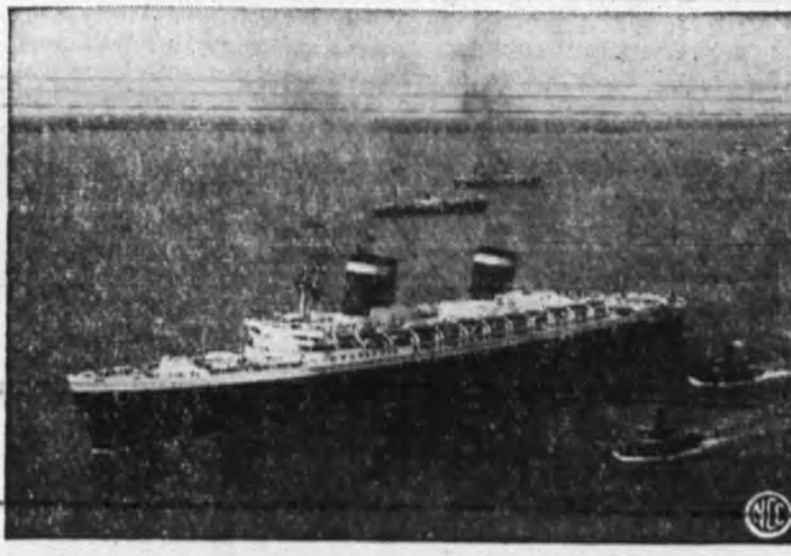
S. S. UNITED STATES ON MAIDEN RUN



Cotton is aboard the sleek new $71,000,000 luxury liner, the S. S. United States, to the tune of more than 500 bales as she makes her maiden voyage across the Atlantic this month. Cotton appears in a variety of shipboard fabrics, including upholstery, curtains, bedding, tarpaulins, tablecloths, deck chair cushions and even chef's caps!

NEW SUPERLINER SAILS WITH 500 BALES OF COTTON ABOARD

More than 500 bales of American cotton are making an historic trip across the Atlantic this month as the sleek new superliner, the U. S. United Stats, sets out on her maiden voyage.

Launched July 3, the $71,000,000 luxury liner sailed with 250,000 pounds or 500 bales of cotton aboard in the form of upholstery, bedding, tarpaulins, canvas, towelings and even chefs' caps. One item in her cotton itinerary was 50 yards of black cotton velvet—coverings for life lines!

An estimated 330 bales of American cotton are represented in sheets and pillowcases alone. There are more than 8,000 top quality white sheets for both passenger and crew's quarters.

Aboard are more than 700 dozen terry cloth bath mats, more than 2,000 dozen wash cloths and more than 7,000 dozen or 94,000 face towels. Some 200 bales of cotton went into the making of the towels and bath mats on board. Some 6,000 dozen bath towels are included.

For the crew there are 300 dozen navy blue woven cotton bedspreads and 15,000 coats, overalls and jumpers.

Roughly three bales of cotton, equivalent to 1,500 yards, are shipboard in the the form of heavy canvas runners, tarpaulin, baggage covers and awnings.

Decorative fabrics add up too more than 7,000 yards, about four bales.

FARM NEWS

PLAN NOW FOR A MUCH SAFER FARM

The reason more and more people are accidently killed or injured is not because the instinct of self preservation is decreasing, it's because the number of hazards is increasing.

"For example," says API Extension Director P. O. Davis, "out on the farm, a new crop of dangers is springing up with the introduction of electricity, new labor-saving machinery, new insect poisons, and new devices for doing many things."

He states it isn't that these new "gadgets" are unsafe— the danger lies in their misuse and the lack of knowledge of what precautions to take in using them.

To avoid danger, then, one must know of its existence. And during National Farm Safety Week, July 20-26, Mr. Davis urges every farm family to put into effect this simple three-point safety program:

Learn to recognize and hunt out accident and fire hazards on the farm. Correct or remove all hazards possible. Learn to live, play, and work safely around hazards that cannot be removed.

HIDDEN HAZARDS IN THE HOME

There's a possibility of shock if electric appliances used with water or in damp places are not grounded. Without this special protection, a stray current, seeking the easiest way to the ground, may run through your body!

Be sure an electric washing machine is safely grounded. A machine that is equipped with a three-prong plug cord that grounds the machine whenever it is plugged in, is considered a "good ground." If a washing machine has only a two-wire cord, it is not grounded. If a home freezer, ironer, or other electric appliances is used in a damp place, they should be grounded.

For safety have plenty of ventilation in a room where a washing machine, power tools and power toys are operated by a gasoline engine. Exhaust from such engines contains a high amount of carbon monoxide.

American Foundation For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT ATROPHIC RHINITIS?

Q: Why is atrophic rhinitis one of our worst new swine diseases?

A: It is spreading rapidly, causing severe losses.

Q: Is rhinitis infectious?

A: Yes, very infectious, and can where hog raising is no longer easily spread from one animal to another.

Q: Why is rhinitis so costly?

A: It does not kill many swine outright, but it may stop gains to the point profitable. Affected pigs fail to put on weight.

Q: What are the symptoms?

A: Pigs sneeze frequently. Later their snouts become 'pushed in' or twisted, due to distortion of the bones of the nose. Scours, unthriftiness and pneumonia may follow.

Q: Is this the same as 'bull nose'?

A: No. The two conditions may look alike, but bull nose starts from an injury and barnyard germs. It is not contagious.

Q: How is rhinitis spread?

A: Careless buying of breeding stock and feeder pigs is an important factor. Unless detected early, the entire herd may have to be sold, to get rid of the disease.

Q: Is there any cure?

A: Not yet. Prevention of losses depends on an immediate veterinary diagnosis at first suspicion of trouble so prompt control measures can be applied.

The demonstration "Textile Stencilling" will be conducted by these ledaers at the October Club Meeting.

Stencilled articles will be exhibited by the Helena Club at the County Fair, August 26-30.

OFFICIAL REPORT ON LAST YEAR'S COTTON

Last year Alabama cotton growers produced 909,000 bales on 1,460,000 acres. "And," says O. N. Andrews, API Extension cotton improvement specialist, "the average yield was 299 pounds of lint cotton per acre—fourthhighest on record." The five counties that produced the highest number of bales are Madison, 54,000; Limestone, 41,100; Cullman, 33,700; Lawrence, 33,200; and Marshall, 29,800. Counties producing the highest number of pounds of lint per acre are Baldwin, 414; Escambia, 380; Cullman 373; Geneva 362, and Marshall and Jackson, 360. Madison county had the largest cotton acreage... 82,610 acres and Limestone was second with 74,110 acres.

Alabama cotton acreage in cultivation on July 1, 1952, was estimated at 1,480,000 acres— up one per cent from a year ago but seven per cent below the 10-year (1941-1950) average. Official estimates on yields and production will be released August 8.

ORDER PINE SEEDLINGS BEFORE TIME TO PLANT

Alabama farmers are in for a disappointment this winter if they wait until planting season to order pine seedlings, warns I. R. Martin, API Extension forester.

He explains that by the time planting season rolls around, the seedling supply will be exhausted. Now is the time to place orders for seedlings. Any farmer who orders 10,000 seedlings or less at the present time will be sure of receiving his order.

CAPTURE THE FULL FLAVOR OF CHEESE

Cheese adds flavor and nutritive value to so many different dishes. However, some cooks have trouble with recipes containing cheese.

To avoid most troubles with cheese, Mary Hulsey, API Extension nutritionist, reminds home cooks to keep heat low or moderate. High heat or cooking too long makes cheese tough, stringy, or leathery. Also, too much heat may cause mixture of cheese, eggs and milk to curdle.

"And," suggests the nutritionist, "add cheese to other ingredients in very small bits rather than in one large piece. When broken up, cheese spreads more evenly and quickly among other foods and does not form a solid lump of curd when the fat melts."

Grating is the easiest way to break up hard or dry cheese. Soft cheese may be shaved thin, flaked with a fork, pressed through a sieve, or run through a food chopper.

CLEAN THOSE HATS, BUT DO IT SAFELY

The first step in renovating a hat is a thorough cleaning job, finds Levice Ellis, API Extension clothing specialist.

The job can be done with one of the many cleaning fluids on the market. Since they are inflammable and explosive, the specialist urges that all dry cleaning be done out-of-doors and entirely away from fire or heat.

Hats that have been cleaned must be allowed to dry thoroughly out-of-doors before blocking. "Several hours are required for the cleaning solution to evaporate," warns Miss Ellis.

Fish steaks, dredged lightly with flour, dipped in milk, then in cornmeal or cracker crumbs and fried in deep hot fat are much improved in flavor, and the flour helps the meal to adhere better.

ALABAMA STATE BAPTIST NEWS

In the shift of population across our country many people have moved to new sections and failed to move their church membership. It is estimated that in the Southern Baptist Convention 1,875,000 Baptist have shifted their residences without moving their church membership. To help solve this problem among Baptists the week of September 14-21 has been set aside as "Transfer Church Membership Week" by the Executive Committee of Southern Baptists.

In Alabama it is believed that 80,000 Baptists have moved without moving their church membership. In cooperation with the south-wide effort, the 2600 Baptist churches in Alabama will join in the search for these non-resident members.

All pastors and workers in the churches are being urged to observe the week and search out the Baptists now living among them, with their memberships somewhere else.

September 7 will begin the crusade. Special cards are provided by the Baptist Executive Board of Alabama Baptists. Special visitation is set to begin on Saturday, September 13. A daily round-up will continue through the next week. Reception of members will be on Sunday, September 14; Wednesday, September 17; Sunday, September 21.

Dr. A. H. Reid, Executive Secretary of Alabama Baptists urges the full cooperation of every Baptist in the state in bringing into the membership these non-resident members.

575,000 4-H'ers Get Training to Cut Farm Accident Toll

Farm safety surveys made by 4-H'ers show that matches within reach of small children and stairways littered with toys, jars and other articles were much in evidence as fire and accident hazards in rural homes.

Chicago—(Special)—More than 575,000 4-H Club boys and girls throughout the nation are receiving training in farm accident and fire prevention this year. The outstanding feature of this training in the National 4-H Farm and Home Safety program is to check and remove from farms and homes any conditions likely to cause fire, accidents or injuries. These 4-H surveys are acclaimed a valuable contribution to the nation-wide campaign to reduce the annual toll of 15,000 farm people dying and 1,300,000 being injured as a result of rural accidents each year.

Here is a report, made by a 4-H girl on behalf of her local club, after making a safety survey of every home in the community:

"In all homes having stairways that we visited, the stairs were full of toys, jars, tools and other articles," she stated. "In many homes people used kerosene to build fires. They also had oily cloths and papers stored close to the stove and flue. Matches and unlabeled bottles of poisonous liquids were within reach of small children.

"On several farms visited, boards with rusty nails pointing upward were much in evidence. In our local schoolhouse, the ceiling plaster in the classroom was loose. If it fell it would cause severe injuries to the pupils.

"After we had made our survey, we called a community meeting. Attention was called to the hazards we had found. Immediately following the meeting everyone present began work necessary to make our community a safe one. Every hazard we had found was corrected."

Medals of honor are presented to five county winners having the best 4-H records in safety work, and a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago is awarded to the State champion. Eight of the latter will be selected as national winners, who will each receive a $300 college scholarship. Awards are provided by General Motors for the eighth consecutive year. The program is conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Florida Aircraft Carrier Basin Will Be First In Deep South

SOON TO BE COMPLETED near Jacksonville, Fla., the big Mayport Carrier Basin will be the only harbor facility between Norfolk and San Diego large enough to accommodate the Navy's big aircraft carriers. The steel bulkhead which surrounds the basin is one of the largest ever constructed in Florida, containing nearly eight and a half million pounds of steel.

One of the largest steel waterfront bulkheads ever constructed in Florida is nearing completion at the Navy's new Mayport Carrier Basin near Jacksonville.

Literally a curtain of steel to separate land from water, the wall reaches down from 38 to 53 feet below water level and extends for more than a mile around the aircraft carrier port being built near the mouth of the St. Johns River.

Nearly eight and a half million pounds of steel sheet piling, rolled on the mills of United States Steel and supplied through its Tennessee Coal and Iron Division, at Birmingham, Ala., have been driven down into the sandy bottom of the harbor to make a sheltered harbor of sufficient size to berth America's largest carriers.

To be ready for operation very soon, the basin will be the only port between Norfolk and San Diego of sufficient size and depth to permit the entry of the Navy's largest vessels. Construction work was begun approximately a year ago.

First developed during World War II, the Mayport facility is an auxiliary unit of the big Jacksonville Naval Air Station, 20 miles away. During the last war, it served as a small boat section base, into which mine sweepers and other smaller naval craft were brought for docking and repairs. It was also equipped with housing facilities for Naval personnel assigned to land duty, and contained several runways for Navy aircraft. Since 1946, it had been out of service and had been manned only by a small maintenance crew.

In addition to mooring and minor repair facilities for the carrier, itself, a modern airfield is being built. Existing runways are being rebuilt and new ones are under construction, including an 8,000 foot landing strip for jet planes. At the dock, cranes may be installed to lift planes from the flight deck of the carrier, for storage, maintenance or inspection in the Mayport storage area or for flight to the main station at Jacksonville.

Building the basin has been a construction and engineering task of major proportions. To accommodate vessels of such great draft, it was necessary to increase the depth to 42 feet, far below the original level. Because of the highly fluid nature of the sandy banks surrounding the basin, permanent deepening could not have been accomplished without first building sturdy bulkheads around the entire inland perimeter.

Large enough to permit a carrier to turn around and head back to sea, the basin is 3000 feet long and 2000 feet wide. Building a sand-tight wall around it required thousands of strips of sheet piling, each more than a quarter of an inch thick and about a foot and a half wide, and ranging up to 60 feet in length.

To sink the piling into place, each piece was first "jetted" into the sand, being interlocked with the neighboring piece by means of connecting devices built into the piling. In jetting, a hose with a high velocity nozzle is strapped near the bottom of each pile, and then, with the pile held in an upright position, a stream of water at tremendous pressure literally knocks the sand from under the pile, allowing it to settle deep into the ground. When more solid strata of earth were reached, steam hammers pounded the pieces down to their maximum depth.

Once the piling was set into place, it was anchored permanently by connection to a "dead man." Not so gruesome as it sounds, this is a massive, continuously cast concrete structure which is set underground and encircles the basin some distance behind the bulkhead. Steel tie rods join the bulkhead to the concrete form.

To complete the job, a heavy concrete casement is being cast around the top edge of the bulkhead. The banks behind the casement are being filled in with sand, making a flat, smooth approach to the harbor from all angles. For all its size, the basin will be as neat and tight as a bathtub.

ALL OUT WAR ON CATTLE RUSTLERS

State Agriculture Commissioner Frank Stewart says his department and Alabama law enforcement agencies are planning an all-out war on cattle rustlers in the state.

Stewart said that members of the Alabama Cattlemen's Assn. and Sheriff's from the 67 Alabama counties would meet early in August to organize enforcement efforts meant to combat cattle thefts.

Stewart declared, rustling had greatly increased in the state this year, and "we are beseiged with calls from all over the state." He said new cases of cattle stealing were being reported at the rate of about 60 a month.

The agriculture commissioner added that inspectors also would start prosecuting persons who sell cattle under a false name. He said some sellers were giving false names when the cattle they sold did not meet the health requirements of the state, or when the cattle had been stolen.

PEACH QUEEN NAMED

Miss Peggy Ann Poole, 16, daughter of Mrs. L. M. Lockhart, Clanton, and J. P. Poole, of Mobile, was named queen of the 1952 Chilton County Peach Festival.

Selected to rule as king of the affair was Harold Lockhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lockhart, of Clanton and Washington.

Principal speaker in the celebration in Clanton was Frank Samford, Birmingham, past president of the State Chamber of Commerce.

A CHALLENGING CALL TO DEMOCRACY

There are three distinct forms of government: monarchial, aristocratical, and democratical. The first will likely topple by tyrannical rule.... the second will fall by a driving ambition, the last will be threatened by tumults.... but, a government by the people, of all the people, for all the people bespeaks freedom on which the United States government stands firm and immovable. This is the American form of government which has been tried in peace and in war and proved itself strong enough for both. As Webster once said:

"Our government has been assailed from without, and it has effectually quieted the disturbance. It can stand trial, it can stand assail, it can stand adversity, it can stand everything but the marring of its own beaty and the weakening of its own strength, it can stand everything but the effects of our own rashness and our folly. It can stand everything but disorganization, disunion and and nullification."

The government of a nation itself is usually a reflex of the people who compose it. The people of the United States deliberately and wisely framed their government with the view of remaining masters of it, and not being mastered by it. All free governments are party governed. It is necessary to have different party affiliations. We have the highest regard and respect for Republicans who believe in their Party, vote for, and support their Party. This is as it should be. We have heard no Republican threaten to forsake his Party. We regret the fact that a division in Democratic ranks is threatened. However, out of all the tumult and dissention recently indulged in by the Democratic National Convention, our representatives there came up with two great Americans.... Adlai Stevenson, and our own Senator from Alabama, John Sparkman, who will be our standard bearers.

Both men are nationally known and are men with proven leadership records. Therefore, we believe the challenging call to the Democratic colors will be proudly answered, and we urge every Democrat to be loyal, steadfast and true to the greatest government the world has ever known.

The deterioration or failure of the Democratic Party rests with the individuals who comprise the Democratic Party. A house divided against itself cannot stand. The very inherent right the people have to establish the Democratic Party presupposes the duty of every individual member to support the Party.

Recently, many concessions were made in order that all sections of the United States could conscientiously continue their allegiance to the Democratic Party. Today, our country faces the greatest crisis in its long history. Confident and courageous leadership is essential, and I believe the Democratic ticket now offered you, provides this requirement. Adali Stevenson for president, John Sparkman from Alabama, for vice-president, looks to me like a splendid chance for victory in November.

Speaking strictly from a personal standpoint now, I have no criticism to make regarding the capable leadership offered by the Republican Party, General Eisenhower and Senator Nixon. Both gentlemen are great Americans. As stated in this column last week. This joint nomination is the smartest thing the Republicans have ever done. But, I am a DEMOCRAT, therefore, I shall, in my small way, aggressively and whole heartedly support and uphold the Democratic Party. I cordially urge my fellow-travellers to do likewise.

Wide Open Democratic Convention Selects Stevenson-Sparkman Ticket

Agreement Reached On Third Ballot By Tired Delegates

When the tumult and the shouting died, and the captains and would-be kingmakers had departed, the Democratic party had selected a reluctant, but fighting presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, as their competition for the GOP's Dwight Eisenhower.

Governor Stevenson's nomination came in the ideal way of which all politicians dream, a grassroots draft, relatively free of the complications of major trades and deals. This put him in a position to take command of the party which had shouted and struggled through six days of gruelling infighting, but which closed its deliberations with strong manifestations of sincere unity. His demonstrated political adroitness will serve him well in the job of welding the party into a fighting organization for this year's campaign.

But while the battling was rough, it was relatively clean and above board. Governor Stevenson's running mate, Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, summed up that characteristic of the convention in his speech accepting the vice presidential spot. And there was good evidence for such an assaying of the situation, for certainly "the big loser," Senator Estes Kefauver, retired from battle with as much political graciousness as has been witnessed on a convention platform in many years. So did Senator Richard Russell of Georgia go down to defeat in a spirit of true sportsmanship.

Sparkman was the doctor who was expected to treat the almost-critical political wound that resulted from the Moody "loyalty pledge" resolution in an extremely bitter fight Thursday to get the non-signing delegations from South Carolina, Louisiana, and Virginia seated.

The most remarkable single facet of the Democratic convention was the angry manner in which the warring factions struggled with each other and yet managed to come away leaving the impression that had erected a facade of unity that somehow would hang together.

Stevenson's Welcome

In his address of welcome to the delegates on Monday and again in his speech of acceptance in the early and clamorous hours of Saturday morning, Adlai Stevenson revealed hiself as a sincerely humble, spiritually erect man, intelligently aware of his limitations as a human being confronted with the awesome responsibilities of the presidency.

Yet, an objective analysis of the convention's proceedings could not in all truth say that Stevensons nomination was a genuine draft. There was too much work put in on it by the practical politicians behind the scenes. There were too many pressures exerted on the opposition—mainly consisting of Sen. Estes Kefauver—to let the Stevenson "draft" be a thing of complete purity.

Truman's Choice

It was known to the men working on the inside for Stevenson that President Truman had tabbed him as the man to whom he wanted the nomination to go. And Frank McKinney, Democratic national chairman, was a tireless and effective behind-the-scenes operator on Stevenson's behalf.

Jacob Arvey, Democratic national committeeman of Chicago, had the bulk of the large Illinois delegation in line and handed 53 out of the 60 votes to Stevenson on the first ballot. James Farley of New York threw his shrewd support to Stevenson after Vice-President Alben Barkley withdrew from the running.

Those and other elements of the Stevenson boom were capped by Averell Harriman's previously determined decision to turn his votes, mostly located in the New York delegation, to Stevenson at the right moment.

Adlai Stevenson

Dever Keynote

The first two sessions Monday ambled along to the accompaniment of thousands of words of mediocre oratory, including an entirely uninspiring keynote address by Gov. Paul Dever of Massachusetts who succeeded mainly in shouting himself hoarse.

But it was Monday night—or early Tuesday morning—that the northern liberal wing lighted the torch that threatened to drive the South from the floor of the International Amphitheatre.

John Sparkman

This was the resolution offered by Sen. Blair Moody of Michigan requiring that no delegation be seated unless it first had given assurance to the credentials committee that it would "exert every honorable means" to provide that the names of the convention's nominees appear on the state ballot under the name or designation of the Democratic party.

Key to the North-South feud as expressed in the Moody resolution was the fact that in 1948 the four revolting Dixiecrat states simply shut the door on the Democratic ticket. What they were fighting for this time was the fredom or privilege to do the same thing again if they were displeased by the convention's selections.

The danger of another Dixiecrat walkout dogged the minds of convention leaders through Tuesday and Wednesday and was resolved in the uproarious and climatic Thursday session which lasted an exhausting 14 hours.

Battle Begins

The battle broke into the open Thursday afternoon in the middle of the nomination proceedings. When Louisiana was reached in the roll call of states the Minnesota delegation leaped howling to its feet and challenged the right of the state to participate in the convention.

Permanent Chairman Sam Rayburn, however, gave the floor to Virginia, which wanted to know whether the Virginia delegation

SCHOOLS TO OPEN IN COUNTY IN SEPTEMBER

All schools in Shelby county will open September 8. Preceeding the opening week, a Work Shop will be held in Alabama College for the teachers beginning September 3 and running thru Sept. 5.

We shall present a list of Shelby county teachers for next semester, as soon as the list is complete.

JOHN DYE TEACHING SINGING SCHOOL AT MT. ERA

John Dye, Birmingham, well known singer and music writer, is teaching a singing school at Mt. Era this week. Classes are held morning and evening.

The closing session will be held Friday night of this week. This program will be open to the public. An added feature of the evening's program will be the appearance of James D. Walbert, who is one of the South's outstanding piano teachers.

JERRELL MOORE, SILURIA TO ATTEND FORESTRY CAMP

Jerrell Moore, a member of the Thompson High School Future Farmers Of America Chapter will attend a Summer Forestry Camp at Camp Grist near Selma August 3 through August 9. This camp, sposored by The Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association and its member mills, is for the farm boys of Alabama who have interests in Forestry. Over one hundred boys from all of the timber producing areas of the state will be present. The camp is being held exclusively for members of FFA Chapters.

Jerrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore of Columbiana Rt., and has been active in his FFA work at Thompson High School for the past two years. Some of his projects have been a dairy cow and calf, ten acres of corn, building a garage, and helping in the management of some 100 acres of timber land owned by his father. Jerrell works each summer with his father in the timber and pulpwood business. So this camp should be of value to him.

CANNING PLANT WILL CLOSE

Since there are not enough vegetables to justify operating the Canning Plant, it will be closed until further notice. If any individual or community has enough produce to fill two to three hundred cans, call Elvin Hill and arrangements will be made for you to use the plant.

ANNUAL HOME COMING GOOD HOPE CHURCH

The annual home coming will be held at Good Hope Methodist Church in the Kingdom community Sunday, August 3. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Singing will be enjoyed throughout the day with Special Directors and Quartettes taking part on the program.

ROBERT KAPLAN

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD IN BIRMINGHAM FOR ROBERT KAPLAN

Robert Kaplan, owner of Eagles Stores in Columbiana and Wilsonville, a former Birmingham business man, died suddenly Friday night following a heart attack aboard an airplane near Pitttsburg. Mr. and Mrs. Kaplan were returning from London, Ontario, where Mr. Kaplan had been for treatment for several weeks.

Mr. Kaplan was one of the most popular merchants in Shelby county and numbered his friends by all who knew him. He was a Mason and a member of Temple Beth-el in Birmingham.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Rose Kaplan and two children, Helen Kaplan and Gary Kaplan of Columbiana; two brothers, Harry Kaplan of Birmingham; and Sam Kaplan of Bradenton, Florida.

Funeral services were conducted by Rabbi Abraham Mesch, from Johns-Ridout's Chapel Monday morning at eleven o'clock.

Active pall bearers included: Dr. Sam Shafferman, Abe Stein, Joe Katz, Joe Morris, Leon Meyers, Norman Lefkovits, Alvin Lefkovis, Arthur Goldstein and L. Feldman.

County Suffers Heavy Forest Fire Losses

Along with other counties in the state, Shelby county has suffered heavy losses from forest fires in the past few weeks. According to C. M. Stuckey, local ranger, twenty-five fires have burned an estimated 9000 acres of woodland since July 19. One fire in the Kingdom community burned an estimated 3300 acres with damages estimated at approximately $60,000.

Fire fighting assistance has been brought in from other counties to bring these fires under control. A bulldozer from the State Game, Fish and Seafood Division was sent from Montgomery to help suppress some of these fires. Also Autauga, Chilton and Escambia counties furnished crews to help in this work.

As this is written all fires in the county are under control. However, due to the unusual weather conditions and the extreme dryness of all woodlands, Mr. Stuckey urges everyone to be extra careful with fires, cigarettes and anything which might start a fire.

Mr. Stuckey and the employees of the Shelby County Forestry Department express their appreciation and thanks to everyone who has assisted them in any way to bring this serious fire situation under control.

NOTICE TO VETERANS

The Shelby County Office of the Department of Veterans' Affairs will be closed August 3rd through August 6th., 1952.

The Service Officer will be attending the State Conference at Fairhope, Alabama.

NOTICE

To all men and women over 65 years of age.

There will be a meeting of the Alabama Old Age Pension Union in the Court House in Columbiana Saturday, August 2nd, at 10 A. M. There will be a good speaker to visit the meeting. You are urged to meet him.

J. L. CARTER
State Organizer

GOOD NEWS FLASH FROM MAYOR'S OFFICE

A representative will call at your home next week regarding placing GAS in Columbiana's residences and commercial places. The town will place facilities for gas service to the baseboard of houses, up to 100 feet from the street line.

A deposit of $5.00 will be required to evidence "good faith" which sum will be returned if the service is discontinued.

All interested parties are urged to take advantage of the initial installation, as in the future all gas installations will be required to be paid for by the land owner.

It is estimated that the savings to the land owners occasioned by taking advantage of the initial offer will pay the average home-owners gas bill for three years.

REV. C. M. CLINKSCALES

REV. CLINKSCALES LEAVES WILSONVILLE FOR TALLADEGA

On the evening of July 13, the Rev. C. M. Clinkscales resigned as pastor of the Wilsonville Baptist Church after receiving a call from the Second Baptist Church in Talladega.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinkscales will move to Talladega August 3, to begin their work in this larger field for Christian Ministerial work. Mr. Clinkscales has been the pastor of the Wilsonville Baptist Church since November 1948, and much growth in all departments has been recorded since this time. Friends of the Clinkscales family and members of the church regret to see them leave, but realize that the new "call" for Mr. Clinkscales from the Talladega Church is a deserved promotion, and wish for him continued blessings and success.

HEAVY LOSS INCURRED FROM FIRES IN NEW HOPE

Torrid temperatures and weeks of drought was responsible for destructive fires which swept over hundreds of acres of woodlands in the New Hope area and elsewhere, killing valuable young timber. Hampered by lack of men and fire-fighting equipment, these fires raged out of control destroying some of the pastures at Oakdale Farm; an orchard at Happy Acres and a barn with a tractor and machinery valued at $5000 at the J. E. Nivens Farm. A number of homes in the path of the flames were saved by volunteer firemen of the community.

'PAINTING TEXTILES'

"Painting Textiles" will be taught to clothing and handicraft leaders Friday, August 1.

The meeting will begin at 9:30 in The Old Courthouse Auditorium in Columbiana. Leaders will bring kitchen curtains and breakfast cloths made up, washed and ironed (not starched), organdy to make aprons, and materials for potholders.

It is important that each club send two leaders to this Training School. They will give the demonstration in all Home Demonstration clubs in October.

Helena Club will exhibit Textile Painting at the County Fair, August 25-30.

Wilsonville Club will make articles to exhibit at their community fair September 26 and 27.

MUNICIPAL OFFICIALS PASS RESOLUTION

When the next term begins for our municipal officials to take office, they will do so with the knowledge that they will receive nominal amounts for the time and effort expended in looking after the various phases of civic management, future financial matters and plans for progressive essentials in an expanding community.

Beginning with the next official term, the Mayor will receive $50 per month. Each councilman $10 per month. This resolution was adopted at the last regular meeting of the Town Council.

Additional duties will be placed on the incoming Mayor and councilmen in that they will have charge of administering all the business relating business relating to the Gas installation and collecting for this service. There will be no other "Board" appointed to maneg this new commodity for Columbiana subscribers.

The call for the municipal election is made in this current issue of the Reporter-Democrat and will be held September 15.

The Mayor and Councilmen now are working toward the completion of contracts which will assure Gas in the homes and business houses for those who desire it. Many progressive and permanent steps forward have been taken under the present administration.

OUTPOSTS OF VENGEANCE

A HISTORICAL NOVEL BY E. E. HALLERAN

THE STORY SO FAR:
The start of the trip down the Ohio river had been a sad one for Will Morgan. He was leaving behind the woman he loved, Mary Bolden, knowing that she was soon bound with her family to make a homestead in the Miami lands, still refusing to accept his love. But the excitement of the trip brought him to reality. He discovered a friend in riverman Bull Kirby and made an enemy in Tobe Ansley. Then, came the discovery of the burned Randall craft, making him remember a young girl named Ann, who had loved him. As the boat continued down river, he wondered why Ann's body had not been among the victims.

CHAPTER VI

Eventually they came abreast of the Licking River which flowed into the Ohio from the Kaintuck side. There the crew started to work the boat across the stream, gradually drifting down past the little town of Columbia to land at Fort Washington just below. New settlers were beginning to call the place Cincinnati but to the rivermen it was still Fort Washington.

Will spent barely twenty-four hours at the post and went away with practically no memory of it. Somehow his mind still refused to shake off the gloomy memory of Ann Randall's fate and he walked through the little town without seeing anything around him. Vaguely he knew that Kirby was railing bitterly at the hopeless inefficiency of the militia being gathered at the fort and he realized that Old Sam's boat had arrived just behind his own, the old man promptly making his deals and gathering a pack train for a journey upstream. Then, surprisingly, he was driving a pack mule which served as leader for several other well laden animals.

Fate Guides Morgan In Fort Washington

Handling mules brought him out of it. Old Sam wanted speed so he refused to depend on the plodding oxen so commonly used for freight purposes. The mules were faster—and in this case a fortunate choice since they forced Will Morgan to get his mind away from tragedy. Kirby helped and by the time they had been on the trail twelve hours Will was once more taking his Miami lessons.

They swung briskly into the interior, a file of dragoons escorting them from post to post, eventually working back to the river after covering the various forts where boats could not be used for supply purposes. Nothing of importance came up to disturb the routine of their task but when they reached the river at Marietta they found the town oddly excited. Will could feel the tenor of anticipation around him as the pack train went through to a camp above town but it took Kirby to call the turn.

"Looks like a weddin' celebration to me," he whispered, riding up beside Will. "I'll work the old man fer the night off. Likely be an ox roast, licker, fiddlin' and dancin'—and half the gals in town so jealous of the bride that they'll be anxious to please all the other fellers."

Will merely nodded but he watched with amused curiosity when Kirby disappeared after supper. The big riverman was gone only a matter of minutes and when he returned he carried a jug which he promptly handed to Old Sam. "Here 'are, Sam," he said heartily.

Old Sam eyed him sternly and took a long drink. Then he snapped, "What the hell do ye want?"

Kirby grinned sheepishly. "Nothin' much. It's jest that there's a weddin' party in town and I figured mebbe I could take Will in and show him what it's like. McGrew can stand guard while ye git lickered up."

Old Sam bristled. "Damn ye anyway, Kirby!" he shrilled. "Who says I ever git lickered up enough I can't keep an eye on my proper- I kin run this camp without McGrew or you or anybody else."

They located the celebration by the light of the ox roast and Kirby promptly found an acquaintance, a big riverman of doubtful age. They swore at each other in high good humor and Kirby introduced the man to Morgan.

"Meet Zeb McBirney, Will. He ain't quite the pirate he looks but better count yer fingers after shake hands."

McBirney winked at Morgan and took hands ceremoniously. Kirby asked quickly, "What ye doin' in town, Zeb? I didn't see no keelboat tied up."

McBirney winked again. "Workin' a broadhorn down the river fer a passel o' settlers. There's two boatloads of 'em headed up the Miami, anxious to have their hair decoratin' some Injun's at parlor. Sawyer Brown and me workin' one boat, t'other one erin' best they kin with the men the party handlin' her. Stayin' tonight for the shindig."

Kirby grinned. "That's a setup! folks all in one craft and es' man McBirney in the other. ye makin' out?"

McBirney shook his head ruefully, ain't," he declared. "There's one gal in the lot wuth lookin' and she's as sociable as a bull gator with the toothache. I made a couple o' passes at her an' she dam' near knocked me off'n the boat!"

As they were celebrating their mutual troubles the subject of the conversation appeared in the circle of light. The pioneers had arrived in a body. Will recognized Mary's family and that of her uncle but noted a number of strangers with them. "How many of them are there?" he asked McBirney.

"Four families. Two from the Carolinas, a batch of Jerseymen and a Pennsylvania outfit."

Just then Mary Bolden looked up to find Will's glance upon her. She waved in friendly fashion and once more he had the impression that she did not hold any grudges over what had gone before. If she recalled the angry mood in which he had left her she did not show it. McBirney also seemed to note the absence of rancor in her smile.

"Looks like she ain't mad at yo', Will," he muttered. "Better give her another try. Them fightin' ones is generally the warmest kind when yo' git 'em started. That's how come they put up sech a battle; they're skeered o' what they'll do when they let theirselves go." He shoved the younger man toward the girl as he spoke.

"Damn ye anyway, Kirby!" he shrilled. "I kin run this camp without McGrew or you or anybody else."

Will wanted to back off but he realized that people were watching.

"Could we dance?"

The Defiant Heart Begins to Weaken

Mary nodded smilingly and fell into step beside him as he wheeled toward the cabin where a number of frontier gymnasts were already performing their acrobatics. It gave Will an odd feeling that maybe McBirney was right. This time he was going to have better luck. He certainly could not continue to meet this girl at every bend of the river and still have everything go wrong.

Mary watched silently from the doorway for some moments. Then she smiled dubiously at Will. "Do we have to dance like that?"

"Not unless you want to," he told her.

She nodded. "All I can do is a few reels and squares. This river bank hornpipe is somethin' new to me."

"Me, too," he agreed smilingly.

They waited until a graybeard called for couples to form squares, taking their places with three other pairs of young folks to dance something more nearly like what they had known in the east. As they danced Will saw that the girl was enjoying herself, the hilarity of her neighbors, the lights and the music combining to arouse some of the emotion which she had kept under such strict control. She was more feminine than he had ever seen her, definitely a different sort of creature from the hoyden who had ridden the wheel horse of the big Conestoga.

When the dance was over she suggested, "Don't yo' think we've had enough o' that fer now?"

"Suits me," Will agreed. "Do you want to get something to eat?"

"I reckon not. Let's just amble down the road a piece and cool off."

"I reckon it'll be safe," he grinned. "It's almost the same kind of a night as when we took our last stroll. Same phase of the moon and everything. Lucky there's no river quite so handy for you to push me in."

"Don't talk about the river," she chided as they passed out of the circle of firelight. "Yo' know I didn't shove yo' in a-purpose!"

"Didn't you?" he asked innocently.

She started to protest but stopped as she realized that he was teasing. When she continued silent Will remarked. "I hear your party is pretty well filled out now. McBirney says you have enough families to make up quite a settlement."

"McBirney!" she snapped. "He's the . . ." She broke off with a laugh. "I reckon yo' men are all alike. That critter wants to git rough and yo' try to talk yore way around—but the idea is jest the same."

"Can't you realize that I've been serious with you?" he asked. "I meant it when I asked you to marry me."

This time her laugh was not so certain. "That's plumb foolish," she said, her voice low. "I ain't lookin' to marry anybody and besides the Injuns will probably have us all skelped by the time yo' git ready to settle down."

The words brought him up sharply, his mind once more filled with the picture of that burning flatboat along the river. "That's the very reason we should understand each other now," he told her seriously. "The tribes get bolder every day and I don't believe Harmar's expedition will help much. You'd be a lot safer with me, either in some sort of work along the river or farming a plot with other settlers."

She forced herself to an airy lightness which was all too clearly a pose. "Mebbe yo' might be some good around the farm at that. Yo' could make yoreself handy when yo' wasn't fightin' Injuns. We could let yo' sleep with the horses."

"I don't think much of that arrangement," he told her. "I reckon we could figure out a better plan than that."

"Let's forget the whole thing," she said hastily.

At Last, Mary Decides To Fight no Longer

"Oh, you probably can"—he said meaningly— "but you won't."

"Won't, hey?" she retorted, trying to make her voice sound grim and not making a very good job of it. "Don't be so all-fired sure o' yourself."

Suddenly he turned in the darkness, grabbing her in a firm embrace and kissing her soundly. As she struggled free he relaxed his grip and stepped back. "That, my pretty little wildcat," he remarked cheerfully, "is what is known in these parts as a raid and strategic retreat. I am still out of water, you'll notice."

At first she stood stock still as though wondering whether to be angry or not. Then she said slowly, her voice odd. "Yo' mean yo' caught me unawares and then ran. Does it make yo' feel so awful smart?"

He came closer. "Would you believe it if I told you that I'm not half as pleased as I thought I'd be?"

Her tone carried a ring of hurt as she asked, "What do you mean by that?"

"I mean that I kissed you as a gesture of defiance. Now I know that I should not have done it that way."

She divined his intentions as he moved toward her again. Striking out in a gesture of almost instinctive defense she felt her hand strike his face, then his arms were around her again. This time he held her so tightly that her struggles were quite useless. After a moment she did not struggle at all.

"Let's stop sparring, Mary," he said seriously. "Maybe I was showing off but I meant what I said. There's not much in this country for either of us but that's no reason why we shouldn't take whatever of happiness we can get. Last month I told you that I loved you. I'll say it again. Can't you tell me that you'll meet me halfway?"

She took a deep breath. "I reckon I could," she said almost absently. "It's hard to keep fightin' all the time."

This time her lips met his eagerly. Her defenses had fallen.

The early morning departure of the pack train upriver found Will in a continuing state of bewilderment. Kirby tried to joke with him over the fact that he had not returned to the barbecue but gave it up when he saw that Morgan had something on his mind. "Looks like Zeb was right about women," he commented dryly. Then he went about his business.

All day the pack train moved northward as Will buried himself in his thoughts. The memory of the evening was in no way dimmed by the way he had parted with Mary but still it puzzled him. She had become casual, almost brusque and he could not make up his mind what she meant by it.

A little leaner, a little more sunburned and a great deal more determined, Will Morgan arrived in Pittsburgh in early September. The packers had left their animals at one of Old Sam's depots on the right bank of the Ohio and had come up by boat to wait for the next lot of supplies from the east. The town seemed much the same as it had been two months earlier except that now there was no militia camp along the Monongahela nor was there any clatter of hammers from the settlers' camp. The season had passed for the moving of emigrants.

WILSONVILLE

ELIZABETH WELDON

Mrs. Juanita Williams and Mary Williams had as house guests Wednesday and Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Thornton and Mrs. Johnson of Rogersville; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Thornton, Mr. Henry Darrell of Birmingham; Mr. Charles Picklemire of Cullman; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poynor of Nashville; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wilson of Attalla.

They were here to attend the Adams-Williams wedding which was solemnized at the Methodist Church in Montevallo, Thursday at 10 A. M.

After the wedding the above party was joined by the bride and groom (Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, Jr.), Mr. Sherrill McClure of Columbiana, Miss Peggy Williams of Greensboro and Miss Mary Ann Robbins of Florence for a bridal luncheon at the home of the groom.

From a table adorned with Chinese linen, family silver and china, a delectable noon day luncheon was served. Long white tapers added a soft glow from crystal candelabra as the centerpiece of white gladiolas, lillies of the valley and baby breath gave off their beauty to the occasion.

After many congratulations, good-byes and a deluge of rice the bride and groom left for a brief honeymoon at Stafford Springs, Miss. They will be at home at the University of Alabama.

Mrs. A. B. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Story, Misses Aileen Pope, Betty Ann Vardaman and Elizabeth Weldon attended the wedding of Charles Williams Jr., at the First Methodist Church of Montevallo and the Reception that followed at Reynolds Hall.

Mrs. A. F. Carden, age 98, mother of Mrs. Tint Merrill passed away Wednesday, July 23. The funeral was held at the Wilsonville Methodist Church with interment at the Shelby cemetery.

The Baptist revival is in full swing with Rev. Milford Younge from Childersburg giving a series of inspiring messages. The singing is led by Mr. Clarence Cook from Birmingham.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Josh Baker this week were Mr. and Mrs. Tom McEwen and daughters of Rockford.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Story spent the week end in De Armondville.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Crumpton spent last week in Panama City. They enjoyed deep sea fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Franks from Birmingham were here for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Seals and sons from Birmingham visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Helms.

Mr. T. J. Wood is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor.

Mr and Mrs. Holcombe from Westover were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mansfiel Stone.

Wilsonville farmers attended a demonstration of irrigation at the farm of Britt Ingram.

Messers Dewey Bolton, Norvel Revis, B. P. Garrett, B. B. Mooney, Josh Roper, and Snoddy attended the farmers council held in Montevallo.

Miss Mary John Weldon from Birmingham was here for the week end.

Mrs. R. F. Cox, her two sons, and her daughter Terry, visited Mr. and Mrs. Grady McEwen.

Miss Rena Carlson who works in Birmingham was home for the week end.

Mrs. Pendie Miller has her four grand daughters from Chattanooga with her this week.

Miss Nona Faye Roberson enjoyed a visit to the studio of Radio Station WVOK in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Garrett have as their guest their daughter, Mrs. Roy Moore from Camp Lejune, N. C.

My rich father left me something for a rainy day.... an umbrella.

Its all in how you look at it. The average newspaper sees it, "One in six marriages in the U. S. end in the divorce court," when as a matter of fact, it should say, "Five of six marriages in U. S. don't end in divorce court."

An executive is a fellow who's always annoying the help with his bright ideas.

Figures over the past six years show the number of accidents dropped sharply in 1949, but have risen slightly each year since. Coleman said the total number of mandays lost in 1951 was 595,183. This is the first upswing in mandays lost in five years. The number has been decreasing each year since 1946.

NEW HOPE

Mrs. S. J. Ingram returned home last week after spending two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Clifton Hitt and Mr. Hitt in Whitfield.

NATIONAL GUARD TO SEND 220,000 TO SUMMER CAMPS

Approximately 220,000 members of the Army and Air National Guard will spend 15 days in Summer camps between June and September this year. Over 3,600 units are now recruiting in an effort to reach full authorized strength before starting on their field training.

Combat veterans from Korea and World War II will assist in the full time field conditioning of the citizen-soldiers. Stress will be on the training of individuals and the efficient operation of company size units.

Simulaing actual mobilization conditions, the units will move to camp by airlift, rail, truck and bus. When possible, entire divisions and groups will move as a unit and train at the same site.

The 657th Transportation Truck Company located at Calera, Alabama, will join a convoy composed of the 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group on August 17th enroute to Ft. McClellan, Alabama where they will undergo training for fifteen days.

Lt. Edwin B. Nickerson, commanding officer of the 657th, stated today that his unit will accept enlistments in the National Guard as late as July 31st. After that date no more men will be enlisted until after camp.

Any man between the ages of 17 and 35 who would like to go to camp this summer with this unit should contact Lt. Nickerson or go by the Armory located in the Calera High School before July 31st.

The 657th will train under command of Col. Bob E. Morrow of the 135th Transportation Highway Transport Group which is located at Selma, Alabama.

New GMC Model 470—powered by the sensational new "302" gasoline valve-in-head 145 h.p. engine. Also available as cab-over-engine.
GASOLINE ½ TO 30 TONS
DIESEL 2½ TO 35 TONS
TOPS IN PAY LOAD!
If you use gasoline-powered tractors in the 45,000 GCW class, here's big news. This new GMC Series 470 will haul more pay load than any other vehicle of its rating with comparable standard equipment—up to more than a half-ton than some!
That's because GMC has found new ways to take dead weight out of truck design by advanced engineering.
One example is GMC's sensational new "302" valve-in-head engine that delivers 145 h.p. at 3200 r.p.m. It weighs less than other engines of equal power by as much as 500 lbs. Yet it's the highest-compression gasoline truck engine ever built—gives you extra mileage from regular fuel!
Come in. Compare them—in power, in pay load, in rugged long-life construction—against all the rest!
Then check the price and you'll agree: nowhere else will so little buy so much in a 3- to 4½-ton truck.

KOREAN COMBAT VETERANS VOTED $45 MONTHLY BATTLE PAY

Veterans who served in Korea combat since June of 1950 will get retroactive combat pay at the rate of $45 a month under terms of the bill approved by Congress last weekend.

The $45 a month combat pay will go to every person who served in a combat unit for six days or more during any month since May 31, 1950.

But veterans eligible under the bill may have a long wait before checks roll their way. The services must draft regulations and establish payment machinery after President Truman approves the bill.

The $258,000,000 measure will provide $45 monthly to every serviceman and veteran who was in a combat unit defined in the bill for six days or more during any month since May 31, 1950.

In cases where a veteran was in combat for less than six days at the end of one month and less than six days at the beginning of the next month, he would get combat pay for the second month as long as he had six consecutive days service in a combat situation.

Combat pay will go to all members of a unit of regimental size or smaller which was in actual physical contact with the enemy and under hostile ground fire for six days during a month and also to troops attached to units of battalion size or smaller when physically with and serving this unit under competent orders.

The combat units defined by the bill include not only regiments or smaller in physical contact with the enemy but also "elements" or details from units not larger than a regiment while subject to hostile fire in the course of rendering aid or assistance, directly to a military unit, not larger than a battalion, which is engaged in actual combat on land or by fire to any military unit engaged in actual combat on land.

This language indicates that Air Force Forward Controllers, naval units engaged in shore support with offshore fire and naval forward observers are all eligible to draw combat pay.

Amphibious and airborne support units are also given the right to combat pay while they are performing their work under fire in support of combat operations. Ships engaged in ship-to-shore bombardment which brings them under the fire of shore batteries or under threat of sinking by mines and aircraft that is subjected to hostile fire are also included as combat units.

Ground crews of aircraft and crews of vessels in support of combat ships are not included under this act for combat pay.

Veterans' record will have to be checked to verify their claims. Exactly how this will be done awaits the approval of service regulations by the office of the Secretary of Defense.

THE LADIES ARE INTERESTED IN POLITICS

A friend of ours came by the office Monday and remarked she would like to cast her vote for Eisenhower and Sparkman. "Can I do this?" she asked. No mam! You cannot split your ticket in this manner. Here's why: Voters vote for electors who must choose the president and vice-president. Each party has a slate of electors who are pledged to the party's presidential and vice-presidential nominees. Any split on these nominees expressed by a cross mark by an elector, will not be counted. In other words, dear Lady, you must choose between the Republican and Democratic nominees for President, if you want your vote to count in November.

WHO WILL SUCCEED SPARKMAN IN U. S. SENATE?

In the event Sen. John Sparkman is elected in November as Vice-President of the U. S. A., who will his successor be? Came the next question.

This query sent us to a lawyer, and we found out the following answer. Under the law, it is not necessary for Sparkman to resign in order to campaign for the vice-president's job. However, should the senator resign before September 5, his successor can be elected at the November general election. Alabama's law provides, if a senate vacancy occurs within four months before 60 days of a general election, it must be filled at the election. The November election falls on the 4th, therefore, the 60 day limit would date back to September 5.

If Senator Sparkman should resign within the 60 days prior to the general election, Gov. Gordon Persons is required to call a special election on the first Tuesday after the lapse of 60 days from the day on which the vacancy is made known to him.

Governor Persons can make a temporary appointment, if Senator Sparkman should immediately resign, and this appointee would serve until his successor is duly elected and qualified.

It will be recalled that Sparkman was first elected to serve for a short term, following Sen. John Bankhead's death. He was then re-elected to a full six year term which began January 1949. During this interim, Sen. Robin Swift of Atmore held the place having received the appointment by Ex-Gov. Chauncey Sparks.

Thats the information we received, and I hope it is correct, we have been asked a number of questions regarding WHO would take Senator Sparkman's place IF Gov. Persons were to appoint. That, we do not know, but have a pretty good idea!

FIRST STEVENSON BUTTON

This little pen point pusher, created a mild flurry on Main this morning as we walked down Main wearing a huge STEVENSON FOR PRESIDENT button, brought us by none other than alert High Sims, Jr., who has just returned from the Democratic National Convention which chose Stevenson for its leading man. We proudly placed this Steevnson badge on, and thank this young and upcoming all-American fellow for thinking of us. Hugh said he knew I would be delighted to be the "first" to wear the Democratic colors on the Main Stem, and how right he was and is!

. . . Johnny Fox of Wilsonville, is one of the most popular young fellows in this man's town. He has just returned from an extended tour of Texas, and swung back around by the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, returning home Wednesday. Johnny tells me this morning he made up his mind that if he ever got home, he would 'first thing' get his name on the "home paper's subscription list".... which he did Monday morning. Johnny says he is tired of chasing around trying to find "the other fellow's paper to read". He wants one all his own, and thats exactly what he will have for the next 52 weeks, and we thank him for coming to this conclusion.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sweeney (Mary Florence Lyon) of Selma, are vacationing in Florida this week. Mrs. Sweeney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruton Lyon and a former resident of Main.

. . . Friends are delighted to be able to welcome W. R. White home from Veterans Hospital much improved.

. . . Friends of Fred Phillips of Siluria will be glad to learn he is recuperating satisfactorily following an operation for appendicitis last Monday.

. . . Mrs. Jack Weatherspoon of Caruthers, Mousouri, has been the recent guest of her mother, Mrs. Irvin Stone. Before returning to her home this week, Mrs. Weatherspoon came by to "make certain the home paper continued to come to her apartment each week," which decision pleased us more than we can say. It is good to know that all former residents of this county continue their interest in friends and happenings here thru this medium.

. . . Just as we go to press we are saddened by the news of the sudden death of our life long friend, Mrs. Frank P. West of Columbiana.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bozeman of Biloxi, Mississippi, announce the birth of a son, born Wednesday, July 23. Mrs. Ada Bozeman of Columbiana is the proud grandmother.

'UNCLE DOC' VISITS FRIENDS ON MAIN

"Uncle Doc" Bearden, former Night Watchman for Columbiana and a good one, too, was down town Tuesday morning and we had the pleasure of a short curbstone chat with this splendid fellow who has so often thought of those "little things" along Life's Highway to make a fellow's pilgrimage here a happier one.

It had been many months since we had seen "Uncle Doc" but, it did not take us long to retrace our steps back to those days when both of us were trying to make the soldier boys, who came thru this place, a happy memory. Many cold winter nights, while "Uncle Doc" was keeping lonely nocturnal vigil over this town, late bus loads of soldiers would stop here, and never a time was missed by this friendly, genial, night watchman to have a steaming cup of coffee ready for them in the old offices of the Democrat Building. One night, we particularly remember, 6 boys were stranded here, and "Uncle Doc" put them to bed on the chairs and leather couch in the office. Letters from these boys later, made us know that "Uncle Doc" would never be forgotten by any one of them who passed thru Main and paused for a few hours "wait-over", before leaving for the battle fronts.

WILLIE KELLEY CIRCLE MEETS

The Willie Kelley Circle met with Mrs. G. C. Moore, Jr., July 21st. Mrs. Gene Edmondson, chairman, called the meeting to order by having the group sing the W. M. U. Year song, "All Hail The Power of Jesus' Name."

Mrs. Gene Decker gave a very timely devotional one "Church Building" after which J. R.Wood led in prayer.

Mrs. Arthur Wood, Secretary, read the June minutes, called the roll and gave the finance report.

Names of sick friends were mentioned and all were asked to be remembered with cards or other remembrances.

The various committees made their reports for the month of June and July.

Mrs. Edmondson suggested that we still think of bringing dishes for the Church Kitchen. The secretary was authorized to purchase fifty of these plates.

It was agreed upon by all the members present to have a W. M. S. Family Picnic at an early date.

Mrs. Lansford was welcomed to our meeting as a visitor. After the business, Mrs. Moore served delicious ice cream and cake to 16 members, 1 visitor and 9 children.

Mrs. Edmondson dismissed with prayer.

TWO FOR THE SHORE—Complete with a waterproof carnation on the shoulder strap, this beach ensemble is ready for either beach or surf wear. The suit and jacket, shown in New York, are done in an attractive print. The jacket is lined in red.

AN ORDINARY BOY, AN EXTRAORDINARY FEAT

"There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, but what are they among so many?" John 6:9

The small contribution of that un-named boy lifted him to a place among the distinguished people of all time. He had probably started out that morning for a day's ramble and boy-like, had provided himself with a bit of lunch, consisting of a few scraps of bread and two or three fish. Falling in with a crowd of people that he saw moving toward the open country, naturally he drifted along with them. Toward sunset he was asked to give his frugal meal toward the feeding of the hungry throng. Willingly he did it. If you want to know the rest of the story, read Matthew 14:13-21.

Most people hide behind the notion that responsibility and ability are the same, that only the able are responsible. Those people forget the story of the widow's mite. The man with one talent evidently felt that way about it. But the divine standard of service is, "every man according to his ability." That lets no Christian out.

Many years ago in preparation for a great oratorio, a very important rehearsal was in progress. There was a vast array of performers, and in front of the hundreds of musicians and singers stood the able conductor, Sir Michael Costa, wielding his baton. The mighty chorus filled the building, and the thunder of the organ, the rolling of the drums, the clear ringing tones of the coronets, the clash of the cymbals, and the beautiful notes of the stringed instruments, combined to make splendid harmony. Suddenly the director shouted, "Stop"! All waited in wondering silence for Sir Michael's reason for his abrupt command. "Where is the piccolo?" he asked. In that immense choir and vibrating orchestra one small instrument had been silent. In all the grand peals of music Sir Michael Costa missed that tiny note, and consequently the whole was to him imperfect. The incident has a lesson for us. In the mighty chorus of the service and adoration of God's people, the Master will miss any one person whose life has ceased to speak in harmony with the ensemble. Alexander Pope echoes the thought in these words:

"Honor and shame from no condition rise;
Act well thy part! There all the honor lies."

CLINE-MARTIN WEDDING

In a twilight candelight ceremony at the Pelham Methodist Church, Wednesday, July 23, Miss Mary Lee Cline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cline of Helena and Dolphus Lester Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvle Martin of Calera were united in marriage.

Rev. Willard Jones was the officiating minister. The wedding music was presented by Mrs. Hubert Pool, pianist. Mrs. Vance McCauley soloist. Decorations included banked greenery with branched candelebra and floor baskets of white gladioli. The candles were lighted by Carolyn Barton and Bobbye Lou Gillespie.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white ballerina length lace gown with bodice coming to a point in the back and the sleeves forming a point at the wrist. Her fingertip illusion veil fell from a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a white prayer book marked with white orchids and tuberoses.

Miss Jean Cline, her sister, served as maid of honor. Her gown was pink embroidered organdy and she carried a nosegay of blue carnations.

Curtis Cofer served as best man. Ushers were Vance McCauley and Archie Martin.

When the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to points in Florida, the bride wore an aqua dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Martin will be at home in Alabaster.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Hall Allen, Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Smith, Mrs. Burkett, Ralph Gillespie, Mrs. Clyde Gillespie, Linda Gillespie, and Mrs. Jimmy Rimmal of Warrior.

. . . We are delighted to have the privilege of placing Mrs. Marianna Davis' name on our ever widening subscription list. She has spent the summer months at her home in Columbiana, but will return to Munford in September where she holds a teaching position in the High School.

. . . Mrs. Eula Carter, Mrs. J. D. Baker, Miss Renna Taylor, Mrs. C. L. Waters, Miss Zada Taylor, Mrs. Georgia Strickland, and Mrs. Joe Johnson (the seven Taylor sisters, formerly of Wilsonville), held a family reunion at the home of Mrs .Carter last Sunday. This was the first time in many years these sisters had been together, and it was a joyous occasion.

. . . Edmondson's Cafe, every hour of the day, the clock 'round seems to me is about the busiest place on Main. Mr. and Mrs. Edmondson are accommodating to the nth degree. They believe in giving customers exactly what they want, when they want it, and if it is possible, this is the service they render them, day in, day out. Personally, we have many kindnesses rendered us by the Edmondson's for which we are duly grateful. Seems like sometimes, they even anticipate my wants, before I realize it myself. For instance, one hectic day, a frozen coke was waiting for me on my desk. Another time, the water cooler needed scalding and refilling with ice, and pronto, the Edmondson's were responsible for this getting done. It is just another example of little kindnesses along the way, that often change a fellow's entire outlook, and we are glad we happen to be commercially located right next door to such fine neighbors. Here is another tip about the Edmondsons, you may leave your orders for home-made cakes and pies, and they will be most satisfactorily filled. Try it, if you doubt this statement.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK SLOAN ENTERTAIN FOR ANITA SLOAN

Personable four year old Anita Sloan was honoree last Friday in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sloan when she shared her fourth birthday anniversary with her playmates. The scene of this happy party was the spacious lawn around the Sloan home and when some forty of fifty little folk get together in various formations at these out door functions, the lawn suddenly becomes alive and looks more like a colorful flower garden. Frilly little organdy dressed future belles mingling with the white trousered and sport shirted future beaux.

Nothing more fascinating to watch than these birthday parties. Anita proved a charming little hostess and all enjoyed the beautifully embossed birthday cake made by her grand mother, Mrs. Nona Seale, with individual replicas to match, served with ice cream and punch throughout the afternoon.

Gigantic ballons were given the little guests as favors. Remembrances for Anita presented by her guests attested her popularity among them.

We are a bit late with our good wishes for 'Nita, but they are none the less sincere for this unavoidable, apparent, delinquency. So, many, many happy returns Little One of this wonderfully lucky day that brought you our way.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mrs. William Lee and Mrs. Coy Stone entertained with a birthday dinner for Mrs. Claude Heaton on Sunday, July 20 at the home of Mrs. Lee.

Lunch was spread under trees at the noon hour, pictures were taken. Those present included:

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Heaton, Mr. and Mrs. William Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mooney and daughter Patricia, Miss Myrtle Lyons, Mrs. Mary Stone, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Glover, Mrs. R. E. Butler, Mrs. W. T. Seale, Miss Betty Rose Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Coy Stone and daughter Carolyn.

. . . Watch next week's issue of Reporter-Democrat which will contain many advertisements carrying congratulations to the Town Officials for procuring Gas for Columbiana, and dealers will be presenting their appliances for your approval. All types of Gas Appliances will be featured so that you may be "laying them away" and have them delivered when cold weather comes along.

SCRIPTURE: I Samuel 4:1b—8:22; 12:14-25.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Proverbs 3:1-12.

Consecrated Genius

Lesson for August 3, 1952

ONCE IN A WHILE men are born who have more careers than one. Thomas Jefferson was architect, educator, lawyer, writer, executive; Samuel F. B. Morse was a painter and also the inventor of the telegraph; Theodore Roosevelt was a man so many-sided that some one has written an amusing article showing that several thousands of years from now, scholars might easily conclude that T. Roosevelt was not one man but several different men with the same name.

Dr. Foreman

Many-Sided Man

SAMUEL WAS ONE of these many-sided men. We call him Samuel the prophet, but we could just as well call him judge, priest, preacher, general writer and king-maker.

He was a prophet, for the people who knew him turned to him when they wanted to know what God thought. We can call him a preacher, for we know of one very successful revival which he conducted (I Sam. 7). He was also what we call a circuit judge, going from town to town to hold court. He was a successful general, for we know he not only advised military leaders but took the lead in raising an army himself and directing it in a successful campaign.

He was a priest, not only in a formal way, offering sacrifices at various places; but he also once said a memorable thing which marks him as a priest in the truest sense: "Ye have done all this wickedness, yet . . . God forbid that I should sin against you in ceasing to pray for you." (Chap. 12.)

He was a writer, for though he could not have written both books that bear his name, he did write "the manner of the Kingdom"—perhaps a kind of constitution. And next week's study will show him as king-maker.

• • •

No Dictator

THE MANY-SIDED MAN, the man of many talents, always has one great temptation: to be a dictator. It isn't bad people who become dictators; it isn't the weak; it is the strong and able.

A very able president, for instance, will take it on himself to run the State department and any other departments that specially interest him; in a small town a many-sided man may be superintendent of the mill, chairman of the school board, chief deacon in the church, superintendent of the Sunday school, major and postmaster besides.

It is not alone in public that the dictator flourishes. Sometimes in a home the father, or the mother, will be so energetic and brainy that he (or she) finds it much easier to do things than to wait for the children to do them, or to teach the children how it is done.

Now the prophet Samuel, who towered high above the average man of his country, must have been tempted to be a dictator.

Samuel perhaps could have done it all, but he knew when to retire from the foreground.

Public Spirit

SAMUEL himself is a model for all the many-gifted men who reach and deserve positions of power. He never milked the people for his own benefit; he never used public office for private gain. (With one sad exception; he kept his worthless sons on the public pay-roll.) He was a man of true public spirit.

This means two things, and Samuel had them both. One is a wide vision: being able to see all sides of a question, and to see not only his own advantage, but how decisions and policies affect all kinds of persons.

Most politicians will have at heart the interests of their own little bailiwick; how many have the interests of the nation at heart?

Public spirit means wide vision, it means a wide concern, not only seeing but caring. In an election year, when politicians are clamoring at us from all sides, we may well inquire about every candidate: Does this man have any resemblance to God's man Samuel? Does he have a sense of responsibility to God? Does he have a wide vision, a wide concern? Whose side is he on? Is he out for himself, or for God and the whole people?

Good Morning

By Milton Bird

Cpl. Clarence R. Seale Jr.
Hunter Air Force Base
Savannah, Georgia

Dear Bobby:

I saw George Bates on the street today. You don't remember George. He came along The Old Street when you were wearing square pants. But your Pop will remember him. He used to look after my golden grain, on the school bus, and on the ball diamonds, when your Pop and I were getting guys out all the way from Sterrett to Boothton. One day Skinney tried to take some of my golden grain and George bounced a spike off his head. He bled like a stuck pig, but George just kept on holding my tobacco. I asked George about it today. He just grinned.

But that was a far away yesterday. In the twilight of one war and the dawning of another, when folks had time for fun and laughter. I wish there had been twenty years between again. So guys like you could have played baseball and chased after dimples and calico in the moonlight. Maybe someday we can have prosperity with out war, and peace without a depression. And folks won't have to trade all the fine young boys in the world for a chance to have plenty to eat and something decent to wear. I guess we need more of the Job in us, and less of the Ceasar.

The lovelies are still playing soft ball. But the guys don't play afterward anymore. An old grandstand can look mighty naked with just a few ants and two or three crickets running up and down the long seats under the glare of lights. So now when the gals call in the hounds the hunt's over and we all get home the best we can. But no more getting home like a wet rag for me. I left thirty bucks in the big town and came home with a new pair of specs. Now I can do more and better looking and still manage enough energy to get home.

I had a run-in with Cupid this week. I wrestle the little guy several times every day anyhow, in one fashion or another. I found out long ago that Skillett wouldn't have a pile of money so I settled for loveliness instead. And it's strange how much better you feel with your eyes full of loveliness than with your pockets full of dough. It hurts your eyes maybe, but it makes your heart feel good; and the stores don't sell anything in bottles or cans that'll do this. Jane Joiner was three, and she and her mommy were sending out invitations to her birthday party. Jane is like a maple leaf in October. Did you ever look at a maple leaf in October? It's about the prettiest sight you'll ever see. It grabs hold of your heart and gives a little tug. So I started right away figuring some way I could get in on the fun. Late that afternoon I sent up a big top, from Leon Meyer's Store, with a card wishing her a happy birthday and sort of hinting at the way my heart was pounding. So her Pop brought her in the next day and she covered me up with sweet talk and pretty smiles. Yep, you feel a lot better with your eyes full of loveliness than with your pockets full of dough.

The weather here is the hottest thing that's loped over Dixie since Sherman whistled in his lieutenants and called it quits. When we come in out of the sun now we fan the seats of our pants before we sit down. One guy didn't and we led him home in a barrel. The kids were tickled pink over his plight. They haven't had so much fun since the circus used to come to Main with the elephant and the brass band and the monkeys. And right in the middle of the hottest day we've had I wrote a letter to Santa Claus. I asked him to let me be in the ninth grade this winter, in a seat right in front of Myra Sue Davis. Because there just couldn't be any way for a day to be dull and dreary with a girl as pretty as Myra sitting behind you with her soft talk and her dimples and her big dancing eyes. Yesterday I was in the ninth grade, and the girl behind me was a lot like Myra. But yesterday, sometimes, is a far piece. They've paved the streets and lighted the town and torn down the wooden stores since yesterday. But I'd still like a seat in front of Myra for Christmas. It would be worth the lamps and the mud and the splinters to see a pretty face where your arithmatic problems ought to be, and big laughing eyes between the lines of Hiawatha.

They've paved the Shelby road and your folks are out of the dust. It took a long time, and forty-eight feet of slag, but they've done it. I passed there yesterday and your folks were sitting out in the yard without dust in their eyes. They seemed mighty happy. If you see Earl Wood give him my very best regards, and tell him the cat is hopping high.

DRESS AND GROOMING FOR BOYS AND MEN

Marian Cotney, Home Agent

Helpful Hints for the Tall, Thin Man

1. Don't wear stripes. They make you taller.
2. Checks of average size are good.
3. Rough tweeds are good and materials with a fuzzy finish tend to make the figure heavier.
4. Avoid stripes in ties.
5. High collars are more becoming than low ones.
6. Soft collars are appropriate for most occasions except formal ones.
7. Contrast of colors in shoes and suit will make the figure appear heavier.
8. Avoid wearing raglan sleeve overcoats.
9. Slip-over sweaters are not for dress wear.
10. Short bow or string tie is good.
11. Double-breasted effects in coats are very good.
12 Overcoats with set in sleeves are good, they broaden the shoulders.

Helpful Hints For The Short, Stout Man

1. Don't wear large checks.
2. Don't wear double-breasted coats.
3. Don't wear light shoes with dark suit or vice-versa, as this shortens the figure.
4. Don't wear turn-down brim hats.
5. Don't wear a sharp contrast in color in hat and hat band.
6. Don't wear flare or flared trousers.
7. Wear a collar to suit the contours of your face; with a short fat neck wear a narrow collar.
8. Don't wear short bow ties; instead wear four-in-hand of solid colors of stripes or slendering designs.
9. Dou't wear stick pins in your ties. These are long out of date.
10. A tie clip is good.
11. Don't wear loud shirts. They draw attention to your shortness.
12. Don't wear rough, fuzzy material in your suits, instead wear smooth finish materials.
13. Raglan sleeves in overcoat especially good for shoulders that are too broad.

When using fresh fruits in salads, marinate in the dressing as soon as they are cut, or squeeze lemon juice over them to prevent discoloration.

State 4-H Short Course Held At Auburn

Joyce King,
Vincent 4-H Club

"Believe me a trip to Auburn for The State 4-H Short Course is really worth working for! It was by far my most enjoyable trip. The 4-H boys and girls that visited Auburn were the friendliest people that I have ever met. I felt at home every minute and certainly had no time to get homesick.

The Dress Revue was the most important and delightful part of the week. I was overjoyed when the announcement was made that I was Alternate State Winner and also proud that my county was among the top state winners. I learned that it is the project record that is kept year after year that really counts in winning a State Award. Don't say "I'd never get anywhere." Have you really tried?"

The most enjoyable part of the camp was the Talent Contest. Alabama 4-H boys and girls are talented! I shall always remember the beautiful Candle Lighting Ceremony. If I could make a wish for every 4-H boy and girl it would be that someday each one would be able to go to the State Camp.

Along with the good times at Auburn, we had some business meetings that would be important to every citizen in our country. Perhaps the most significant was the Safety Meeting. We sang Safety Songs to the tune of familiar songs. Miss Stella Mitchell, Home Management Specialist, gave a demonstration "A Basket of Safety Tricks." She stressed the ABC's of Safety.... Always Be Careful. The most important points of her demonstration were: (1) Study Accident Hazards, (2) Remove accident hazards, (3) Be alert.

Miss Mitchell demonstrated many everyday safety precautions such as using only safe bottle openers, cutting away from you with a butcher knife, placing sharpening stone on a cloth to prevent slipping, keeping knives in a knife rack and never loose in a drawer, sticking an ice pick in cork. Vegetables tongs will prevent our fingers from being burned. Another handy utensil to have in the kitchen is a pair of pliers. Surely we all know better than to turn the handles of saucepans on the stove to the front where anyone might bump into them.

Another point that was stressed was that the cook should dress for safety. She should not wear frilly dresses and aprons with big bows which might catch on something.

Throw rugs are often accident hazards, but they need not be. Fruit jar rings sewed on the bottom of the rugs will prevent this hazard. All poisons should be labelled with red paint. Light cords should have hand holds so the wires won't wear or pull out. A group of Calhoun county boys and girls gave a skit on Highway Safety pertaining to rural children riding school buses. They pointed out that a good rider always: (1) Stands back from the edge of road while waiting for school bus, (2) Waits until the bus stops, gets on and sits down immediately, (3) Keeps hands and arms away from open windows, (4) Keeps his seat and is not noisy, (5) Take his turn when getting off bus.

July 20-26 should have been an important week to everyone because it was Farm Safety Week.

A certain type accident was to be prevented each day; Monday, Home Safety; Tuesday, Livestock Safety; Wednesday, Fall Prevention; Thursday, Highway Safety; Friday, Machinery Safety; Saturday, Review Day.

We learned that farm machinery can be very dangerous. The dangerous part should be painted a contrasting color as a warning. There is room for only one person on a tractor, the driver.

Steps and stairs should be kept clear, always! The top and bottom basements steps should always be painted white.

Dairy Farmers Economic Problems

Dairy farms are the first line of the nation's defense. With government authorities asking for greater production as costs keep rising, dairy farms face a serious economic "squeeze." In the interest of national welfare the spotlight of public attention should be turned on the economic problems of the milk producer.

"Dairy farmers operate on a small margin always," says Owen Richards, general manager of the American Dairy Association, "and milk production involves great risk and large investment. It involves greater hazards than most other businesses. Dairying faces the ordinary economic risks and uncertainties of the market and it is also subject to the natural calamities of drought, hail, floods, or disastrous snows. Come drought or high-water cows must be milked daily and the milk marketed. The milk factory can't be switched off like an industrial plant or the fresh milk put in storage warehouses.

"Costs of milk production have increased but the price of milk to the consumer is less than the 'all foods' averages. The price of labor has gone up. Expensive new machinery must be purchased if the milk supply is to be increased. The milk farmer is stretching the ends of his rope to make them meet.

"As costs of milk production have kept going up many farmers have sold cows or turned to beef raising which requires less care. Farmers are paying up to $325 for average milk cows, and more for mixed dairy feed. If milk prices had increased as much as wages in most sections milk would cost a lot more per quart.

"Milk is vital to the national defense, health, wealth and security. If the dairy farmer is to be kept in business, his increased costs must be balanced by increased returns, just as in any other business. And if the nation needs an increased milk supply serious attention must be given to the economic situation of the dairy farmer."

IF THE HOME FREEZER SHOULD STOP RUNNING

What to do when the home freezer stops running is a very important matter.

"If it stops and the current will be off for some time," says Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist, "there are several precautions that will keep food from spoiling."

First, keep the freezer closed. If the box is filled, food will remain frozen for three or four days, depending upon the size of the freezer. If the box is not repaired in that length of time, move food to a locker plant. Of course, dry ice added to the freezer will prevent food from thawing.

Olive oil or salad oil will not turn rancid if you will add a pinch of sugar to the oil as soon as it is opened.

By heating lemons in the oven before using, much more juice can be obtained.

TRACE MINERALS NO BRUCELLOSIS CURE

Widespread claims that the feeding of trace minerals will prevent or cure brucellosis in animals or undulant fever in man have been proven false by controlled experiments.

J. R. Parrish, API Extension dairyman, says scientiests at the University of Wisconsin found that natural feeds given the cattle in the experiments contained all required trace minerals. Inasmuch as the animals could not use additional amounts, feeding trace minerals wasted materials and time; trace minerals did not influence the susceptibility of cattle to brucellosis or lessen its effects when the diseases was established, and feeding of trace minerals did not shorten the course of the disease.

Parrish adds that feeding of trace minerals to cattle is not given a blanket condemnation by the committee of scientists, however. There are some instances where such mineral feeding is desirable from a nutritional standpoint, but not for its effect on brucellosis.

NOW IS A GOOD TIME TO KILL POND WEEDS

Summer is an excellent time to get rid of pond weeds, such as cattails and water lillies, according to Earl Kennamer, API Extension fish and wildlife specialist.

They can be controlled by spraying them with a strong ester type of 2, 4-D on the exposed leaf surface. Mix one cup of 2, 4-D in five gallons of kerosene or diesel fuel. Apply on hot, sunshiny days when no breeze is blowing. Repeat spray application when new gowth appears.

When preparing bacon, place in a flat, shallow pan and cook in the oven. It will crisp more evenly than in a frying pan. Drain at once.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY
American Foundation For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT BRUCELLOSIS?

Q: Are swine brucellosis and cattle brucellosis caused by the same germs?

A: No, though the germs are closely related.

Q: Can swine brucellosis appear in human beings, too?

A: Yes, in humans it is called undulant fever. Farmers can get the disease when handling infected animals at farrowing time or by contact with infected meat at butchering time.

Q: How does swine brucellosis act?

A: It may cause brood sows to farrow stillborn or weak pigs. The germ may also cause damage to boars.

Q: How can the owner be sure the trouble is brucellosis and not some other breeding disease?

A: The only way is to have a veterinarian check the herd and take blood samples for laboratory tests.

Q: If brucellosis is found, what can be done?

A: If the infected herd is a commercial one, infected breeding stock should be finished and sent to slaughter. In cases where the owner wants to preserve breeding lines, the pigs should be segregated at weaning time. Pigs from infected sows can be kept on clean ground and given periodic blood tests to weed out diseased animals.

Q: How can pig raisers keep this disease out of their herds?

A: Breeding stock should be bought only from herds known to be free of brucellosis. If in doubt, owners should isolate newly purchased animals and have them blood tested.

Q: Can brucellosis be cured?

A: No known drug or combination of drugs will cure brucellosis in swine.

WHEELED TABLE MAKES HOUSEKEEPING EASIER

It's not so much the work as the walking that wears many women out during a cleaning job, according to Stella Mitchell, API Extension home management specialist.

She points out that running back and forth for utensils and supplies adds weary mileage to any job, and it often interrupts the work so much that nervous tension is built up.

"But the cure for back-tracking is simple," says Miss Mitchell. "Plan the job in advance so that it fits into the day's schedule. Then assemble all utensils and supplies for it on a wheeled table or cart that can roll from place to place as it is needed. If a sturdy cart with two shelves is used, it can carry not only small items, such as soap, brushes, cloths, and sponges, but two pails of water for washing and rinsing and the vacuum cleaner as well. By having supplies at a convenient level, lifting and stooping as well as back-tracking are avoided."

HOG CARE DURING HOT, DRY MONTHS

Temperatures of hogs often rise to 105° Fahrenheit or higher if shade isn't provided for them during hot summer days.

"Of course," says G. B. Phillips, API Extension hog production specialist, "these high temperatures knock out appetites and, in turn, upset money-making possibilities."

The specialist adds that shade and plenty of clean, fresh drinking water are the cheapest things hog producers can give their pigs. Brush arbors in corn fields provide good shade. And it should be remembered, says Phillips, that thirsty shotes at a dry watering trough are costing their owners real money.

PLEASE, MR. SUN

"Please, Mr. Sun, shine down on me," says this pretty young lady in Dudley Casuals' halter dress of the season's most sensational fabric—denim. According to the National Cotton Council, nothing hurts old friend denim. It can be thrown in the washer, squeezed, wrung, hung or tied in knots and still come through in good shape!

In making dark cakes, especially jam cakes, coffee may be substituted for milk, giving a delightfully different flavor.

Use muffin tins for baking apples, stuffed peppers, tomatoes, etc. They will keep their shape better.

Stevenson-Sparkman Ticket Chosen

had the right to participate.

After considerable parliamentary and oratorical confusion, Gov. John Battle of Virginia made a short, sensible address in which he explained why Virginia would not sign the loyalty pledge. It was a matter of principle, he said, and added that Virginia state laws require that the party nominees be placed on the ballot in the state.

The motion that followed asked that since Governor Battle, in expressing his opinions, had subscribed to the sense and spirit of the loyalty pledge, Virginia be allowed to take its seat officially.

The roll call vote on that motion was a study in confusion, with the balance shifting back and forth. Many states changed their votes as the roll call went on, altering from a stand against seating the delegation to a position in favor of it. Final count was 615 in favor of officially seating Virginia to 529 against.

Interjected at this point was another savage struggle that arose over a motion to adjourn by Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois. Douglas and Senator Kefauver wanted to get away from it all in order to regroup their forces in an effort to get their "stop Stevenson" drive rolling. In that sense, the following roll call was a decisive and accurate test of strength between the Kefauver and Stevenson groups.

The motion that finally went to another bone-wearying roll call vote was to table Douglas' motion to adjourn. Final vote was 671 to 523 to table the motion — a defeat for Kefauver.

Then the wrangle over seating the South Carolina and Louisiana delegations began, with Gov. James Byrnes of South Carolina butting heads with Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, one of the young liberals who were espousing the Moody resolution.

Standing Vote

In the end, Chairman Rayburn, a tough and incisive parliamentarian, gavelled through a motion to seat the two disputed delegations on the strength of a somewhat indecisive standing vote. Rayburn had had his instructions and obviously was determined to push through the seating of the delegations in order to bring harmony back to the strife-torn party and clear the way for the presidential balloting Friday.

A field of 11 nominees entered the lists—Stevenson, Kefauver, Russell, Harriman, Kerr, and Barkley, who had been nominated Thursday despite his previous withdrawal from the race, were the major contenders. Favorite sons were Gov. Paul Dever of Massachusetts, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Sen. William Fullbright of Arkansas, Oscar Ewing, and Senator Murray of Montana.

First Ballot

The seemingly interminable first ballot, marked by the droning polls of 11 delegations, concluded with Kefauver holding 340 votes, Russell 268, Stevenson 273, Harriman 123½, and Barkley 48½.

By the end of the second ballot, Kefauver, with 362½, had gained 22½ votes, but Stevenson's total had jumped to 324½. Harriman retained 121, including 84½ from the New York delegation which was biding its time, Barkley went up to 73½, and Senator Kerr of Oklahoma was hopelessly out of it with 5½ votes.

The lightning struck on the third ballot—time of day: 8:59 p.m. Immediate cause of the swing to Stevenson, which left Kefauver backers stunned and helpless, was Harriman's announcement that he was withdrawing and was urging his supporters in the New York delegation to cast their votes for the Illinois governor.

When the call of the states was completed, Stevenson had 613 of the required 615½ votes for a majority. However, many states began calling for recognition to change their votes for Stevenson. Utah was the first recognized, and with its 12 votes in the Stevenson column the deed was done.

Platform Adopted

One of the surprises of the convention was the fact that the party's platform, containing its controversial civil rights clause, was adopted by the convention without even a vestige of a floor fight. The party leaders in Chicago had done their work well in smoothing over a threatened factional split before the platform was presented to the convention.

In general, the Democrats were pleased with the platform to which they promised to adhere. The civil rights plank was surprisingly strong, calling for a Fair Employment Practices Commission, although not spelled out by that title.

The pithy portion of the plank reads: "At the same time, we favor Federal legislation effectively to secure these rights to everyone: the right to equal opportunity for employment; the right to security of persons; the right to full and equal participation in the Nation's political life. . . . We also favor legislation to perfect existing Federal civil rights statutes . . ."

Following the other generally established policy lines of the present Democratic administration, the platform called for a continuation of the principle of collective security in conjunction with other free nations of the world, as well as support of the United Nations and a strong system of national defense.

The platform also pledges the Democrats to combat inflation by means of the pay-as-you-go income tax plan and by economic controls "so long as the emergency requires them."

Barkley's Ovation

As is the custom at national political conventions, there were plenty of ovations for party leaders who found their way to the platform on one pretext or another. The biggest of these, offered by the Democrats this year went justifiably enough to Vice President Alben Barkley when he strode to the front of the platform for his Wednesday night fighting speech.

In a magnificent example of extemporaneous oratory — he didn't use a note—Barkley spoke brilliantly for almost an hour, defining the spiritual values and attributes of his party as he has seen and felt them during 40 years of service. He pulled a sagging convention back together and gave every person in the hall some sense of the true if underlying meaning of American politics.

It was entirely to his credit that he let absolutely no note of vindictiveness against the men who had forced him out of the race creep into his speech.

FIVE MONTEVALLO DISTRICT EMPLOYEES GET SERVICE AWARDS AT SAFETY MEETING RECENTLY

Service Awards were presented to five Montevallo District employees of the Alabama Power Company at the last safety meeting, July 14, 1952, by Mr. H. Maulshagen, Division Vice President. These awards are presented to employees for each five years of service or a multiple of five years of service in recognition of continuous service with the Company.

J. F. Thompson, local manager at Columbiana, who received a 30 year award was originally employed in construction work with the Company and transferred to the operating department at the time the Alabama Power Company's service was extended to Columbiana in 1925.

The Montevallo District includes most of Shelby, all of Bibb and a portion of Chilton and Tuscaloosa county. At the present time, there are approximately 10,700 retail customers in the District and approximately 1100 miles of rural line.

Pictured above are employees who received the Service Awards. From right to left: Gene Clowdus, lineman at West Blocton, 10 years; J. L. Thomas, line crew foreman at Montveallo, 15 years; Mr. H. Maulshagen, Division Vice President, who presented the awards; L. L. Barton, local manager at Alabaster, 15 years; J. F. Thompson, local manager at Columbiana, 30 years service award. Mrs. Willie Faye Bradley, cashier at Columbiana, not shown in the picture, received a 5 year service award.

The first telegraph system in Alabama provided service between Montgomery, Cahaba, Mobile and New Orleans. The system was chartered by the legislature March 3, 1848.

'TO BOLT OR NOT TO BOLT'

"To bolt or not to bolt," seems to be the question of paramount importance to certain political minded citizens, heretofore known as staunch Democrats. However, before taking this fatal side-step and casting your vote against the Democratic nominees, do you not think it would be wise to take a look back thru the years— then weigh the present day advantages under a Democratic regime? Then, take a peek into the future— as far as is possible— and make an inventory of the good and bad features under the Republican and Democratic administrations— tabulate the debits and credits— profits and losses— and then— strike your balances and see which has been more profitable for all concerned?

I believe Party affiliation should mean something to each individual comprising that Party. You surely advocated the principles upon which the Democratic Party is founded when you joined that Party! Are those principles not worth preserving? Have you ever heard of the South gaining one single thing under a Republican administration? But, on the other hand— can't you right now sit down and "count your many blessings" under a Democratic regime?

We have reached a critical period in our nation's history— and grave issues now confront our leaders. It seems to me that it behooves every loyal Democrat to remain true to his colors, his leaders and his Party. Fact is, when you entered the May and June Primaries, you stated, by your vote, that you would support the nominees of the Democratic Party. Do not lightly disregard this pledge! The responsibility of a continuance of your chosen Party in Washington rests directly on the cross mark you will make on November 4, 1952. Think carefully before making it— lest future years bring you the wish to trade just any "Tomorrow" for one "Yesterday". The Donkey is a patient little beast and he has never failed you. Better stay hitched to something that has proved he can take you there and bring you back. Glancing at the other steed on which is mounted, I grant you, a colorful figure and a great American General— there is still doubt about whether this pachaderm is going or coming. You cannot tell by the excess baggage he carries around.

I am sure of one thing, General Ike has undertaken the toughest assignment of his entire military career and a super tactical maneuver will be required if he successfully charges into tthe Democratic lines down South. Personally, I do not believe he and his ponderous steed can make it. First of all, he will have to travel the shadowed pathways left in memoryland by Hoover and Harding, when cotton sold for five cents a pound and shelled corn for 25 cents per bushel. The farmers have not forgotten! Business men have not forgotten! Bankers have reason to remember the near panic caused, before a Democratic President stepped on the podium and and closed the doors of all banks until proper adjustments could be made, and confidence restored.

The Democratic records are not perfect by any manner of means— but when comparisons are made— and actual facts and figures are faced— and verified— that tried and true little beast— known as the Democratic Donkey, still looks good to me. He has maneuvered around and brought us better living conditions; better farms; better homes; better markets; better salaries; less fear for the future in social security payments. All these things total up a sum that out-weighs the unfortunate mistakes we may have made.

Do not retard or hinder the future progress, success and happiness of the Party of your own choosing. To vote is your heritage, but a great responsibility rests on your shoulders when you fail to cast it for the greatest good to the greatest number.

MAID OF COTTON CONTEST HERE UNDERWAY

The Shelby County Farm Bureau in cooperation with the Extension Service of Shelby County is again sposoring the Maid of Cotton Contest in Shelby County. The exact date for this has not been announced, but will be held during the week of the Shelby County Fair. This program is put on for the purpose of promoting the production and use of cotton. Alabama has received National recognition for its cotton promotion program and contributed much to the high position which cotton now occupies. Shelby county wants to do her part again.

Shelby County Civic Clubs, Culture Clubs, Garden Clubs, and Home Demonstration clubs are receiving this week General Qualifications and Policies for all contestants that they will sponsor in this contest. The contestant must be 5 ft., 5 inches tall, be in perfect health, be unmarried (never have been married) and be between the ages of 19 and 25 inclusive, and have been born in a cotton growing state. (By being 19, it is meant that the contestant be aged 19 on or before December 15, 1952). Two recent black and white photographs, (8 x 10 glossy prints preferred) one in a full length and the other a picture of tthe head and shoulders must accompany applications to enter the county contest. This will be the third year that Shelby county has sponsored this worthwhile event, and it has been better each year. Begin working on your contestant now and details will be sent you this week.

DONALD BRADLEY TO ATTEND 4-H FORESTRY CAMP AT CAMP MAC

Donald Bradley, of Chelsea, Alabama, has been selected to attend the 4-H Forestry Camp at Camp Mac, near Talladega, early in August.

In making the announcement, W. M. Clark, assistant county agent, said Donald was awarded the trip because of his excellent 4-H work in forestry, and leadership in the county 4-H council.

Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Bradley.

While at Camp Mac, Donald is to be the guest of the Alabama Power Company. He will be at the camp from August 4 to 8 studying all phases of farm woodland management.

Camp activities are directed by I. R. Martin, forester Hanchey Logue, state 4-H leader, and E. F. Kennamer, fish and wildlife specialist, all of the API Extension Service, Auburn.

At the camp 67 4-H boys ... one from each Alabama county, are to be instructed by professionally trained foresters in timber management marketing, and harvesting, as well as in three planting and identification, safety, and forest fire control. In addition, the youngsters will learn to trap game animals, identify fish and snakes, and receive instruction in casting and fly fishing from Charles Kelley, of Wetumpka, noted tournament casting champion and executive secretary of the Alabama Wildlife Federation.

The 4-H Forestry Camp is sponsored by the Alabama Power Company and administered by the API Extension Service to increase the knowledge of farm boys as to the part their woodlands play in furnishing raw materials for Alabama's 450-million-dollar wood-using industry, the third largest industry in the state.

Luther Fowler Day Observed By Methodist Sunday School Aug. 3

Mildred White Wallace

> "His life was gentle, and the elements
> So mixed in him that Nature might stand up
> And say to all the world 'This was a man!' "

LUTHER FOWLER

A man who has led such an exemplary life as has Luther Fowler, richly deserves the recognition accorded him Sunday, August 3, in the Methodist Church in Columbiana, when "Luther Fowler Day" was observed.

Karl C. Harrison, speaking for the Bible Class (which Mr. Fowler teaches), and members of the Methodist Church, on this occasion, revealed the following facts regarding this widely beloved Christian gentleman.

Mr. Fowler was born in Blount county in 1880. He was graduated from Albertville High School and completed his college course at Auburn, after which time, he accepted a position as instructor of History in Alabama College where he remained for seven years.

Following this successful venture in educational circles, Mr. Fowler returned to Albertville and entered the newspaper profession. His first assignment— "Editor of the Marshall Banner", which position he held for three years. Seeking a wider field for advancement in the field of journalism, Mr. Fowler went to Talladega, Alabama, and purchased "The Talladega Reporter," where he remained until 1923, when he came to make his future home in Columbiana and continue his newspaper career. He organized, published and edited "The Shelby County Reporter"— with the slogan, "The Home Paper" quickly becoming a familiar household word.

Shelby county people soon recognized in this brilliant, scholarly gentleman, one who was destined to fill an important place in the lives and hearts of the people of his adopted county, and in 1934, elected him Tax Assessor of Shelby County, which position he has capably filled since that time.

Mr. Harrison stated, in his talk, that the Columbiana Methodist Sunday School and Church was exceptionally blessed in having so outstanding a teacher as Mr. Fowler, who, he stated, was "ably qualified to teach a Bible Class in any Sunday School in this Nation."

Mr. Fowler, early in life joined the Methodist Church, and with his rare gift for leadership quickly became a moving power in each community he lived. Mr. Harrison told the writer that Mr. Fowler possessed the rare gift of "making every bibical character become alive". They are so real in character portrayal in fact, that after listening to these inspiring lectures each Sunday morning, one truly feels as if he had been guided and inspired by their lives.

Mr. Harrison further stated that Mr. Fowler, who was elected Treasurer of the Building Fund for the Methodist Church, which was begun in 1932, had contributed more toward building the new church than any other layman. His unswerving faith surmounting every obstacle that retarded the movement. Throughout all the years of discouragement, when interest subsided, Mr. Fowler kept the candle of Hope burning brightly. His confidence in the people of this church never for one moment failed.

The completed Church stands today a memorial to Mr. Fowler's courageous leadership and to all those who served with him on this magnificent undertaking.

Members of the Men's Bible Class of this church honor him. They have had the privilege of listening to his interpretation of the scriptures in his own inimitable and reverent manner since 1947, and each individual member appreciates and reveres him.

Mr. Fowler married Miss Elsie Murphree in Albertville, soon after their High School days, and the writer of this sketch about Luther Fowler, can tell you that one day— (since our paths have been happily travelled in parallel lines)— we asked him "what day of all days he regarded as the 'luckiest' of his whole life?" Quick as a wink came his answer, "The day I married Mrs. Fowler"!

Now, if you knew Lady Fowler as we have had the privilege of knowing her and being daily associated with her, you would realize this statement is fully justified in the gracious personality known and loved by a host of friends and affectionately called "Lady Fowler". It can truthfully be said, "those who know her best— love her most."

In thinking of the life of Luther Fowler, as far as we are concerned, we know of no more typical example of Kipling's "IF"— than this gentleman we have been writing about this morning. Read it and see if you do not agree with me that this immortal poet, might well have woven these memorable words around the life our own "Luther Fowler."

FARMER HEARS FROM POTATOES HE SOLD

A farmer in Marshall county, who was shipping potatoes inserted a note in an Irish Potato asking that the one who bought it let him know the price he paid for it. Some days later he received a letter from a man in Ohio stating the price he paid for it was 7 cents a pound. The farmer had sold them for 3½ cents per pound.

POSTOFFICE MOVES INTO NEW QUARTERS

The Columbiana Postoffice is now in its new quarters in the Gordon building, across from the courthouse. The fixtures are all new and modern and every convenience for handling the mails has been provided. In addition to providing handsome fixtures, Mr. Gordon, with his usual thoroughness, has greatly improved the appearance of the building. There is not in all the state, perhaps, a

NOW IS THE TIME TO 'SIGN UP' FOR CITY GAS

Many residents of Columbiana have already signed up for Gas installations in the homes of Columbiana. Those interested in putting in this heat for the winter, who have not signed up for same, had better immediately contact a member of the City Council or its clerk, Cecil Duke.

W. L. LAWLER

MEMBER CENTRAL STATE BANK BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Reporter-Democrat takes pride in presenting W. L. Lawler who resides on Montevallo Road, and owns extensive farm interests in Shelby county. Mr. Lawler has recently been elected a Member of the Board of Directors of the Central State Bank of Calera.

He formerly resided in Birmingham and was affiliated with the Lawley Machine & Foundry Company. However, Mr. Lawler is rapidly taking his place in Shelby county's industrial and agricultural circles now, and is interested in the progress of the livestock business in this county. He is Treasurer of the Shelby County Cattleman's Association.

In addition to the above activities, Mr. Lawler is a Methodist by profession of faith; a Mason and a public spirited citizen whom Shelby county is glad to claim, even for part-time activities.

Other Directors of the Central State Bank with whom Mr. Lawler will be associated include: C. D. Cowart, Sol Baer, Roy Downs and J. S. Pilgreen.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY J. T. JONES

J. T. Jones, announces that the Western Auto Associate Store in Columbiana is no longer the representative of the Western Union for receiving and delivering telegrams. They have made other arrangements for thtits business in the future.

CENTRAL STATE BANK

This progressive bank in Calera has now passed the million dollar mark in its resources. Its facilities are keeping stride with the growth of the community in every way. Personnel has been added, air conditioning installed, new decorations and fixtures are to be seen. Central State Bank is really trying to live by its solgan "A Good Bank Serving Central Alabama."

S. C. S. Annual Tour Made To Thorsby

August 1, was a big day for the North Central Soil Conservation District, when district supervisors and guests met at the Thorsby Soil Conservation Nursery for a field day, climaxed with a barbecue.

R. O. Williams, District Supervisor and Crawford Young, Nursery manager, were in charge of the occasion. Various S. C. C. men were stationed on the tour route to explain crops and methods to some 250 visiting farmers and business men.

Dr. Jaggers, president of the Florence State College, gave the feature address immediately before lunch.

Seen there participating both in the tour and barbecue were these Shelby countians:

B. F. Hatchett and G. C. Starcher of S. C. S., Homer Jackson, W. L. Lawler, John Rucker, A. L. Little, Ed Rush, Ed Lansford, Elvin Hill, Olaad Smith, Sam Pierce, Coach Mann, and several others.

MRS SAMAUTHA F. CARDEN OF WILSONVILLE PASSES

Time marches on as we live, move and have our being. Few of us are fortunate enough to live a century and be a witness to this great parade. Mrs. Samautha F. Carden, who resided with her daughter, Mrs. Tint Merrell of Wilsonville was one who has been so fortunate.

July 23 she passed away at the ripe old age of 98. She has grown rich in grace, charm and loveliness with each of her years; 98 of them had molded a gracious character indeed. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Tint Merrell, one son, Mr. R. A. Carden, Sylacauga.

She was a member of the Methodist Church of Wilsonville. Funeral Services were conducted at the church by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Fincher. Burial followed in the cemetery at Shelby.

Friends gathered from distant places to pay their last tribute of respect to "So Great A Lady."

Central State Ban Growing Rapidly With Calera

The success of any bank depen largely on the intellectual unde standing of its personnel. Arou these financial institutions are o ten entwined man's most ambitio hopes and dreams for his futur therefore, one of the first requ sites for a successful bank is friendly, tactful wise adviser, pe sonified usually in the type man or men chosen to direct t policy of the bank and its meth of dealing with people.

Each patron seeking financ aid comes to the bank of his ow choosing, to talk over the matte concerning his individual need The responsibility of dealing wi this particular fellow rests on t shoulders of the executive chos by the Board of Directors to a sume this responsibility. And th choice usually determines the su cess or failure of the bank.

The Central State Bank, th its efficient President, Roy Dow and its cooperative Board of D rectors, presents to the State Alabama, and especially the Ce tral part of Alabama, a ban which has been founded and o erated on good will, personal i terest, confidence in the people serves and faith in the communi in which it is located. After a the patrons of the bank, and t custodians of their welfare, shou work together as a team— the progress and growth is assure No better example of this c ordinated effort is found than the administration of the affai of the Central State Bank of C lera, Alabama.

The stock holders, employe and officers are neighbors a friends. They work together a patronize the worthwhile projec advocated by the citizens of t town. They support the churche schools, patriotic and civic drive and in these common interes there is formed a friendly bo that promotes harmony and u derstanding among all the citize without which, no commercial e terprise could succeed.

Now let me cite you to som figures bearing out the story the remarkable growth of th Central State Bank. In 1945, th total deposits were listed $556,000; in 1946, $643,000; 1947, $654,000; in 1948, $699,00 in 1949, $751,000; in 1950, $863, 000; in December, 1951, $1,084,00 as of December 31st financi statement.

The above factual evidence the Central State Bank's stead progress from 1945 thru 1951, more impressive than any verb statement we might record.

A HISTORICAL NOVEL BY E. E. HALLERAN

HE STORY SO FAR: Will Morgan fell in love with a girl om Carolina, bound for Miami terri-ry to settle with her family. After be-g twice refused, he manages, during chance meeting, to make her realize nd accept his love. Then, he sadly atches her depart for the dreaded dian lands, fearful for her safety. He members the fate of Ann Randall, hom he knew to be either slain or ken prisoner by the savages. He has een on the frontier long enough to now that the ragged militia will be of ttle help if the Indians join together chase the white man out of the hunt-g grounds. Will arrives in Pittsburgh early September.

CHAPTER VII

Will drew his wages along with he other men, turning a part of back to Old Sam according to an greement they had made as they raveled along. Will was to invest radually in the packing business ompany until he became a full artner. It was as good a business s any and a man needed something ubstantial for his future, particu-arly when he had already picked he girl.

It was after dark when Morgan nally strolled toward the village, etermined to stay away from averns and other places where his canty pocket money might dwin-le. His rosy dreams were pro-iding entertainment when he heard is name called from the door of he White Crane tavern. Kirby tood there, his face flushed and is voice a trifle too loud.

"Hiyah, Will," he shouted. "Come n and have a drink!"

Morgan shook his head. "No, hanks. I'm saving my money—hat little I have."

Kirby came down from the door-ay to haul him in. "Come along —and if ye git yer hands near yer ockets ye'll only need a half pair mittens this winter!"

Will Meets the Earl And Learns Dominoes

He steered Will firmly into the avern, tossing a coin on the ough plank bar. "Whiskey," he rdered—as though the place af-orded anything else. "Make it hree."

It was then that Will saw the uckskin-clad figure who had been tanding behind the door. Kirby erformed the introductions with n alcoholic unction. "Will Morgan, meet Clarence Twillingham Bris-bane, the ninth Earl of Cesspool-on-the-Bilge-Water. Around here they call him Tilly and ye'd better do the same if ye wanta stay healthy. It's only when he's real scairt of a feller—like he is o' me—that he lets 'em use his full name."

The trapper stuck out an enor-mous paw. "Howdy, bud," he greeted good-naturedly. "Sorry to meet ye in sech damned company." The dialect was partly the careless speech of the frontier but Will re-alized that there was another note behind it. He wondered how much of that elaborate introduction had been based on fact.

Tilly gave him no time to think about it, however. The trapper spoke sharply, his brows knitting together above an eagle nose until he resembled some angry bird of prey. "Say! I've seen you some-where before!"

There was a moment of sur-prised silence, then he went on with a half chuckle. "Nope. I got it now. You just look like another feller. You're the mortal image o' that renegade devil the Miamis call White Panther."

Kirby sat up quickly. "I bet it's the same one I told him about. Is he . . .?"

Tilly nodded soberly. "Biggest noise among the Miami outside o' Little Turtle. I saw him when I was hidin' in a thicket while his crowd went past. War paint or not he looks like you. From all accounts he's a bad actor!"

The innkeeper reached behind him and brought out a pack of greasy cards and a wooden box. "We got cards and also some o' them newfangled French domy-noes," he stated proudly. "Jest in from Philadelphy. Wanta try 'em?"

Kirby gestured grandly. "Any-thing at all. None of us knows no-thin' about 'em so there won't be any chance o' none of us runnin' afoul o' sharpers. How d'ye play 'em?"

The innkeeper called to the blow-sy girl who had been lounging at the far end of the bar. "You Mag-gie! Take the domynoes and show the gents how to play."

Will stood up "Get it out of Kirby," he smiled.

"Sit down," the trapper ordered. "We're only going to play for cop-pers."

"Don't lead the honest citizen in the paths o' damned orneriness," Kirby warned solemnly. "He's savin' his money to buy his gal a petticoat."

"Sit down," Tilly urged. "Mebbe you'll win her one."

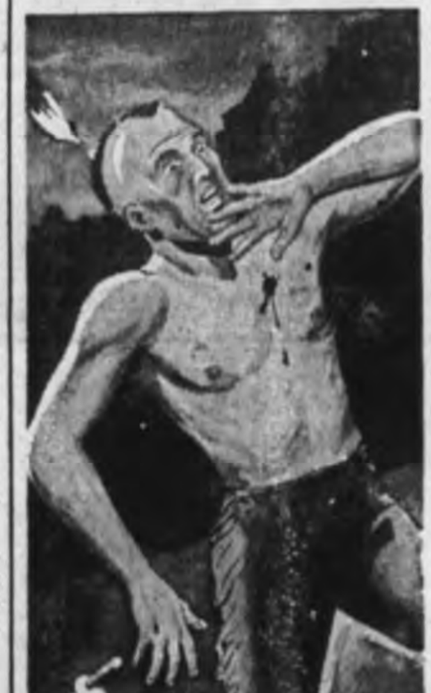
"Cent a point. Nobody gets hurt," Kirby added.

Will reached into his pocket and produced the odd change he was carrying. "Eighty-three cents," he [illegible]ed. "I'll play 'til it's gone. Then you can both go to hell."

It did not work out that way. At the end of an hour both of the older men were cursing the imported game and Will was richer by more money than he dared think about. Even at a cent a point he was piling up the winnings. Finally Tilly stood up with a curse. "That ends my gamblin' money," he said. "I never dip into the real poke when the luck's bad. However, I got some-thin' else I'll throw into the kitty."

Before either Kirby or Morgan could reply he left the room, to re-turn promptly with a long rifle. "Real Pennsylvania Jaeger copy," he said proudly. "Took it from a buck Wyandot who was after my scalp. Want to play for it?"

Kirby took the weapon from him, inspecting its rusty six foot length. "Too long for good service," he commented. "Rusty and dirty, got a check in the stock—but a real good rifle jest the same."



The dragoons knew their business. One Indian went down before a bayonet thrust.

The big riverman scratched his head. "Ain't much dealing' done with cash—but I'd figger it about fourteen dollars."

"Right," Tilly agreed simply. "How about puttin' her up against that much cash? Ferget the points and play it out on a total game. Winner take all."

There was little for Morgan to do but agree. After all he was using won money and he could scarcely refuse. Kirby had no such sum to ante so he sat back as a spectator, watching the seesaw game which developed. Tilly jumped into an early lead, lost it and forged ahead once more until he looked like a sure winner. Then Will picked up some of the luck which had been sticking to him all evening. He scored heavily while Tilly cursed at a succession of meaningless sevens and eights, finally running the game out with Tilly just five points shy of the necessary total.

A Treasured Rifle And Chance to Use It

The trapper pushed the rifle toward him. "Licked by a lousy five points!" he complained cheer-fully. "Two hours ago it woulda been fi' pence; now it's three pounds. Get her cut down and re-paired by a good gunsmith, son, and you'll have a fine rifle. Hope you don't need her too often."

Less than a week later the pack-ers were on the move again. This time a supply boat was to unload materials at various river ports, the pack train moving along to dis-tribute them in the interior. Again it was Morgan, Kirby and McGrew who went with the train, teamwork now bringing them into close friend-ship.

Will and Kirby continued to con-verse in the Miami tongue when-ever they had the chance, a per-formance which moved the usually silent McGrew to picturesque pro-fanity.

September was well along when they left the little fort which had been built where Zane's Trace crossed the Scioto. The animals were no longer laden and the train was headed back to the river for a new load waiting at Limestone. As usual they had a squadron of dragoons as an escort but it was Kirby who slid from his horse and knelt beside the trail.

"Injuns," he said quietly.

He moved out into the brush while the soldiers took up defensive positions. Twenty tense minutes dragged by and then his voice came again. "I'm comin' out. Don't shoot."

He reported tersely: "War party of about twenty went past here yes-terday mornin'. Headed fer the river."

Morgan felt a load press upon his spirits. Here it was again! What must it be like along the Miami if danger lurked here so close to fortified settlements? Even now Mary might be dead—such a victim as Ann Randall had already be-come.

Kirby broke in on his thoughts, taking him out ahead of the train to work as an advanced guard. It was dangerous work but it helped to keep his mind occupied.

They doubled the guard at night even though it seemed certain that the Indians were still moving to-ward the Ohio. The next day's journey was a cautious one and at noon Kirby warned that they were gaining on the savages. "We'll have to watch close now. The varmints might be along the bank waitin' to ambush a boat—and we don't want to give 'em any extra customers."

Still there was no alarm and they went into camp an hour before dusk, aware that there could be no hope of reaching Limestone in daylight. "Get supper over before it gets dark," Kirby ordered. "Small fires and dry wood. If we kin git along 'til sun-up tomorrow we might save our hair."

Morgan, McGrew and the eight troopers divided the guard detail five ways, leaving Kirby to take a turn with the pair of dragoons who would go on watch before dawn. Knowing the Indian habit of at-taking just at the break of day the big riverman wanted to be on hand for the critical hour.

Will Morgan Accounts For His First Indian

Will drew the fourth shift and spent the time a bit nervously. For the first time in his life he was ac-tually facing the very danger he had learned to fear and hate. More than that he had a double stake now. Not only his personal safety was at stake but his growing invest-ment would be affected should the savages succeed in running off any of the pack animals.

His vigil was without incident but he had no sooner been relieved than there was a cry of alarm from one of the troopers. "Injuns! Everybody up!"

The words were drowned out by a rattle of gunfire and as the guard threw himself behind a tree to reload, his companions rolled out and siezed their weapons. A soldier slumped to the ground at once, his musket dropping from his hands, but McGrew grabbed the weapon immediately and took the man's place in the ring of defend-ers.

Will dropped back into the bushes at the first alarm, realizing that flankers would probably strike at the camp from the opposite side from which the main attack was coming. Not an Indian showed him-self however and the fighting grew hotter in the camp. Morgan was almost on the point of returning to help the main body when suddenly the firing stopped almost as though some signal had been given. A sol-dier swore loudly in the morning gloom but otherwise there was no sound except the rustle of the morn-ing breeze among the turning leaves. Then a single war whoop rang out and another straggling volley come from the woods. This time Will was certain that several of the shots had come from his side of the camp. Apparently the lull had been the result of the In-dians drawing off for the flanking movement they had first neglected.

Presently Will saw a little wisp of smoke rising from a clump of laurels off to his left. With hands that trembled ever so slightly he aimed his long rifle at the clump and watched eagerly over the fine slit of the rear sight. Suddenly a gun muzzle protruded from the bush and Will could make out the painted face of the savage behind it. He notched his front sight care-fully on the Indian's head and pulled the trigger. There was an instant convulsion in the bush, then silence.

A fierce surge of triumph swept through the youth but he found that his hands were trembling so much that he could scarcely reload. He had killed an Indian!

Then he realized that Kirby was bellowing an order. "This way, everybody! They're after the horses!"

Will rushed for the camp and by the time he reached the open space where the pack animals had been picketed three trooper were charg-ing a couple of savages, bayonets against knife and hatchet. He rush-ed to help but the dragoons knew their business. One Indian went down before a bayonet thrust and the other one's flight was halted by a well-aimed bullet.

Kirby came up as the firing died away once more. "Watch that side," he told Morgan. "No tellin' what they'll try next."

Will edged back into the brush toward his former post, listening for enemy in front and for further orders from the camp. The firing had stopped completely now and presently Kirby's voice rose to a pitch that could be heard by all. "Will! Work out toward the south a couple hundred yards, then swing east. I'll go the other way and meet ye. Go easy and don't expose yerself. The rest o' ye keep yer eyes peeled 'til we take a look. Watch out fer us comin' back. We don't want to get plugged by our own side."

VET WORKERS HEAR SCHOOL BELL

It is back to school for the some one hundred and twenty-five em-ployees and officials of the Ala-bama Department of Veterans Af-fairs as they assemble in Fair-hope August 4-5-6 for their Sev-enth Annual Conference and work clinic. Converging with them on the Baldwin County town will be a number of officials of other state and federal agencies for panel discussions of veterans prob-lems and for planning education and training outlets for Korean veterans. Among those participat-ing will be Maj. E. A. Hiller, Manager of the Veterans Hospital at Biloxi, Miss., Wilkes H. Davis, Director of Claims, Veterans Ad-ministration, District Office, At-lanta, Col. W. L. McKnight, Com-mand Finance Officer, Air Uni-versity, Maxwell Field and a num-ber of Veterans Administration officials from the Alabama hos-pitals and Regional Office.

The so-called Korean G. I. bill will be presented in a panel forum directed by Paul H. Tubb, Chief of Vocational Rehabilitation of the Veterans Administration in Montgomery and is expected to attract much interest because of timeliness. All sessions will be presided over by C. C. Horton, Director of Veterans Affairs for Alabama.

State Commanders of all major veterans organizations in the state will be in attendance as will many interested veterans. Civilian vo-cational rehabilitation will be dis-cussed by O. F. Wise, Supervisor of the State Department of Edu-cation and the Crippled Childrens Service will be explained by R. B. Bagley, also of the Department of Education. Family allowances for men now in the Armed Forces will come in for debate and new benefits for veterans under Social Security will be detailed.

Cecil Pittman, President of the Fairhope Chamber of Commerce, will deliver the welcoming ad-dress. Entertainment highlights will include a beach fish fry and a banquet at which Melvin T. Dixon, of St. Petersburg, Florida, President of the National Associa-tion of State Directors of Veter-ans, will speak.

TOWN OF COLUMBIANA
Columbiana, Alabama

TO THE CITIZENS OF COLUMBIANA:

During the next few days a representative from the Columbiana Kiwanis Club will call upon you for the purpose of taking your application for natural gas. This application will be filed with the Town Clerk and the application passed upon by the Town Council.

In order that we secure financing for this most worthwhile utility, it is necessary that we obtain three hundred applications for natural gas. Each applicant will be askew to deposit the sum of $5.00 and the Town in turn will bear the expense of putting gas service to your home, up to one hundred feet from the street.

I have no doubt that everyone in Columbiana will cooperate in making this worthwhile utility available for the citizens of our community and for potential industry in our community. Any profit which results from the sale of natural gas will be returned to the citizens in the form of services. It will be your gas system and its advent marks a progressive step toward better living in our community and creates a more attractive site for prospective industrial devolopment.

Thanking you in advance for your continued cooperation, I am

Yours very truly,

WALES W. WALLACE, JR.,
Mayor

USTER OUT BRINGS VETS ASH HARVEST

More than 5 million dollars in stering out payments to recent scharged veterans of the Ko- an hostilities is expected to be ceived by Alabama veterans thin the next few weeks, according to C. C. Horton, Director Veterans Affairs for the state. "Eight hundred thousand men ve been discharged from the med services since June 7, 1950, d under the terms of the Act, st of those releeased after that te are eligible for payment," ited Mr. Horton. Payments ge from $100 for those with s than 60 days of active ser- e to a maximum of $300 for erans with 60 days or more of ive service who served outside e United States or in Alaska ce the above date. ble's Words on ork Still Apply uring Our Times

HE vigorous words, written many hundreds of years ago describe what happens when n stop working and become gards, describe what happened many countries where the es turned from honest toil, in this instance to sleep like gards, but to engage in the ually unproductive business of r. The wise man of the Proverbs predicted that "want as an med man" would come to the worker, and that is the situa- n in the lands stricken by war. en in countries like ours we e had ample demonstrations what happens when men stop king. Without trying to assess matter of rights and causes, can point to what happens en trains stop running, when l mills stop producing and en coal isn't dug.

Such strikes and lockouts no ger affect only the things that ople can do without, but they peril the very basis of living safety. KOREAN G. I. BILL

I know you veterans of the Korean War have been waiting to hear the news that everything is now ready for you to start making your application for education and other benefits. The Manager of the Veterans' Administration Regional Office in Montgomery, has announced that it will probably be the 20th of August before veterans may start applying for their benefits under the Korean G. I. Bill. He stated that it will be then before full instruction and the necessary Forms are received from the Central Office in Washington. However, we have very recent information which indicates that informal application will be accepted NOW.

Your County Service Officer will assist you in preparing a letter which will constitute an informal application and which in many cases may serve to secure payments dating back to August 1st. If you are planning on going to school when the September term starts, you will still have time to make your application to the VA.

And here is a word of advice to Korean Veterans who are planning on taking advantages of education or training benefits, be sure to give very careful thought to the type of training or education you desire to take, because once you have made your choice and have commenced training or education, you may make ONLY ONE CHANGE of Program. For instance, if you start a course of training as an automobile mechanic, and several months later you doubt that you are not well suited for that type of work and would like to change your course to CARPENTRY, the Veterans Administration will no doubt approve the change. If you desire another change, the chances are it will not be approved.

Here is some more good news that you have been waiting for regarding mustering-out-pay. All Veterans' Service Officers have a supply of blanks upon which to make application for these payments. Payments of $100 will be paid to veterans with less than 60 days of active service. $200 For those with 60 days or more active service but no foreign service and $300 will be paid to veterans who have had 60 days or more active service and who have served outside the continental United States or in Alaska after June 26, 1950. The original report of separation must be attached to the application.

IT PAYS TO HANDLE HOSIERY CAREFULLY

Marian Cotney, Home Agent

The salesgirl knows the smooth handling of hosiery helps avoid snags that lead to runs and ruin.

"Therefore," says Levice Ellis, API Extension clothing specialist, "buyers should take the tip and keep hands and fingernails smooth.

Such stress on smoothness may seem extreme unless the cost of carelessness in handling hosiery is counted.

Miss Ellis adds that providing smooth care for hosiery includes keeping stocking in a smooth container, each pair separate, instead of tumbling them together in a drawer where they may catch on rough wood or something else in the drawer. And maybe a run in a brand-new stocking has started by putting them on too rapidly.

THE HOUSING AUTHORITY OF THE TOWN OF COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Social and Personal Mention

Mildred White Wallace, Editor.

COLUMBIANA PROGRESSES IN ALL DIRECTIONS

Columbiana has progressed in all directions during the past five years and the administrations in charge of civic progression deserve congratulations.

For instance, the Fire Truck, bought at the close of the last administration (and one of the wisest of all purchases) has been paid for in full.

There is a White Way in Columbiana now, which was not here, four years ago.

Streets and intersections are marked and an up to date safety program is being waged by the powers that be. Streets are much cleaner. Containers for trash are placed conveniently on all blocks in business district. Garbage trucks call regularly at residences.

Community Christmas Program, is now an annual event, bringing the community closer together at this Glad Season, with gifts for the unfortunate, and Santa Claus to please the Kiddies.... a regular event.

The Recreation Program is advancing and expanding each month with many forward looking improvements on the agenda for next year.

The Housing Authority officials succeeded in procuring adequate homes for low rent incomes and these brick buildings now stand a credit to keen vision and alert citizens, who have worked tirelessly to bring about these "good things for Columbiana."

The public has been taken into confidence of the City Fathers and have been invited to participate in meetings, and to send in suggestions to the Mayor and Council on which action was taken for the good of all the people in this town. More people today are interested in this town, feeling that it is truly.... "our town".... More civic pride is now portrayed in the well kept lawns, and the beautification of many, heretofore, waste places. Take for instance, the barbecue pits available on the city lot opposite the Benton-Miles residence. Luther Curlee has made a splendid spot here for picnics and weiner roasts, with tables set conveniently for the enjoyment of those who like out door parties.

Gas facilities are being arranged for use this Fall. Practically every family in town has expressed a desire for the installation of gas in their homes and business houses.

The Town Marshall and the Nightwatchman have been put into attractive and neat uniforms. Police cars have been purchased expediting service and assuring protection of citizens by our alert police officers.

The Methodist Church building impressively stands on the corner across from the Courthouse, a visable memorial to the courage and the faith the members of this church had in Columbiana's need for constructing buildings sufficient to care for the religious requirements for the future.

School grounds have been improved and clubs have worked cooperatively with school authorities to provide ample funds for underprivileged children, assuring them free lunches.

The Valley Mills, owned by J. T. Phillips of Siluria, has done much toward giving needed employment to hundreds of workers in this area.

Columbiana Homes Inc., is a completed project which stands a credit to the promoters and owners.

The new Housing Project, Mountain View Apartments, is, at present, the most popular place former residents go, when they return to the old home town and view the improvements.

The Baptist members in the Columbiana Church have undertaken an all out drive for $60,000 to complete the education building now on its way up....

Plans are being contemplated for Picnic Tables on top of Mt. Dixie, near the Beacon, where Sunset dinners may be enjoyed with congenial groups in this rustic setting.

The Courthouse has undergone a complete outward and inward renovation program greatly improving its looks.

These are just a few of the steps forward Columbiana has taken which we proudly record. They certainly prove that we are not standing still nor stagnating.

Now, here are a few suggestions which we hope will be taken up for consideration. The store-house next to Eagles Store should be moved from the courthouse grounds since we learn there is no further use for its remaining where it is.

The road to Southern Depot, now that the Jack Campbell Apartments are nearing completion, should be improved. The heavy traffic over this road keeps it in terrible condition. Sidewalks will help.

The alley-way leading from L. & N. Depot thru to Shelby Road should be paved, as soon as possible. This road is travelled constantly and dust clouds are, at times, just about all a fellow can stand. Grounds around these "Used Car" lots could also stand some cleaning up.... for "beauty's sake".

A street light by the road leading to Mountain View Apartments would keep motorists from running by it and having to back uup after realizing their mistake.

These are just a few suggestions which, perhaps can be worked out as time goes on. All in all, Columbiana, considering her age has gone farther along the road to progression and permanent development in the last five years, than has been recorded in a long, long time, and we join other citizens in expressing our appreciation for the civic minded citizens who have given so generously of their time to accomplish these things.

. . . Friends offered sincere sympathy to F. E. Williams of Columbiana, Monday, when they learned of the tragic death of his mother, Mrs. L. P. Williams of Birmingham who was killed in an automobile wreck which occurred in a head-on two car smash up on Highway 78 near Westwood about three o'clock Sunday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted from Ensley Tuesday morning.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Luther Curlee have returned from a cross country trip which took them to California. They have been away about three weeks. According to their report "a wonderful time" in every state was recorded in their travelogue which now includes every state in the Union plus Canada.

. . . Carl Edwards of Alabaster, successful affiliate of the P. & T. Grocery Store, came by Monday to renew his subscription to the Home Paper, which he states he has missed for some months. We are delighted to re-instate this personable fellow in our ever widening list of weekly readers and thank him for personally attending to this matter. We hear that Alabaster is growing fast. It's citizens will soon take steps toward incorporating. This is a splendid thing to do for this up and coming town.

. . . Peggy Larette Bearden, age three years, of Birmingham, has returned home after spending a week with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Offie Tinney in Columbiana.

. . . Thanks to Mrs. Gordon Spearman for a renewal subscription to the "home paper" and for a personal call in the office. We always enjoy these social chats with our loyal friends who so charitably follow thru with us each week thru these columns.

. . . Pfc. William M. Curlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Huett Curlee of Shelby, Alabama, has reported to Fort McClellan near Anniston, for duty as personnel clerk with Personnel Section of Headquarters Detachment 5.

. . . Is Shelby County sponsoring a Maid of Cotton this year? We have not heard of any candidates, but being the Cotton County we are, Shelby County should have a representative.

They call them "bobby pins" because they came in when bobbed hair became the craze. Today they add up to a $20,000,000 a year business. Isn't this educational?

THANKS FOLKS!

For letters, phone and personal calls from staunch Democrats in Shelby county we are grateful! The comments on "A Challenging Call For Democracy" which appeared under "Penpoint Paragraphs" last week, have been most gratifying. Naturally, the Republicans did not agree with us on our wholehearted support of the Democratic Ticket, but, one "good Republican" told us that the "country could not go wrong this year, as both parties had strong representatives and he was still "Personal Mention's friend"....

Friendship is something we think should never be disrupted on account of different political views. At present a fellow has a right to THINK and VOTE as he pleases in America. Let's keep it that way!

. . . That fellow whom you saw greeting old friends on Main last Saturday was Osce Green of Birmingham, former resident of Columbiana, who was the week end guest of his brother John Green and Mrs. Green.

. . . Joe Vershot, who formerly resided in Columbiana and is now a resident of the Carolinas, was a recent guest of his sister, Mrs. John Green.

. . . Those Square Dances staged on the concrete area every Friday night are drawing large crowds, and are furnishing wholesome amusement for both ages. Even the tiny tots were graciously doing the Hoky-Poky, when we passed by. Roy Mann is truly to be congratulated for the splendid work he has done this summer in the field of Recreation for Columbiana.

. . . Watermelons are about gone and peaches will soon be a thing of the past say the truck-men, who have been bringing us these summer delights for several weeks. Maybe, Jack Frost is just around the corner. This is one fellow we shall eagerly go forth to greet.

. . . Billie Jean Young, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Young, who has done such a splendid job with the Brownell Travel Bureau, spent the week end in Columbiana. Those of us who recently saw Billie Jean on Television think if she ever tires of her present executive's job, she would click with the ever whimsical public in this particular field of visual entertainment.

. . . Jane Fowler Carter was guest soloist Sunday morning at the Harpersville Methodist Church at the eleven o'clock hour. Mrs. Carter sang Malotte's version of "The Lord's Prayer" and Mrs. Bobby Baker was her accompaniest.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Jackson of Gadsden were week end guests in the home of Mrs. Jackson's parents, Judge and Mrs. L. B. Riddle.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Conrad M. Fowler, Conrad Jr., and Randy Fowler have returned from a two weeks vacation spent in the Carolinas and in Virginia.

. . . The Rev. Curtis Bean is spending this week near Clanton where he has been engaged to conduct a revival.

. . . The members of the Baptist Church in Columbiana are encouraged over the announcement made by the Rev. Bean Sunday morning to the effect that the first $20,000 had been raised for the new education building. This is only one-third the amount necessary to complete this much needed building, but with the enthusiastic personnel in charge and the team-work manifested among the members, we are confident the required amount will be realized.

. . . Mrs. John Green and her brother Joe Vershot, have returned from a motor trip thru Florida with stopovers in St. Petersburg (for a visit with the C. P. Halls), Tampa, Sarasota, Clearwater, and other towns of interest. Mrs. Green tells me this morning that Florida was from 5 to 12 degrees cooler than she found here in Columbiana when she returned.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Bruton Lyon and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Lyon and family have returned from a delightful vacation spent in Tennessee and Kentucky.

THEN—AND NOW

Glancing thru the popular feature edited by Luther Fowler, "Twenty-Five Years Ago".... we note a paragraph relative to the "modern postoffice in Columbiana as being possibly the best for a town of its size in Alabama", or words to that effect. Take a look in this postoffice today and you will readily see, that many improvements and many more modern buildings now dot the land featuring Uncle Sam's postal emporium. What was considered up to the last minute, then.... is far from "modern" in this year of our Lord 1952. Columbiana needs a new Postoffice.... and we hope before too long weshall again get on that eligible list.

AUGUST BIRTHDAYS AS RECORDED ON P. T. A. CALENDAR

August 2— Joe Terry Jones and Joe David Sims; August 3, Mrs. Ralph Hunt Jr., Janet Ann Bradley shared honors. Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Arthur observed the passing of a wedding anniversary. August 4, Charlie Ann Goodwin was honoree in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Goodwin; August 6, L. F. Armstrong was busily engaged in candle-puffing, and today, Thursday, August 7, Mary Lee Bradberry will have that famed song "Happy Birthday To You' 'sung in her honor. August 8 Thelma Lee Goodwin, Brinton Owen, David Harper and Mrs. E. B. Lyon are the lucky ones. Saturday, August 9, Fay Roberts, Billy Joe Seale and Jimmie Rogers will be receiving "good wishes"— Sunday, August 10, Carol Harrison and Bertie Lee Stinson will have cakes topped with candles. So, it's "many happy returns of the day" to all of you.

. . . The wisest sermon and the most tactful thing we have heard of a minister doing this hot summer is that in a certain town, the eleven o'clock hour arrived and the minister took his stand in the pulpit and preached the shortest sermon in the history of the church. He remarked as follows: "This weather is only a foretaste of the heat you will be required to bear if you fail to repent of your sins"— He then invited the congregation to go home and think of what he had told them, and pronounced the benediction.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cochran of Eufaula, Mrs. Enoch Sims of Cottonton, and Mrs. Edna Roberts of Childersburg were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Roberts.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Karl C. Harrison, Nancy, Helen, Carol, and Tommy Harrison, are enjoying a vacation in Savannah, Georgia.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Keener Roberts, Sissy and Tommy Roberts of Tuscaloosa spent the week end in Columbiana.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Green of Helena are enjoying a cross country tour which will take them to California.

. . . C. H. Stallings, Deputy Director Defense Bond Division of Treasury Department, with headquarters in Birmingham, was a distinguished guest in our office Monday. Uncle Sam really found a "personality plus salesman" for his Series E-H-J-K which anyone with a bit of cash would do well to invest in. Watch this paper for some interesting information on these interest bearing bonds, and let's pull Shelby county up from near the bottom of the list in this patriotic drive.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Paul O. Luck have returned from a delightful visit in Wilmington, Delaware as guests of the H. M. Gordons.

. . . Members of the Fidelis Class of the Baptist Sunday School are still telling us about the wonderful time they had Monday, July 29, when a dish supper was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Germany and Mrs. Wade in Phillips Circle. This class is composed of one of the most congenial groups we know anything about, and we are sorry we could not accept the generous invitation to join them on this happy occasion.

. . . Alabama's draft quota for September will be 735. Shelby county will send 4 men.

SADDLE SORES?—"Cowgirl" Sherlynn Bower, 3, appears to have dismounted from a wild bronco, but she's just massaging a sore spot resulting from a polio serum injection. The shot was administered during tests conducted by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in Sioux City, Iowa.

Under The Study Lamp

By William Crowe

WHEN POVERTY GETS A HEARING

"God be merciful to me, a sinner." Luke 18:13

Commercially speaking, the publican who uttered this prayer was a man of large means. Bradstreet would have given him a high rating. He could have done business with the bank with ample collateral. Yet in the eyes of God he was a pauper, and he himself had at last waked up to that reality.

God does not object to a man owning property. The Bible emphasizes the right of private ownership. But God most assuredly objects to the acquiring of property in the wrong way. That fellow's guilt lay in the fact that he had bought the privilege from the Roman civil authorities to squeeze the very life out of the poor people of Palestine (a Roman province) by a system of unfair and exorbitant taxation.

He himself was a Jew. A renegade Jew. He had literally sold his own people down the river. No wonder that he was feared and hated by his neighbors; and no wonder that he was consciously under the condemnation of the Judge of all earth. As we said, he had at last awakened to the truth that God never winks at sin, whether in business or in any other field of moral behavior; for while in the Scriptures we read that a false balance is an abomination to the Lord, we also read in the following quoted words a covered warning against every kind of iniquity; "He that doeth wrong shall receive for the wrong which he hath done." (Colossians 5:25).

To return to the publican who prayed, "God be merciful to me," we discover that he had brains enough to know that God is on the bench in the court of last resort, and that He will hear the plea of every transgressor who is willing to admit his guilt; conscience enough to be aware that he was condemned by his own misdoings; heart enough to feel the drawing power of divine mercy and grace; will enough to appeal to the Supreme Judge, not for justice but for forgiveness.

Every non-Christian stands in the shoes of that publican. If he will state his case as the publican did, he will learn with a big thrill that, "The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger and plenteous in mercy." (Psalm 103-8).

. . . Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jones (Peggy Davis), former residents of Columbiana, now residing in Louisville, Kentucky, are receiving congratulations this week due to the arrival of a little girl who was born August 1st. No one happier over this new addition, than her grandfather, Mr. Houston Davis, unless it be, Mrs. Davis, who is in Louisville visiting the little new comer.

. . . We had our initial introduction to Ben Jackson Barnes today, and although he slept thru the entire interview (bored no doubt into unconsciousness on account of our enthusiastic oh's and ah's), we enjoyed just watching him sleep, with an occasional smile, no doubt caused by some heaven-blessed caress. No one thing intrigues us more than these "just so new from heaven babettes. And each one we see makes us more conscious of this old topsy turvy ball of a world we are spinning in. Even two months old little folk like Ben, may have to settle some of these controversial issues this generation is grappling with, trying to find the answer. Lets hope his little crocheted shoes will never be supplanted by "army boots"—

. . . Thanks to H. B. Holcombe, Dick to a host of friends, for continued loyalty to the "Home Paper" evidenced by a renewal subscription jjust received.

. . . Villa Bentley is truly lovely to look at and delightful to know, and also possesses a beautiful contralto voice which she generously shares at church and on social occasions giving pleasure to a host of friends.

JOHN GARY RAY

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Ray are receiving congratulations this week upon the arrival of a son on Wednesday, July 30, whom they have named John Gary Ray. Mrs. Ray (Vivian Wood) and babette have returned home, and no one is happier over this blessed event than his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Wood of Columbiana.

. . . Auburn collegiates taking in the town last week end included Fred Wood and his personable guest and college friend, Glenn Manchum of Scottsboro; Ralph Hunt III, Denton Cole and Carlos Moorer. No one this is more refreshing than a bunch of college boys, so vibrantly ailve with all their pockets full of dreams for a radiant future. That is, unless Uncle Sam steps in and points his finger at them.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED SPEARMAN-VANSANT

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Spearman of Columbiana announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor Spearman to Horace Vansant, son of Mrs. W. W. Stinson of Wilsonville.

Alabamians now have the privilege of casting their vote for John J. Sparkman, a boy who has gone from a tenant farmer's son to receiving the nomination for the second highest honor the people of the United States can confer on one of its citizens. Not in 100 years has Alabama had this recognition. So, let's stand true to those who have been duly elected as our Democratic nominees.

. . . Mrs. Thomas Herring and daughter, Deborah and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Miller of Tuscaloosa, spent the week end with Mr. and and Mrs. Clarence Spivey.

. . . News has been received by Mr. and Ms. Cecil Falkner that their son, Cecil Jr., who has been in Germany for the past year, will soon land in the states.

. . . Mrs. Jeff Edmondson left Columbiana Tuesday for a vacation in Ohio with her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Rinehardt and Mr. Rinehardt.

. . . "Peeping Tom" had better watch out— if he cares to live a while longer. Folk are getting tired of having screen windows cut—and shadowy forms around their premises—and guns are cocked and ready for action.

. . . Clarence Abbott looks pretty snazzy driving around in that new Oldsmobile 98. He will be harder than ever to "catch", even if it is Leap Year when he steps on the gas that propels this modern motor, which out runs anything we have seen recently.

Problems of State

Lesson for August 10, 1952

McJUMPUP JUNCTION is not the best place to go looking for a statesman. A statesman is not a mere "dead politician" as cynics claim. A politician of the lower sort is a man who is in politics first of all for his own benefit, and secondly for the benefit of his own little McJumpup Junction, and no thirdly whatever. But a statesman is in politics for the benefit of the human race. A man may start in McJumpup Junction, as Lincoln did; everybody has to start somewhere. But he is no statesman until his home district no longer seems more important than the wide world.

Dr. Foreman

For Defense

ONLY A STATESMAN can deal with problems of state successfully. That was one of the troubles with the first King of Israel; he could see his own wishes and interests, but not those of the nation as a whole; and God was too seldom in his thoughts.

Let us mention three problems of state which are perennial; they pressed hard on Saul, they press on us today.

One is called National Defense. There would be no such problem if all nations were friendly, but they seldom are. If all nations were on as good terms with one another as the United States is with Canada and Mexico, all of us would be better off. In ancient Israel they had this problem; they wanted a king more than anything else so as to build up an armed defense against a ring of enemy nations.

So in the United States today, the most acute problem, and the most expensive, before the nation, is that of defense and security.

Taxpayers complain without end; but it should be remembered that what eats up the taxes isn't the bureaucrats, it's military expenses. More than 75 cents out of every tax dollar is spent for wars, — past, present or future. That would not be necessary if all nations were friendly. So the underlying problem of state is: How can we create a more friendly international situation?

National Unity

ANOTHER PROBLEM of state is that of national unity. This was acute, back in the days of Saul and Samuel. The twelve tribes of Israel had never done anything together since the days of Joshua. They wanted a king not only for the sake of defense but for the sake of national unity.

So it is today on a larger scale. If every congressman goes to the capital just for this own constituency and for nobody else, that makes congress a perpetual dogfight.

There has to be somebody, or some group of men, who will be statesmen and not mere politicians; some person or persons of vision and influence, who will stand for all of the people rather than for only some of the people, — who will, if need be, stand for all of the people against some of the people.

But how are such wide-visioned men to be elected? A man is not better than his home-district voters want him to be.

Can Democracy Be Efficient?

THE FIRST thing that is said of highly centralized power in business, or a nation, or in the church or anywhere, is that such power is more efficient than when it is divided up. Some dictatorships have been highly efficient.

Mussolini, it was said, cleaned out the slums of many a city, and even performed the miracle of getting Italian trains to run on time. But he turned out to be just another tyrant, and his people turned against him, as long ago the Israelites turned against Saul.

So a third great problem of state is this: Can a democracy be efficient? The ideal government is one which steers between two extremes: on the one side is anarchy, which is freedom without unity; and on the other side is some absolute centralized power which compels unity without freedom.

Democracy is precisely the attempt to take this middle road. It is not an easy problem. Saul did not solve it, nor did David after him; it is not solved today. But only men of wide vision and wide concerns, big-minded, public-spirited, can even see the problem, much less try, under God, to solve it.

Good Morning

By Milton Bird

Lt. James H. Crawford, Jr.
Tyndal Air Force Base
Panama City, Florida

Dear Jim:

One day last week I watched several planes, high above the courthouse, dragging their ragged vapor trails through a high summer sky. Somewhere up there, further away than I could see, were guys like you. The brave young guys who'll keep our skies free and beautiful. For days your mother and I had been watching for vapor trails. One day a plane would pull out of formation and leave its tattered trail of mist streaked across the sky in a giant arch. And it did, two days later, but your mother wasn't there to see. I told her about it that afternoon and her eyes danced like fireflies in a swamp.

That same day Lucile Stokes came in. It had been months since she had heard from two of her boys. She had been so brave, and so anxious, and so terribly alarmed, that you felt warm inside when you handed her their letters. Her eyes had that same glow.... like fireflies in a swamp.

I see this glow everyday, in hundreds of eyes, bright and deep and bottomless. Anne Goodwin, day-dreaming about a trip to England to see Pete.... Emmie Young, with Joe, saying goodbyes along Main before he leaves for Europe .... Loretta Head, checking every possible mail schedule out of Ft. Benning.... Ruby Mooney, with Robert in Europe and Carl in Carolina, waiting for bright-eyed Jerry who's the mailman now.... Myrtle Johnson, sweating out Billie's graduation in an Army School in Carolina, full of hope and anxiety as she waits for news of his future address.... Evelyn White, with Gene in Texas and Bill in California, quiet in a corner after the lunch hour at her cafe, writing long letters to them both.... Yep, it's a remarkable thing to behold.... the way the love of a woman and the courage of a boy will get all tied up in a knot in times like these.

There is news too this week about guys and the gals who wait behind. Pete Goodwin has landed in England and his letters are winding their way back, to Gray and Anne and Charlie, and to Margaret Martin who lives out at the old Will Atchison place. I haven't seen Margaret but the fellow's say she is plenty easy on the eyes. I hear they're giving out with three day passes along with water-wings in England now, so any day we may see big good-natured Pete, dashing under the street light, headed out the Saginaw short-cut.

Warren Duke was home and he and Patsy hooked up in double harness for the long pull. And big likable Jim, home from Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, struck it rich up around Centre, Alabama. It ought to be pleasant and exciting all the way for these four. I've noticed that every time you mix fifty percent good guy with fifty percent pretty gal, you'll get one hundred percent happiness every time. Jim beat Warren to the altar by a nose, and now Cecil and Eddie Irene, two of the swellest folks we know, are righ back where they started years ago, when the old town was a quiet drowsy burg and Skillet was getting to Epworth League late.

I had another run-in with that little guy Cupid this week. And did I take a beating. I ran into a pretty girl in a pink dress that was just like happening upon an April peach tree in late July. A guy will take a peach tree for granted in April. I guess there's so many of 'em he forgets how pretty they are. But did you ever see an April peach tree in late July? It'll take your breath.

Her name was Jim Ellis Copeland and she was visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Handy Ellis. Years ago I used to write about her mother, after just such a wrestle with Cupid when Margaret Ellis would wriggle her pug nose at me.

"Hello," I said, a little breathless.

Hello." Her pretty pink dress was the color of her pretty face "This is my Easter dress," she said, her eyes bright.

I thought about that on the way to the car. Maybe she was a very precious part of Easter, with her laughter, and her bright happy face, and her pure simple faith.

"It's a mighty pretty dress," I said, "and you're a mighty pretty girl."

"Thank you." She sat very still as we rode along. We stopped in front of the show and went in. Down near the front where the picture was a little out of focus, and the smell of popcorn was heavy in the air, and where twenty other guys, less fortunate than I, were screaming for more Indians.

We got popcorn and she was busy as a bee in a bottle. Then we made our way to the lobby for water. Up front we were holding our own with the Indians, and a hot desert sun, and some outlaws who would sell our scalps to the redskins.

Suddenly I felt her hand on my arm. "They have a lot of things out there besides popcorn," she whispered.

That pug nose was wriggling in front of my eyes. I poured her hand full of nickles and pennies. She was gone in a second. When she came back she had tootsie-rolls. Up front the sun had gone behind the mountains. The outlaws were pensive behind strong iron bars, and the Indians were legging it through Wyoming on their way to the reservation. It looked like the end of a perfect night.

"I wanted you to save room for ice cream," I said. "Evelyn is expecting us."

"Oh, there's room," she whispered. "I packed the popcorn and tootsie-rolls down with water."

We picked up Linda and Mary Louise on our way out, and had ice cream at Evelyn's Place. When we got home they thanked me, in their fine fashion, for everything. It was like three very bright and beautiful stars thanking a guy for looking at them.

I see Doc and the two Bunnies every day. They're swell folks you know. And they've got a swell guy up there where those vapor trails are.

American Foundation For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT SWINE ERYSIPELAS?

Q: How serious a problem is swine erysipelas?

A: It's one of our worst swine diseases. It has now spread to every state and causes animal losses of millions of dollars.

Q: Why is erysipelas hard to control?

A: Because it is very contagious and easily confused with other diseases.

Q: Does it affect only hogs?

A: No. Erysipelas has been reported in colts, calves, turkeys, sheep, and even parrots. Human beings can also contract it, so every precaution should be taken in handling infected animals. In man, the disease is called erysipeloid.

Q: What are the symptoms of swine erysipelas?

A: They may include scaly and sloughing skin, swollen joints, arched backs, lameness, high fever and unwillingness to move unless forcibly aroused. In the acute disease many pigs may die. In the chronic disease, pigs which survive are unthrifty, and unprofitable for market.

Q: If the herd is infected, what can be done?

A: An accurate diagnosis should be obtained at the first sign of this disease. Sometimes it resembles other "look-alike" diseases.

Q: Once identified, what precautions should be taken?

A: Strict sanitary and quarantine measures should be applied immediately to keep it from spreading. Immediate vaccination, isolation of affected hogs, prompt disposal of carcasses, cleaning and disinfecting of pens are important.

Q: What steps can be taken to avoid future outbreaks?

A: In areas where the disease has become a problem, many authorities recommend that pigs be vaccinated as soon as possible after farrowing.

FARM NEWS

CRIMSON CLOVER SEED MARKET LOOKS BRIGHT

The 1952-53 crimson clover seed production program is on the minds of many farmers right now.

"The reason," explains J. C. Lowery, API Extension agronomist, "it that crimson clover production dropped from 8,500,00 pounds in 1951 to around 4,500,000 pounds in 1952. Some of the drop was caused by rains at harvest time, drought, and lack of bees for pollination in some cases."

Lowery points out that it's again time to make plans for crimson clover seed production, and in some areas it's time to plant. Of course, the right kind and amount of fertilizers should be used. He recommends an application of 300 pounds of 0-16-8 per acre. And do not overlook boron for good seed yields. Include at least 10 to 15 pounds per acre.

An investment of less than $1 per acre in borax has increased seed yields worth $65 an acre when seed were selling for 25 cents a pound.

HERE'S HOW TO MAKE MORE MILK PROFITS

Profitable milk production depends to a large extent on farm feed production, according to Pete Turnham, API Extension dairy specialist.

"Buying large quantities of feed is justified only when milk prices are extra attractive," declares the specialist. "And a good feed production program is beneficial only when it is based on feeding cows proper amounts according to weight, milk production, and physical condition."

Turnham adds that grain is only a substitute in the feed budget for the nutrients cow fail to get in their roughnages.

ORDER PINE SEEDLINGS NOW

By the time planting season rolls around, the pine seedling supply will be exhausted. Now is the time to place orders for seedlings. Any farmer who orders 10,000 seedlings or less at the present time will be sure of receiving his order.

4-H CAMP WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE

Joyce King, Vincent claims the title of Alternate State Dress Revue winner. Other Dress Revue winners are District I: Betty Marvis, Blount County, State Winner; Jurldian Wigintan, Marian County District II: Jearell Kite, Russel County; Betty Wise, Covington County; District III: Wanda Joyce Davis, Mobile County, Mary Kay Boyd, Sumpter County; District IV: Mable Layton, St. Clair County.

The Dairy Foods Contests were another highlight of the week. The girls gave demonstration on how to prepare dairy products, retaining all of the nutrients. State team winners were Jo Ann Granberry and Ann Hudson, Houston County. Individual State winner was Carolyn Stockley, Cleburn County.

Winners of the Baking Contest were Jo Ann Catchings, Coosa County, Olene Howle, Cleburne County and Jean McElro, DeKalb County. Each of these girls won a $100.00 scholarship.

The Talent Contest was one of the most enjoyable parts of the entire program. State winners was Charles Bryant, Mobile County. Charles played "It Is No Secret" on the Organ, a waltz on the Accordian and "Issue World A Smile," "Down Yonder" and "Glory, Glory to old Auburn" on the piano. Alt. State winner was Hollis Cannon, Calhoun County. He sang "Cry," "Danny Boy," and "I Get My Loving In The Evening Time." Other district winners were Billy Barnes, Cherokee County, who sang "Lazybones," Billy Davis, Clyde Douglas, and Roy Owens, Crenshaw County. These boys had a fiddle, guitar, and bass fiddle ensemble. All state winners will be given a trip to Chicago.

Our new State Officers were elected as follows:

President, Ed Young, Snowdown; Vice President, Brown Eastman, Gordo; Vice President, Leigh Richard, Florence; Vice President, Sue Meadous, West Point, Ga.; Secretary, Bobby Aderholt, Haleyville; Treasurer, Jean Talley, Lincoln; Reporter, Nell Pentan, Hissap; Song Leader, Franklin Wilson, Georgiana.

The week was ended with a most impressive candle lighting ceremony Friday night.

POULTRY PROGRAM

1. Don't let lice eat up egg profits! County Agent A. A. Lauderdale advised poultrymen today. Mr. Lauderdale reveals that on six different tests, birds on which lice were controlled laid 20 more eggs each than hens that were infested with lice.

He says that lice can be controlled for just a few cents and in just a few minutes by dusting two pounds of sulphur in the litter of the poultry house for every 100 square feet of floor space. Repeat the treatment in 7 days. This treatment should last for about 3 months. Be sure to apply sulphur in spots in the house where birds dust themselves. also apply it in the nest.

Recent research shows that lice can also be controlled by broadcasting 3 pounds of 1 percent lindane dust in each 1000 square feet of litter space. Only one treatment is necessary when lindane is used in this way.

2. County Agent Lauderdale advised poultrymen today to take special care in feeding and managing the pullets that are now on range. He reports that poultry scientists at the Western Kentucky sub-experiment station have just completed some tests which would tend to condemn old laying hens to the stew pot.

Comparing hens in their second laying year with first year pullets, they found that the pullets laid three to five dozen more eggs per bird, that they were better wintertime layers, and that more of their eggs were fertile. Furthermore, chicks hatched from pullet eggs lived better than those hatched from eggs of old hens. The pullets survived better in the laying house and chicks from their eggs had lower mortality rate.

Mr. Lauderdale says this is enough to convince anybody that it's more profitable to raise enough good pullets to fill the laying house each year, and sell hens when they molt and go out of production.

THE HOME FREEZER HAS TO BE DEFROSTED, TOO

Naturally, the home freezer has to be defrosted once or twice a year or when about one-half inch of frost collects on wall and shelf areas.

Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist, points out that a layer of frost over one-half inch thick reduces food storage space and makes the freezer inconvenient to use.

"If a freezer frosts too rapidly," says the specialist, "keep these facts in mind. Don't open the freezer and leave it open more often than necessary. Properly package all foods put into the freezer so that moisture necessary for quality food does not escape and become useless frost. Be sure that the gasket makes a good seal, and if excessive frost accumulates around the opening, install a new gasket."

TAX CUT TO BE POSSIBLE IN TWO YEARS, SPARKMAN SAYS

Senator John J. Sparkman, Democratic vice presidential nominee, said recently the United States should be sufficiently rearmed in two years to permit "an appreciable reduction of taxes..."

The Alabama senator also said there was "no trade involved" in his selection as the running mate of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois. Stevenson picked Sparkman for the post after receiving the Democratic presidential nomination.

The senator said this country must continue to build its own defenses and to help "those free nations who are willing to cooperate in a mutual security program to rebuild their defenses."

He said the "Number One" problem confronting the whole world today is that of establishing a peaceful world . . . We have not finished this task of cementing together the free nations of the world in a united front against the further sweep of communism and Communist aggression . . . we've got to finish that job.

Sparkman expressed belief that this program is "over the worst hump" but conceded that "it entails tremendous taxes."

"Yet I do believe that within two years time.... we ought to have the job far enough along to be able to have an appreciable reduction of taxes in this country," he said. He gave no estimate or goal of this proposed reduction.

Sparkman said he did everything in his power at the recent Democratic Convention in Chicago to prevent the South from leaving the party.

"We in Alabama have been working very hard for the past four years to reunite the party," he said. "I felt that we made considerable headway in this convention."

The senator also noted a plank in the Democratic platform in which "we restate the doctrine of states' rights and of this dual system of government of ours."

Sparkman said he believes state and local governments should undertake projects in their own areas and federal aid should be forthcoming only if local sources are financially unable to complete necessary programs.

BONNER WILL INTRODUCE BILL PREVENTING ANY SECRET BOARD MEETINGS

If a bill, now being written by Senator Bonner, passes the next Legislature, there will be no more secret meetings of any Board of Trustees, Board of Revenues, Municipal Boards or any kind of an organization which deals with the people's affairs. In other words, business entrusted to public officials, will be attended to in the open, where interested people may know what is going on and where and how funds are being spent. There will be no more "secret sessions" says Senator Bonner.

This proposed Bill, as we read it, truly has "teeth" in it.

We have long contended that public officials should take more time informing the people than they have heretofore done. Many unjust accusations have been hurled at public "Boards" because they were held in secret, and not open to the public, when perhaps there was nothing warranting any secrecy, but it had the "appearance" of something hidden. Perhaps now, a law against any secret sessions will go a long way toward restoring confidence in duly elected officials, if and when they make up their minds that they are only the "custodians" of the people's interests, and cease wondering why the people should be concerned about what goes on behind closed doors.

At any rate, this Bill will be dropped in the hopper at the next Legislature by Senaor Bonner and it is worth serious consideration by the Legislators. M.W.W.

STATE OF ALABAMA
ALABAMA STATE MILK CONTROL BOARD
Montgomery, Alabama
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Pursuant to the authority vested in it as contained in Title 22, Sections 209 and 223, of the 1940 Code of Alabama, and acting on a joint petition of producers and distributors, the Alabama State Milk Control Board hereby gives notice that a public hearing will be held in the Jefferson County Courthouse, Birmingham, Alabama beginning at 9:00 a. m. on Friday, August 22, 1952, and to be continued, if found necessary, at such time and place as may be announced at such hearing, to consider the following matters:

1. The expansion and consolidation of the Birmingham Milk Shed and the Jasper Milk Sheds to include the entire confines of the counties of Jefferson, Walker and Shelby, and the designation of such milk shed by name.

2. To consider the present costs of production, processing and distribution of fluid milk, and milk products, in all forms, processes, and/or usages, with the view towards the adjustment of all price structures of fluid milk and milk products, both to the producer and the consumer in conformance with such costs as the evidence so presented should warrant.

3. To consider any and all other matters and things affecting the the production, distribution and consumption of fluid milk within the aforesaid areas.

All interested parties and particularly consumers (including public school authorities), producers, producer-distributors and distributors, are invited to appear before the Board at the above time and place to give testimony with respect to the aforesaid subjects and to submit such evidence as may be relevant thereto.

Done and ordered at Montgomery, Alabama, this the 5th day of August, 1952.

ALABAMA MENTAL HOSPITALS LAG IN WORK

Alabama's mental hospitals lag behind in all phases of mental work, the Young Mens Business Club of Birmingham revealed this week.

This was demonstrated by club President Llewellyn Johns, who outlined the minimum requirements for state mental institutions as prescribed by the Aemrican Psychiatric Assn.

In another move to aid mental patients, the drinking fountain committee of Patrons of Partlow State School have begun a statewide campaign for $3500. R. H. Carr, 1508-14th Street, South, in Birmingham, chairman of the committee, said the group wants to buy 19 water coolers for Partlow School at Tuscaloosa.

There are 1700 children in the school and only two water spigots.

Mr. Carr said he can buy the coolers at wholesale price for about $162 each. Over $400 already has been contributed but more than $3000 still is needed.

Donations can be mailed to Mr. Carr or to Birmingham Post-Herald Water Cooler Fund, Birmingham, Alabama.

As an example of how shorthanded the hospitals are, Johns noted that minimum requirements in care of the aged calls for one physician to every 150 patients. Alabama has only one doctor to every 700 patients.

In the continued treatment department, requirements call for one registered occupational therapist to 500 patients; Alabama has none. In the same department, Alabama has only registered nurse to every 400 patients while minimum specifications call for one to every 40 patients.

A drastic shortage of doctors hit Bryce Hospital recently.

The hospital has been shorthanded previously, but three physicians left within a four-week period. Remaining doctors decided they could not take a vacation this summer because none of them could be spared from the hospitals.

THESE FIGURES reflect the progress that has been made in our community since 1945. Along with the town our bank has grown. In fact as the figures show, our resources have almost doubled in the post-war period . . . from a little over one-half million dollars to more than a million.

OUR FACILITIES and Services have grown and improved, too. Our building has been air conditioned, a new lighting system has been installed, an acoustic ceiling with new interior decoration and new fixtures make this bank modern in every way. We have added to our personnel to give more prompt service and to make it possible for us to continue to be able to live up to our slogan "A Good Bank SERVING Central Alabama."

A BANK in a community such as ours, is the center of all business life, almost every transaction is handled in some way through the bank's various services. The increased resources of Central State Bank reflects, we believe, the trust we have from the people in our vicinity. All of our endeavors are to make our Bank worthy of this trust through better service and better banking facilities for central Alabama.

We appreciate the friendship and patronage which has been generously extended us and is in a large measure responsible for the progress and success we have achieved.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"In a free country there is much clamor, with little suffering; in a despotic state
there is little complaint, but much suffering" ... therefore, it is up to every eligible voter to exercise his or her right of free expression at the polls while this priceless heritage remains. Goose-stepping to the pollls and voting according to a dictator's mandate is not a pleasant thing to contemplate in America, yet, indifference on Election Day, can and will bring about some drastic changes which will be utterly foreign to methods we use today. At present, individuals are allowed to use their own judgment in selecting the officials they want to serve them in public posts of duty. Let's keep it that way by going to the polls and exercising this privilege.

GENERAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 4

The General Election will be held on November 4, 1952. In addition to the interest centering around the Presidential Finale, voters will have the privilege of saying whether the sheriffs in Alabama may serve a six year term or each term remain a four year tenure.

MORAL OBLIGATION INVOLVED IN PRIMARY PLEDGE?

We have been asked to reprint the "pledge" voters signed when marking their ballots in the Primary Elections. Here it is:

"By casting this ballot I do pledge myself to abide by the results of this primary election and to aid and support all the nominees thereof in the ensuing general election."

This pledge has been a part of the primary law of the State of Alabama since the year 1931. The Legislature of Alabama in the year 1951 rewrote the same pledge.

So, let your concience be your guide.

SHELBY COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT

According to a tentative date set by presiding judge, W. W. Wallace, the next term of the Shelby County Circuit will begin on November 2, and continue for two weeks. Both civil and criminal cases will be tried.

MEET ME AT THE FAIR?

Big time Midway.... Exhibits featuring produce, handiwork, culinary delights, industries, and a boost to Shelby County's natural resources will be highlighted at the Shelby County Fair, beginning August 25.

Make your arrangements to share this week with your neighbors and friends in Columbiana. A cordial welcome awaits you.

JOHN J. SPARKMAN DAY ANNOUNCED

'A celebration in honor of John J. Sparkman has been set at Huntsville for August 18, beginning promptly at 2 P. M. The Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee, his wife, and daughter will be present to welcome the guests.

Alabamians have been invited to come to Huntsville and share in this all out welcome arranged in honor of John J. Sparkman.

COLUMBIANA HAS INCREASE IN TELEPHONES

Indicative of the growth of Columbiana and sturorunding communities is the large increase in the number of telephone directories now being distributed to local telephone subscribers.

Approximately 661 new directories are being delivered to homes and businesses, according to S. C. Stutts, Group Manager for Southern Bell Telephone Company, compared with 543 when the last directory was delivered.

The new telephone directory contains many new and changed listings and other helpful telephone information and is easily distinguishable from the old green-covered telephone book by its light gray cover. A sufficient quantity of the new directories has been printed to supply every telephone subscriber and to allow for future telephone expansion.

The classified section.... yellow pages.... contains listings for business or professions. "The variety of clasifications describing products, services, professions and businesses provides a convenient ready reference guide when you want to locate a firm or individual," Mr. Stutts pointed out.

He requests that the old directory be discarded and that the new directory be referred to when telephone numbers are desired. Looking up the desired numbers helps to avoid the possibility of getting wrong numbers and saves time for both the calling and called parties. "Information" should be called only when the number you are seeking is not listed in the directory.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Harpersville: The country is full of protracted meetings. The preachers are doing some fine preaching, but it don't seem to be doing any good. It looks like the people have gone wild. The majority of church members won't attend. Some won't give to the cause. Some go honking their horns while preaching is going on and they should be in church. Before preaching is over, they go on a pleasure ride. This is all true and can't be disputed, and I have been told it is this way everywhere. This article is not written to mar the feelings of anyone, but if it fits you, wear the shoe.

Underwood: G. O. Rasco, Preston Moore, Miss Carrie Allen and Mrs. Dollie Brown are planning to attend the young people's convention at Notasulga.

Wilsonville: Thursday, August 11, is the day for us to clean up and beautify our "Sacred City". Bring your tools, come early and lets get thru before the heat of the day advances.

Vincent: The contractors are making good progress on the new High School building. Great interest is being manifested in advancing the education facilities for the children of this community.

Columbiana: At a called meeting of the Culture Club, plans were completed for financing the tuition and board of a young girl through Snead's Seminary at Boaz, Alabama for a scholastic year.

Chelsea: The Shelby Baptist Association will convene at Liberty Church August 17. Every church in the county is expected to send representatives. Chelsea people are making preparations to care for all of them.

Shelby Springs: H. M. Neal and Earl Wood are visiting relatives and friends in Winchester, Tenn., this week.

Bethel: Jesse Hughes is in Shelby teaching a B. Y. P. U. study course.

Kingdom: Floyd Crumpton of Birmingham was given a surprise party at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Crumpton, Wednesday night when a water melon cutting was enjoyed.

Mrs. J. L. Isbell is spending a few days in Vandiver.

Mrs. M. E. Nivens of Chelsea is the guest of Mrs. Thomas Minor.

RECREATION PROGRAM ENDS FRIDAY NIGHT. GRAND FINALE

Roy Mann, Director of City Recreational activities, has announced that next Friday evening, August 15, the Summer Recreation Program will close. Before closing out this successful program waged tirelessly by this Director and his assistants, Margaret Ann Hatchett and Dot Lefkovits, who taught Arts and Crafts. Mr. Mann has asked us to extend every citizen in Columbiana a cordial invitation to come to the High School grounds Friday night, August 15, at 7 o'clock.

There will be an arts and crafts exhibit ... with Dot Lefkovits in charge. This art exhibit is a credit to this department, and we feel sure you will enjoy viewing the lovely paintings and handcraft articles which will be displayed. Games and contests will be staged.

Beth Wallace Yates and her assistant, Maxey Veasey of Sylacauga, from the Recreation Department of Sylacauga, which town has won national acclaim on account of the well balanced and diversified programs presented, will be present to discuss the programs and problems for small towns in beginning Recreational activities. Centerville Town officials will be here to share this informal discussion and will return to Centerville, with the idea of working up enough interest there to foster a City Recreation Program next season in Bibb County.

There will be games and friendly chats. It will be a good time to bring the community together to enjoy this delightful evening planned. And, topping it all off, as a grand finale will be Ice Cold Watermelons, served free to all!

Be sure and reserve Friday night, for it is HOME NIGHT at the Recreation Field.

JOHN J. SPARKMAN TO BE WELCOMED HOME

Boosters from all parts of Alabama, including many governmental and political leaders, will join with thousands of Huntsville and Madison county folk August 18 to welcome home Senator John J. Sparkman, the Democratic Nominee for the vice presidency.

Among the special guests who will be on hand to welcome home the senator, his wife and daughter will be Governor Gordon Persons, Senator Lister Hill, practically all of the Alabama Congressional delegation, and representatives of county Democratic executive committees.

Locally, a big celebration is being planned to begin at 2 P. M. on the day of the Senator's arrival. From a depot demonstration, a parade will pass through Huntsville's downtown area to the famous Big Spring park where a rostrum will be set up for a program of addresses by local and state dignitaries. A reception will be held afterwards at the Russel Erksine Hotel.

Senator Sparkman has been requested to deliver his opening campaign speech from here on this occasion. According to Mayor A. W. McAllister, general chairman of the celebration, the sen. has said he would be pleased to launch his drive from his home town, but stated, "In matters of the campaign, I must abide by the plans outlined by the Democratic National Committee."

In the two weeks since Senator Sparkman was given the nod at Chicago, local groups cooperating in preparing this homecoming have collected something over $7,000.00 by public subscription to finance the affair. Some $2,800 of this amount will be used to decorate the city. All surplus funds from the celebration will be turned over to the Democratic campaign fund.

Mayor McAllister, in explaining the purpose behind the celebration said, "It is not only for residents of Huntsville and Madison county but for all residents of the state for whom John Sparkman, in his effort for farmer and for the small business-man and for all his constituents, has labored so vigorously during his period in Congress."

REVIVAL AT UNION

The annual revival will be held at Union Church beginning next Sunday, August 17. The Rev. Fred Giddens will be bringing the messages throughout the week following. Everyone is invited to attend.

MARINES HAVE PET FAWN

A pet fawn belonging to the Communications section of the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing is held by Master Sgt. Johnnie B. Peeples, 33, of Siluria, Alabama, and Winston-Salem, N. C., while another fawn lies contently at his feet, at a forward airbase in Korea. The "Comm" mascots were found abandoned in the woods near the base. The tiny two-months-old deer, named "Bambi" and "Faline" are thriving on a diet of canned milk and crackers. Sgt. Peeples is the Wire Chief of Headquarters Squadron. His wife, Amelia, and son, Tim, 5, live at 2705 Sink St., Winston-Salem. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Peeples of Siluria.

GOV. PERSONS SUPPORTS STEVENSON-SPARKMAN

Although Governor Persons sees solid Southern backing of the Demcrats' Stevenson - Sparkman ticket in November, he hasn't decided on a successor for Senator John Sparkman if the ticket is elected.

The State's chief executive has declared that he is not committed to appoint anyone to the post, should the vacancy occur. His statement came in reply to published reports that he is committed to the appointment of Birmingham's Mayor Cooper Green.

Said Governor Persons: "I don't think I have a right to give away John Sparkman's job until he has relinquished it."

Earlier, following the close of the Democratic National Convention which nominated Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois for President and Alabama's Senator Sparkman for "Veep", Gov. Persons predicted solid Southern backing of the ticket.

"After talking to governors of most Southern states," he declared "there is little doubt in my mind that Governor Adlai Stevenson and Senator John Sparkman will sweep the South for the Democrats."

Meanwhile, when Sen. Sparkman returned to the Nation's Capitol last week he got quite a reception from some 350 Alabamians who met him to the music of a five piece band. With him were Mrs. Sparkman and their daughter, Mrs. Tazewell Shepard, Jr.

Sen. Sparkman is taking a brief vacation after cleaning up Senate duties, and before getting into the swing of the big presidential campaign.

OUTPOSTS OF VENGEANCE

A HISTORICAL NOVEL BY E. E. HALLERAN

THE STORY SO FAR: Will Morgan is a typical frontiersman. He has seen a girl who claimed to love him disappear into the wilderness, either killed or taken prisoner by Indians. The other girl in his life, Mary Holden, who has finally accepted his love, has gone with her family to the dreaded Miami lands. In his first attempt at the game of dominoes, Will meets a stranger Tilly, said to be an English Earl, and bests him for a rifle with which the youngster kills his first Indian in a following battle. Kirby teaches Will scouting under attack. He teaches him to utilize cover for protection while operating in Indian territory. Will learns readily.

CHAPTER VIII

Will yelled his understanding of the movement and began to work his way through the undergrowth. He was on his own, a scout pitting his skill against the savages of the forest. For a moment the thought almost terrified him but he forced himself to concentrate on the things Kirby had taught him. Carefully and silently he moved from tree to tree, keeping himself screened by bushes to the fullest extent possible. No sign of an enemy was to be seen except a single dead warrior. Will avoided the body and continued on for what he thought was the necessary yards. Then he circled to the east.

After what seemed like years he detected a movement ahead and dropped flat on his belly, rifle ready for use. Motionless, he lay waiting, nervousness gone as he tensed himself for action. Suddenly Kirby's voice came with startling calmness. "Fair enough, bud. Yo're a mite clumsy yet but ye'll do!"

The riverman rose from his hiding place, remarking in the same casual tone, "It looks like they run out on us when they found things so hot."

Militia Is Humiliated After Initial Success

Corporal Higgins was grumbling viciously about a nick he had sustained in his neck. An inch to the left and it would have ended his career forever; now it was merely an annoyance. Trooper Brown who had been killed at the first fire was the only casualty, the only other wound being a knife slash which Edwards had sustained in the fight over the horses.

The other side of the ledger showed three dead savages, the one Will had shot and the two who had been killed when Edwards was wounded. Higgins swore he'd gotten another but a search disclosed no other body.

Autumn was in full war paint when the supply train reached Fort Washington to find that Old Sam had gone out with Harmar's reserve supply wagons. He had left orders that his men were to wait his return but that return was still a matter of considerable doubt. It was understood that Harmar was making but slow progress toward the Indian towns and it seemed likely that Old Sam would be gone for some time.

Will wanted to use the time for making a trip up the Big Miami but before he could persuade Kirby there came another development. Word came that Harmar had scored an initial success only to lose a large part of his force in an ambush. The militia had behaved disgracefully, abandoning a small force of regulars and the bulk of the supply train. Now Harmar needed additional food and ammunition.

Kirby and Morgan held a conference and offered their pack train for the work. There seemed to be no point in lying around idle while there was profitable work to be had.

They moved out two days later, the original trio reinforced by a pair of alligator-horses Kirby had hired for the trip. They followed the road cut by the army, traveling easily for two days before they met a courier coming in. Once more the news was bad.

The Indians had launched another attack, stampeding the militia as before. General Harmar had with difficulty halted a general retreat and had sent a picked force out to avenge the defeat. Why did he not use his entire army was a matter known only to himself. Major Wyllys with a few regulars and three hundred militia advanced as ordered—directly into a trap. Once more the militia deserted and the regulars were left to be massacred. It had been a crushing blow and Harmar's entire army was in full retreat.

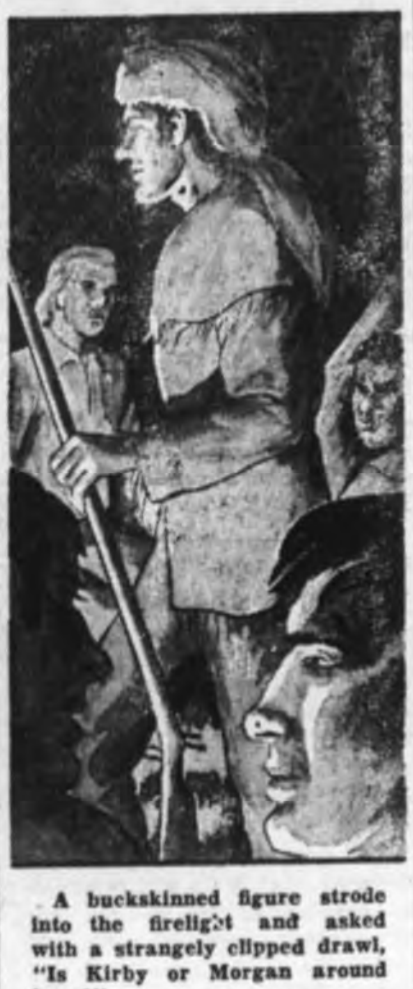
The courier was perfectly willing to gossip while he rested and his disgusted remarks added something to the official picture. According to him the whole thing was a bungle. Harmar was no fool. Militia were hopeless. The Indians were too smart. Either they were getting information from the American camp or they had leaders who were marvels at outguessing the army.

Another day brought a full tide of retreating soldiers. Many supplies had been left behind and Will found a commissary officer who took over the pack loads and began distributing food to men who had been retreating hungry for several days. Then the pack train fell in with the tide, returning to Fort Washington along with the straggling army.

Two weeks passed before the survivors stopped coming in and by that time Harmar had made his official report. He stressed the fact that the Indian towns on the Maumee had been destroyed, glossing over his casualties by claiming that the tribes had suffered twice as heavily.

Old Sam swore disgustedly when the report became public property. "It's a dam' lie," he said flatly. "We lost over three hundred men, mostly the best ones who was deserted by the dam' militia. I'll bet the Injuns didn't lose fifty—and most o' them was wimmen and papooses what the militia massacreed! Them redskins was tough! Whoever was leadin' 'em had more sense than all o' our officers put together!"

The pack train went north again just as soon as they could get their next lot of supplies together. It effectually halted Will's last hopes for a visit to the upper Miami but he consoled himself with the thought that he was still working toward something permanent.



A buckskinned figure strode into the firelight and asked with a strangely clipped drawl, "Is Kirby or Morgan around here?"

For two months Will was on the trail almost constantly. He learned what it meant to be a frontiersman with no shelter except his blankets and a brush lean-to. Under Kirby's tutelage he made the most of his ample opportunity to learn woodcraft and the other mysteries of the professional scout.

Thoughts of Miami Land Plague Will's Existence

In March came the big thaw and for nearly three weeks the country was under water. Pack animals were driven to high ground west of town—the train being in Marietta when the floods came—and Will spent the time aiding in the rescue work which always seems to be necessary. River dwellers see so many slight rises of the water that they always wait until the last minute, expecting the crest to pass. When their calculations go amiss they find themselves stranded.

Morgan wondered how these floods might be affecting the folks along the upper Miami, reflecting grimly that there would be scant danger from Indians while the land was under water.

Then the winter was gone. The floods drained away, leaving the land a mass of muck which was so highly esteemed by farmers who raised corn in the river bottoms.

On the heels of these signs of a new season came the word that the government was preparing an expedition which would be of sufficient strength to settle the Indian problem once and for all.

Old Sam managed to secure contracts for supplying this new army and the early part of the summer became a busy time for the packers. He put other flatboats into service and hired additional crews. Will and Kirby continued to work together at the chore of carrying supplies to the outlying posts, sometimes with McGrew as part of the outfit and sometimes with the pair of them handling a smaller train. Patrols were on the trails constantly and there were no Indian raids reported so far south.

Several times during the summer Will almost let his worries and impatience get the better of him. He wanted to drop everything and start for the upper Miami but by this time he had too much invested in the packing business. It would have been the height of foolishness to throw everything away now for no real reason. News from the upper Miami continued favorable and he was getting ahead financially.

Despite his restlessness the summer seemed to melt away. September was the month set for mobilizing the great army of invasion, so in August Old Sam gathered every available boat and pack animal for the trip to Fort Washington. Morgan went with the pack train, making the journey seem almost endless. At last he was moving toward the Miami, under circumstances which seemed to promise an opportunity to see Mary.

Fort Washington was a scene of frantic but aimless activity when the pack train arrived in mid-September. The regulars quartered in the big two-story log fort were busy enough in preparing for the campaign but the militia presented their usual sorry picture of inefficiency. Scattered in camps along the river bank they wrangled, gambled and wandered about in idle confusion, none of them knowing what to do or making any steps toward learning.

A day or two in the camp told Morgan that his companions had not been exaggerating the woeful condition of the army.

Already the inefficiency of the quartermaster and supply departments had been demonstrated as the army delayed for lack of stores.

Will came to the conclusion that this mob of scare-crows would not move before winter set in — and promptly was astonished when he learned that Governor St. Clair had ordered the advance. Two small brass cannon had come down from Pittsburgh and with this slight bit of encouragement the general forgot his other troubles and his lack of readiness. Artillery would awe the savages and make other preparations unnecessary.

White Panther—Hater of Whites and Traitors

As the packers sat around their fire that evening, holding a sort of indignation meeting, a buckskinned figure strode into the firelight and asked with a strangely clipped drawl, "Is Kirby or Morgan around here?"

Both men sprang up to greet the man Will remembered as Tilly. Kirby introduced him to the few who did not know him by sight, then asked, "What ye doin' with the army?"

"Wasting my time, I judge," Tilly replied with a grimace. "I signed on as a scout but it looks to me like what this crowd will need is another army to rescue 'em!"

Kirby adopted a confident tone which Will knew was a false one. "Don't be an old granny! There's enough men in this outfit to chase the Injuns clean outa their pants."

"Men?" the trapper echoed. "There ain't a corporal's guard o' real men in the whole hell-fired outfit! The regulars are all right but they don't know Indian fightin'. I won't say a word about the others—not bein' a cussin' man."

"Shucks!" Kirby retorted. "The Injuns ain't goin' to wait and see who's comin'. When they get a look at an army as big as this one they'll jest nacherly hike fer the tall timber. Besides, we got cannons."

Tilly laughed mirthlessly. "You won't scare these redskins with a couple o' brass popguns. This White Panther feller has got 'em fightin' like they never fought before. He's the best since Pontiac, they tell me, and he hates white men worse than poison—even the spies who bring him information."

The latter comment stopped even Kirby. So there were traitors in camp!

Too full of troubled thoughts for sleep, Will strolled along between the rows of bark huts, brush lean-tos and slab cabins which had been thrown up to shelter the militia. On every side there was the sound of revelry, drunken laughter mingling with the shrill giggles of women as the soldiers indulged in a farewell to the camp. There was no pretext of mounting guard and men came and went freely in all directions.

Morgan was approaching one of the larger campfires when a dark, stocky figure loomed in the firelight. The rounded outlines were familiar and Will knew the man even before the whining voice came in a salutation which was intended to be cordial. Not many wearers of buckskin carried the extra poundage of Tobe Ansley.

"Wanta buy some good licker, Morgan?" he asked. "I know where we kin git some mighty cheap."

Will grinned in the darkness. "You haven't changed a bit, have you?" he chuckled. "I suppose if I gave the word you'd be able to locate a spare woman. The camp's sure full of 'em."

To his surprise Ansley became more serious. "Ain't it the truth!" he exclaimed. "I don't know which'll be worse when it comes to a fight—the wimmen or these farmers."

"You mean the women will march with the army?"

"Shore. They think it's goin' to be a picnic and every drab for two hundred miles around has come in to git their share o' militia pay."

"I don't see why the officers permit it," Will declared. "You'd think they'd try to keep the men under some kind of discipline the night before a march."

"What the hell do they care? As long as they git the best-lookin' doxies in camp they don't give a damn what the men do. A captain stole a huzzy right out from under my nose when I was fixin' to make a little money on the side with her. It beats hell what'll happen with militia!"

Will's laugh was shaded by a shrill alcoholic giggle from a near by tent, indicating that some coy lady was getting all the attention she demanded. Ansley turned away quickly. "See ye later, Morgan. Got business to tend to now."

ON THE FARMS IN SHELBY COUNTY

B.F. HATCHETT & G.C. STARCHER JR

We delivered A. W. Baker his conservation farm plan on his Moore's Crossroads farm last week. In return he gave us a good look at his beautiful and productive garden. To beat the drought he used a mulch system that conserves moisture and furnishes oxygen plant food. This garden, like Jimmie Rowe's corn, reported last week, is proving the value of oxygen material added to soils to forestall drought failures.

The hoped forsecond crop of seed at the Columbiana F. F. A. Rescue seed patch was limited to 150 pounds due to the extreme drought.

The Thomas Cairns and Homer Jackson, in opposite ends of the county, both have made urgent appeals for 200 pounds of Chapel Hill Rescue Grass seed.

The Ling brothers have started building an earth dam on their Chelsea farm that will give a 40 acre lake, more or less, 21 feet deep at its deepest point. Their brother-in-law, Mr. Weekly, who is associated with them is more interested in the pasture development planned in their conservation farm plans.

More interest than usual is seen in winter grazing, due to corn and hay shortages.

Prepare soon for most winter crops, and plant on a rain settled seed bed—after the drought ends.

WILLIAM RUFUS KING ONLY ALABAMIAN TO WIN VICE-PRESIDENCY

If Senator John Sparkman should be elected vice president in November, he will be the second man from Alabama to rise that high in national affairs.

William Rufus King, an adopted Alabamian, was the first. He was elected to that office with President Franklin Pierce in 1852.

However, King, former U. S. minister to France, was an ill man, and lived only a short time after he took the oath of office.

King actually was born in North Carolina. He served in the Legislature of that state and represented North Carolina in Congress.

He moved to Cahawba in nearby Dallas county in 1818 where he lived the rest of his life.

King was one of Alabama's first two U. S. Senators, taking office in 1819 shortly after Alabama was admitted as a state.

He served in tthe Senate until 1844 when President John Tyler appointed him minister to France. King handled a diplomatic role instrumental in thte annexation of Texas. He is buried in Live cemetery at Selma.

Macaroni Salad and Iced Coffee for Hot Weather Supper

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

HERE'S a fine supper for outdoor eating — porch, terrace or garden. It is satisfying and can be almost entirely prepared in the morning hours and kept in the refrigerator until supper time. The whole family will enjoy it.

Vegetable juice, macaroni chef's salad, relishes, garlic bread, coffee jelly with bananas, iced coffee.

The hot coffee, which you will convert into iced coffee, can be made several hours before serving, and cooled in a non-metallic container. If you prefer, make it double-strength at the last minute and pour into ice-filled glasses. Be sure the coffee is fresh and strong, and that you serve it with plenty of ice in the tallest, frostiest glasses you can manage. Serve with cream and a pitcher of simple syrup or sugar.

Macaroni salad, coffee jelly and iced coffee pep up summer-wilted appetites and can be prepared beforehand.

Macaroni Chef's Salad
(6 generous servings)

One 9-ounce package elbow macaroni, 12 stuffed olives, sliced; ¼ pound American cheddar cheese, cubed; ½ pound bologna, cubed; 3 tomatoes, quartered; 1 cucumber, sliced; salad greens, Russian dressing.

Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender; drain, rinse with hot water; chill. Combine macaroni, olives, cheese, bologna, tomatoes and cucumber. Place in salad bowl with salad greens. Toss with Russian dressing.

Coffee Jelly With Bananas
(6 servings)

One and one-half tablespoons unflavored gelatin, 3 cups strong, hot coffee, 3 tablespoons sherry, ⅓ cup strong, cold coffee, ½ cup sugar, 2 bananas cut in ½-inch slices.

Soften gelatin in cold coffee; dissolve in hot coffee. Add sugar, stirring until dissolved; add sherry. Chill until set. Place sliced bananas in serving dishes, cover with coffee jelly. Serve with light cream.

Looking for substantial but easy to get luncheon dishes? Well, try these. They're good.

Fluffy Tomato Rabbit
(4 servings)

One can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup, 2 cups shredded American cheese, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 eggs, separated; toast or crackers.

Heat soup slowly; add cheese and heat until melted, stirring constantly. Add mustard and Worcestershire sauce to beaten egg yolks; stir into hot mixture. Gently fold in beaten egg whites and heat thoroughly. Serve on hot toast or crackers.

Baked Eggs in Tomato Sauce
(4 servings)

One can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup, 4 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter, black pepper to taste, parsley.

Pour ¼ can tomato soup into each of four buttered baking cups or muffin tins. Break an egg into each; dot each with ½ tablespoon of butter and sprinkle with pepper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Garnish with parsley.

MARRIAGE NO BAR TO GRADUATION

A ruling by Alabama Attorney General Si Garrett has nullified any policies whereby Alabama boys and girls are barred from finishing high school because they married before graduation.

In a ruling requested by Morgan County superintendent of education H. R. Leeman, Garrett said school boards can prescribe rules and regulations for married students' conduct in the schools, but the boards cannot exclude the students.

Leeman had declared in his request for a ruling on the matter that "increasing numbers" of high school students who marry before graduation "because of their marital status, create a problem which would not otherwise exist."

Leeman asked if the students could be excluded. Garrett said no.

County Boards of education said Garrett, can determine what things are detrimental to the successful management, good order and discipline of the schools, then prescribe rules and regulations required to produce these conditions.

However, he said, the rules must be reasonable, "and the reasonableness of any such rule or regulations is a question law for the courts to decide."

Although the specific question of whether married students could continue in high school had never come up in Alabama courts, several high schools around the state were known to have rules whereby marriage nuullified students rights to continue their education, according to varying conditions.

MUSTERING-OUT-PAY

Veterans who were in service on or after June 26, 1950 have been calling at the office for the last two weeks, seeking information about when the Mustering-Out-Pay application forms would be ready. The forms are in the hands of the County Department of Veterans' Affairs Office. It will not be long until those checks will be delivered. At the same time, we must remember that applications are pouring in to the various service departments from all over the United States, and it is quite a job to get them all paid without at least some delay. We dont know how long it will be after you make application before you get your check. But the Armed Forces advise that payments will be made as soon as possible. Incidentally, veterans of World War Two, who collected mustering-out-pay release from service prior to June 27, 1950, are eligible to receive additional payments, provided, of course, they re-entered service and qualify under the new law.

Payments will vary from $300 for those with more than 60 days service, any part of which was outside continental United States or in Alaska, to $200 for those with more than 60 days service in the United States, to $100 for those with less than 60 days in the United States.

Among those veterans who are not eligible are those transferred or returned to retired pay, except those retired or separated for physical disability; those discharged or released to take civilian jobs and who had no overseas service; those whose entire period of service was spent in civilian schools; those whose duty or service was solely training duty or who was called up for physical examination if duty was less than 60 days.

Survivors of qualified veterans who died after release from service are entitled to mustering-out pay. The payments will be made first to the widow, next to the child and then to parents.

Just as soon as you are released from service, go to the Probate Judge's Office and have your discharge recorded. I have already made application for a new discharge for a veteran who was discharged only a short time ago. This recording is free service to all veterans.

Now in filing your claim for mustering-out pay, it is ESSENTIAL that you send in your original discharge, or Notice of Separation, form 214 with your application. Also, put your address on the back of your Separation so that it may be returned to you.

PARMER SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED T. L. COCHRAN

Thomas Len Cochran, the son of Essie B. Cochran Capps of Luverne and the late Lenwood Cochran of Wilton, Alabama, was recently awarded a W. O. Parmer Scholarship by the Butler County Parmer Scholarship Board.

He plans to enter Vanderbilt University this fall to begin the study of pre-med.

Young Cochran, who graduated from Luverne High School this spring, was an honor student; and he participated in many extra-curricular activities. He lettered in football and basketball, and he served on the school paper and yearbook staffs and was member of the Beta Club, "L" Club and Dramatic Club.

His paternal grandparents were James Thomas Parker and Lodena Harris Parker of Calera, Alabama.

The W. O. Parmer scholarship is for four years and pays $1,000 a year. Many high school graduates from Butler and the surrounding counties competed for the award. Len Cochran received one of the two scholarships allotted to Crenshaw County this year.

TEACHERS DAY TO BE CELEBRATED SEPTEMBER 29

Alabama educators will celebrate the state's Second Annual Alabama Teachers Day on Monday, September 29, when the Alabama State Fair opens in Birmingham.

Miss Mary Ruth Holleman, chairman of the Alabama Teachers Day Committee, said honored guests this year will be principals from both city and county school systems throughout the state who have served longest in their respective systems. Representatives must be members of the Alabama Educational Association, she said.

Inaugurated last year, Alabama Teachers Day has become a permanent part of the State Fair and will mark opening day celebrations each year.

R. H. McIntosh, general manager of the Alabama State Fair Authority, said the entire opening day will be dedicated to teachers. They will assemble in Birmingham to spend a day and night, hotel lodgings being paid for by the State Fair. They also will be honored at a luncheon and barbecue. Climax of Teachers Day will come Monday night when the 108 principals will be presented with a Service To Alabama Youth Award. This award, in the form of a medallion, is presented each year by the Birmingham News and Post-Herald.

W. J. Terry, State Superintendent of Education, has again accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Alabama Teachers Day Committee and has urged educational leaders to assist in the program.

Bible Comment:

We Hold Wealth But It Is Subject to Will of Our Creator

ON a smaller scale and in a more primitive way, the Israelites of old were confronted with all the problems of character and conduct and their effect upon relationships in society, that vex and perplex the more highly organized nations of today. It is this that makes ancient wisdom of so much value for modern life.

Next to the problem of the abolition of war and the establishment of peace, and by no means unassociated with that deeper problem, are the problems of labor—keeping people working under fair conditions and with good living standards—and of wealth—keeping the power of great wealth under control in relation to the rights and interests of all.

So many problems in these spheres remain unsolved that we are apt to fail to realize the great progress, both in relation to labor and wealth, that has been made within the memory of many now living.

It is not so long since labor was regarded as a "commodity" to be bought, like any other commodity, in the cheapest market, under a competition for jobs that in times of unemployment was bitterly keen.

Then came the recognition that labor was human, of blood, flesh and spirit, with families housed in homes—or hovels—and the demand for a "living wage" became so insistent that by now reference to a standard of living is a stressed factor in wage negotiations and contracts.

Similar progress has been made in enforcing recognition of the relationships and responsibilities of wealth. In the days when labor was a "commodity," wealth was largely immune from government control and any sense of responsibility. The prevalent conception was that a man's wealth was his own to do with as he pleased.

Today we recognize not only that wealth has social obligations, but that society is a basic factor in the acquisition, protection and maintenance of wealth.

From a Christian standpoint the obligations of wealth are more simple and direct. What a Christian has is not his own, but is held in stewardship subject to the will of God. That is the ideal set forth in the New Testament, and the truer the Christian the more nearly he will attain it in the practical use of what he possesses.

CARD OF APPRECIATION

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to neighbors and friends for their innumerable acts of kindness and thoughtful expressions of sympathy received during my recent bereavement in the loss of my husband, Grady Carter.

I shall never forget the kindness rendered me in this dark hour by members of various church organizations and by the pastors of the churches, especially Columbiana, Calera and Montevallo.

May God's richest blessings remain with you always.

THE PITH AND MARROW OF OUR RELIGION

"God commendeth his love toward us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us". Romans 5:8

The conclusive test of one's devotion is found in his willingness to risk his life, even to die if necessary, for somebody else. There is an element of dauntless heroism in most of us. Every day the newspapers report arresting incidents, such as that of a mother rushing into burning building to save her child, or of a father losing his life in his effort to save his drowning boy.

Courage becomes notable, however, when the rescued has no particular claim on the rescuer, as, for instance, when a brave policeman or fireman takes long chances on his own life in the performance of his duty, or when a young soldier faces the enemy of his country. All honor to the brave!

Above and beyond all that has been said, we agree that the supreme proof of unselfish goodwill is for one, knowingly and willingly to die for his enemies; and that is exactly what Jesus did. He, the guiltless, gave his life for us, the guilty, thus accomplishing the most stupendous achievement in the entire history of the human race. Thereby was made possibl what the preachers call (and correctly) the vicarious atonement.

God, the Judge on the Bench, commends to us the result of the most unique incident in the records of jurisprudence; that is, the Court provides remedy for the condemned, and sets the prisoner at the bar at liberty.

During the closing years of the nineteenth century, Dwight L. Moody swayed the religious thinking of the English speaking world as no other man did. In the course of the revival that swept the British Isles, Mr. Moody was invited to meet four hundred of the English clergy in a question and answer conference. Among other questions, this was asked: "What is your creed, Mr. Moody." In his keen, quickwitted fashion, the evangelist gave an immediate answer: "My creed is found in Isaiah 53:5." There was a fluttering of Bibles leaves, and those four hundred preachers read this sentence: "But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chatisement of our peace was upon him, and with his stripes we are healed."

God commends that provision to all readers of this article.

When a vote was taken in 1831 to decide whether or not the county seat of Clarke county would be moved from Clarkesville to a location nearer the center of the county, the ballots were marked, "Clarksville" or "Center". At the final counting those voting "Center" won, and the seat of government was removed to its present site of Grove Hill.

PRESENT AND FUTURE DREAMS

"My future doesn't match the dreams
I always carry in my head—
A wiser way would be perhaps
To match my dreams
to life instead."

So, in an attempt to "match my dreams".... with a bit of reality, and present day assignments, let's begin our weekly pilgrimage "Up and Down Main" and mingle with folks whom you and I have known for a long, long time. Folk who never seem to lose their charm, nor do they ever cease to be interesting, and whats more, newsworthy!

. . . O. G. Dexter, widely known business man and able teacher of the Baptist Bible Class, stopped us this morning and renewed his allegiance to the "Home Paper", and threw in a few kind words of encouragement for good measure, which somehow, started off the day, just fine! We thank him for continued loyalty to the paper, and for this timely thoughtfulness of us.

. . . Rux Carter is not only a very successful commercial man, executive and dealer in real estate and insurance, but is widely sought as a Master of Ceremonies, and as an impromptu speaker. Judging from the numerous favorable remarks we have heard following his beautiful verbal tribute paid to "Bro. Tom and Miss Sue," which was given in a special "Appreciation Service" at the Methodist Church last Sunday morning, we, more than ever, regret we were not privileged to share this memorable hour.

A number of requests have been received from those who are keeping Scrap Books for this particular address by Mr. Carter, and we gladly publish the facts compiled by Clarice White Luck, from which, Mr. Carter procured the data for this unforgettable tribute Sunday morning.

This idea, sponsored by the Methodist Church of "If you have a friend worth loving, tell him so"... is a splendid thing and certainly should be most gratifying to those who have so lived that they merit this recognition.

Next Sunday morning, J. R. McMillan, who has been Secretary of the Methodist Sunday School for a number of years will be honored.

. . . We are delighted this week to travel down Mobile way to greet Mrs. Pearlie Dennis, a former resident of Shelby county, who has decided the Reporter-Democrat is the best way to keep tab on old friends, loved ones, and curent happenings.

. . . Saturday morning while in town on a shopping trip, Mr. L. H. Bradley of Chelsea came by and renewed his allegiance to the "Home Paper" which, he states, has been a visitor in his home for many years.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bob Mullins, Ross Bob Jr., and Jimmy Mullins are spending a vacation in Selma.

. . . Elvin Hill and his F. F. A. Boys have returned from a delightful stay in Florida. Deep sea fishing, swimming and other recreational activities made this particular "camp" a most joyous memory.

. . . Mrs. Eula Carter, Mrs. Perry McCormack, Mrs. Ruth Mansfield and others formed a congenial motor company who visited the Smoky Mountain regions last week.

. . . Mrs. Mary Teague, William W. Teague, Jr., of Sarasota, Fla.; Mrs. Rosa Teague, Mrs. Nell Wallace, Mrs. Dan Cosby, Betty Cosby, and Sallie Cosby of Wilsonville Rt., were cordially greeted guests in our office last week. Miss Betty Cosby has been elected to serve as Assistant Dean of Women in Auburn next year and will spend the month of August with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cosby, who have recently built a beautiful home near Wilsonville.

. . . Miss Sue Fiquette of Enterprice spent tthe week end with her mother, Mrs. L. P. Dycus and Mr. Dycus.

. . . Will Page met me on the Main Drag this morning and remarked as follows: "In spite of what you say, 'I still Like Ike'". "That's fine" we told him. "I like Ike too, but I am madly for Adlai". Then Will said "Well, aint it fine that in this town, Republicans and Democrats can still vote for whom they please and remain, good friends?" And, we had no argument there. So, Will Page, who has been stock man for the Columbiana Leader, ever since I can remember, went on unpacking the new Fall merchandise, and I went back to the office to tap out what is happening on Main Street.

. . . Jimmy McDow is enlarging the facilities of his Chevrolet Building, and a new office building is under construction. Looks good too. In addition to this busy man's life, he is publicity man for the Shelby County Fair, and a more enthusiastic booster for this coming event would be hard to find. Make a ring around your calendar for August 25, and then make your arrangements to spend every day that week with us in Columbiana, at the Fair Grounds, Columbiana Public School.

. . . Friends are looking for the Leonard Rogers family back home the latter part of of this week. They have made an extensive automobile tour which took them to Canada.

. . . Mrs. James Crawford, Bunny Crawford and Grace Sims spent the week end with Lt. James Crawford, Jr., who received his "wings" from Tyndale Air Field in Florida. The young Lieutenant will leave for the Far East sometime in September.

. . . Mary Williams, of Wilsonville, has opened her own newspaper in nearby Childersburg, and calls it.... "The Childersburg Citizen". Miss Williams is a graduate of University of Alabama, and was a reporter for a paper in New Orleans before launching out on her own. Childersburg now has three newspapers: The Childersburg Times is published by Jep Greer of Sylacauga, and the other one is edited by Mr. Rozelle, we do not know the name of it, but Childersburg, for its size has more newspapers than any other town in the state.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Carr and son Wesley of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Maddox and family of Rockford; Mr. and Mrs. Gaddis Maddox and daughters of Selma; Miss Hazel Morrow of Decatur; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bentley Jr., and children gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Morrow, last Sunday, in honor of Mr. Morrow's 79th birthday anniversary.

. . . Monday, August 11, Tom Stinson and Jerry Glenn Davis, celebrated their birthdays; Tuesday, August 12, marked the passing of a birthday anniversary for Mrs. J. H. Davis and Ailene Pope. Thursday, August 14, Mims Roberts held the center of attraction in his home when Faye, "the boys" Harry and Sam, and Baby Sallie Sue helped puff out the candles on his cake. Tommy Tinney, up in North Carolina, doubtless had Tom and Helen running around getting ready for his first birthday away from his former home, Columbiana. Friday, Mrs. Ed Bentley will be receiving good wishes for "many happy returns of the day".... Saturday, August 16, closing out the week, with birthday celebrations, we note Harry Roberts and Patricia Irene Lyon will be the ones friends and loved ones should remember!

. . . We hear Charlie Tinney has a new machine in his ice plant that will give you "Ice, anyway you want it", from snow, to chipped up lumps, and we plan to verify this new convenience for Columbiana folk, and take advantage of it too.

. . . Everybody in town seems to want Gas heat this winter, judging from the number of applications the Town council is receiving. We are numbered among those who will be glad to "sign up" for this quick, and clean heat.... so long talked about, and now a reality. So, Columbiana takes another step forward in its progressive march toward bringing about better living conditions on Main by providing more modern conveniences for its residents.

'Brother Tom' and 'Miss Sue' Honored Sunday By Members Of Methodist Sunday School

"MISS SUE" ROBERTS

"BRO. TOM" ROBERTS

The following historic data on the lives of the Rev. and Mrs. T. K. Roberts was compiled and written by Clarice White Luck. From these facts W. Rux Carter impressively paid tribute to these widely beloved personalities, better known as "Bro. Tom and Miss Sue" in the Methodist Church, Sunday morning, August 10, 1952.

The Master Said: "He that findeth his life shall lose it; and he that loseth his life for MY sake shall FIND IT." Today it is our distinct privilege and honor to pay tribute to our beloved "Bro. Tom. and Miss Sue", who, early in life found their lives by losing them in the service and love of the Lord of Life.

The story is told of Francis of Assisi that at one time he invited a young monk to accompany him to a certain town to preach. They merely walked through the town and returned to the monastery. The young man then asked WHEN they were going to PREACH! Francis replied, "My son, we have been preaching, it is of no use that we WALK anywhere to preach UNLESS WE PREACH AS WE WALK!" Bro. Tom and Miss Sue preach, teach, and PRAY AS THEY WALK!" Their precepts are glorified by their examples, while through the years they move among us, and 'wist not that their faces shine."

The Rev. Thomas Keener Roberts better known to us as "Bro. Tom", was born October 1, 1870, in Jefferson county, Haygood's Circuit, his father being the Pastor.

"Miss Sue" was born in Easonville, Alabama, January 27, 1875. She received her early education in the schools of her birthplace; she graduated, cum laude, from Athens College, having earned an A. M. degree; later she returned to the college as a teacher.

Bro. Tom's early education was received in the schools of the communities where his father served as Pastor. He received his A. M. degree from the Southern University, Greensboro, in 1893. Bro. Tom then became Principal of the Columbaina Training School. He was licensed to preach in May, 1895. In June, 1895, the Pastor at Dexter Avenue Church in Montgomery, Alabama, passed away, and Bro. Tom was appointed to fill this vacancy; he was re-appointed Pastor of this church the following year.

That year proved to be one of the "mountain top" experiences for both the young Pastor and his congregation. A new church building was in progress, but the work, seemingly, had reached the lowest ebb of accomplishment; there was no roof on the building; the congregation was meeting in the Courthouse; there was evident the spirit of defeatism, but under the inspired leadership of this consecrated, faith-filled, vigorous, loyal, love-lighted man of God, a revival of hope and faith was reborn, the building project went forward with a powerful momentum. People gave sacrifically, some women even parted with their personal jewelry in order to increase their gifts. The spiritual impetus was the most outstanding development, many being brought to Christ through the mighty fires of revival spirit. Under Bro. Tom's influence and direction the church building was no longer a burden, but a joy, and the church it self was completely organized from Primary Department through the Adult Division, "From the youngest to the oldest, and from the oldest to the youngest" the Departments moved forward cooperatively, forming a unified body call of the Church Universal.

The members of the City-famous "Girls' Band" to this date attribute their spiritual awakening to this sacred period, and their lives of service have been felt throughout the years in their various capacities; in loving appreciation and in honor of the work accomplished by their Pastor, a window in the Dexter Avenue Church, Montgomery, continues to memorialize the deep love of this congregation for Bro. Tom.

When the Annual Conference met in 1896, Bro. Tom was appointed STUDENT AT Vanderbilt University as a volunteer for Missions. China was to be the destination of this young man. A physical collapse prevented this realization.... there was a spinal operation, and then, almost five years in bed.... but the years were not lost ones, as we shall see!

A boyhood dream was soon to come true. Since the day Bro. Tom's father had been sent to the Easonville Circuit as Pastor, and Bro. Tom had glimpsed a blue eyed little girl with a sunny smile and charming wit, it had become his dream "ToLove The Maiden He Had Met, Cleave To Her,

And love her by years of noble deeds

Until he won her;" and so, on December 6, 1899, Miss Sue E. Stone became the bride of the Rev. T. K. Roberts. They made their home in the Columbiana Parsonage, Bro. Tom's father being the Pastor of the Columbiana Circuit.

During the long period of bedridden years, Bro. Tom and Miss Sue wrote their memorable book, "Shut In But Not Excused," the book was published in 1901. I quote from one of the sermons on subject of "Spritual Revivals" from this book! The whole world lies open as never before to receive a revival flood, the motto of our church now is: A thanks-giving offering from every member, and a Revival in Every Church".

God my Heavenly Father, knows that I would love to live and die in the thick of the fight (The doctors had given Bro. Tom 6 months to live). I would love to be in the last charge and help haul down the last dark banner of sin, bound by afflictions' chains, I can only watch and wait, hope and pray, "THY WILL BE DONE".

We, in Columbiana, are humbly grateful that God spared the life of this man of prayer. Who among us has not been the recipient of his prayer life? Countless are the prayers that Bro. Tom has made in our behalf; cures have been wrought; spirits revived due to his ceaseless intercessions in behalf of loved ones, friends, or even mere acquaintances.

In 1901 Bro. Tom's father, the Rev. T. P. Roberts, passed away, and in August 1901, Bro. Tom was appointed to finish the work of the Columbiana Circuit. He was returned to this Circuit the following year. From 1902 to 1912, Bro. Tom and Miss Sue served Glen-Addie-Oxana Circuit; Oxford Station; Coleanor; Fountain Heights, Birmingham, Collinsville Station.

At the request of Bro. Tom, due to physical afflictions, he was superannauted November, 1911. In 1912, from a number of choices for a home, Bro. Tom and Miss Sue chose, fortunately for us, Columbiana.

His active work began: In 1913 he was appointed teacher of the Men's Bible Class of the Sunday School, and at times, 50 was the average atendance in this Bible Study Class; Miss Sue was given charge of the Women's Bible Class, they continue to faithfully serve in these important capacities, and have throughout the years. In 1927, Bro. Tom was appointed Supply Pastor, Shelby Alabama, where he now serves. Miss Sue for twelve years was President of the Women's Missionary Society; she was Zone Leader for five years; she is now Spiritual Life Leader for this District.

During the time that Bro. Ferrell was Pastor of our Church, a "new church building" was in the planning, he appointed Bro. Tom as Chairman of the Prayer Committee, where he will continue to serve UNTIL THE ENTIRE WORK IS COMPLETED.

Someone, in speaking of "unnamed SAINTS," has said, "The Hope Of God For His World Lies In Such Saints". These words could have been written particularly for Bro. Tom and Miss Sue.

"Wouldn' this world be nice to live in
Cheery through and through,
If everyone were just as kind as Folks like you, Bro. Tom, Miss
Sue?
"Of course, we can't get all we try for
Every day, 'tis true,
But you are FRIENDS WHO NEVER FAIL US,
BRO. TOM, MISS SUE!
"We are sure when we embark for Shores beyond our view,
We shall find that HEAVEN IS ONLY FOLKS LIKE YOU,

BRO. TOM, MISS SUE!"

—Clarice White Luck

. . . It won't be long now until the school bells will be tingling, and carefree kiddies, will be stepping to the tune of 'readin' writin' and 'rithmetic. Glad Mary Nell Skelton will again open her Kindergarten.There are few people who understand these "tiny tots" as well as Mrs. Skelton, and no one showers more personal interest in these little people, studying carefully their dispositions and personalities and dealing with each, according to his or her needs, than this efficient sponsor of the "little folk". They will never forget their first lessons, nor their first teacher, no matter how long they live, nor where they may spend their lives. First impressions will linger, and such happy memories these fortunate kiddies will have from this association.

. . . A complete list of all school teachers in the county will be published as soon as we can obtain them from Superintendent Elliott's office.

. . . Mrs. W. E. Garrett and Mrs. L. P. Dycus have returned from a delightful vacation spent in Memphis, Tennessee.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Lyon and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sweeney of Selma and Miss Vinnie Mae Lyon are guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruton Lyon.

. . . Congratulations to Johnnie Fox who has just received word that he had been awarded a scholarship at University of Alabama. Johnnie will enter the School of Commerce in September.

. . . It was good seeing Jack, Jean and Larry Wayne Letson here for a few hours Saturday afternoon. That little Larry Wayne has about the brightest smile we have ever seen, and we will wager he makes a lot of folk happy in and around Columbus, Georgia, where the Letsons now reside.

. . . Mrs. Frank Head is still searching for a full time companion for her invalid mother. If you know of some one who needs a good home and would be willing to give full time to this employment, please let Mrs. Head know and talk the matter over with her at your earliest convenience.

. . . "With A Song In My Heart" is definitely the best picture we have seen in a long, long time.

. . . Mr. and Mrs. Gene Edmondson and children are spending a weeks vacation in Chicago.

. . . To those of you who have been writing and wanting a picture of the incorrigible Milton Bird, whose penpoint (when he uses it), delights a large following.... I promise.... IF I can catch that "Bird" and hold him still long enough to cite him to the "little bird" in the camera, you shall have it, at the top of the column each week.... "with his hat on so you will know him," he says.

And the above goes for pretty Elizabeth Weldon, who is making new friends each week in her paragraphs regarding Wilsonville people, and happenings in her community.

Now, Milton is not exactly what you might call a "pin-up" heart-throb, but he emphatically states, he "used to be one".... Elizabeth Weldon, is a petite brunette, and as attractive as can be, plus talented. So, watch the paper, we will catch their "candid camera" fascimiles just as soon as possible.

. . . Everybody mighty glad Myrtle Miles and Fay Benton were not seriously hurt in a recent auto wreck. Myrtle told us that "Fay had an intuition that they should not make this particular trip," but, Myrtle continued, "Fay did not have the 'intuition' until after the wreck." Now, anybody knows that folk have to have an "intuition" on the double to get ahead of Myrtle Miles, once she makes up her brilliant mind to go places. But as stated above, everybody is just glad the accident was not any more serious than it turned out to be, for everybody loves "Fay and Myrtle"!

. . . Don't forget the Shelby County Fair which opens with a zizz-boom-bah August 25. On Columbiana School Grounds. I'll B-C-N-U!

. . . It is always a pleasure to greet Mr. and Mrs. George Copenhagen, parents of popular Jo Meyers, who took their time about looking for a place to call home, following Mr. Copenhagen's retirement from commercial circles in Cleveland, Ohio. Columbiana citizens felt pretty chesty when this couple chose "us" as neighbors, and Main Street, that little Haven of Rest, known as Home, Sweet Home. Last week, we had the pleasure of welcoming other members of this interesting family, who included: Mr. and Mrs. Jules Copenhagen and their attractive daughters, Sue and Jill; Mr. and Mrs. David Copenhagen and their two sons, Joel and Roger Copenhagen all of Cleveland, Ohio and their kinsman, Eric Copenhagen of Miami.

Mrs. Copenhagen and "Papa" Copenhagen were about the happiest folk we have seen this week and nobody could blame them, for no one thing can make any "Mamma and Papa" happier, than a visit from all the kiddies (who aren't kiddies any more, but who still "seem to be" to Mother and Dad). It was truly a refreshing and a joyous occasion for this family, who were briefly reunited and for their friends, who had the pleasure of meeting them.

. . . Robert Holliman, much sought as a Director of Music in Revival services is scheduled to spend next week in Vincent where he will direct the musical activities of the services at the Baptist Church.

. . . Mrs. Wales W. Wallace, Jr., entertained members of the Monday Night Bridge Club, August 11, with a Dessert Party. Following the delectable refreshments, two hours were spent in playing Bridge with Miss Jeanette Niven winning high score, and Mrs. Bill White, the low score tabulation.

. . . Mrs. Amos Daniel and Mrs. Ruth Baker of Wilsonville were called to Birmingham last week due to the serious illness of their mother, Mrs. Mattie Cosper.

SLOW DOWN MR. MOTORIST

Slow down Mr. Motorist and help protect those little ones who are not able to protect themselves. It is almost time for school to begin again and more than ever auto drivers should be made aware of the danger of these little ones, who, heedless of lights or traffic dangers, continue to weave in and out on their bicycles, skates etc. Several near tragedies witnessed this week thru the office window, as speeding on Main continues, unchecked!

Why He Failed

Lesson for August 17, 1952

THERE IS NO such thing as a "nation" apart from the people who compose it. Destroy the people, destroy the nation; build up the people, build up the nation. Some people are, of course, key persons. What they do and are affects a vast number of people besides themselves. Such persons can make the difference between failure and success for an entire nation. Their tragedy or triumph is their nation's tragedy or triumph. Suppose Napoleon and Hitler had been at last successful? Suppose Alfred the Great and Abraham Lincoln had failed?

A Double-Minded Man

SAUL, first king of Israel, is a tragic illustration of all this. He was a big handsome man with a creditable war-record; so the people elected him as their first king. It was not the first time, nor the last, that a man's military record has misled people to believe that he was good in other respects as a leader.

Saul had some serious defects in his character, so serious that they led to his personal failure. One of these faults was a general instability. He would make promises and not keep them.

You could not be sure whether he was friend or foe. He turned against members of his own family. He professed to want to know God's will and yet he would not do it. He officially stamped out witchcraft and yet he consulted a witch when in trouble. He would make vows and then back down from them. "A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways," it would be written many centuries later. Such a man makes a poor follower, and a fatally bad leader.

A Jealous Man

JEALOUSY is a word too often limited. It should not be confined to the way a boy feels when another one is stealing his girl, or vice versa. It refers to the mean feeling people have about any one who in any way, as they think, is out to "do them in."

Now this King Saul was a jealous man, as most dictators are. One of the great kings of Egypt could not bear to think of any other king as having built better buildings than he; so he employed the royal chiselers to remove from every public building the name of any other Pharoah and replace it with his own.

King Saul could not be jealous of the kings before him; for there were none. But he could be insanely jealous of any one he thought might be more popular than himself.

So we find him pursuing David vindictively, relentlessly, first making an outlaw of him, then a fugitive among Israel's enemies.

A Superstitious Man

THE FAMOUS STORY (Chap. 28) of Saul and the witch at En-Dor raises a number of questions to which nobody has the guaranteed answers. One thing, however, is clear from that story: Saul was a superstitious man. He thought that the dead could be conjured right out of the ground.

Whether the woman of En-Dor actually conjured Samuel up, or only induced Saul to think she did, the reader must judge for himself. The point is that Saul, who paid small attention to Samuel living, was very eager to talk with his ghost.

Superstition marks a man as full of fears, for fear is the food of superstitions. Fear also was the root of Saul's jealousy; and fear at last drove him to suicide. True leaders must be made of sterner stuff.

• • •

A Disloyal Man

SAUL FAILED not only because he was shifty, jealous and a coward. He failed because he was disloyal to God.

His public career began by his recognizing in Samuel a prophet of God, and in Samuel's instructions the will of God. But as time went on he took counsel only with himself; he listened to Samuel only when it was convenient. And so God rejected him.

Whatever a man's qualifications may be, if he compromises his own ideals, if he will not live up to what he recognizes to be best, if he will not listen to men of God, if he sets his own will above the will of the people, even above the will of God, then he is not only not a wise leader, he is a very bad one.

Good Morning

By Milton Bird

Billy B. Dill
Moffett Field, California

Dear Bill:

There were shadows along the old street this week. The clouds must come, as well as the sun, or a guy wouldn't know things like faith and trust and hope. I guess if we analyzed our day, to find out what made it tick, we would find things like faith and hope and trust right at the top of the list.

First we lost Bop Kaplan. If you're lucky you'll meet a Bob Kaplan along the road you travel. If your luck is really good, you will. And maybe once in a hundred years one will live on the same street with a guy like Bob. You'll enjoy his wit and laughter and his unconscionable good-nature with a light and merry heart; and when he has gone you will know, without anyone telling you, that guys like this come just once in a lifetime.

Then we lost Mrs. Frank West. I guess every guy who writes a column like this has, deep down in his heart, a special spot for old friends. The ones he knows will understand. You can see them, snug in their rockers in front of the fireplace in winter and before a cool window in summer, chuckling a little, dreaming, following wistful memories down a misty past. I think if Providence had shown us no miracles other than the faith and love and beautiful understanding of fine old ladies, we could still believe in the miraculous omnipotence of creation.

And then a few days later, Mr. J. E. Johns, father of Mrs. Charlie Tinney, who dreamed his dreams and saw them come true over a period of ninety years. Providence didn't drop the greatest country on earth in our laps. It was cut out of deep woods and dug out of hard ground with the sweat and tears and dreams of men like Mr. Johns all over the land.

And then one day this week, Grady Carter. I could write a book about this fellow and never have a dull page. Few people find so much laughter along the way, and fewer still share it with so many. He was truly Mr. Sunshine until illness struck him down, and finally stilled his laughter altogether.

But there has been sunshine along The Old Street too. Lovely Sue Brooks is home with her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Will Atchison, while Jim rides the oceans with his Uncle Sam. Sue is back from California where she spent months with Jim. I don't know how she ever got out of that state, where pretty girls are the bread and butter of movie scouts. Gosh, if they're letting girls as pretty as Sue get away they might as well plow the place up and plant it in collards.

Pearl Faulkner got a letter from Cecil Jr. one day last week. He has been in Germany for months. Mr. Tecumseh Rush carried the letter out to the farm and when he got back to town there was Pearl, all smiles and sunshine, telling Cecil. The letter said Cecil Jr. would be home next month and Pearl didn't see any point in waiting until night to tell Cecil about it.

The weather is still not to be sneezed at here. Leon Allen and Bill White found that out last week. Leon had come up to break Bill's garden at one o'clock in the afternoon. He had on thick, fuzzy wool breeches, and the sun was hanging in Mrs. Carter's pine tree just thirty-eight yards away. Sweat was puddled on his forehead by one-thirty. It dripped off on his nose and splattered on his upper lip. Sometimes one guy's plight will start another guy's heart-strings itching. I guess that's why Bill went in the house and came out with a pair of cotton pants for Leon. Leon disappeared for a moment and came back with them on and things looked on the up and up. But not for long. By two o'clock Leon was really sweating. And underneath those cool cotton pants you could see the edges of the fuzzy wool breeches, hugging his legs in a fashion that generates heat and perspiration.

I went to the show last night with Jack Armstrong. The sergeant was in high spirits. I think he had spent the early evening with a bundle of calico since there was a smattering of something the color of rose on his mouth. But we hung his crutches on the seat in front and settled down to see the show nevertheless. And things went all right, too, until a walking angel came out in a red dress. Bill, have you ever seen a sergeant really drool? Those guys can throw a drool that won't quit. And old sarge Armstrong did his rank proud. He came out with something between a half-nelson and an epileptic spasm that had me down for the count of eight in two seconds flat. And when Governor Sims and Schickle Dill got us untied there were three splotches of something the color of lipstick on my bald head. Yep, Bill, a sergeant can really throw a drool.

The boys say Bill Rasco is going to night school in Montgomery studying to be a parson. I think he attends classes on week-ends and studies by mail through the week. I haven't seen my friend, Rev. J. E. Franks, to see how he's making out, but I did see Annette and she knew nothing about a night-school but plenty about Bill. I think Bill is going to school all right, and in Montgomery, but I believe he's majoring in astronomy. And I noticed a dab of honey dripping out of his last letter, so I guess that explains the correspondence end of it too.

This is the end of my paper, Bill. Give my regards to Bette and tell her the folks say hello to you both. Both your mothers are fine, and busy as usual.

KITCHEN ARRANGEMENT CAN MEAN LESS WORK

Convenient grouping of work and storage centers to save the homemaker's time and health and to avoid needless fatigue in the kitchen is very important.

"Therefore," says Stella Mitchell, API Extension home management specialist, "in arranging to cut kitchen travel, the number of trips from one center to another needs to be counted as well as the distance. Two or three feet between centers that are used often can make a notable difference at the end of the day to a busy homemaker."
